You are hereby notified that the following described piece or parcel of land, situated in the County of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit: Lot number twenty (20) in Block Eleven (11) of Champagne & Dow's Addition to Red Lake Falls, is now assessed in your name; that on the ninth day of May, A. D. 1909, at a sale of land pursuant to the real estate tax judgment duly given and made in and by the District Court in and for said County of Red Lake, on the twenty-first day of March, A. D 1900, in proceedings to enforce the payment of taxes delinquent upon real estate for the year A. D. 1898, for said County of Red Lake, the above described piece or parcel of land was duly offered for sale, and no one bidding upon said offer for an amount equal to that for which said piece or parcel was subject to be sold, to wit, the sum of Four Dollars, the same was duly bid in for the State of Minnesota for said sum; that thereafter, and on the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1901, the said piece or parcel of land being still unredeemed from said sale, the same and all the rights of said State therein under said sale was duly assigned and conveyed by the County Auditor of said County of Red Lake for the sum of Four Dollars and Forty-eight Cents duly paid to the County Treasurer of said County, said sum being the amount for which the same was bid in to the State as aforesaid, with interest according to law, and all taxes which became delinquent subsequent to said sale, with interest, penalties and costs, according to law; that the certificates of conveyance for said piece or parcel of land executed and delivered by said County Auditor upon said assignment of the rights of said State acquired under said sale has been presented to me at my office by the holder thereof for the purpose of having notice of expiration of redemption from said sale given and served; that the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from said sale at the date of this notice, exclusive of the costs to accrue upon this notice, is the sum of Thirty Dollars and Sixty-eight cents (said sum being the amount paid by said holder of said certificate upon said assignment from said State and interest thereon according to law, delinquent taxes accruing subsequent to said sale paid by him, with interest, penalties and costs according to law, and all unpaid delinquent taxes, with interest, penalties and costs accruing subsequent to said sale); and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from said sale will expire sixty (60) days after the service of this notice and proof of said service has been filed in my office.

Witness my hand and seal of office this eighth day of October, A. D. 1904.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Adam Zeh and Gertrude Zeh, his wife, Mortgagors, to G. Vandertuuk, Mortgagee, bearing date the first day of July, 1902, and with power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of July 1902, at 3:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 29 of Mortgages, on page 488, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof.

And whereas, said Mortgage contains a clause providing that if any installment of the debt secured thereby is not paid when due, that the whole sum secured thereby shall become due and payable at once; and whereas, by reason of said clause there is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice the sum of $61.14; and whereas, said Mortgage contains a clause providing that if the party of the first part shall fail to make payment of interest due upon a certain prior Mortgage upon the land described in said Mortgage, that then the party of the second part may pay such interest and have a lien therefor upon said premises under this Mortgage; and whereas, pursuant to said clause, and the party of the first part having made default in the payment thereof, party of the second part has paid such interest, amounting, with interest, to the sum of $136.17, making the total amount due under the terms of the said Mortgage $197 31.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz:

The east half of the southwest quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter of section thirty in township one hundred fifty-one of range forty-two, in Red Lake county and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Red Lake county at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county and State, on the Fourth day of November, 1904, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt amounting to $197. 31, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five dollars Attorney's fees, as provided in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., September 22nd, 1904.

PROPOSED Amendments TO THE Constitution OF MINNESOTA.

Hon. Peter E. Hanson, Secretary of State—Sir: Pursuant to Chapter 157 of the General Laws of 1887 I herewith file in your office synopses of Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, as proposed by the General Laws of the State of Minnesota enacted at the General Session of the Legislature in 1903, and an act involving the taxation of railroad property, being Chapter 253, General Laws 1903, to be submitted to the voters of the state for adoption or rejection at the next general election.

Yours respectfully,
W. J. DONAHOWER,
Attorney General.

Synopses of Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota Proposed by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota at the General Session in 1903, as Well as a Synopsis of Chapter 253 of the General Laws of 1903 Proposing an Increase of Gross Earnings Tax Upon Railroad Property:

I.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 32 (a) of Article 4 of the Constitution, the Legislature, by an act approved April 18th, 1903, known as Chapter 253 of the General Laws of 1903, present to the electors of the state for rejection or approval the following, to wit:

Section 1. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railway situated within, or partly within, this state, shall during the year 1905, and annually thereafter pay into the treasury of this state in lieu of all taxes and assessments upon all property within this state, owned or operated for railway purposes by such company, including equipment, appurtenances, appendages and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal to four (4) per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state; and the annual payment of such sum shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property and franchises so taxed. The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold, or conveyed, as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or recognized.

Sec. 2. The term "the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state," as used in section 1 of this act, is hereby declared and shall be construed to mean, all earnings on business beginning and ending within this state, and a proportion, based upon the proportion of the mileage within the state to the entire mileage over which such business is done, of earnings on all interstate business passing through, into or out of the state.

Sec. 3. All acts and parts of acts not inconsistent herewith regulating the payment, collection, time of payment, enforcement or reports involving the amount of taxes upon the gross earnings of railroad companies within this state, or providing penalties for the non-payment of such taxes, are hereby made applicable to this act so far as may be; and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. Upon failure to pay the amount of such taxes legally due upon the date heretofore provided by law for the payment thereof, in addition to existing remedies, collection may be enforced in a civil action brought in the name of the State of Minnesota in the district court of any county.

Sec. 5. Before any railroad company shall be heard to contest or continue to contest the validity of this act or any part thereof, such railroad company shall as a condition precedent thereto, pay into the treasury of the State of Minnesota, the amount of taxes due or payable from such railroad company under the existing tax laws of this state applicable to such company.

Sec. 6. This act shall be submitted to the people of this state for their approval or rejection at the next general election for the year 1904. . . . (The omitted provisions refer to the method of printing the ballot and submitting this act for ratification.)

This act provides for an increase in the amount of taxes collected by the state upon the property of the railroads situated within the state from three per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of railways within the state to a sum equal to four per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such lines of railway within the state. The annual payment of such sum shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property so taxed. The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain as heretofore exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed, as provided in said acts where such grants were recognized.

Provision is made in this act whereby the disputed and unpaid taxes on the gross earnings of any railway company within the state may be collected by a civil action brought in the name of the State of Minnesota in any county thereof. The right to maintain such civil action is in addition to existing remedies for the collection of the per centum tax upon the gross earnings of railroads within the state. The existing remedy which the State of Minnesota may use in enforcing the payment by any railroad company within the state of any disputed and unpaid taxes upon its gross earnings, is by destraint of its movable property by the State Treasurer, and sale of sufficient thereof to satisfy the state's claim. This new method of enforcing the collection of such taxes, proposed by this amendment, will, if adopted, enable the state to secure a speedy and direct judicial determination of the liability of any such railway company for disputed and unpaid items of gross earnings taxes.

Under the terms of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota this act of the legislature must be submitted to the legal voters of the state, and will become operative if adopted by a majority of the electors voting at the next general election.

II.

By an act of the legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved March 3rd, 1903, known as Chapter 25 of the General Laws of Minnesota of 1903, the same being House File No. 4, it is proposed to amend Section 6 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

The existing provision of the Constitution, which is here sought to be amended, reads as follows:

"Sec. 6. The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the purchase of bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the issue of which the same in part would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed seven per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five (5) years, nor for a longer period than twenty (20) years; and no change of the town, school district, village, city or county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing the bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

It is proposed by said Chapter 25 of the General Laws of 1903 to amend said Section 6 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 6. The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed fifteen (15) per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five (5) years, nor for a longer period than twenty (20) years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of the issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

The existing constitution provides that the permanent school and university fund of the State of Minnesota may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village, when the entire issue of which the proposed forms a part will not make the indebtedness of such county, school district, city, town or village exceed seven per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property in such county, school district, city, town or village. The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds of the state in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of the State of Minnesota when the entire issue, of which the proposed loan is a part, will not make the indebtedness of any such county, school district, city, town or village exceed fifteen per cent of the assessed valuation.

III.

By an act of the legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved April 18, 1903, known as chapter 260 of the General Laws of 1903, the same being Senate File 173, it is proposed to amend section 7 of article 1 of the constitution of the State of Minnesota.

The section as now existing reads as follows:

Sec. 7. "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army or navy, or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger; and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall he compelled in any criminal case to be witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless, when in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require."

It is proposed, by said act, to amend said Section 7 so as to read as follows:

Sec. 7. "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require."

The effect of this amendment, if adopted, will be to give the legislature the power to determine the manner and form of charging persons with the commission of criminal acts. As the constitution now reads, the procedure by which a person is held to answer for a criminal offense is by presentment or indictment of a grand jury or by criminal warrant issued by a justice of the peace. In place of such presentment or indictment of a grand jury, or a warrant issued by a justice of the peace, it is proposed to substitute any procedure which the legislature may deem due process of law. In other words, the legislature will have the power to provide a criminal procedure in conformity with the rights guaranteed by the fundamental law, by which a person shall be held to account for a criminal offense. Such procedure must conform with the requirements of what is due process of law under the Constitution of the United States and the State of Minnesota. The proposed amendment may be made the basis for an act of the legislature authorizing the arrest and prosecution of persons on an information issued by a county attorney charging the commission of a criminal act. The existing Constitution establishes specifically the manner and form of holding a person to answer for a criminal offense. If the proposed constitutional amendment is adopted the legislature may then, within proper constitutional limits, adopt a new method of procedure.

Attorney General.

Wakeful?

Sleeplessness Is a Sign of Nerve Trouble and Should Be Looked To.

There are three different manifestations of sleeplessness.

First, hardly to sleep a wink all night, second, to lie awake a long time before falling asleep; third, to fall asleep soon, waking up after several hours and then find it hard to sleep again.

They mean that somewhere in the nerve fibres, somewhere in the brain cells, somewhere in the blood vessels that carry blood to the brain, something is radically wrong, and must be righted, or the end may be worse than death.

To right it, take Dr. Miles' Nervine.

Some other symptoms of nerve trouble are: Dizziness, Headache, Backache, Worry, Fretfulness, Irritability, Melancholy, Lack of Ambition.

They indicate diseases which may lead to Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervous Prostration, Paralysis, Insanity.

Nothing will give such quick and lasting relief as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"My husband had been sick for weeks, could not sit up to have his bed made. With all the medical help we could get he continued to grow worse. He could neither sleep or eat. Our baby girl was sent away, and all callers barred, because he could not stand a bit of talking. I read of a case of nervous prostration cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. We began giving it to him, and in a few days he was able to be dressed. From that time he steadily improved. Nervine saved his life."—MRS. A. G. HASKIN, Freeville, N. Y.

ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE VOTERS.

I am a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate on the Republican ticket, and respectfully solicit the support of the people of Red Lake county at the general election on Nov. 8, 1904. If elected I assure the public that I will carefully attend the duties of the office, and conduct it to the best of my ability.

NELS K. ANDERSON,
Sanders, Minn.

Mary McFadden, the Duluth News-Tribune's witty and wiry political paragrapher, fails to notice the great slump towards Johnson we read so much about, and says: "There was a time when John A. Johnson looked like a winner. That was when he was quietly printing his little paper at St. Peter and minding his own business."

The Crookston Journal is advocating the organization of a "press club" to be composed of the newspaper writers of the Valley, which would hold occasional meetings in Crookston. The fraternity in the Red River Valley is represented by a whole lot of good fellows and The Gazette believes that an organization of this kind where they could meet occasionally and discuss topics of interest to the craft would be an excellent idea. There are several similiar organizations in the state and the valley should certainly be in the running with the rest of Minnesota.

Major J. M. Bowler, of St. Paul, one of the old-time Democrats and Populists of the state and who held the office of dairy and food commissioner under Governor Lind, has announced that he is supporting Honest Bob Dunn for governor and will speak in his interests throughout the state. He says as a reason for his support of Mr. Dunn, that "Dunn stands for something, and you always know just where to find him. Johnson stands for nothing and he will not stand for that even, without hitching. There are some men on the democratic ticket for whom the Bryan and Hearst Democrats can vote with pride. It is a source of regret that John A. Johnson is not one of them. The friends of Bryan and Hearst, who still believe in the principles they battered for in 1896 and 1900, are absolved from further allegiance to a party that is here today and there tomorrow and forever nowhere but in the soup. Like the darky's crab, 'When yo find dat fallah yo doan can tell whudder yo met him or whudder you obertook him.'" Major Bowler spoke here in the campaign of 1902 advocating the election of L. A. Rosing and there are many people here who will remember him, and who will be pleased that he is lined up for Bob Dunn and good government.

The attempts of a certain Thief River Falls crowd to get out an independent candidate against Luman C. Simons for Representative were not met very enthusiastically throughout the district, and they have given all hopes of creating dissatisfaction by making a fight against the Red Lake county man. The Olberg Journal, published at Olberg, in Mayland's home county of Clearwater, has the following to say in regard to this matter: "Certain parties at Thief River Falls have wrote a letter to Hon. J. H. Markham, strongly urging him to become an independent candidate for representative against L. C. Simons, nominated by the republicans. But we are pleased to note, Mr. Markham did not take the bait and announced that he could under no circumstances consent to allow his name to be used as such. Hon. L. C. Simons after a hotly contested primary election received the nomination, and will also be elected. The voters of Clearwater county gave their home candidate their support, but are now as one man for the election of Mr. Simons, because of his manly stand taken upon the drainage question and place their trust in his care, for his ability along said line is not disputed, if debated. Hon. L. C. Simons is in position to do things for his constituents by reason of his former experience and influence in the legislature."

NOT ON THE MOURNER'S BENCH.

It is hard, this year, for the Democrats to get the American people up to the mourner's bench. Br'er Parker may give forth ominous platitudes, misfits for the times, every one of them. Br'er Parker may shriek, gesticulate, get red in the face and pound the rostrum; Grandpa Davis may groan lugubriously, but all to no effect.

Prosperous, happy, content and proud, the United States of America is doing very well, and does not care to change its policy just now.

Looking back upon the past eight years, the people see nothing in the conduct of national affairs to be sorry for. They do see much to be thankful for. President Roosevelt for three years has guided the nation along pleasant paths, and all it asks is to have him continued at its head for four years more. "There's luck in odd numbers!"

No mourner's bench for us, Br'er Parker, Br'er Hill and Grandpa Davis!

We're a-shouting!

CATON'S BRAINY TALK.

Prof. T. J. Caton, who is stumping the state in the interests of Honest Bob Dunn and the Republican ticket is doing more than a dozen men could toward making votes for Mr. Dunn, and his talks have been listened to by interested crowds of people wherever he spoke.

At Little Falls last Friday evening Mr. Caton made one of the nicest speeches of his tour and his remarks were received with tremendous enthusiasm.

He answered every charge that has been made against Mr. Dunn by the disgruntled element and dwelt at length on his personality and fitness for governor.

Prof. Caton, in his address, said that he had been chasing down the rumor of the formation of Roosevelt-Johnson clubs in Minnesota that we have heard so much about lately.

"I have found it to be true. There are in this state hundres of Roosevelt–Johnson clubs. This combination will control thousands of votes. Thousands of good Democrats in Minnesota who have never heard the name of their candidate for president mentioned by the Democratic party in this campaign, are going to vote for Theodore Roosevelt and this is the only Roosevelt-Johnson combination you will find in Minnesota this year."

"To defeat Bob Dunn," said Prof. Caton, "is to serve notice on the young men of this state that faithful performance of public duty, fidelity to public trust, is not the key to political preferment.

"Less than thirty years ago, Mr. Dunn came to this state, a poor printer, with no asset but his union card, and he has risen by his own integrity and ability.

"His defeat by the corporate power of this state, by the silk-stocking element, which turn in horror from this plain, homely man and say 'How uncultured he is,' will be a notice to the toilers of this state and their children that in Minnesota wealth and social standing count for more in public life than rugged honesty and inherent worth."

JOHNSON LIKES DUNN.

The unbiased opinion of Democrats and Republicans alike expressed before R. C. Dunn was a candidate for governor was that he made the best state auditor Minnesota ever had, and that more than any other man in Minnesota he is entitled to the highest state office in the gift of the people of the state. This opinion was frequently expressed by John A. Johnson, of St. Peter, Democratic nominee for governor, in his paper, the St. Peter Herald, as well as by the Democrats who are managing Mr. Johnson's campaign.

As a Democrat Mr. Johnson probably hesitated to bestow lavish praise on Mr. Dunn, who had been elected as the Republican nominee, but his admiration of the manner in which Mr. Dunn enforced the laws of the state without fear or favor was nevertheless frequently expressed in the editorial columns of the St. Peter Herald from 1895 to 1903. Mr. Johnson praised Mr. Dunn for his efforts to secure for the state valuable mineral lands in the northern part of Minnesota; he frequently proposed Mr. Dunn as the logical and strongest man for governor in 1902 in opposition to Gov. Van Sant and openly indorsed Mr. Dunn's position on the merger and other questions discussed at that time.

On Feb. 19, 1897, after Mr. Dunn had been state auditor three years and M. J. Dowling of Olivia was talked of for the nomination in opposition to Mr. Dunn, Mr. Johnson said in his paper:

"It is generally conceded that Bob Dunn can be nominated if he desires. Bob has made the best state auditor that Minnesota has had and is a strong man for any office. Dunn or Dowling, which will it be?"

A few weeks later, on May 7, when Ed A. Paradis was suggested for the place, after it had been reported that Dunn would be a candidate for governor, Mr. Johnson said:

"Ed A. Paradis would make a good auditor of Minnesota, if Bob Dunn is to be the next governor. Ed is as fearless as Bob is and he is just as good a newspaper man."

A few months earlier, on Jan. 22, 1897, Mr. Johnson said:

"State Auditor Dunn is endeavoring to prove the state's right to a section of land on which the valuable Mesaba range is located. Some years ago the state was given this tract by the federal government, but Auditor Braden substituted it for other lands in the state."

Four years later, after Mr. Dunn had been state auditor seven years and was just about ready to retire, Mr. Johnson said in his paper, on May 10, 1901:

"Mr. Dunn has made a very capable official and possesses all the qualifications for a good auditor."

When the Democratic candidate for governor has said these things and upheld Mr. Dunn in his excellent work while state auditor, why should there be a Republican in Minnesota who will vote for Johnson in preference to Dunn. Bob Dunn as governor of Minnesota will make a record that the humblest citizen may be proud of, and two years hence he will be given another endorsement by the people that will show conclusively that they approve of his excellent conduct while in public life.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. Trial bottles 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by A. L. Reichert.

ROAD IS BLOCKED.

Old Prairie Pike To Gentilly Fenced In By Farmers.

According to the Crookston Journal teamsters and liverymen driving through the prairie from that city to Red Lake Falls last Sunday were met at several points on the road beyond Gentilly with tightly stretched barb wire fences which rendered a tearing down of the obstructions necessary in order to get through. The fences were put up by farmers who own the land along the road upon the strength of a report that the highway had been vacated by the county board of commissioners and would not be subject to the road laws after October 15th. Drivers and teamsters coming into the city were considerably wrought up over the matter and injunction proceedings are threatened if the farmers persist in keeping the roadway closed up. The road is the old Red Lake Falls-Crookston county road and no other road has yet been opened through the territory it traverses. The Red Lake Falls people had their mail delayed last Sunday while the driver of the stage line got out to tear down fences and other obstructions which were placed across the road to prevent traffic.

Should the report that the road has been vacated be true a new road will have to be graded through the various townships and the length of the trip to Crookston will be increased considerably. Old residents, including lawyers of the city who have lived here a great many years stated yesterday that in their estimation the highway had been used by the public for over twenty years and could not be vacated by the county if the proper steps were taken by parties interested in the maintenance of the road. The highway has an objectionable feature in the minds of the farmer because of the fact that it crosses the farms at right angles rather than following the section lines as is usually customary. This cuts the farms up in a disagreeable manner and caused the farmers to fence the road up.

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure. Similar cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter Druggist. The Big Store has an ad in today's Gazette containing another array of attractive fall bargains, and the reader will find many interesting points therein.

The Gazette is prepared to print auction bills this fall at the lowest price ever before made in this section If the farmers contemplating holding sales will call and get our prices before they order their bills they will find that they can get better values here than elsewhere. Remember to call on the Gazette before ordering your bills.

So far as dug the potato crop of this section is fair. The yield is not large but the potatoes are of good size, smooth and sound. The merchants are paying 25 cents per bushel just now but this price is expected to advance later on. One or two of the logging firms have offered as high as 40 cents for immediate delivery, but 25 cents is the regular price about town. One advantage the crop here has over that in many localities is in soundness, the potato belt and other localities being troubled with soft rot. This is the first time in several years that the crop has been worth less then 40 cents at digging time.

FARMERS ATTENTION!

In placing your crops on the market you will have more or less banking business to transact. We want that business, and feel sure we can handle it to your entire satisfaction. When in town you are welcome to make use of our private offices for writing or such other business as you may have.

Peter Nimersgern left last Saturday for a trip to the coast and expects to spend several months looking over that country with a view to locating.

Joseph Laurent, a prominent Terrebonne farmer, was a visitor here yesterday and left the necessary wherewhal to insure the regular visits of the Gazette for another year.

The Gazette has added eight new Red Lake county readers to its large list this week and three outside of the county. Better tell your neighbor what he's missing by not subscribing for Red Lake county's leading newspaper.

The football game advertised for last Saturday between the Red Lake Falls and Fosston high schools was postponed on account of the rain. The game will be played here Saturday, however, if the weather is favorable and should be well attended.

The closing out sale at Bangs & Co.'s has attracted large crowds of Red Lake county buyers this week, and the goods are being sold very fast. There are still many desirable lines left, and it will pay the people to investigate these offers of excellent goods at low prices.

Nels K. Anderson, of Sanders, the Republican candidate for Judge of Probate attended the Republican rally here last Saturday evening and Sunday at Terrebonne in the interests of his candidacy. Mr. Anderson is making an active canvass and looks for a big vote.

Ned Taylor came up from St. Paul Monday morning to spend a week hunting and visiting with his many Red Lake Falls friends. Ned has an excellent situation in one of St. Paul's leading drug stores and reports himself as contented and prosperous in his new home. He reports that the family are well and prosperous.

A Bemidji paper wound up a compliment to a young school ma'am with a good word about "the reputation for teaching she hears." The next day the young school ma'am met the editor and chased him down the street with an umbrella, and at every jump in the road she screamed that she had never taught a she hear in her life.

Thief River Press: A post traders license has been granted to F. H Kratka to do trading on the Red Lake reservation. Mr. Kratka had intended to go up to the Red Lake this season, but a delay in securing the license has delayed his departure until next year by which time he will have everything in readiness to undertake his new vocation.

An Irishman was sitting in a smokers seat in a street car in St. Paul the other day, when a woman sitting down remarked: "Sir, if you were a gentleman, you wouldn't smoke in here." "Mum," he said, "If yez wus a leddy, ye'd go up in front." Pretty soon the woman brust out, "If you were my husband I'd give you poison." "Well mum," returned the Irishman as he puffed away his pipe, "If yes was me wolfe I'd take it."

Louise Marshall, the beautiful Chicago favorite, will play Lady Macbeth in Sanford Dodge's production of that immortal tragedy this season. Miss Marshall is very well fitted for this role, as her splendid stage presence, beautiful voice and superb figure make her one of the ideal heroines of Shakespeare. Do not fail to see this superb production. It will be worth ten times the cost of admission. Remember the date, October 22d., and get your seats early before they are all gone.

Col. A. B. Allen, of the Morton Enterprise, was a visitor here a few hours yesterday, and found time to call at The Gazette office a few moments The Colonel is one of the pioneer newspaper men of Minnesota, and among this writer's earliest remembrances is of the fame of "Growler" Allen. For nearly a quarter of a century he successfully conducted the Republican at Jackson, Jackson county, and was one of the prominent workers in the early development of that section of the state. Although now in his declining years, Mr. Allen has the vitality and energy of a young man, and can still handle the best of them, either with the pen or in a physical test. He has lately come to hear of the many advantages of Red Lake county and the valley, and intends to make some substantial investments here before spring. The Gazette's latch-string is always out to men of Allen's kind and sincerely trusts that he may visit us often.

You can see a very fine line of Base Burners, $30 to $55 at F. E. Hunt's.

Paul I. D. Osthy, Republican candidate for Auditor, was a business caller here Tuesday.

For Rent—The old Sortedahl abstract office, near court house, after November 15. See Ernest Buse.

Ladies, Ferry shoes comprise all the essential points for a comfortable and dressy fall shoe. $3.00 at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Miss Cathrine Pirath, who is one of St. Hilaire's popular school teachers, visited her parents here between trains last Saturday.

Miss Albina Lemieux arrived home Tuesday from her month's visit with relatives and friends in Argyle, Euclid and other points. She reports a delightfully enjoyable visit.

Miss Grace Newberry, of Thief River Falls, did not win the automobile in the Minneapolis Tribune contest, but did win a trip to the world's fair. Her many friends here regret that she did not win the automobile. Miss Newberry left last Tuesday for the world's fair.

Attorney Howe Paige, of the law firm of Wicks, Paige and Lamb, attorneys and counselors, Minneapolis was a business visitor here yesterday. Mr. Paige has some legal matters to attend to here that will require several days. The Gazette was favored with a call.

Omer Hall returned yesterday from his visit of a month at his home in Nebraska and has resumed his situation as operator at the Great Northern depot. Omer reports that he had a very enjoyable visit, but he is glad to get back to Red Lake Falls again nevertheless.

Miss Carrie Pirath left Tuesday of last week for Hallock, where she has accepted a position in the local telephone office. Miss Pirath was the popular operator of the telephone exchange here for some time and will give the people of Hallock excellent satisfaction.

J. A. Vermett, of St. Justin, Province of Quebec, Canada, arrived here yesterday for a visit of a week at the homes of Joseph Laurent and Joseph Lafreniere in Terrebonne, township. Mr. Vermett is an old time friend of these gentlemen and his visit will no doubt be highly enjoyable. The Gazette was favored with a call while he was in the city.

Thief River News: Work was commenced the first of the week of decorating the interior of the Catholic church of this city, and when it is completed the church will be one of the finest in the city. Nic Helm, of Red Lake Falls, has the contract for doing the work. Also new stained glass windows, which were donated by the parishioners, will be installed.

Harry B. Healy went over to Grand Forks Saturday to spend Sunday with friends. Harry has been so busy this fall that his usually numerous visits to that pretty city on the Red have been few and far between, but The Gazette can assure the "friends" there that this has been unavoidable, and he hasn't stayed away because of entangling alliances elsewhere.

The Fosston foot ball team, which plays Red Lake Falls here next Saturday, is said to be one of the fiercest aggregations of pigskin punters that the Valley has ever had and the lovers of that sport can be assured of seeing an exciting contest. John Warren the famous guard of last years' Minnesota eleven, has had this young American bunch in training and Coach Wyer's boys will probably have to look to their laurels if they win. Turn out and see the game and you will certainly get your money's worth.

Some of the people who will play prominent parts in Sanford Dodge's production of Macbeth which will be presented at the Metropolitan opera house Saturday Oct. 22d are as follows: Miss Louise Marshall as Lady Macbeth, Miss Scoville as first witch, Mr. DeGuerre as Macduff, Mr. Herbert Broune as Malcom, Mr. W. W. Gould as Banquo, Sanford Dodge as Macbeth, James Harrison as Duncan, and all the other roles are in competent bands. You cannot afford to miss this performance. Get seats at once before all good ones are gone.

After having his wife arrested for having undue familiarity with other men and having four "other men" arrested for having undue familiarity with his wife, Nels Erickson, the prosperous Erskine contractor who during the summer has been engaged on the Soo line contracts, has affected a reconciliation, calmed the turbulent waters of domestic life and departed from Erskine for Thief River Falls where they will make their home from now on. Mrs. Erickson figured as the principal in the sensational matrimonial scandal out at Erskine last week and was arrested upon charges preferred by her husband. Four prominent men, Soo line employees and prominent Erskine business men, were entangled in the meshes of the case and several have been bound over to the grand jury in $1,500 bail. It is probable, however, that with the turn affairs have taken that there will be no appearance made against them in December.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chemberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds end grip effectnelly and permenently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for cronp. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly end very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back end sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day, Three physicians gave me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents guaranteed, at W. A, Schreiter's drug store.

Joseph Normandin went over to Park River, North Dakota, last Friday to spend a couple of weeks looking after business matters.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Telesfore Robillard has been very sick the past week, but is reported as improving at this writing.

Next week's Gazette will contain particulars of the "trip around the world" that is planned by the ladies of the Presbyterian church. Watch for it.

Adolph Dufult, living north of town has purchased the dry goods and grocery business of Collins Brothers at Crookston, and expects to take possession early in November. Mr. Dufault is well known in Red Lake Falls and his friends will wish him success in his venture.

Tip Taylor has spent a couple of days here this week and will return to St. Paul this evening. He piloted a party of St. Paul hunters to this part of the state ten days ago and could not resist the opportunity of dropping in to say hello to his many Red Lake Falls friends.

Mrs. John Savard, who has been very low with inflammatory rheumatism at her home in this city, is not improving as much as her friends would like to see her and is still suffering great pain. The looked for improvement has not come fast, but it is hoped thas a change for the better will soon set in.

Ole J. Johnson, the popular county commissioner, has accepted a position with the Thief River Falls Milling company as grain buyer at the new town of Plummer, and took charge of the new elevator there this week. Ole is a first-rate judge of grain and will be a valuable man to the company and a good citizen for Plummer.

Terrebonne and Lambert enjoyed visits from the various county candidates last Sunday and at both places the people had the pleasure of listening to short talks by several of the office-seekers and office-holders. The last few loops of the race are at hand and the pace will be fast and furious from now until election day rolls around.

Mr. and Mrs. George Herr, of Terrebonne, had the misfortune to lose one of their little eight-months-old triplets Saturday of last week, cholera infantum being the cause of its death. The triplets have always been well and no thought was entertained of anything serious happening to them. Mr. and Mrs. Herr will have the sympathy of the community.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are planning to give the people of Red Lake Falls a "trip around the world" on Hallowe'en night, the 31st of the present month, and from the arrangements being made there promises to be some delightful countries visited. The proceeds will be used to purchase a furnace for the church. Watch next week's paper for further particulars.

Dr. J. E. Argue went over to Grand Forks Tuesday to attend the session of the first meeting of the Red River Valley Medical association, of which he was elected vice-president at the organization. Dr. Argue was down on the program for a clinic on "Porcelain Inlay," and several other papers were read tending to the benefit of the members of the association. The association has a fair-sized membership, and promises to become a prominent society in the Valley.

The Gazette family had the pleasure of enjoying an excellent goose dinner, through the generoosness of Druggist A. L. Reichert, and to say that it was thoroughly enjoyed would be putting it mildly. Messrs. Reichert and Wilkinson secured three fine specimens of this much-sought-after bird one day last week and Friend Reichert assumed the part of the Good Samaritan and presented the Gazette with one of them. There may be things more palatable than roast goose, but we bet a horse that you can't convince us that there is.

A few days ago a well known lawyer remitted, in settlement of an account to the publisher of a paper in the west, a $2 bill, which was returned with the brief statement: "This note is counterfeit; please send another". Two months passed before hearing from the lawyer again, when he apologized for the delay, saying: "I have been unable till now to find another counterfeit $2 bill, but hope the one now inclosed will suit, professing at the same time, any inability to discover what the objection was to the other, which I thought as good a counterfeit as I ever saw."

Crookston Journal: Dr. Valdemer Pleth, the new physician, who has decided to locate in this city and has secured rooms in the Steenerson and Wickstrom block, although he has not as yet opened his offices, is a very busy physician, and since coming to the city he has hardly had a moment of spare time for himself. He was called to St. Hilaire Saturday to operate upon a sufferer from appendicitis and immediately upon his return to the city was summoned to Ada to attend a similar case there. Dr. Pleth expects his office furniture and fixtures to arrive shortly and will open his offices as soon as the goods arrive.

October 31 is the last day upon which the property owners of Polk county will have the opportunity of paying the last one-half of their real estate taxes assessed for 1903, and the receipts at the county treasurer's office during this month will be large. The taxpayers are greatly convenienced by the provisions of the law in regard to the payment of real estate taxes, and by paying one-half before June 1st and the remainder before November 1st, they are allowed the use of half of their tax money for several months without interest or penalty. The penalty of ten per cent, however, is added on November 1st and the taxpayers should see to it that they are not dilatory in forwarding their checks.

Crookston Journal: Alex Thompson was the host at a game dinner Friday evening, served at McKinnon's restaurant in the usual excellent style of that popular resort. John E. King, democratic candidate for secretary of state, was the guest of honor and about the board were gathered several prominent local democrats and M. Thiesen, superintendent of the Minneapolis Brewing company, who was in the city on business, took part in the social function. An exchange of reminisences, several good stories and the proper auxiliaries to a good dinner were enjoyed by the gentlemen who incidentally took occasion to express their belief in a democratic victory this fall and pledged their loyalty to Mr. King in particular.

S. Langevin, of North Yakima, Washington, a former resident of old Polk county, was a visitor here last Friday and Saturday, renewing acquaintances with the people and looking over the city. Mr. Langevin has been very successful since going west and speaks in glowing terms of that great country. He is talking upon the merits of one of the famous irrigated valleys of that part of the world and while he says he does not want to urge his friends to go there against their will, all he asks is that make the trip and look at the country to satisfy themselves. He has sent several parties from Crookston to investigate that country and will be pleased to furnish information to any one here desiring to learn more about it. His visit here was enjoyed by his old friends.

Dramatic Event Of The Season.

Mr. Sanford Dodge, whose popularity seems to increase with each succeeding year, will be the attraction at the Opera House Oct. 22. His amazing success has often been the subject of comment and has been ascribed to several causes. In the first place, nature has endowed him with many advantages; a fine physique, a strong and pleasing voice, and a graceful carriage. He is also a painstaking actor, who believes in paying strict attention to details so that all his productions have an artistic and finished appearance. Mr. Dodge is usually surrounded by a strong and capable company, but this season it is said that he is carrying the best support that he has ever had during his career.

Mr. Dodge is now appearing in grand revivals of classic and romantic dramas.

Great plays, beautiful costumes, special scenery and talented company all combine to make this event one never to be forgotten by those who witness it. Although the theater going public has always been most generous with its patronage to Sanford Dodge, he has ever been equally generous with the public by giving splendid productions of high-class dramatic masterpieces, costing much money and an infinite amount of study and labor, but regardless of all obstacles, he can ever be relied upon to give better satisfaction and more for the money than any other organization on the road.

This talented, well-equipped, and especially selected dramatic attraction will positively appear in this city. You should not fail to attend.

Sanford Dodge, the recognized American tragedian, is playing the role of Macbeth in the play of that name this season, and with the strong cast that supports Mr. Dodge, the production promises to be a rare treat. At the Opera House next Saturday, Oct. 22nd.

Do You Know the Game....

The good clothes game is a very easy one to learn, and every man can excel in it. Queer game; everybody who plays it right can win! If you'll drop into our store we'll tell you all about it; put you next, as it were; get you on the inside----of a Hart, Schaffner & Marx garment---that's all there is to it.... Some dealers' clothes are not but a skimpy apoiogy of what they ought to be. They call their clothes suits, overcoats, etc. We call ours CREATIONS: maybe you don't know the difference, but-----SHE will!

The following refreshments will be served at the stopping places: Frnits at San Francisco; Oysters, Salmon and Lobster at Portland; Sauerkraut and Weinerwurst at Berlin; baked heans and brown hread at Boston; coffee and donghnuts at Rio de Janiero; tea and wafers at Yokohoma: ice cream and cake at Washington. At Spookville passengers will be received by a delegation of ghosts and hobgohlins, fortunes will he told and other Hallowe'en orgies provided. The trains will he in charge of competent conductors, as follows: Ewald Zaiser, Drew Marshall, Verne Healy, Orson Doe and Dan Johnson.

The puhlic is cordially invited to take one of these trains and enjoy a pleasant trip to portions of onr country heretofore nnvisited. The affair is new and novel, and will undouhtedly prove interesting and instructive to the puhlic. Don't forget the date—Monday eveniug, October 31—Hallowe'en night.

FOSSTON WAS EASY

Red Lake Falls' Speedy High School Eleven Add Another Scalp To Their Belt.

The Fosston high school foot ball eleven came over last Saturday to meet the local gridiron warriors in a contest for supremacy, and while the Fosston hoys were much lighter than our team it was expected that they would put up a stuhborn contest, as they had practiced hard and nnderstood the game well. They were not up to expectations, however, and while they fought to the finish the hattle was not interesting enongh to create a great deal of enthusiasm. The final score was 58 to 0 in favor of our boys, and had it not been for a little loose playing a time or two they would have scored higher.

Fosston was unable to gain at all on Red Lake Falls, aud resorted to pnnting considerahly when held on the first two downs. Red Lake Falls, on the other hand, had no tronble in making her gains whenever she got the ball, and several long runs for touchdowns furnished a little excitement now and then. Fosston was handicapped by the absence of one of her best players, who missed the train at his home town that morning and failed to get here with the team, hut it is prohahle had he heen in the game the resnlt would not have been changed materially.

The playing of the Red Lake Falls boys was very good, and they were in the game at all times. The line was strengthened by the addition of Bert Lafreniere, who returned from Canada early last week and re-entered upon his school dnties, and his playing helped the team materially in running up the big score. The hackfield played their usual star game, and on the first half, Ernest Tonpin, the snh back, at right half, played a very clever article of foot hall and made a couple of sensational runs. The line held hetter than in the former games, and altogether the hoys showed improvement over their other games.

Arrangements are heing made for a game with Grand Forks here this week, and if it can he secured there will undonhtedly he some fine foot ball to look at. Grand Forks claims the championship of North Dakota high schools, and their games so far this season have put np a heantiful game, and it is expected that when our team gets np against players of their ability that a pretty contest will result. As this will likely he the last game of the season, the people should turn out and see it. Watch for announcements as to the date and hour.

FAIR A GRAND SUCCESS

St. Joseph's People Net A Large Sum From Their Three Days' Entertainment of the People.

The three days chnrch fair and bazaar given hy the congregation of St. Joseph's Catholic church in this city Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week, proved to he one of the most snccessful events ever held here, both from a social and financial standpoint.

From the time the fair opened Sunday afternoon until its close late Tuesday night, there was one continual round of pleasure for the people who attended, and large crowds were there all the time to share in the sport. The ladies of the congregation served meals all three days, and their efforts were rewarded by a large number of people partaking of their hospitality, the receipts from the meals heing very large.

The band was over on Monday and Tnesday evenings and helped liven things up, and the varions booths all did a big business during the three days.

The total sum taken in was $1125.00, which while not quite as much as in some years gone by, was a very nice amount for the church. The several contests were participated in to a large extent, and the winners turned in a lot of money to help along the receipts. Miss Pearl Demarais wou the gold watch contest, Miss Cora Paul won the gold locket race and Miss Lucile Berthon secured the large doll.

The several prizes donated to the chnrch to he raffled off were won by the following persons:

Chair, donated by Anderson & Healy—Roger Morin.
Baby dress—A. P. Toupin.
Painting—August Krenger.
Bahy quilt—Clotilde Supernault.

Chair—Rose Allard.
Cushion—Joseph Morinville.
Stove—Theo. Garceau.
Lady's hat—M. A. Converse.
Tea set—Emma Brown.
Tokio—John A. Duffy.

The drawings were all conducted Tnesday night at the close of the fair, and furnished a great deal of ammnsement for the crowd.

St. Joseph's fair of 1904 will he rememhered as heing a grand snccess, and the excellent manner in which it was carried out reflects great credit upon Rev. Father Fayolle and those of the congregation who helped with the work.

The Gazette is requested, on hehalf of the church people, to extend hearty thanks to the puhlic for the generons patronage accorded the fair.

GRAND FORKS COMING

Champions of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota Will Decide Gridiron Honors on Local Field.

On the local gridiron next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, will occur the finest exhihition of foot ball that has ever been witnessed in the Northwest and one that will undouhtedly set the rooters "crazy" —figuratively speaking.

On that day the Grand Forks high school team—the undisputed school champions of North Dakota —will meet the Red Lake Falls high school eleven—which has defeated every team in the Red River Valley that has played with them—and from the time of the referee's whistle at the beginning of the first half until the game is finished there will be "something doing" at all times. Grand Forks comes here with considerahle advantage over onr boys. They weigh several pounds more to the man and have the advautage of having practised with the North Dakota University eleven, so that they can be expected to make a valiant scrap for the honors. Red Lake Falls, ou the other hand, has the fastest and best trained bunch of high school players that the Valley has ever boasted and if they don't win it will be because Grand Forks has the best team.

The expenses of the game will be heavy and it is earnestly urged that the puhlic respond liberally when asked to purchase tickets. The high school hoys have provided some excellent sport for the people this fall and are deserving of the unanimons snpport of the citizens.

The game will be called at ten o'clock Saturday morning and it is set at an hour hefore Saturday's rush is on to give everyone a chance to see the fun. The admission price will he 25c and there shouldn't be a person on the grounds without a ticket on his person. Remember the hour and the date aud rest assured that you will get yonr money's worth.

No Hallowe'en Pranks.

Mayor Duffy advises the Gazette that he has arranged for the appointment of five special police for next Monday evening—Hallowe'en night—and that the usnal promiscons piling up of every loose piece of iron, machinery, etc., will not be allowed. Just where the fun lies in working several hours for a conglomerated pile of machinery is not apparent and the case is often where serious damage is done to property handled so roughly by those participating in the affair. Mayor Duffy's action in arranging to stop this unnecessary practice is commendahle and should receive the hearty commendation of the people.

The Soo will connect witb Canada at Emerson not later than the 28th of this month. This will give the contractors three days leeway hetween the time called for in their contract and the time of completion. It can be seen that they had their work timed to a nicety.

Ovide Moreau, whose picture appears above, is one of the oldest and ablest of Red Lake county's residents, and his services to his party and his fellowman have always been such as to command the highest respect and confidence. Mr. Moreau has held several positions of trust and honor in this county, besides being in business for himself, and his every act has been characterized with honesty, ability and integrity. A careful business man, excellent penman, rapid accountant and of a keen sense of justice and impartiality, Mr. Moreau is just the man for County Treasurer of Red Lake county, and when elected on November 8, will give the people an administration of the office that will be a credit to himself and the people who elected him. Mr. Moreau is the Republican candidate for this office, and regardless of politics the voters who know him personally are lined up in his favor. When you go into the election booth on October 8, cast your ballot in such a manner that Ovide Moreau will receive the majority that his fitness and ability entitle him to.

Republican Candidate for Sheriff.

The Man to Vote for Nov. 8.

Last Day to Register.

Next week Tuesday, November 1st; one week from the general election, is, according to law, the last day on which voters may register their names for voting at the polls on November 8th; and it behooves all persons who did not register at the primaries or who have not otherwise complied with the law to not forget the importance of that day. Otherwise there will be a disappointment in store for those who fail.

The judges of election will be in their places ready to receive names from 6 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening, so that every voter will have an opportunity to register.

Persons who have moved from one precinct to another since October 9, will be ineligible to vote either in their old precinct or a new one, although removals from one house to another in the same precinct will not affect their standing.

No person can vote at the general election who has not registered either at the primaries or on one of the two remaining days of registration. Those who registered for the primaries do not have to register a second time.

The same polling booths that were used for the primaries will be used for places of registration.

KNUTE J. WEEKS AT HOME.

It is a conceded fact that where a man stands well at home it is a fine guarantee that he is all right. No man can live in a community very long without making a record for himself, for his neighbors and friends soon place a time value on his manhood, citizenship and true worth, founded on a practical knowledge of the man, by every day contact with him in business, socially and every relation of life from an every day standpoint, the real crucial test of a man's worth. Mr. K. J. Weeks, of Thief River Falls, is a member of the city council, being alderman-at-large in the city of Thief River Falls, also president of the Red Lake County Fair association, having been re-elected last year. This association, which consists of about fifty of the best business men in the city, proves that he is respected and has the full confidence of every one who lives there. No man stands better in any community than Mr. Weeks in his home town. This ought to be sufficient to satisfy people throughout ths county that if his own home people have confidence in him and his ability to do what he undertakes they ought not put any faith in campaign stories that have been put afloat to injure him. Home endorsement is the best kind and Mr. Weeks enjoys it to the fullest extent. Mr. Weeks will make an obliging and competent Register of Deeds and your vote for him on November 8th is a vote for the right man.

A Few Politics.

Thief River Press: Ovide Moreau is sure making the dry bones rattle in his campaign for treasurer of Red Lake county. He is interviewing votes night and day, or at least as continuously as flesh and blood can stand, and intends to keep up the good work until the polls close on election day. He is a reliable, capable man, and no voter will go far wrong if he supports Mr. Moreau on November 8th. Another good republican who is putting his shoulder to the wheel not only on his own behalf but for the whole ticket is Ernest Buse. Like his opponent, Sheriff Linaihan, Mr. Buse is from Red Lake Falls, where he has resided a trifle longer than the oldest settler, excepting himself, can remember, for the simple reason that he is the oldest settler. Everybody in the southern end of the county knows Ernest Buse, and he is fast making the acquaintance of the people up this way. If elected he can be counted upon to faithfully perform the duties of the office of Sheriff.

Judges Grindeland and Watts have received official notification of their nomination from the secretary of state. Judge Grindeland received 6,522 votes and Judge Watts 6,014 votes.

Mapelton Enterprise: The Red Lake Falls Courier announces that Thomas Germo has every prospect of being elected county attorney of Red Lake county by a majority running well up into the hundreds, that Democrats as well as Republicans are giving him their support. Mr. Germo's old friends in Blue Earth county will be pleased to learn of this situation, knowing that he fully merits the support he is receiving.

HALF A MILLION DOLLARS

Saved for the Public School Fund by R. C. Dunn's Firm Stand Regarding a Railroad Land Grant.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, one of the most important branches of his official duty was the administration of the grants of swamp lands made by the state legislature to railroads. Some of the railroad companies claimed large tracts of lands under their grants to which, in Mr. Dunn's opinion, they were not entitled, for instance, the legislature had made a grant of swamp lands to the Little Falls & Dakota Ry. Co., branch of the Northern Pacific Railway, extending from Little Falls, in Morrison county, to Morris, in Stevens county, and running through the counties of Todd, Stearns and Polk. The total length of this line of railroad is 87 7-10 miles. The granting act provided that the railroad company should construct its line in divisions of thirty miles each, and that the line should be carried to the western boundary of the state, some forty or fifty miles west of Morris, and that as fast as one division of the line, or thirty miles, was completed the grant of land was to be considered earned, that is the railroad company could select those sections of swamp lands for each mile in length of the division constructed that under portion of the grant was to be considered earned when the division was completed. The railroad company failed to construct its line to the western boundary of the state, and stopped short at Morris, leaving a third and last section of its line, only 27 7-10 miles in length, or 2 3-10 miles short of being a full division. For this part of a division the railroad company claimed the swamp land grant, but Mr. Dunn took an opposite view, and, contending that the grant did not apply, owing to their failure to complete the division of thirty miles. Litigation was contemplated, and, in fact, commenced, and in view of the uncertainty of courts the result was probably doubtful, but at the last minute the railroad company agreed to waive its claims to the 106,000 acres of land for the last uncompleted division of its line, and a compromise was affected which the legislature ratified by Chap. 193, Gen. Laws 1901, by which the Little Falls & Dakota Ry. Co. (the Northern Pacific Ry. Co.) agreed to accept 35,000 acres in full satisfaction of its claim under its swamp land grant, while the state was to retain 70,900 acres.

This land so saved to the state by Mr. Dunn is worth not less than one-half million of dollars, which amount is divided equally between the school fund and the state institutions fund, and it was only owing to the firm stand taken by Mr. Dunn, as state auditor, that this large amount of land was recovered for the state. Every addition to the school fund and to the state institutions fund means additional money for the suport of our schools and charitable and correctional institutions, and the taxpayers are benefited correspondingly.

JOHNSON'S IDEA OF MEMORIAL DAY

His Pretense of Reverence for the Memory of the Old Soldiers ..t Sorns Out by His Actions.

The public record of Mr. John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor, is a proper subject for criticism. In his Minneapolis speech, referring to the old soldiers, Mr. Johnson said: "To the grizzled patriot who offered his all that his country might not perish we have only reverence and love." Fine sentiment, Mr. Johnson! In the session of 1899 a bill was introduced in the legislature (H. F. No. 540). "An act to prohibit the desecration of Decoration day and to provide for punishment thereof." Section one, and the only material section in the bill, reads as follows:

A Bill to Prevent its Desecration.

"The desecration of Decoration day, the thirtieth (30th) day of May of each year, by the playing of games of ball, foot ball and cricket and other like games, or horse racing, bicycle racing or any other sports calculated to attract attention to such games or sports and away from the memorial character of the day, within one-half mile of the place where memorial exercises are in progress, is hereby prohibited and made unlawful during the hours from ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon to three (3) o'clock in the afternoon of said day, and all saloons shall be closed on said day between the hours of ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon and three (3) o'clock in the afternoon, in all cities, towns and villages where memorial exercises are held."

Shows Small Reverence for Patriotic Dead.

On page 1,159 of the senate journal of 1899 it will be found that when the bill was up for final passage in the senate, and, the roll being called, there were yeas 36 and nays 1, the one vote in the negative being none other than John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor! "Revence for the grizzled patriot!" Old veterans, wives of veterans, mothers of veterans, sons of veterans and daughters of veterans, what think you of John A. Johnson's "reverence and love" for the "grizzled patriot who offered his all that his country might not perish?"

The Kind You Have Always Bought

A MAJORITY FROM THE START.

The statement has been made and circulated that R. C. Dunn could not have been nominated for governor by the Republican state convention without the 113 delegates from Hennepin county. This statement is not borne out by the roll calls, ballots and records of the state convention.

The call for the convention provided for 1,176 delegates, but at the time the test vote was taken in the seating of the Hennepin county delegation there were actually 1,073 votes cast, exclusive of Hennepin's 113, which would have raised the total to 1,186. The roll call shows that Cass county (9) and Roseau county (8) cast a double vote, giving to these two counties a single vote only, the total number of votes on the test ballot would have been 1,056, but the convention having allowed them to vote double, the total vote cast was 1,073.

Dunn's Clear Majority.

Of this 1,073 there were 622½ votes cast for R. C. Dunn and 450 ½ for L. W. Collins, or, to state it accurately, there were 622½ votes in favor of seating the Dunn delegates from Hennepin county and 450½ cast in favor of seating the Collins delegation. A majority of the whole vote cast was 587, so that the Dunn forces would have a clear majority of 86 votes without the 113 from Hennepin. With 1,176 delegates in the convention, 589 votes was a majority of the whole, so that the Dunn forces had a majority of 33½ votes of the total vote of the whole convention without Hennepin county's 113.

TAXPAYERS BENEFITTED

One of the Direct Results of R. C. Dunn's Work in Upbuilding the Public School Fund.

During the administration of the state auditor's office by R. C. Dunn, the public school fund of the state was increased largely through his efforts and business ability by over $4,800,000. When he assumed office in January, 1895, the school fund amounted to $10,500,000, and when he retired, eight years later, the school fund had increased by a few thousands less than $16,000,000. Some of the items going to make this large addition to the school fund were as follows: Land saved from the Little Falls & Dakota Ry. Co.'s swamp land grant valued at $500,000. Enhanced prices secured for the state timber, the increase amounting to $500,000 more than the state had obtained for its timber in thirty-one years previous; $170,000 collected from trespassers on state timber lands, which was ten times more than ever collected in previous history of the state. Increased prices secured at the sale of agricultural lands by State Auditor Dunn's taking advantage of the condition of the market and the increased demand for lands during the years 1898 to 1901, inclusive, by which not less than half a million of dollars additional was secured for the school fund on the sale of about 200,000 acres of land during those years, and for which the sale price was increased not less than $2 per acre.

The interest received from the investment of the school fund is apportioned twice a year among the schools of the state and the importance to the taxpayer of such large additions to the school fund as Mr. Dunn secured may be measured by the fact that in the apportionments funds made in 1903 $1,167,580 was distributed, amounting to $5 per capita for every child attending school in the state, and in 1904 the total amount distributed was $1,322,820. A citizen who is the happy parent of five children of school age would be benefited to the extent of $25 annually by this apportionment of the income of the school funds, an amount, in many cases, equal to the total tax paid by individual, so that Mr. Dunn's good work in this direction has been a direct benefit to every taxpayer in the state.

In addition to this feature one of Mr. Dunn's favorite plans for the investment for the permanent school fund was that it should be loaned in part at home, and he strongly advocated a measure which was passed by the legislature authorizing loans to be made from the public school fund to school districts, counties, cities and townships, the rate of interest being fixed at 4 per cent. This plan has proved of immense benefit to almost every school district in the state, and in 1903 the total loans made amounted to $499,028, and in 1904 to $595,576. By this means the school districts, townships, etc., are able to secure a loan from the state at a low rate of interest or to refund their old debts and borrow from the state, while the school fund is invested at home, among Minnesota people on the most reliable securities.

THE QUESTION OF GOOD ROADS

Compare the Attitude of R. C. Dunn and John A. Johnson on This Important Subject.

John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor, in commenting upon a speech made by Robert C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, at West Duluth, Aug. 26, sneered at a statement made by Mr. Dunn regarding the necessity for the construction of good roads in Northern Minnesota. Apparently Mr. Johnson failed to comprehend the facts and figures quoted by Mr. Dunn at that time or to appreciate the importance that the construction of good roads is for the settlers of the partially developed counties in the Northern portion of the state, Mr. Johnson passed off the question with a flippant remark that "the bicycle people would take care of that." Mr. Dunn, on the other hand, expressed himself as strongly in favor of securing better legislation to enable counties and townships to construct better roads where needed, and in the speech referred to he said: "The only state fund available for the improvement of roads is the interest derived from the internal improvement land fund of about $280,000 and the 5 per cent of the proceeds of the sale of government lands; the receipts of the latter source will diminish gradually as the area of public lands decreases. This fund is frittered away among the several counties of the state by piecemeal appropriations, and the public derives but very little benefit therefrom. In my judgment this fund should be used for the construction of roads in the sparsely settled districts. A constitutional amendment adopted in 1898 which provides for a tax of not to exceed one-twentieth of one mill was a bungling piece of legislation, and the legislature has failed to act under it.

NOT A DOLLAR LOST

Nor an Acre of Land by Any Official Act of R. C. Dunn When He Was State Auditor.

In regard to the reports made by Public Examiner Samuel T. Johnson as to the accounts and business of the state auditor's office during the administration of R. C. Dunn, after all is said and done, there is not a word or a charge which has been sustained that shows that the state ever lost one dollar in money or one acre of land through any action of Mr. Dunn; but on the other hand it has been shown beyond dispute that the state gained millions of dollars through the business sagacity with which Mr. Dunn protected its interests; that he collected more money from the sale of state timber during the eight years he held office, than was collected in the thirty-one years previous, and that he collected ten times as much from trespassers on state timber lands than ever before collected in the history of the state.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he compelled the big mining companies to pay a fair tax, increasing the amount paid by them from less than $25,000 to $800,000 annually.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he urged the legislature to increase the tax on gross earnings of railroads so as to produce $600,000 annually additional.

INSTIGATED BY DEMOCRATS

The Continuous Flow of Vilification Against R. C. Dunn, Emanating from the Public Examiner's Office.

From the office of public examiner. Sam T. Johnson, there issues every day about one-half column of matter purporting to be a report directed against R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, and S. G. Iverson, the present state auditor. These are issued in the hope of offsetting a terrible exposure of the falsehood of Johnson's main reports regarding timber stumpage in the state auditor's office during the administration of Robert C. Dunn to the present time. These fragmentary attempts at rebuttal are at the present time being prepared and issued by Deputy Public Examiner P. M. Kerst, a Democrat, and formerly cashier of the Germania bank in St. Paul, a bank which closed its doors several years ago and ruined thousands of small depositors, principally German-American working people. Mr. Kerst is assisted by another deputy examiner named McGrew, who is actually a legal resident of Chicago, Ill., and who was appointed by S. T. Johnson over the heads of citizens of Minnesota who were applicants for the position, among them being residents of Brown county, recommended by Hon. S. D. Peterson and others and the Hon. August J. Anderson of Chisago county. It is presumed that this work is being directed by the Democratic state committee. This presumption is supported by the fact that the last main report made by Public Examiner Johnson was being held in abeyance for the purpose of being sprung during the last few days of the campaign. Mr. Dunn forced the publication ten days ago.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he adjusted and closed up every railroad land grant made by the state with the exception of one now being filled.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he never lost the state an acre of land or deprived an actual settler of his home.

HOW JOHNSON LOVED THE YOUNG SOLDIER

He Defeated a Bill to Provide for Making a Historical Record of Their Patriotic Services in the Spanish-American War.

On page 846 of the senate journal of 1901 will be found the following: H. F. No. 224, entitled a bill for an act to provide for the preparation, publication and distribution of the history of the organization and services of the Minnesota volunteer troops in the Spanish war, 1898-9, was read the third time, and put upon its final passage. The question being taken upon the passage of the bill, and, the roll being called, there were yeas 26 and nays 5, and, as it required a majority vote of the whole senate, the bill was defeated. Among those who voted in the negative was John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor.

He Killed and Then Buried the Bill.

But Mr. Johnson did not stop there. He seemed to have a particular antipathy to both the old and young soldiers: Anyone who is conversant with parliamentary law knows that even if a bill has been defeated a motion to reconsider may be made within three days, an dthis is often done, and a bill that has been defeated on the first vote may be taken up and passed when there are enough friends of the bill present to give it the necessary number of votes. In order to prevent any such move on the part of its friends, Mr. Johnson immediately moved that the vote by which H. F. No. 224 was lost be reconsidered, and that the bill be laid upon the table. His motion prevailed, and the bill was effectually killed beyond the hope of resurrection. Mr. Johnosn's "reverence and love" for the young soldier was equal to his "reverence and love" for the grizzled patriots of the sixties.

JOHNSON FAVORED THE BOUNTY

But the Action of R. C. Dunn Saved the State $20,000 When He Refused to Pay the Money.

When John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor, was serving in the state senate he voted in favor of a bill giving a bonus of $20,000 to a Minnesota concern for the manufacture of beet sugar. When the state auditor was called upon under this law to issue his warrant for the bonus he refused to do so, claiming that under the constitution any attempt to bestow a bounty by the legislature was unconstitutional. The state auditor at that time was R. C. Dunn, the present Republican candiwate for governor, and the position he took in regard to this bounty was sustained by the state supreme court.

GOV. LIND'S VETO OF THE SUGAR BOUNTY

John A. Johnson Voted to Override Gov. John Lind's Veto When in the State Senate.

In 1899 Governor Lind, in a message to the speaker of the house of representatives, returned H. F. No. 169 without his signature. In other words, he vetoed the measure. In his veto message, among other things, Governor Lind said:

"Without entering into any discussion as to the wisdom of legislation of that character, which, in my judgment, cannot be justified on principle. It seems to me that if the legislature of this state is determined to use the taxing power to take the property of one taxpayer and transfer it to the private use of another, which can only be justified, if at all, upon the theory that it is good public policy to encourage men to undertake an industry which, when established, would be of lasting advantage to the commonwealth, then the aid or bounty must necessarily be temporary in its character, for I have never yet heard it advanced, even under the plea of public policy, that it was justifiable to permanently take the property of one taxpayer and transfer it to another's private use to enable the latter to carry on an industry which, but for such aid, would not be profitable or self-sustaining."

Governor Lind was undoubtedly right, and, although Mr. John A. Johnson was a member of his party, he voted to override the veto. And now Mr. Johnson is the Democratic candidate for governor and asks John Lind's friends to support him.

◆ ◆ ◆

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he secured for the state ten times more from trespassing on state timber land than received by the state during the thirty-one years preceding Mr. Dunn's administration of the state auditor's office.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE VOTERS.

I am a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate on the Republican ticket, and respectfully solicit the support of the people of Red Lake county at the general election on Nov. 8, 1901. If elected I assure the public that I will carefully attend the duties of the office, and conduct it to the best of my ability.

NELS K. ANDERSON,
Sanders, Minn.

John A. Johnson, democratic candidate is opposed to appropriation being made for drainage in the northern part of the state. We don't want a man of this kind in the governor's chair. Cast your vote for Bob Dunn, who has always in the past looked out for the interests of Northern Minnesota and will continue to do so in the future says the Thief River Falls Press.

Every citizen who votes for president in the coming election will also vote for a representative in congress from this district says the Gully Sunbeam. We mention this for the reason that there were some of the true friends of Hon. H. Steenerson in this locality who did not vote for him at the primary election, because, as they said, "he did not need it." While the national honor and the public welfare demand the election of President Roosevelt, those favoring him should not fail to plrce their X opposite the name of H. Steenerson for member of congress.

The congressional campaign for 1906 seems to be on. The Minneapolis Daily News in a top of column, next to pure reading, news item printed Wednesday gives the line up and in this congressional district A. D. Stephens, of Crookston, is slated as the man, says the Bemidji Sentinel. The way the game looks now that is the way the bosses want it—they have no time for a straight out and out shoulder hitter like Halvor. Mr. Steenerson will have to be reckoned with before

Our Next Superintendent....

As a reminder to the voters that go to the polls a week from next Tuesday, we say in all earnestness and honesty that a vote for Mrs. J. J. Doe, the Republican candidate for the office of Superintendent of Schools, is a vote for a lady deserving of the support and vote of the people of Red Lake county. With a career of successful teaching in the best schools in the state for a period of twenty years, with a knowledge of the work, acquired by long and careful study at several of the best educational institutions in the west, with recommendations and endorsements from her home people and people in other localities where she has taught, Mrs. Doe is in every way qualified and fitted to give the people service that will be satisfactory to the extreme degree. Having taught in several different county schools with a first-grade certificate, she is asking the voters their support with the confident assurance htat she can serve them well. A record of nine continuous years of teaching in the schools of one city is not often earned by a teacher, but this is what Mrs. Doe has gained in Red Lake Falls, teaching on a permanent certificate, and her work shows for itself. Mrs. Doe is the type of lady that will make an excellent officer. Active and energetic, she will attend to her duties in a manner that will leave no room for criticism, and The Gazette looks to see her chosen to fill the office for several years to come. Mrs. Doe will surely be elected on November 8, and the voters should lend their help to make her majority a deservedly flattering one.

Mr. Stevens can go to Washington.

One of the amendments to be voted upon at the coming election does away with the grand jury system if adopted. The grand jury system has been discussed pro and con for a number of years with the result that it is considered the best protection possible against the encroachments of law breakers says the Mapleton Enterprise. Its abolishment would put matters in the hands of one individual, the county attorney, who would be the sole judge whether the case should be prosecuted or not. We would prefer the judgment of twelve men than one and believe the Northfield News strikes pretty near the truth when it says: "It is a good deal easier for corporations to buy one county attorney than to purchase twelve jurors."

Thomas Germo, the Republican candidate for County Attorney, is winding up his campaign in a blaze of glory, and his friends expect to see him come under the wire with a nice majority. Tom is well known everywhere in the county, and with his well-known ability and integrity will conduct the affairs of the office in a creditable manner. He has ever advocated the doctrines of Republicanism, and is making friends and votes for the party in his speeches throughout the county. Nothing can be said that is not already known to be a fact, and when in possession of every qualification for an office a candidate certainly deserves the support of his party workers. In advocating Mr. Germo's election, The Gazette knows it is supporting a worthy man, and Republicans can rest assured of this fact in voting on November 8.

We expect a good deal more from Dunn in the governor's chair than we would from Johnson. Dunn has some ideas on taxation and has done more to put those ideas into operation when he was auditor than any other man in office in the state at any other time. And whatever may be said about Dunn, he is a man who does things, says the Kenyon Leader. He is committed to the execution of a platform of principles which are the sentiments of the progressive party of the state, the same principles that Van Sant stands upon and has been carrying out. The same interests that have always opposed Van Sant are now opposing Dunn. Those who believe the platform and principles of the Republican party are wrong will be expected to and should vote for the Democratic nominee for governor. But Republicans should not be carried away by prejudice. Voters should exercise sober judgment and vote for principle.

COURT MILL GRINDING

Judge Watts On the Bench For the October Term of Red Lake County District Court.—Large Calendar.

The October term of the District Court for Red Lake county convened at the court room Monday with Judge William Watts on the bench and after the preliminary work got down to business immediately. On account of the busy fall and campaign work being on it is thought that court will not be in session any longer than Friday or Saturday and that the present term will be continued until the latter part of November. The calendar is an exceptionally long one and at least two weeks would be required to finish the work, and in order that the farmers and politicians may "make hay" during the next ten days without interference, Judge Watts decided to postpone the session until late in November.

A brief resume of the cases taken up so far is given below:

Morin & Piquette vs. M. A. Schjeldrup will be tried by the court.

S. A. Swanson and J. P. Jacobson vs. Fritze Kortke.—Passed.

J. N. Sorenson, et. al., vs. A. M. Hanson, stipulated to be tried in chambers on ten days' notice.

John H. Canfield vs. Salem Mageau and Henry Johnson, stricken from the calendar.

Kate Harris vs. Chas. A. Hallas, passed.

Oliver Blackwells vs. J. K. O. Sherwood, continued by court.

Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls vs. John Grady, passed.

Matt Skala vs. Fred Schultz, passed.

Julienne Marcil vs. Donat Lambert, defendant gives notice of motion for judgment on pleadings.

Hoken Johnson and Walter Johnson vs. Crookston Lumber Co., suit for injuries received by said Walter Johnson at the St. Hilaire mill, jury awarded $150.00 to Hoken Johnson and $800. damages to Walter Johnson.

Paul Rieck vs. John Alstadt, passed.

Wm. Findeised vs. Dan Liunihau passed.

Gunhild Johnson vs. Bergit Johnson, passed.

Bertha Rapp vs. First State Bank of St. Hilaire, jury is out at time of going to press.

Bertha Rapp vs. Oscar F. Post, court held after trial that there was not sufficient evidence to sustain claim of marriage and dismissed the case. This was an appeal from the probate court in which said Bertha Peterson attempted to prove herself the wife of the late Chas. G. Rapp by common law marriage, in order to secure the property left by Mr. Rapp. The case attracted considerable attention, but it was never figured but what the outcome would be just what it was.

The school district cases were set for trial Nov. 29 and 30. This is the case of several free holders vs. the Board of County Commissioners appealing from the order establishing school district No. 23.

The breach of promise case of Francis Sherman vs. James Connaughty was tried this morning but the jury in the case has not yet brought in a verdict.

A number of other cases were passed and entered until November, when the session promises to be long and interesting.

The grand jury has been in session several days, but nothing important has yet developed.

JOHN LIND TALKS.

Former Governor Makes Nice Speech Tuesday Evening.

Former governor John Lind spoke at the Metropolitan opera house here Tuesday evening to one of the largest crowds that ever gathered in Red Lake Falls, and his talk was listened to with much enthusiasm by the crowd.

He devoted a greater portion of his speech to national issues, and had he not been advertised to speak in behalf of the Democratic ticket, it is questionable if the people would have known he was a Democrat. His speech was marked with many expressions of loyal Americanism, and he paid a glowing tribute to President Roosevelt, who will soon be chosen to again be the nation's chief executive.

Mr. Lind's personality is such that one cannot help being impressed with his sincerity, and while he did stick entirely to facts, nevertheless he can be given credit for making a flowery and pleasing talk.

He also devoted a few moments to the state ticket and his plea was to the Republicans to forsake their own ticket and vote for Johnson for governor—but he failed to show any reason why they should do this or in what way John A. Johnson had earned recognition at the hands of the people of Minnesota. He promised to have his speech criticizing R. C. Dunn—a speech dictated by the Democratic campaign committee, by the way—printed in a local paper, but did not hardly have the nerve to tell the people anything against Mr. Dunn or his brilliant record while state auditor. Mr. Lind has known Bob Dunn too long and too well to give voice to any disparagement of his career as a public man and his talk here certainly did not show that he is making votes against Dunn.

John E. King read a speech in introducing Mr. Lind that was very good and he received liberal applause at its conclusion. Candidates Jeffers and Hanson also talked to the voters and both made good impressions. The meeting was a success as far as good speaking went, but as a Democratic vote maker it tumbled several feet short of the mark.

Better than Pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. They not only move the bowel but improve the appetite and aid the digestion. For sale at 25 cents per bottle by Schreiter's Drug Store.

Good Health to the Children

Children especially are fond of dainties, and the housekeeper must look carefully to their food.

As good cake can be made only with good eggs, so also a cake that is healthful as well as dainty must be raised with a pure and perfect baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable in the preparation of the highest quality of food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., and what is more important, renders the food wholesome and agreeable to young and old.

John E. King, James E. Ford and Frank Jeffers drove to Wylie Tuesday and took the train for Thief River Falls where they listened to Hon. John Lind in the afternoon, accompanying him here in the evening for his speech at the Metropolitan.

K. J. Weeks, the Republican candidate for Register of Deeds spent several days here this waek, doing jury duty and campaigning. Mr. Weeks has covered the county quite thoroughly in his solicitation of the support of the people, and feels certain that he will move to Red Lake Falls to take up the duties of the Register's office January 1st.

Thief River Press: In all probability the work of removing the Great Northern depot to its new up town site will be begun next Monday. The contract for removal has not yet been let but it is understood that a Crookston firm stands the best show of getting the work. The structure will be moved in two parts and the force will remain in the building during the journey. It was thought that perhaps the whole depot would he loaded on flat cars but there is little likelihood of any other method than that usually employed being used, and several days at least will be consumed by the trip.

Crookston Journal: Married at Red Lake Falls, by Justice Toupin, Neil Demer, of this city, to Mrs, Mary A. Twing, of St. Hilaire, on Monday, October 17th. Mr. Demer is a well known and popular employe of the Crookston Lumher company and the bride has been a resident of St. Hilaire for the past ten years and is well liked by everyone. The Journal in company with the many friends of happy couple wishes them a "long life and a happy one."

Crookston Journal: E. J. Keating has returned from his business trip to the Falls which has required his time for a day or two. Business is good all through the country and he has closed several deals for musical instruments. Farmers are willing to talk having more leisure and many of them will invest in holiday gifts for their families of pianos and organs. Red Lake Falls is thriving this fall according to Mr. Keating's report and everything looks prosperous there Merchants are husy all of ths time and farmers have been disposlag of their grain at good prices and feel satisfied with the hard year's work they have put in. The general air of prosperity that reigns throngh the country is particularly in evidsnce in Red Lake Falls.

Ned indulged in a couple of hunting expeditions while here and carried home a beautiful specimen of Canadian goose to show the people of St. Paul that it paid to visit the great Red River Valley.

John L. Finke, the independent candidate for county treasurer, spent a couple of days in Red Lake Falls this week, soliciting votes. Mr. Finke hopes to get a large vote from this end of the county, hut the many friends and admirers of the Republican candidate, Ovide Moreau, will see that he don't get what he is looking for.

The adjuster for the Hartford, Conneticut, Iosurance company was a visitor here Monday of this week, and settled with P. N. Bourdon for the loss recently suffered by the burning of his house. The settlement made was highly satisfactory to all parties concerned and Mr. Bourdon is very emphatic in his praise of the excellent treatment he received at the hands of the company. He says that he found the adjuster a man of the finest type and inclined towards nothing but fairness and honesty. The company is represented here by A. P. Toupin, who wrote Mr. Bourdon's policy.

At the village council meeteng Monday evening Wm. Lennon, well known to Crookston people, was appointed president of the village council which office hears the local dignity of mayor. Mr. Lennon is erecting the finest residence in town and proposes to make this his future home. The coming winter he will get out a large lot of cedar poles, ties and posts, which will be shipped to market next season.—Crookston Daily Journal's Kelliher correspondent.

Every voter in Red Lake county should make it a point to hear Prof. Caton and Hon, W. H. Savary at the Metropolitan opera house Friday evening. Mr. Caton will speak in English and Mr. Savary will address the French voters. While Prof. Caton is unknown to the people here it can he said that he is one of the finest orators in the state, and his talk on state issues promises to he one of the finest of ths campaign. Mr. Savary is so well known in Red Lake county that it is needless to tell the people how good he is, as everyone who has ever heard him knows that he is one of the most forcible and eloquent speakers in the country today. The French voters should make a special effort to get out and hear Savary.

By a new order received from Washington, the postoffices throughout the country are to have a system of receiving certain kinds of third and fourth class matter, without the use of stamps. If any merchant or other person has two thousand or more identical pieces of matter that he wishes to send through the mail at once, he may avoid the trouble of stamping each individual piece. He must first apply for permission at the postoffice to send the mail in this way and if he is found to he a fit person to enjoy this priveledge, after use of a considerable amount of red tape, ha will receive a permit thus to mail articles. To secure this priveledge a special wrapper will have to ha used. In the upper right-hand cerner the class, the amount of money paid, the words "Paid in Money" and the permi nnmber are to he printed.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF EXPIRATION OF REDEMPTION.

Office of County Auditor,
County of Red Lake,
State of Minnesota.

To Peter A. Conture.

You are hereby notified that the following described piece or parcel of land, situated in the County of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, and known and described as follows, to-wit: Lot number twenty (20) in Block Eleven (11) of Champagne & Dow's Addition to Red Lake Falls, is now assessed in your name; that on the ninth day of May, A. D. 1900, at a sale of land pursuant to the real estate tax judgment duly given and made in and by the District Court in and for said County of Red Lake, on the twenty-first day of March, A. D 1900, in proceedings to enforce the payment of taxes delinquent upon real estate for the year A. D. 1898, for said County of Red Lake, the above described piece or parcel of land was duly offered for sale, and no one bidding upon said offer for an amount equal to that for which said piece or parcel was subject to be sold, to wit, the sum of Four Dollars, the same was duly bid in for the State of Minnesota for said sum; that thereafter, and on the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1901, the said piece or parcel of land being still unredeemed from said sale, the same and all the rights of said State therein under said sale was duly assigned and conveyed by the County Auditor of said County of Red Lake for the sum of Four Dollars and Forty-eight Cents duly paid in to the County Treasurer of said County, said sum being the amount for which the same was bid in to the State as aforesaid, with interest according to law, and all taxes which became delinquent subsequent to said sale, with interest, penalties and costs according to law; that the certificates of conveyance for said piece or parcel of land executed and delivered by said County Auditor upon said assignment of the rights of said State acquired under said sale has been presented to me at my office by the holder thereof for the purpose of having notice of expiration of redemption from said sale given and served; that the amount required to redeem said piece or parcel of land from said sale at the date of this notice, exclusive of the costs to accrue upon this notice, is the sum of Thirty Dollars and Sixty-eight cents (said sum being the amount paid by said holder of said certificate upon said assignment from said State and interest thereon according to law, delinquent taxes accruing subsequent to said sale paid by him, with interest, penalties and costs according to law, and all unpaid delinquent taxes, with interest, penalties and costs accruing subsequent to said sale); and that the time for redemption of said piece or parcel of land from said sale will expire sixty (60) days after the service of this notice and proof of said service has been filed in my office.

Witness my hand and seal of office this eighth day of October, A. D. 1904.

JAMES E. FORD,
(Official Seal) County Auditor
Red Lake County, Minnesota.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Adam Zeh and Gertrude Zeh, his wife, Mortgagors, to G. Vandertuuk, Mortgagee, bearing date the first day of July, 1902, and with power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of July 1902, at 3:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 19 of Mortgages, on page 488, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof.

And whereas, said Mortgage contains a clause providing that if any installment of the debt secured thereby is not paid when due, that the whole sum secured thereby shall become due and payable at once; and whereas, by reason of said clause there is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice the sum of $61.14; and whereas, said Mortgage contains a clause providing that if the party of the first part shall fail to make payment of interest due upon a certain prior Mortgage upon the land described in said Mortgage, that then the party of the second part may pay such interest and have a lien therefor upon said premises under this Mortgage; and whereas, pursuant to said clause, and the party of the first part having made default in the payment thereof, party of the second part has paid such interest, amounting, with interest, to the sum of $136.17, making the total amount due under the terms of the said Mortgage $197.31.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz:

The east half of the southwest quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter of section thirty in township one hundred fifty-one of range forty-two, in Red Lake county and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Red Lake county at the front door of the Court House. In the city of Red Lake Falls in said county and State, on the Fourth day of November, 1904, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt amounting to $197.31, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five dollars Attorney's fees, as provided in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., September 22nd, 1904.

G. VANDERTUUK,
Mortgagee.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old-fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough. Any child will take it. It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size 75c. The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. PROPOSED Amendments TO THE Constitution OF MINNESOTA.

Hon. Peter E. Hanson, Secretary of State—Sir: Pursuant to Chapter 157 of the General Laws of 1887 I herewith file in your office synopses of Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, as proposed by the General Laws of the State of Minnesota enacted at the General Session of the Legislature in 1903, and an act involving the taxation of railroad property, being Chapter 253, General Laws 1903, to be submitted to the voters of the state for adoption or rejection at the next general election.

Yours respectfully,
W. J. DONAHOWER,
Attorney General.

Synopsis of Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota Proposed by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota at the General Session in 1903, as Well as a Synopsis of Chapter 253 of the General Laws of 1903 Proposing an Increase of Gross Earnings Tax Upon Railroad Property:

I.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 32 (a) of Article 4 of the Constitution, the Legislature, by an act approved April 18th, 1903, known as Chapter 253 of the General Laws of 1903, present to the electors of the state for rejection or approval the following, to wit:

Section 1. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railway situated within, or partly within, this state, shall during the year 1905, and annually thereafter pay into the treasury of this state in lieu of all taxes and assessments upon all property within this state, owned or operated for railway purposes by such company, including equipment, appurtenances, appendages and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal to four (4) per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state; and the annual payment of such sum shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property and franchises so taxed. The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold, or conveyed, as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or recognized.

Sec. 2. The term "the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state," as used in section 1 of this act, is hereby declared and shall be construed to mean, all earnings on business beginning and ending within this state, and a proportion, based upon the proportion of the mileage within the state to the entire mileage over which such business is done, of earnings on all interstate business passing through, into or out of the state.

Sec. 3. All acts and parts of acts not inconsistent herewith regulating the payment, collection, time of payment, enforcement or reports involving the amount of taxes upon the gross earnings of railroad companies within this state, or providing penalties for the non-payment of such taxes, are hereby made applicable to this act so far as may be; and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. Upon failure to pay the amount of such taxes legally due upon the date heretofore provided by law for the payment thereof, in addition to existing remedies, collection may be enforced in a civil action brought in the name of the State of Minnesota in the district court of any county.

Sec. 5. Before any railroad company shall be heard to contest or continue to contest the validity of this act or any part thereof, such railroad company shall as a condition precedent thereto, pay into the treasury of the State of Minnesota, the amount of taxes due or payable from such railroad company under the existing tax laws of this state applicable to such company.

Sec. 6. This act shall be submitted to the people of this state for their approval or rejection at the next general election for the year 1904. . . . (The omitted provisions refer to the method of printing the ballot and submitting this act for ratification.)

This act provides for an increase in the amount of taxes collected by the state upon the property of the railroads situated within the state from three per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of railways within the state to a sum equal to four per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such lines of railway within the state. The annual payment of such sum shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property so taxed. The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain as heretofore exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed, as provided in said acts where such grants were recognized.

Provision is made in this act whereby the disputed and unpaid taxes on the gross earnings of any railway company within the state may be collected by a civil action brought in the name of the State of Minnesota in any county thereof. The right to maintain such civil action is in addition to existing remedies for the collection of the per centum tax upon the gross earnings of railroads within the state. The existing remedy which the State of Minnesota may use in enforcing the payment by any railroad company within the state of any disputed and unpaid taxes upon its gross earnings, is by destraint of its movable property by the State Treasurer, and sale of sufficient thereof to satisfy the state's claim. This new method of enforcing the collection of such taxes, proposed by this amendment, will, if adopted, enable the state to secure a speedy and direct judicial determination of the liability of any such railway company for disputed and unpaid items of gross earnings taxes.

Under the terms of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota this act of the legislature must be submitted to the legal voters of the state, and will become operative if adopted by a majority of the electors voting at the next general election.

II.

By an act of the legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved March 3rd, 1903, known as Chapter 25 of the General Laws of Minnesota of 1903, the same being House File No. 4, it is proposed to amend Section 6 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

The existing provision of the Constitution, which is here sought to be amended, reads as follows:

"Sec. 6. The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the purchase of bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the issue of which the same in part would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed seven per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five (5) years, nor for a longer period than twenty (20) years; and no change of the town, school district, village, city or county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing the bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

It is proposed by said Chapter 25 of the General Laws of 1903 to amend said Section 6 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 6. The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed fifteen (15) per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five (5) years, nor for a longer period than twenty (20) years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of the issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

The existing constitution provides that the permanent school and university fund of the State of Minnesota may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village, when the entire issue of which the proposed forms a part will not make the indebtedness of such county, school district, city, town or village exceed seven per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property in such county, school district, city, town or village. The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds of the state in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of the State of Minnesota when the entire issue, of which the proposed loan is a part, will not make the indebtedness of any such county, school district, city, town or village exceed fifteen per cent of the assessed valuation.

III.

By an act of the legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved April 18, 1903, known as chapter 269 of the General Laws of 1903, the same being Senate File 173, it is proposed to amend section 7 of article 1 of the constitution of the State of Minnesota.

The section as now existing reads as follows:

Sec. 7. "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army or navy, or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger; and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require."

It is proposed, by said act, to amend said Section 7 so as to read as follows:

Sec. 7. "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require."

The effect of this amendment, if adopted, will be to give the legislature the power to determine the manner and form of charging persons with the commission of criminal acts. As the constitution now reads, the procedure by which a person is held to answer for a criminal offense is by presentment or indictment of a grand jury or by criminal warrant issued by a justice of the peace. In place of such presentment or indictment of a grand jury, or a warrant issued by a justice of the peace, it is proposed to substitute any procedure which the legislature may deem due process of law. In other words, the legislature will have the power to provide a criminal procedure in conformity with the rights guaranteed by the fundamental law, by which a person shall be held to account for a criminal offense. Such procedure must conform with the requirements of what is due process of law under the Constitution of the United States and the State of Minnesota. The proposed amendment may be made the basis for an act of the legislature authorizing the arrest and prosecution of persons on an information issued by a county attorney charging the commission of a criminal act. The existing Constitution establishes specifically the manner and form of holding a person to answer for a criminal offense. If the proposed constitutional amendment is adopted the legislature may then, within proper constitutional limits, adopt a new method of procedure.

Attorney General.

DRAINAGE OF SWAMP LANDS

R. C. Dunn Strongly Favors Extensive Work Being Done and John A. Johnson Opposed It.

R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, has taken a firm stand in favor of the drainage of swamp lands. It is no new position for Mr. Dunn, for as far back as 1889, when he was in the legislature and the question first arose, Mr. Dunn was strongly in favor of the proposition for the drainage of swamp land and secured the state and other aid for that purpose. In a speech delivered by Mr. Dunn at West Duluth on Aug. 26, 1904, Mr. Dunn said: "All of Northern Minnesota and Duluth in particular is deeply interested in the reclamation of the hundreds of thousands of acres of swamp lands owned by the state. The original purpose of the grant by congress was for reclaiming these lands. Our legislature seemed to think that aiding in the construction of railroads was a compliance with the terms of the grant, for about three million acres have been diverted to that purpose. By virtue of the constitutional amendment, adopted in 1881, the proceeds of the sales of swamp lands remaining or that may hereafter accrue to the state are devoted to the educational and charitable institutions. One small tract of swamp land containing about thirty-six acres will swell the state's institutions fund, it is estimated, by half a million dollars. That tract is located in St. Louis county, and it was owing to the initiatory steps taken by me that it was secured to the state.

"The state could well afford to spend large sums annually in reclaiming its swamp lands, and the increased selling price of the lands thus benefited would amply repay for the outlay; besides, it would materially aid the upbuilding and development of Northern Minnesota. The counties in which these swamp lands are mainly situated are naturally tributary to Duluth."

In strong contrast to the position of Mr. Dunn on this important question of drainage, a question which almost as deeply interests the people of Southern Minnesota as it does those of the northern districts, for the reason that drainage works undertaken to reclaim state swamp lands means that those lands will be enhanced in value, and the state school funds and state institutions funds will be direct beneficiaries of the increased value is the position of John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor. In 1899 when Mr. Johnson was serving in the senate he had an opportunity to vote on a bill (S. F. No. 211) which provided for the creation of a drainage commission and for the drainage of marshy and swamp lands of the state and an appropriation of money to carry out the provisions of the act. There were eight senators who voted against this measure, and among the number was John A. Johnson, the present Democratic candidate for governor. Since becoming a gubernatorial candidate Mr. Johnson evidently sees that he was very much mistaken in 1899, and now he professes to be a convert to the proposition of reclaiming and draining the vast areas of swamp lands in Northern Minnesota. How sincere he may be in this eleventh hour of repentance is left to the voters to judge.

JOHNSON OPPOSED SWAMP LANDS DRAINAGE

In his speech at Minneapolis Mr. Johnson said: "Swamp land drainage is a business proposition, and admits of no argument. * * * It is good policy for the State of Minnesota to convert this class of lands into farms for the Minnesota settler." Mr. Johnson seems to have seen a new light in regard to this matter of drainage, for, on page 594 of the senate journal for 1899, I find this reference to a bill for an act to establish a drainage commission and to provide for the drainage of the marshy and swamp lands of the state and to appropriate money to carry out the provisions of the act (S. F. No. 211), that when the bill was put upon its final passage there were 36 yeas and nays 8, and among those who voted in the negative was John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor. The bill, however, passed the senate, but lacked sufficient votes in the house to become a law.

As a member of the legislature and as state auditor Robert C. Dunn always voted for and championed the cause of drainage of swamp lands in Northern Minnesota. His record is consistent in this matter.

POPULISTS SCARCE.

"The Republican ticket will get more Populist votes in Northern Minnesota this year than two years ago," said Congressman Halvor Steenerson. "The Populists are coming back to the Republican ranks. They are for Roosevelt this year, and will vote for the other Republican nominees."

Baking Economy.

By the use of a perfect baking powder the housewife can derive as much economy as from any other article used in baking and cooking. In selecting a baking powder, therefore, care should be exercised to purchase one that retains its original strength and always remains the same, thus making the food sweet and wholesome and producing sufficient leavening gas to make the baking white.

Very little of this leavening gas is produced by the cheap baking powders making it necessary to use double the quantity ordinarily required to secure results.

Manufacturers of cream of tartar powders ask about twice as much for their goods as that paid for any other baking powder, and food prepared from these cream of tartar powders contain large quantities of Rochelle Salts. Ask your physician what the result would be from the constant dosing of Rochelle Salts.

A baking powder that is recommended by leading physicians and chemists, and which is both perfect in quality and moderate in price, is therefore suggested—one that has been found to be "best by test"—"Calumet." From the standpoints of purity, wholesomeness and economy there is nothing to excel it.

Food prepared with Calumet is absolutely free from Rochelle Salts, Alum, Lime, Ammonia, or any injurious substance.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians gave me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents guaranteed, at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

A BLOW AT THE FARMERS

John A. Johnson Favors a Measure Which Would Reduce the Price of Wheat Ten Cents a Bushel by Admitting Canadian Wheat Into Minnesota.

In his Minneapolis speech John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor, said: "No man should be allowed to represent a Minnesota district in congress who is not pledged to reciprocal trade relations with Canada." In making this declaration Mr. Johnson places himself in direct opposition to Senator Knute Nelson, Congressmen Volstead, McCleary, Steenerson, Buckman and to other congressional representatives from agricultural districts of the state, and it is to be noted that the fight made against McCleary, Volstead and Steenerson particularly was on this very issue of reciprocal trade relations with Canada. These Republican congressmen say very clearly that the establishment of such relations as Mr. Johnson advocates means the admission of vast quantities of Canadian wheat into Minnesota, which would undoubtedly reduce the price of Minnesota wheat. It will be found upon investigation that the price of wheat at St. Vincent, Minn., is from 5 to 8 cents higher than it is at Emerson, Man., just across the international boundary line. Following the lines of the Red River valley railroads it will be found that wheat prices are correspondingly higher than the prices on the Canadian side. If Mr. Johnson is able to influence legislation sufficient to bring about what he seems so ardently to desire, the 50,000,000 bu. surplus of wheat in Manitoba will be thrown in Minnesota, and the inevitable result would be a reduction in the price of wheat in this state as well as in North Dakota. The market price of wheat would be made and controlled in Winnipeg instead of Minneapolis and Duluth, as at present, and the farmers of Minnesota and North Dakota would lose in consequence an average of 10 cents on every bushel of wheat they raise. This is the proposition that Mr. John A. Johnson, the Democratic candidate for governor advocates.

JOHNSON AND THE MERGER

He Bitterly Opposed Governor Van Sant's Action Against the Railroad Merger, and the St. Paul Globe, James J. Hill's Newspaper, Is Now Strongly Supporting Him for Governor.

The St. Paul Globe is owned, body and breeches, by James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway. It was the St. Paul Globe that bolted Bryan in 1896, and did its best to disrupt the Democratic party. The St. Paul Globe is now bitterly attacking R. C. Dunn and suporting John A. Johnson. The consistency of its support of John A. Johnson may be measured by the fact that Johnson is attempting, in his campaign speeches, to borrow credit by endorsing the action of Governor Van Sant in regard to the railway merger, while the Globe has blackguarded Van Sant in its editorial columns for the stand he took in regard to the merger, and, in season and out of season, has been strongly hostile to the anti-merger people. Of course, being owned by James J. Hill, the Globe could do nothing less than sustain the merger, but either it is insincere in suporting Johnson in his feeble imitation of Governor Van Sant or else it knows that Johnson is insincere in the attitude which he assumes upon this question. That John A. Johnson is not sincere in the professions he now makes regarding the railroad merger is evidenced by the fact that in his newspaper, the St. Peter Herald, prior to the time he was mentioned as a Democratic candidate for governor, he contended strongly against the anti-merger action by the state, and attacked Governor Van Sant for causing suit to be brought against the merger in the most bitter terms. This, no doubt, is the secret of the strong support he is now receiving from James J. Hill's newspaper, the St. Paul Globe.

He is at present visiting at the St. Louis Exposition, and will proceed directly home from there. Mr. Hunt has had a very pleasant outing and will be royally welcomed home by the people of Red Lake Falls.

Miss Mollie Allard resigned her position at Persons' confectionary yesterday and left this morning for a visit of several days with her sister at Grand Forks. On her return she will enter the employ of Theo. LaBissoniere, as saleslady in the dry goods department of the Big Store.

James E. Ford, John E. King, S. A. Swanson, C. F. Johnson and W. A. McIntyre went down to Crookston last evening and attended the big Democratic rally. John A. Johnson, the nominee for governor, was the principle attraction and several lesser lights also participated. A good time is reported.

Chas. Hallas, of Poplar River township, an old friend of the writer, has been in town this week attending to matters at this session of the district court, and serving as a juror. Charley moved here from Nobles county a few years back and has been very successful since coming to the Valley. The Gazette was favored with a pleasant call.

Bangs & Co. advertise that their great closing out sale will be continued another week and the people of this part of the county are again reminded that bargains galore await them there. Reductions from 10 to 50 per cent are given on every article in the stock and the public cannot afford to pass up the attractive offers.

Wm. Erb came in from his claim north of Equality Monday and has spent the week here attending to business matters. Mr. Erb bought a quarter on the reservation at the sale early in the summer, for $4 per acre, and says that he would not take $10 per acre for it now. The land is as good as any in the county, and Erb looks forward to the time when he will have one of the finest farms in Valley.

P. K. Olson, one of Plummer's hustling business men, was in town a couple of days this week attending to business matters. Pete has recently started a dray line at the new town which he is hiring conducted while he attends to his other business interests, and reports that he is receiving a good patronage. Red Lake Falls people will be pleased to hear of Pete's success at the new Soo town, and will hope that it may continue for all time to come.

On account of the many events the coming ten days, it has been decided to postpone the first band concert until early in November, when the opening event of the winter concert season will take place, and it is likely that two concerts will be given in that month in order to make up the extra date. The band has received an elegant lot of new music for use this winter and the concerts promise to be something well worth hearing.

It is reported that upon the completion of the Soo line to Winnipeg a train service will be put on that will equal any in the west. Complete new trains are being prepared, which will include the most modern coaches and elegant sleeping cars, the train to be electric lighted and provided with the very latest improvements that go to make a high class passenger service. The Soo tank and windmill crews are at Plummer erecting the new tanks and pumping station.

Conductor Steve Withey is back on his run again this week, after enjoying a few weeks' vacation. "Old Steve" has so many friends along the line who always look for his few minutes' visit, that if he lays off a week or so he is greatly missed. The Great Northern has many popular fellows on their line, but none that are more highly esteemed by the travelling public and people generally than this same Withey.

Dr. V. Pleth came over from Crookston yesterday, and assisted by Dr. Wilkinson, of this city, performed an operation for appendicitis upon the person of A. O. Davidson. The operation was entirely successful and Mr. Davidson withstood the shock exceptionally well. He has suffered a long time with this troublesome disease and his many friends will be pleased to learn that he has at last found relief and that he will soon be as well as ever.

One of the amusing and queer co-incidents of the St. Joseph's fair the first of the week, developed Tuesday evening when the drawing took place, and the cashiers of our two banks figured in it. Both banks donated articles to the fair to be raffled and when the drawing took place it was found that Cashier Garceau had drawn the article donated by the Merchants Bank, while Cashier Duffy drew the article given by the First State people. It was a queer co-incidence and probably would not occur again in a life-time.

Thief River Press: An injunction has been issued by the District Court restraining the Great Northern railroad from laying the short spur-track across LaBree avenue and through block 62 up to 1st street. This has brought an end to the track laying, but the injunction will probably be overcome by the company putting up a sufficient bond, and going ahead with the work. There is also talk of restraining the removal of the depot to the up town site, although nothing has as yet been done.

Mr. Albert C. Uecke, of the Uecke Land Agency, Cumberland, Wis., has in operation a very unique method of disposing of his land; with every purchase he builds a good house, all complete and ready for occupancy by the settler. Farms can be secured for $5. to $15. per acre on easy terms. Many are taking advantage of this, 250 such houses having been built during the past year. By recent purchase he has acquired 76,000 acres of fine timbered land, 1 to 5 miles from railroad and contracts are already placed for 300 new houses on this tract. See advertisement in another column.

Allie Odett, one of Crookston's rustling real estate men, accompanied by his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Munn and family, of Blue Earth City, spent several days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Mikkelson in this city, Mr. Odett and Mrs. Munn being brother and sister, respectively, of Mrs. Mikkelson. Mr. and Mrs. Munn were on their way home from Great Falls, Montana, where they had been visiting relatives of Mrs. Munn's for some little time, and stopped over here for a few days visit. Mr. Munn is in the real estate business at Blue Earth City, and handles considerable Red Lake county real estate. Their visit was greatly enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Mikkelson.

Sanford Dodge and his company of artists presented Shakespeare's masterpiece, "Macbeth," at the Metropolitan opera house last Saturday evening to a large and appreciative audience, and by a most excellent rendition of this great tragedy sustained his long-since earned reputation as an actor of rare ability and tact. His company this year was composed of the best artists he has ever carried with him, and his leading lady, Miss Louise Marshall, was one of the finest actresses that has ever appeared before a Red Lake Falls audience. Her characterization of Lady Macbeth held the audience spellbound, and was rendered in a manner that had never before been witnessed here. The company as a whole are fine, and Sanford Dodge will be royally welcomed whenever he visits Red Lake Falls.

Vol. 22. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, NOVEMBER 3, 1904 o. 7

For Register of Deeds

Knute J. Weeks, the Republican candidate for Register of Deeds, was born in Mower county in 1866, where he grew up on a farm and received a good common school education, afterwards attending high school, also taking a course in Commercial Law and Book-keeping. Mr. Weeks has been engaged several years in the Real Estate business and land titles and abstracts which makes him an ideal man for the position. He has a life-long history as a Republican and has always been connected with public enterprises and business and has filled city, township, school and society offices with honor. At present he is a member of the City Council in the city of Thief River Falls, also president of the Red Lake County Fair association. No man stands better in any community than Mr. Weeks in his home town. The fact that his opponents at the primaries were two of the best known men in the county, his winning out was a true test of his popularity. To know Mr. Weeks is to like him. He is in every way qualified and will make an obliging and accomodating Register of Deeds, and your vote for him on November 8 is a vote for a man who is in every way deserving of it.

Register of Deeds--K. J. WEEKS X

For County Auditor.

Paul I. D. Ostby, the Republican nominee for County Auditor is a native of Freeborn County, this state, and was born in October, 1876. When old enough Paul entered the common schools and attended regularly for a number of years, after which he went to St. Ansgar, Iowa, and took a three years' course in the college at that city. Returning to his home he engaged in the pursuit of farming, and for several years handled successfully a large farm in Freeborn county. Several years ago he moved to Red Lake county, purchasing a farm in Emardville township, where he is at present residing. He has improved his place rapidly and today owns one of the prettiest homes in that town. Paul has always been active in working for the advancement of his home town, and since coming here has constantly been honored with offices by his people. He has always been a strong Republican, and during his residence in Freeborn county was one of the active members of the county central committee. Mr. Ostby is well qualified to fill the office he seeks, and asks the Republicans to support him at the polls next Tuesday.

Auditor--PAUL I. D. OSTBY.... X

For County Treasurer.

Red Lake County Republicans can go to the polls in November and cast their ballot for one man on the ticket, at least, who has by long and earnest service earned the title to recognition at the hands of the Republicans of the county and who, if elected will fill the office in a manner that will be entirely satisfactory to the people as a whole. That man is Ovide Moreau, Republican candidate for County Treasurer, and a man whose Republicanism has been as unfaltering as the Rock of Gibralter. During the time when Red Lake county was the hot bed of Populism, and when to be a Republican was to acknowledge himself in the hopeless and helpless minority, Ovide Moreau was one of the "fighting few" and in each succeeding campaign put in his time and money in an attempt to get the people to "see the light" and while always the loser, his work, along with the few others of the faithful, slowly but surely showed its results, and today when Red Lake county stands ready to go on record for Roosevelt and Republicanism, Mr. Moreau is asking that the voters recognize his service to the party by electing him to the office to which he aspires. A shrewd and conscientious business man; a man who can competently care for the needs of the people, Mr. Moreau is just the fellow for the place and it should be a matter of pride for every Republican within the confines of the county to go to the polls on November 8th and help make his majority a fitting tribute to the labors he has performed. Vote for Ovide Moreau and by so doing honor one who deserves to be honored.

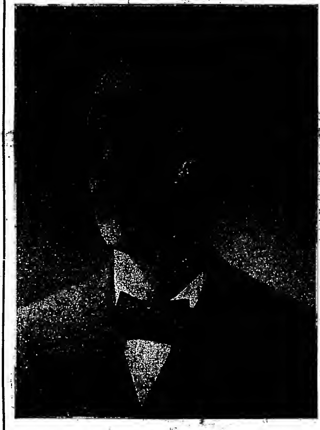
T rasurer--OVIDE MOREAU .. X

For County Attorney.

Thomas Germo, practicing attorney of Red Lake Falls and Republican candidate for the office of County Attorney of Red Lake county, was born of Norwegian parents on a farm in Medbo, Blue Earth county, Minnesota, in 1870. He was educated in the country schools, Rochester Business College, Mankato State Normal schools and at the University of Minnesota, graduating from the law department of the latter institution. His career as a lawyer in Red Lake county has been marked with that success, earnestness of purpose and unimpeachable integrity which has won for him the esteem of our citizens and a constantly growing practice. Loyal to his friends, a congenial companion, no one stands higher in the estimation of our citizens; a man who may be trusted, an able attorney.

County Attorney--THOS. GERMO X

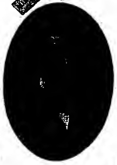
Honest Bob Dunn .....



MINNESOTA'S NEXT GOVERNOR.

Wm. C. L. Demann, candidate for commissioner in the Second district, is one of the successful farmers of this part of the county, and during the time he has served on the Board of Commissioners has at all times attended to the best interests of the people here. Vote to re-elect him next Tuesday, and you will be voting for your own interests.

For Judge of Pro[illegible]te.



Nels K. Anderson, Republican candidate for Judge of Probate, was born in Norway in 1850, and when eleven years old emigrated with his parents to Rock Dell, Olmstead county, Minn., where he lived until 1882, when he moved into the Township of Sanders in Red Lake county and filed on a homestead, where he now lives. During his stay here he has always been with the Republican party and one of its most active members, having been elected as delegate to their conventions almost continuously for the past twenty years in both Polk and Red Lake counties. His services and judgement have been looked for in building up the country in many ways, such as Town Clerk and Justice of the Peace for twenty years; Director in the St. Hilaire Creamery, and President of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company for two years.

Backed by the trust and confidence that his farmer friends around his home have put in him, he now hopes for, and is well worthy of the support of the voters of Red Lake county for the office of Judge of Probate.

Judge of Probate--Nels K. Anderson X

For Superintendent of Schools.

Mrs. J. J. Doe, the Republican nominee for Superintendent of Schools, is a lady whom every voter of the county can take pride in supporting. Mrs. Doe has devoted her life to school work, and for twenty years past has been actively engaged in conducting country and city schools. Her experience in Waseca, LeSueur and Red Lake counties, this state, and Cass and Trail counties, North Dakota, was very successful, and she has some excellent recommendations from officers and citizens wherever she has taught For nine years she has been a teacher in the schools of Red Lake Falls, and has the united support and friendship of every school officer and person in the city, showing that her services have been appreciated, and that she has conducted her work in a manner that reflects credit on herself and the schools of the city. Mrs. Doe has been the victim of a personal attack by her opponent in the present fight, which is indeed regretable as she is in no way open to criticism or censure, and her work as an educator has given such excellent satisfaction that she can make the run and be elected on her merits. Republicans and citizens generally, who desire to see our schools make the greatest possible advancement, should mark their ballots for Mrs. J. J. Doe for Superintendent of Schools. Mrs. Doe holds a first grade certificate in Red Lake Falls, with an average marking of 90 per cent.

Superintendent of Schools-J. J. DOE X

For Sheriff.

Ernest Buse, the Republican candidate for Sheriff, is a man whose life work has been devoted to Minnesota and her institutions, and there are few men who have labored longer or more conscientiously for the success of the state. He was raised on a farm in Goodhue county, this state, and when old enough commenced active work to help advertise the virtues and possibilities of what was then practically an unknown wilderness. In 1862 he enlisted in Uncle Sam's army to fight the Sioux Indians, whose uprisings at that time were bringing dire disaster to the homesteaders, and after serving for some time in that capacity he enlisted in the Union Army and went south to do battle for his country and the flag, and served until the close of the war receiving and honorable discharge in the fall of 1865. He returned to Minnesota and came to the western central part as a pioneer settler, being the first white man to locate at where now stands the pretty city of Fergus Falls. After being in business there for several years Mr. Buse moved to Red Lake County, and was one of the first seven settlers to locate here. He built the first house in Red Lake Falls, and from the day he arrived he set about exploiting various institutions that would tend to bring our County to the notice of the world, and his efforts had as much to do with the settlement of the County as any other element. During the fight for County division, Mr. Buse was one of the first to go after the proposition, and put in lots of time and money advocating what proved to be such a benefit to the people who owned homes in what is now Red Lake County. His atcive Republicanism has been one of his many virtues, and he has labored long and faithfully for the party. Vote for Ernest Buse, and honor a deserving citizen.

Mrs. S. M Sivertson and daughter, Helen, left Tuesday afternoon for Graceville, this state, where they will visit with relatives and friends for several weeks.

Miss Ida Lemieux entertained the "Merry Crew" (just ordinary giddy damsels, by the way) at her home last evening, and one of those "howling" good times was had.

Representative L. C. Simons has been absent from the city this week making speeches at different parts of the county in the interests of the state and national Republican tickets

November 15th at 2 o'clock p. m. O'Brien Bros, the hardware dealers, will give away, free, a $20 heating stove. You can get a chance on it by calling at their store.

A. O. Davidson, who was successfully operated upon for appendicitis last week, is rapidly recovering from the effects of the operation and will be able to be around town again in a few days.

Editor John E. King returned Monday morning from a trip throughout the state in the interests of his campaign for Secretary of State. He spoke at several state points, along with Messrs. Johnson and Winston.

Theo. LaBissoniere drove down to Crookston Saturday afternoon to attend to some business matters. He returned home Sunday, accompanied by Pat Martin, who visited here a few days.

Ralph E. Wyer expects to go to the cities the first part of next week to spend ten days or more with his parents at Excelsior. He will also take in the Wisconsin Minnesota football game at Minneapolis a week from Saturday.

If the Gazette is mostly politics this week, the reader can console himself with the idea that this is the last gun of the campaign, and that from now on something besides the autobiography of John Jones, etc., will be found in the columns of the local papers. As these harvests only come once in two years, however, we feel that the readers will understand conditions and bear with us until it ends

Mrs. Georgianna Marchand has decided to open a private hospital for the convenience of the people of Red Lake Falls and vicinity, and will be prepared shortly to receive patients and guarantee careful and competent care. The doctors of the city have been urging Mrs. Marchand to take this step to provide competent hospital quarters and it is upon their advice and solicitation that she has decided to do so. Mrs. Marchand is one of the finest nurses in the Valley and her hospital will undoubtedly prove a successful venture.

Prof. and Mrs. E. W. Chamberlain and Ralph E. Wyer entertained the members of the high school football team and a few others at a banquet at the Chamberlain home last Saturday evening. The tables were very prettily decorated for the occasion and the elaborate dinner was served in several courses, to each of which ample justice was done by the guests. After the boys had filled themselves up with the good things provided, speeches were made, Prof. Chamberlain, W. A. McIntyre, R. E. Wyer and several others talking upon the principle of football and what it teaches. The evening was spent most enjoyably and the guests departed feeling that they had been entertained in a manner fit for a king.

COURT ADJOURNS.

Judge Watts Continues Cases Until November 21.

On account of the campaign and rush of fall business, the October term of the District Court which convened here Monday of last week was postponed until November 21, at which time the remaining cases on the calendar will be taken up and disposed of.

But few of the cases were tried last week, a partial result of which appears in The Gazette elsewhere, and those that were left will come up at the November session.

The calendar was an unusually long one, and the work in November promises to consume a week or more.

GAMBEL WINS CASE.

Jury Found Thief River Doctor Innocent of Charge.

The case entitled Koeing, vs. Gambla was tried at the district court here last Friday and Saturday and the jury, after being out thirty-five minutes Saturday, rendered a verdict for the defendant, Dr. Gambell. This closes a case which has attracted much attention throughout this territory and the verdict is a great victory for Attorney W. E. Rowe, of Crookston, who represented the defendant, Dr. Gambell, in the action.

In the year 1903 the plaintiff, Max Koeing, suffered a fracture of the right arm, breaking the radius and dislocating the ulna of the same member. He secured the professional services of Dr. Gambell, of Thief River Falls, who set the fracture and treated the injured member. Later, Koeing instigated suit for $5,000 damages, alleging among other things, malpractice and failure to properly set the fracture. There was much expert testimony introduced and a world of evidence submitted, pro and con, Attornay W. E. Rowe, of Crookston, acting for the defense of Gambell and Attorneys Boughton, of this city, and Mabey, of Thief River conducting the prosecution for the plaintiff. Among the physicians who were present from abroad were Drs. Holte and Pleth and Dr. Grundy, of Thief River Falls. The case has been keenly watched by attorneys and physicians as an important precedent would have been established had the case been decided in favor of the plaintiff.

A Farewell Party.

On Hallowe'en night the "Daley Sewing Circle" gave a farewell party to one of their members, Miss Annie Rodgers, who will soon leave Red Lake Falls. The party was opened by a jack-o-lantern procession from the club room at the residence of Ovide Emard to a large bonfire near by, upon which each girl thru a small bundle of fagots and told a story while the fagots were burning. As soon as they were burned the next girl thru her bundle of fagots and continued her story and so on until the fagots were all burned. Next they tried to peep into the future and find which of their two little girl friends they liked best, would prove the true friend and which the fickle one, by means of two lighted candles named for the said little friends and carried to an open door, the one which burned the longer was the true friend. The good old game of "snap dragon" was also played with many small shrieks of fear, both real and pertended, of getting burned fingers in their efforts to get the lucky raisin out of the blue flames which portended exceptionally good luck to the fortunate one. The lucky one proved to be Miss Florence Hennemuth. Ghost stories were told in a highly thrilling manner to the suitable accompaniment of burning salt and alcohol in a dark room which gave the most ghostly aspect to the awe-struck faces of the assembled party. Bobbing for apples was of course indulged in and the most laughable feature of the evening was the eating of a pop corn ball, suspended from the arch way, with hands tied behind the back. An offer was made to show each young lady the face of her future husband. Of course it was accepted with much unbelief. They were led to another room and each shown her own face in a glass. They complained they saw nothing but their own face. Never mind it will be your husband's face when you are married, was the true answer. Contributed.

INDIANS DO DAMAGE.

Drunken Red Skins Wreck Joseph Jerome's Store at Batlle River.

Kelliher Journal: The Indians at Red Lake recently had a pay day, and in accordance with their general custom proceeded to dispose of it as rapidly as possibly, and endeavor to lick up all the liquor in sight.

Thinking that the reservation was too small for such important characters as themselves, a large crowd of bucks and squaws invaded the saloon of Wm. Bulman on Battle River Wednesday and proceeded to load up with the bug juice dispensed at that place, and soon each had accumulated a jag of goodly proportions.

The energy that had been stored up since their last jag could not be quieted in a peacable manner and they must needs find some manner in which to dispose of it.

Five young bucks, more brave and perhaps more ingenius and vengeful than the rest, patched up some imaginary wrong done them by Jos. Jerome, and proceeded to his store about 11 o'clock p. m. where they smashed all the windows in the store and residence with boards and poles. They also smashed the show-case in the store and inflicted much damage to the goods inside. The doors were securely fastened and this saved further damage to the interior of houses and possibly to the occupants.

Mr. Jerome was aroused from his sleep by the noise and at length succeeded in persuading the Indians to go home, but not until property to the extent of several hundred dollars had been destroyed. Mrs. Jerome received a very bad scare. She was standing in the doorway, when one of the Indians struck at her with a large board, and only the screen door between her and the Indian saved her from serious injury if not from death.

Yesterday morning, the principle actors in the affair apoligized and promised to pay for the damages. What action Mr. Jerome will take is not known.

BADGER WINS FIGHT.

Village of Roseau Loses In Appeal to Supreme Court.

By decision of the supreme court handed down Saturday by Judge Charles L. Lewis, the judgment of the lower court of Roseau county is affirmed and the county commissioners of that county are required to proceed with the machinery of the law invoked in county seat removal petitions.

Arne H. Foss, representing the village of Roseau, the present county seat, appealed from a district court decision which declared that it is not necessary that affidavits to a petition to the county board for the county seat removal should include a statement that the parties executing the affidavits are signers of the petition. A second point from which he appealed was a ruling that official publications of the intention to circulate the petition was not required in more than one paper in the county.

Badger is fighting for the removal of the county seat of Roseau county from Roseau, the present county seat, and the appeal of the highest court of the state was an incident in the bitter fight. The syllabus follows:

Arne H. Foss, appellant, vs. Board of County Commissioners of Roseau County, Minnesota, respondents.

Syllabus—It is not a jurisdiction prerequisite that the affidavits attached to a petition for the removal of a county seat (section 647, General Laws 1894), include a statement that the parties executing the affidavits are signers of the petition.

Publication of the notice of intention to circulate such petition is required in but one legal newspaper in the county.

Judgment affirmed. —Lewis, J.

WHY SHOULD YOU, VOTER?

During the whole campaign in the state of Minnesota, the Democratic newspapers and orators and the disgruntled Republicans have made a strong plea for the people to vote for the Democratic nominee for governor, John A. Johnson, next Tuesday, but in every instance they have failed to tell you why you should do this.

There has not been one argument advanced showing wherein John A. Johnson has earned the highest gift within the people of the state of Minnesota and his record has never been such as to warrant the assertion that he is qualified to fill the governor's chair to the credit of the great state of Minnesota. That he is a good, honest citizen no one can deny but why Republicans should vote for him on these grounds is not just clear. In most states in the union a man must "win the spurs to wear them" and this Mr. Johnson has never done.

Honest "Bob" Dunn, of Princeton, however, has by long and consistent service to the state earned the honors he asks and there is not one valid or sensible reason why the Republicans should not vote for him next Tuesday. A common man, one who has by hard work and honest service risen to a prominent place in the ranks of great men of the state. During his tenure in office as state auditor he was conceded to be the best officer that the state had ever had and it was acknowledged by all that he had earned the next step—that of the governorship.

Republicans who have any interest in the party or its future cannot consistently vote against Mr. Dunn, for by so doing they are rendering a verdict against honesty and ability and giving way to personal feelings rather than party good.

Consider this, Republicans, and when you get your ballot next Tuesday place an X after the name of one of the party who has earned your admiration and support—Honest Bob Dunn, of Princeton.

The editor of the Gary Graphic who was inclined to favor Johnson comes out and says. "Sentiment everywhere is flowing back to Dunn. The lies that have been invented against him have been piled too thick for the people to believe. They have commenced to ask how a man could hold the high office of state auditor for eight years without these things becoming known before. As they investigated, the fabric of falsehood fell to pieces. They found that Iverson vindicated him, that Lind loved him, that his honor was such as no man could besmirch. They found that he had always been respected and praised as no other of the lesser state officers had ever been—until he became a candidate for governor. Then the tax dodgers and bounty seekers and state timber hogs set the mighty power of money into action to blacken the character of a man who had given the best of his life and talents to Minnesota.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. Trial bottles 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by A. L. Reichert.

Better than Pills.

The question has been asked—In what way are Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is—They are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle and so agreeable that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. They not only move the bowel but improve the appetite and aid the digestion. For sale at 25 cents per bottle by Schreiter's Drug Store.

RED LAKE FOR DUNN.

In response to inquiries sent out the other day, The Gazette has received letters from leading men of every township in the county this week, bearing on the gubernatorial situation, and from the outlook in every part of the county Honest Bob Dunn will have a nice majority. Everyone addressed replied promptly, and a majority of them stated plainly that Dunn would be given a big vote in their respective localities. This is as it should be. When auditor of Minnesota Bob Dunn went out of his way on several occasions to accomodate the people of Red Lake county, and they should be glad to reciprocate. Fall in line, voters, and show the state that Red Lake county is loyal.

Don't forget to vote.

A vote for W. C. L. Demann for county commissioner is a vote for the interests of the people of the second district. Remember this when you go to the polls, voter.

Joseph Belair, the Republican candidate for Coroner, will get a large vote next Tuesday, and he deserves it. Joe made a good coroner when he held the office before, and will made a good one this time.

Thomas Germo, the Republican nominee for County Attorney, is winding up his campaign and expects to wipe out his defeat of two years ago by a substantial majority. Tom is an ardent Republican and a first-class fellow and if chosen to the office to which he aspires will use his best efforts to give the people a good administration.

It is the opinion of the public that N. W. Tarrant will have a nice majority of the votes cast next Tuesday and that he will continue to administer the duties of the office in the same capable manner that he has in the past two years. "Old Nick" is one of the finest fellows in the world and his only fault is that he is a Democrat.

Democratic newspapers and orators lay great stress on the fact that John A. Johnson, their candidate for governor, was born in Minnesota and make that a point why the people should vote for him. There are a whole lot of young men who were born in Minnesota, and they are good citizens too, but in most states other qualifications than that are asked before a man is given the highest office within the gift of the people. Consider this next Tuesday voters.

"Bill" Demann has in the past stood by Red Lake Falls and the people of the second district, They can reciprocate next Tuesday by re-electing him and should do so by all means.

Wm. C. L. Demann has served the people of the second commissioner district in an able manner during his term of office, and deserves a re-election for his efforts in behalf of the district. If a man attends to his official duties in a careful and conservative manner, and is known to be the man for the place, why change for one who has had no experience in that line and is an unknown quantity.

Ernest Buse, the Republican candidate for Sheriff, is deserving of your support next Tuesday and if elected will administer the affairs of the office honestly and capably. He is thoroughly conversant with the needs of the office and pledges himself to carefully look after the people's interests. He is one of the oldest Republicans in the county and deserves the support of his party at the polls.

Ovide Moreau deserves your support at the polls next Tuesday, gentlemen, and by his services to the party of his choice he has earned the honors he asks, Mr. Moreau has all the traits to make a competent and obliging treasurer and it can be depended upon that he will fill the office in a creditable manner. He has conducted a clean campaign and has a great many friends all over the county who will take pleasure in casting their ballot for him next Tuesday.

The proposed amendment to increase the gross earnings tax of railroads to 4 ger cent. is a worthy one and should be given the vote of every tree-holder in the state. Robert C. Dunn, Minnesota's next governor, is the man that advocated this amendment and the voters can rest assured that if he is elected governor next Tuesday that tax reforms in the interests of the common people and against the tax-dodging corporations will be strongly advocated by the chief executive. Vote yes on the amendment and put an X opposite the name of the man who has worked so hard for the extra tax on the railroads.

The Republican party met defeat once in the state of Minnesota at the hands of its own members and in order that a repetition of this state of affairs does not occur again it should be the aim of every loyal Republican to get out and work for Honest Bob Dunn and the Republican state ticket next Tuesday. Because a man can't dictate as to who shall be chosen to go on the ticket is no reason why he should refuse to support the regular nominees of the convention and he should either abide by the decision of the majority of his party or move his bag and baggage into the camp of the enemy. Democrats are expected to vote for John A. Johnson for governor, but a man cannot do so and still claim to be a Republican.

The people of the Fourth commissioner district should see to it that Daniel Shaw is chosen commissioner next Tuesday by a decisive vote. If any man in Thief River Falls was to choose a person to conduct his business for him, it is safe to say that of the two candidates for commissioner in the Fourth district, Mr. Shaw would be the man. Dan has all the traits of a shrewd commissioner and it is safe to predict that if he is chosen this fall he will be continued in the office just as long as he desires it. A man of experience can do a thousand things that a novice would never think of and it is to be expected that Thief River Falls is looking after her interests and will choose the man best qualified to serve the people. Vote for Dan Shaw next Tuesday, fellow citizens of the Fourth district, and you will always be proud of it.

Elsewhere in the Gazette will be found the picture and write-up of Auditor James E. Ford, who has handled the affairs of Red Lake county so well during the past two years and who is again seeking the office at the hands of the voters. Everywhere you go it is the universal opinion that Mr. Ford has made an honest, capable officer and one whom the people have the utmost confidence in. He is a rapid accountant, a good, shrewd business man and a man who any county might be proud of to have for their auditor. The Gazette does not say this to do injury to the Republican nominee but where a man has been tried and proven all that is desired, in justice to him and the people of the county we believe in expressing an honest opinion in regard to the matter, and if Mr. Ford is chosen again we will all know that the affairs of the county will be cared for economically and well.

Mrs. J. J. Doe, Republican candidate for Superintendent of Schools has proven that she is worthy of your support next Tuesday and all that has been said in her favor can be re-iterated time and again. A competent teacher holding excellent certificates, she can fill the office to the utmost satisfaction of all and will devote her whole time to the work. She has taught school all her life on first grade certificates and time after time has been re-elected to the positions she has filled. Remember her, voter, and cast your ballot in favor of the one best qualified to fill the position. If you do this there will be no question but what Mrs. Doe will win by a handsome majority.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. Trial bottles 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by A. L. Reichert.

Mrs E. Ralph, of this city, died at her home here last Friday night, after an illness of over three years with paralysis. Deceased had been a resident here for a number of years, and was loved and respected by the people of the city. Since suffering the first paralytic stroke she has never been able to be around a great deal, although she had enjoyed fairly good health. Early last week she commenced to fail rapidly, and the end came peacefully Friday evening. Deceased leaves four sons and four daughters to mourn her loss, as follows: George A. Ralph, of Crookston, John Ralph, of Manitoba, Joe and Dr. B. B. Ralph, of Kansas City, Mrs. F. E. Duncan, of Kansas City, Mrs. H. E. Nesne, of Crookston, Mrs. F. J. Sprague, of Grand Forks, and Mrs. Chas. N. Bourdon, of this city, all of whom were present except John, Joe and Mrs. Duncan. The funeral was held from the house Monday afternoon, a large crowd of people following the remains to the cemetery east of town.

ORDER FOR HEARING UPON PETITION FOR DETERMINATION OF DESCENT OF LAND.

State of Minnesota, }
County of Red Lake } ss.
In Probate Court.

In the matter of the estate of Owen Owens Deceased:

The petition of Owen Owens having been duly made and filed in this Court, representing among other things that one Owen Owens who resided last prior to his death at County of Bradford in the State of Florida died at said county of Bradford State of Florida on the 13th day of May, 1892, seized of an estate of inheritance in certain lands in the County of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, described in said petition, and that said petitioner has an interest in said lands, and that more than five years have elapsed since the death of said Owen Owens deceased, and that administration has not been granted or had of said estate in this State, and praying that the descent of said lands and of the interest of said petitioner therein be by this Court determined and said lands assigned to such persons as may be entitled thereto by law.

Now, therefore, it is ordered that the said petition be heard at a term of this Court to be held at the Court House, in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county of Red Lake State of Minnesota, on Friday the 18th day of November A. D. 1904, at 10 o'clock A. M.

It is Further Ordered, That notice of said hearing of said petition be given by the publication of this order once in each week for three successive weeks in the Red Lake Falls Gazette a weekly newspaper printed and published in said Red Lake county at Red Lake Falls, Minn.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Adam Zeh and Gertrude Zeh, his wife, Mortgagors, to G. Vandertuuk, Mortgagee, bearing date the first day of July, 1902, and with power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, on the 14th day of July 1902, at 3:30 o'clock p. m., in Book 19 of Mortgages, on page 488, and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof.

And whereas, said Mortgage contains a clause providing that if any installment of the debt secured thereby is not paid when due, that the whole sum secured thereby shall become due and payable at once; and whereas, by reason of said clause there is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice the sum of $61.14; and whereas, said Mortgage contains a clause providing that if the party of the first part shall fail to make payment of interest due upon a certain prior Mortgage upon the land described in said Mortgage, that then the party of the second part may pay such interest and have a lien therefor upon said premises under this Mortgage; and whereas, pursuant to said clause, and the party of the first part having made default in the payment thereof, party of the second part has paid such interest, amounting, with interest, to the sum of $136.17, making the total amount due under the terms of the said Mortgage $197.31.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz:

The east half of the southwest quarter and the north half of the southeast quarter of section thirty in township one hundred fifty-one of range forty-two, in Red Lake county and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Red Lake county at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county and State, on the Fourth day of November, 1904, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt amounting to $197.31, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five dollars Attorney's fees, as provided in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minn., September 22nd, 1904.

NOT A DOLLAR LOST

Nor an Acre of Land by Any Official Act of R. C. Dunn When He Was State Auditor.

In regard to the reports made by Public Examiner Samuel T. Johnson as to the accounts and business of the state auditor's office during the administration of R. C. Dunn, after all is said and done, there is not a word or a charge which has been sustained that shows that the state ever lost one dollar in money or one acre of land through any action of Mr. Dunn; but on the other hand it has been shown beyond dispute that the state gained millions of dollars through the business sagacity with which Mr. Dunn protected its interests; that he collected more money from the sale of state timber during the eight years he held office than was collected in the thirty-one years previous, and that he collected ten times as much from trespassers on state timber lands than ever before collected in the history of the state.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he compelled the big mining companies to pay a fair tax, increasing the amount paid by them from less than $25,000 to $800,000 annually.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he urged the legislature to increase the tax on gross earnings of railroads so as to produce $600,000 annually additional.

◆ ◆ ◆

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he advocated and worked for the taxation of the the same basis as all other property.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor he saved the state bounty for the manufacture of beet sugar.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he advocated the creation of the board of control, but protested against placing the educational institutions under it.

◆ ◆ ◆

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he obtained $500,000 more for state timber than the state obtained in the thirty-one years previous.

When R. C. Dunn, the Republican candidate for governor, was state auditor, he secured for the state board of equalization the power to raise the assessments of corporations.

PROPOSED Amendments TO THE Constitution OF MINNESOTA.

Hon. Peter E. Hanson, Secretary of State—Sir: Pursuant to Chapter 157 of the General Laws of 1887 I herewith file in your office synopses of Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, as proposed by the General Laws of the State of Minnesota enacted at the General Session of the Legislature in 1903, and an act involving the taxation of railroad property, being Chapter 253, General Laws 1903, to be submitted to the voters of the state for adoption or rejection at the next general election.

Yours respectfully,
W. J. DONAHOWER,
Attorney General.

Synopses of Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota Proposed by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota at the General Session in 1903, as Well as a Synopsis of Chapter 253 of the General Laws of 1903 Proposing an Increase of Gross Earnings Tax Upon Railroad Property:

I.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 32 (e) of Article 4 of the Constitution, the Legislature, by an act approved April 18th, 1903, known as Chapter 253 of the General Laws of 1903, present to the electors of the state for rejection or approval the following, to wit:

Section 1. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railway situated within, or partly within, this state, shall during the year 1905, and annually thereafter pay into the treasury of this state in lieu of all taxes and assessments upon all property within this state, owned or operated for railway purposes by such company, including equipment, appurtenances, appendages and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal to four (4) per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state; and the annual payment of such sum shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property and franchises so taxed. The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold, or conveyed, as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or recognized.

Sec. 2. The term "the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state," as used in section 1 of this act, is hereby declared and shall be construed to mean, all earnings on business beginning and ending within this state, and a proportion, based upon the proportion of the mileage within the state to the entire mileage over which such business is done, of earnings on all interstate business passing through, into or out of the state.

Sec. 3. All acts and parts of acts not inconsistent herewith regulating the payment, collection, time of payment, enforcement or reports involving the amount of taxes upon the gross earnings of railroad companies within this state, or providing penalties for the nonpayment of such taxes, are hereby made applicable to this act so far as may be; and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. Upon failure to pay the amount of such taxes legally due upon the date heretofore provided by law for the payment thereof, in addition to existing remedies, collection may be enforced in a civil action brought in the name of the State of Minnesota in the district court of any county.

Sec. 5. Before any railroad company shall be heard to contest or continue to contest the validity of this act or any part thereof, such railroad company shall as a condition precedent thereto, pay into the treasury of the State of Minnesota, the amount of taxes due or payable from such railroad company under the existing tax laws of this state applicable to such company.

Sec. 6. This act shall be submitted to the people of this state for their approval or rejection at the next general election for the year 1904. . . . (The omitted provisions refer to the method of printing the ballot and submitting the act for ratification.)

This act provides for an increase in the amount of taxes collected by the state upon the property of the railroads situated within the state from three per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of railways within the state to a sum equal to four per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such lines of railway within the state. The annual payment of such sum shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property so taxed. The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain as heretofore exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed, as provided in said acts where such grants were recognized.

Provision is made in this act whereby the disputed and unpaid taxes on the gross earnings of any railway company within the state may be collected by a civil action brought in the name of the State of Minnesota in any county thereof. The right to maintain such civil action is in addition to existing remedies for the collection of the per centum tax upon the gross earnings of railroads within the state. The existing remedy which the State of Minnesota may use in enforcing the payment by any railroad company within the state of any disputed and unpaid taxes upon its gross earnings, is by destraint of its movable property by the State Treasurer, and sale of sufficient thereof to satisfy the state's claim. This new method of enforcing the collection of such taxes, proposed by this amendment, will, if adopted, enable the state to secure a speedy and direct judicial determination of the liability of any such railway company for disputed and unpaid items of gross earnings taxes.

Under the terms of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota this act of the legislature must be submitted to the legal voters of the state, and will become operative if adopted by a majority of the electors voting at the next general election.

II.

By an act of the legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved March 3rd, 1903, known as Chapter 25 of the General Laws of Minnesota of 1903, the same being House File No. 4, it is proposed to amend Section 6 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

The existing provision of the Constitution, which is here sought to be amended, reads as follows:

"Sec. 6. The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the purchase of bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the issue of which the same in part would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed seven per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five (5) years, nor for a longer period than twenty (20) years; and no change of the town, school district, village, city or county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing the bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

It is proposed by said Chapter 25 of the General Laws of 1903 to amend said Section 6 of Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 6. The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of this state, but no such investment shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed fifteen (15) per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall such loans or indebtedness be made at a lower rate of interest than three per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five (5) years, nor for a longer period than twenty (20) years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of the issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds."

The existing constitution provides that the permanent school and university fund of the State of Minnesota may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village, when the entire issue of which the proposed forms a part will not make the indebtedness of such county, school district, city, town or village exceed seven per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable real property in such county, school district, city, town or village. The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to authorize the investment of the permanent school and university funds of the state in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town or village of the State of Minnesota when the entire issue, of which the proposed loan is a part, will not make the indebtedness of any such county, school district, city, town or village exceed fifteen per cent of the assessed valuation.

III.

By an act of the legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved April 18, 1903, known as chapter 269 of the General Laws of 1903, the same being Senate File 173, it is proposed to amend section 7 of article 1 of the constitution of the State of Minnesota.

The section as now existing reads as follows:

Sec. 7. "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army or navy, or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger; and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless, when in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require."

It is proposed, by said act, to amend said Section 7 so as to read as follows:

Sec. 7. "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require."

The effect of this amendment, if adopted, will be to give the legislature the power to determine the manner and form of charging persons with the commission of criminal acts. As the constitution now reads, the procedure by which a person is held to answer for a criminal offense is by presentment or indictment of a grand jury or by criminal warrant issued by a justice of the peace. In place of such presentment or indictment of a grand jury, or a warrant issued by a justice of the peace, it is proposed to substitute any procedure which the legislature may deem due process of law. In other words, the legislature will have the power to provide a criminal procedure in conformity with the rights guaranteed by the fundamental law, by which a person shall be held to account for a criminal offense. Such procedure must conform with the requirements of what is due process of law under the Constitution of the United States and the State of Minnesota. The proposed amendment may be made the basis for an act of the legislature authorizing the arrest and prosecution of persons on an information issued by a county attorney charging the commission of a criminal act. The existing Constitution establishes specifically the manner and form of holding a person to answer for a criminal offense. If the proposed constitutional amendment is adopted the legislature may then, within proper constitutional limits, adopt a new method of procedure.

JUST THE MAN FOR GOVERNOR

Senator Knute Nelson Pays a Glowing Tribute to Robert C. Dunn

In His Speech at Madison Lake Minnesota's Senior Senator Urges Dunn's Election.

Terms the Republican Candidate for Governor the Andrew Jackson of Minnesota.

I do not understand that the militant Democracy of this state questions the character, integrity and qualifications of any of our candidates on the state ticket save one, the nominee for governor, against whom their chief attack is made. They have a faint hope—but it is a vanity of vanities—that because of the conflict of candidates in the Republican state convention, and the soreness and disappointment which they fancy resulted therefrom, that they can make such inroads on his vote among the Republicans of this state that they can elect their candidate. There were three candidates for the office of governor before the Republican state convention: Mr. Dunn, Judge Collins and Mr. Eddy, all men of integrity, ability and considerable experience in political affairs. The good character of none of them had ever been questioned before they became candidates for this office, although all of them had been many years in the public service. Because of their good qualities each of them had a multitude of zealous friends who were anxious to secure their promotion. There was enough of closeness in the strength of the leading candidates to breed the usual fervor and strenuousness that prevails in conventions under such circumstances. But one of the three could secure the nomination, and quite naturally many of the friends of the other candidates were disappointed. Such is always the case after a strenuous and exciting convention. But the defeated candidates and their friends are all good Republicans, who have the welfare of the country and their party at heart, and who will not for a moment cherish the idea of putting the administration of our state in the hands of the Democracy. There is no valid ground on which any good, sound Republican can vote against Mr. Dunn.

Dunn and His Record.

Let us briefly for a moment scan the man and his record. He was born in the county of Tyrone, Ireland, in February, 1855, and came from a good Protestant family of the middle class. At the age of seventeen he came to the United States, working first on a farm in Wisconsin. He soon moved to St. Louis, where he learned the printer's trade and wrought at the same until he moved to Princeton, in this state, in 1876, where he founded, and has ever since published and edited, the Princeton Union, one of the spiciest and most interesting and reliable country weeklies in the state. He has always been one of the most energetic and public spirited citizens of his town, and has always had the confidence and good will of his neighbors. He has been clerk of his town for many years; and although not a lawyer, his fellow citizens have had such confidence in his integrity and ability that they have twice chosen him for county attorney. His district has twice sent him to the legislature, and in the legislature he was the pioneer in initiating legislation for the safeguarding and proper sale of our state lands and the timber thereon.

In 1894 he was elected state auditor, and was re-elected four years later. During his eight years' services in that most important office no one questioned his integrity, his energy, and his zeal for the welfare of the state. As auditor he was not only ex efficio land commissioner, and had charge of the care and sale of all the state lands, the timber thereon, and the minerals therein, but he was also the clerk, the bookkeeper and the auditor of all the accounts of the state. Through his office were drawn all drafts on the state treasury. No state money could be drawn for any purpose except upon his warrant. Whoever heard of his issuing an unauthorized or excessive warrant?

Timber Lands.

His success in disposing of our lands and the timber thereon at a high price—higher than before—and thereby increasing our permanent school fund during his term to the extent of four and a half million dollars, was most remarkable, and was noted from time to time in the public press with praise and approval. Whenever he found legislation wanting or insufficient to safeguard the interests of the state, he did not sit idle in dignified apathy, but he went energetically to work to secure the necessary legislation.

It was through his efforts and on his suggestion that the timber trespass law of 1895 was passed. Most of the state timber is in the northern part of the state. This region has until quite recently been almost an unsettled wilderness, where it was difficult to stop or discover trespassers on the public land. The lumbermen were ever on the alert with their army of cruisers and choppers. To follow this army, to keep track of their depredations and to secure the necessary proof, in such an immense wilderness, with a mere handful of men at his command—only four cruisers—was no easy task. It was a struggle of the few against the many.

When all this is taken into account, the surprise is, not that he failed to collect more from these trespassers, but that he succeeded in collecting so much. He has had the same fortune that President Roosevelt has had in his efforts against the trusts. He has encountered the mortal enmity of some of the trespassers. The act of 1895 provided for double or treble damages in case of willful timber trespass. But our supreme court, in the case of the State vs. Shevlin & Carpenter company, has for practical purposes neutralized this law, so that it is now difficult, if not well-nigh impossible, to collect more than actual damages.

Mr. Dunn's Great Work.

Trespassing on the state timber has been going on, more or less, for the last one-third of a century—ever since lumbering began in the northern part of our state. It was more prolific and more easily carried on twenty, twenty-five and thirty years ago than in recent years, for less watchfulness and less care was then in vogue. It is to Mr. Dunn's great credit that while state auditor, during a period of eight years, he collected ten times as much money for timber trespass as had been collected during the thirty years next preceding. It may be that some trespassers were sharp enough to escape him, but the number compared with those who must have escaped in former years was scant indeed. And even if the rise in the value of timber be taken into account, it will be found that Mr. Dunn settled at a much higher rate for the timber taken than any of his predecessors.

A large number of unauthorized timber permits, issued by his predecessor, based upon mere nominal, wholly unreliable and utterly insufficient estimates of timber, and at a price far below the real value, he either entirely cancelled or forced the men who had secured the permits to settle, not on the basis of the quantity and price specified in the permit, but on the basis of the timber actually cut or standing on the ground covered by the permit, and its full market value. Cases of this kind are too numerous to specify in detail on this occasion. While governor, several of these unauthorized permits came under my observation, and I know of my own knowledge that Mr. Dunn when he became auditor disposed of them in the way I have indicated, to the great advantage and profit of the state.

Friend of the Settler.

Mr. Dunn has the gratitude of many poor settlers in the state who, in times of distress, were in default on their payments of interest. Wherever he was satisfied that the state would sustain no loss, and that in more prosperous times the settler living upon and improving his little claim would without a doubt meet all payments of principal and interest, he never declared a forfeiture, never resold the land to some hungry speculator, but gave the settler a chance to preserve and retain his little home.

Mr. Dunn also deserves great credit for the manner in which he succeeded in settling and adjusting the many disputed and controverted railroad land grants. He got one company to accept a conveyance of rather inferior lands, selected by Mr. Biermen, which the company refused to accept during my term as governor. In one case he secured from a company the relinquishment to the state of 70,000 acres of land, to which it laid claim, and a part of which through inadvertence had been conveyed to the company. In another case he procured the correction of an erroneous decree of court, thereby recouping and saving to the state 42,000 acres of land, on which are located three most valuable iron mines.

Gross Earnings Tax.

Mr. Dunn has, for years, favored and advocated, and still favors and advocates, an increase in the gross earnings tax from 3 per cent to 4 per cent. The great iron companies had for years escaped the payment of their due share of taxes. Mr. Dunn was largely instrumental in getting the law amended so as to make them pay their just share. Before the amendment they paid $30,000 per year; last year $300,000. He was also instrumental in securing legislation giving our state board of equalization ampler power to adjust inequalities and discrepancies in assessments.

But I cannot go into further details on this occasion. Mr. Dunn has not only been an efficient and vigilant administrative officer, but has also brought his energy and knowledge of the interests of the state to bear on the legislative department to secure the laws that were necessary for the public good and the welfare of our state. The state has had no listless or indifferent drone in office in him. He was ever alert and vigilant on behalf of the state and its interests, both as legislator and auditor.

"Oh," say some who never mingle much with the rank and file of our common humanity and who are, at least in their own minds, on a loftier pedestal, "Mr. Dunn is not refined; he is rather coarse, and has been known on occasion to take an oath, and on that account ought not to be governor." That a man of refinement, a more fastidious man, is required for this office.

Not a Dignified Mummy.

It is true that Mr. Dunn is not a Chesterfield in his ways. In the ceaseless strenuousness of our modern life the Chesterfields have become obsolete and mere academic quantities. A dignified mummy in the executive chair would no doubt be fine to look upon, but not of much practical use. A man of energy and action, of vigilance and alertness is required in the executive chair. He must keep a vigilant eye on all the varied interests of the state. He must be in touch with the legislature and know how to secure the necessary legislation. He must be able to meet, contend with, and not be over-reached by, all kinds of spoilsmen. He must possess an encyclopedia of knowledge of state affairs and public men. Sometimes, for the good of the state, he must be mild-mannered, argue, and implore, and at other times he must almost assume the attitude of a pugilist, to fend off unconscionable and over-persistent spoilsmen. And such a man, in his texture and make-up, and by training, is Mr. Dunn.

Like most men of action, he is possessed of much nervous energy. He is quick to see, measure and crush a wrong. He has no mercy for quacks of any kind. He has no patience with a falsehood or the falsifier. He is not profane, if at all, for the sake of profanity, but it may be that, like many good and great men of the past, when his ire has been aroused at a wrong or a falsehood, in his righteous indignation he may have pronounced an anathema on the wrong and the falsehood, the wrong-doer and the falsifier. His strong sense of justice may, on such occasions, make him very emphatic, and sometimes there is no emphasis that seems to do such justice to the subject as an oath. Andrew Jackson—Old Hickory—of the same race and blood as Mr. Dunn, was so indignant at nullification and the nullifiers that he swore at them. The American people have long ago justified him that oath. Jackson was not a Chesterfield; he was not a man of much refinement. He was a plain, blunt, fearless man, but measured up in executive energy and ability with more than the average of our early presidents. Such a man, in his chief characteristics is our candidate, Mr. Dunn. The United States was safe, grew and prospered under Andrew Jackson; and Minnesota will be safe, grow and prosper under the administration of Robert C. Dunn.

Auditor James E. Ford, Democratic candidate, for re-election, asks that the voters remember him at the polls next Tuesday, snd assures the people that he will give his whole attention to the work during the next two years, as he has in the past two. Mr. Ford has conducted the office in a splendid manner, and is one of the very best auditors in Minnesota today. He possesses every qualification of a careful, honest official, and it has been his earnest aim to curtail expenses to the county in every conceivable way. Well versed in the laws of the state pertaining to the work of his office, Mr. Ford is always sure that he is right before he makes a move, and during the past two years he has never made a decision that he was forced to amend. In the purchasing of supplies, he has exercised the best of judgment, and if a complete diary of his every official act could be laid before the people, the keenest expert critic would be unable to find an instance where he has not done his duty towards the people of the county. If you are satisfied with the record be has made voter, you can say so at the polls next Tuesday.

N. W. Tarrant, candidate for re-election to the office of Judge of Probate, is one of the best officers in the Northwest and his re-election is an assured fact. Nick has had the right training to fill the office as it should be filled and his administration of the affairs there has been marked with honesty and competency. A popular fellow, a good scholar and well versed in the probate laws Mr. Tarrant is all that could be desired and the people are asked to say so at the polls next Tuesday.

GOOD FOOT BALL GAME.

Grand Forks Wins From Red Lake Falls In Fast Game.

The Grand Forks high school team, which has claimed the championship of North Dakota, came over here last Friday and Saturday morning met the local high school team in a gridiron battle, and although they sustained their reputation as champions, they played for every inch of ground they made and it was only by a bad fumble or two on the part of our boys that they succeeded in getting across the goal line either time. The first half was one of the prettiest battles ever looked upon. Time and again Grand Forks would start the ball toward our goal line and with heavy line bucks carry it forward rapidly, when of a sudden our boys would hold them, regain the pigskin and start it the other way. Grand Forks made one touchdown in the first half and one in the second, although had they not secured the ball on a fumble they would only have scored six points. Their team was heavier by easily ten pounds to the man and this was what won the game for them. Our boys played equally as speedy and used better formations, but against the heavier men could not make the gains necessary to reach the coveted goal. Red Lake Falls made a couple of pretty end runs which netted them several yards of territory and in carrying back punts and kick-offs outplayed Grand Forks. The interferance of the home boys was also the best and had the weight of the teams been even the result would have been the other way. Space does not permit of a lengthy write-up, any more than to say that every member of the Red Lake Falls team played excellent football and great credit is due the boys for the work they have done this fall.

It is not likely that another game will be played this year although correspondence is being carried on with one or two teams. Crookston was to have played us but evidently got scared at our showing and backed out. The boys here have made an excellent gridiron record this year and in every game have made a very creditable showing.

A Tour of the World.

At least one hundred of our townspeople took the opportunity to tour the world Hallowe'en evening, and enjoyed a most delightful trip, visiting many places of interest. The affair given by the Ladies' Aid Society was a new and novel one and proved to be most successful, both from a social and a financial standpoint. All evening from 5:30 to 8 o'clock merry crowds of people thronged the Union Station, (the Boughton building), waiting for their train. Each train was in charge of a competent conductor, who looked after the welfare of the passengers. About three hours time was taken to make the trip including the stopovers. The first place of interest visited was San Francisco (Mrs. P. B Graass) where the passengers alighted and partook of refreshments consisting of fruits. From San Francisco they journeyed to Portland, (Mrs. John E. King) where salmon, oysters and lobsters were served the travellers. The next stopping place was Boston, (Mrs. C. E. Boughton). Here brown bread, baked beans and cold meat was partaken of. Thence to Berlin, (Mrs. B. Zaiser), where little maids attired in the Dutch costume served the passengers with sauerkraut and weinerwursts, From Berlin to Rio Janiero, (Mrs. Frank E. Hunt) where the travellers were refreshed with coffee and doughnuts. At Yokohoma, (Mrs. Ed. L. Healy) the next station tea and wafers were given the passengers by dainty little Japanese maidens. They then journeyed back to the United States and stopped at the White House, at Washington, D. C., (Mrs. J. E. Argue) where ice cream and cake was served. The last station was Spooksville, (Mrs. E. F. Marshall). Here the passengers were received by a delegation of ghosts, and spent the remainder of the evening in merry-making. Fortune telling and numerous Hallowe'en orgies were provided for the entertainment of the guests. All the stopping places were appropriately decorated to represent the different places, and dainty souveniers of each place were given the travellers. Altogether the trip was thoroughly enjoyed by all who went, and the ladies are to be congratulated on the manner in which the affair was conducted.

FOR THIRTY YEARS

Congressman Meekison Suffered With Catarrh---Read His Endorsement of Pe-ru-na.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."---David Meekison, ex-Member of Congress.

Over fifty members of Congrese endorse Peruna as a catarrhal tonic. Men of prominence the world over praise Peruna.

A TONIC is a medicine that gives tone to some part of the system. There are different kinds of tonics, but the tonic most needed in this country, where catarrh is so prevalent, is a tonic that operates on the mucous membranes.

Peruna is a tonic to the mucous membranes of the whole body. It gives tone to the capillary circulation which constitutes these delicate membranes.

Peruna is a specific in its operation upon the mucous membrane. It is a tonic that strikes at the root of all catarrhal affections. It gives tone to the minute blood vessels and the terminal nerve fibres. Catarrh cannot exist long where Peruna is used intelligently. Peruna seeks out catarrh in all the hidden parts of the body.

A. M. Ikerd, an employe of the C. B. & Q. R. R., West Burlington, Ia., writes:

"I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief. Finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me, that I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was something awful. I could hardly stand it, it was so offensive. I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I got one of your books, and concluded I would try Peruna, and thank God, I found a relief and a cure for that dreadful disease. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle in my house all the time."—A. M. Ikerd.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually called dyspepsia. Catarrhal dyspepsia cannot be cured by pepsin powders or any other temporary relief. The only cure for real dyspepsia is a removal of the catarrh from the mucous membrane of the stomach. This Peruna will do. This Peruna has done thousands and thousands of times.

Congressman Botkin, of Kansas, was cured of catarrh of the stomach of many years' standing. Hundreds of other cases have been reported to us through unsolicited testimonials. Peruna is the only internal systemic remedy for catarrh yet devised. Every one afflicted with catarrh in the slightest degree ought to take a course of Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

ROOSEVELT'S REPUBLICANISM TRIUMPHANT!

Idol of the American People Elected by a Tidal Wave of Republicanism Covering the Length and Breadth of the Nation.----Greatest Political Victory in the History of the Country.----Principles of the Republican Party Emphatically Endorsed By the Voters of the Progressive States.

Johnson Elected

In Spite of Minnesota's Tremendous Majority for Roosevelt, Democratic Candidate for Governor Wins By Big Vote From Rebublicans Opposed to Dunn.

Majority Will Undoubtedly Be Close to 15,000 Mark

John A. Johnson, of St. Peter, has been elected governor of Minnesota.

Notwithstanding the 125,000 majority for Roosevelt, Mr. Dunn was sacrificed upon the altar of spite, and the Republicans of Minnesota have again chosen a Democratic governor.

The full state ticket from lieutenant governor and including all the judges of the Supreme court are elected by majorities that will probably reach 50,000. and Mr. Winston, Mr. Johnson's running-mate, was the only one of the Democratic candidates to make a fair showing, although he will fall away short of having anywhere near enough votes to elect him.

Johnson's majority is estimated by the conservatives to be between 7,000 and 10,000, although some of the Democratic claims place it as high as 25,000.

Dunn was cut unmercifully in the central and western counties of the state, losing Kandiyohi, Meeker, Renville, Chippewa, Lac qui Parle and other strong counties. The hard campaign work of the senators, and congressmen held counties like Stevens and Traverse in line, but when old line counties like Pope and Chisago break loose from the republican column, it is evident that there is a revolution in the party that not even the party's heavy weight can handle.

Dunn made gains in some northern counties where the vote has increased. He beat Van Sant's vote in St. Louis and Beltrami. Dakota and Houston counties showed a gain for Dunn.

The enormous plurality for Roosevelt was not looked for by anyone. It was supposed that with Roosevelt running over 80,000 ahead of Parker, there would be a certainty of Dunn's election. The Parker vote went glimmering, but the Roosevelt republicans went hard against the Princeton candidate.

Meator Man Comes to Grief.

Mentor Herald: Deputy Marshall M. S. Converse was here last Friday and arrested Louis Amundson, who is charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

Amundson's crime is a peculiar one, the accusation being that he had been making a business of answering matrimonial advertisement "Wife Wanted," he would write an affectionate letter signing his wife's name, and if the bachelor appeared to have any serious intentions, would write him to pay fare to his home. He appears to have done quite a business in this line, and in one instance is said to have been in correspondence with a party in Los Angeles, Cal., a man named Jewell who sent him sufficient money to pay fare to that state, On receiving the money he of course put it in his pocket, and the victim remained in a state of single blessedness. We understand that his wife is entirely innocent, and was not aware that her husband was carryon any such correspondence or or using her name to cover his transactions.

He was taken before United States Court Commissioner Mix, of Crookstod, Friday evening, was bound over to the United States court, bail being fixed at $1,000 which he was unable to procure.

Mrs. Amunson is left in meager circumstances and a number of small children to care for.

NORTHERN STATES ENTIRE

Republicans Do Not Lose a Single One of the States Outside of the "Solid South" and Make Great Gains Where Formerly Hopelessly in the Minority.

Roosevelt Will Have 343 Votes in Electoral College

Tuesday's election was such a landslide for Roosevelt and the Republican party that today it seems impossible to think that everything should go the way it did.

Never since Grant's campaign has a president carried the country so solidly and Roosevelt can assume the reins of government next March with the assurance that the people have confidence in his ability, integrity and the principles he stands for.

Even some of the solid Soutnern states came near swinging into line for the famous hero of San Juan, and Republican gains throughout the nation were everywhere apparent.

On another page will be found a more complete review of the result in the nation and the latest telegraphic reports.

The electorial votes of Colorado, California, Conneticut, Deleware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey, Nebrasca, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Odio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Wasdington, Wisconsin and Wyoming are given to Roosevelt.

One Fare to Foot Ball Game.

Agent Mizen tells the Gazette that the Northern Pacific will make a rate of one fare plus 50c to Minneapolis on account of the Wisconsin-Minnesota football game Saturday. Tickets will be on sale Friday evening, the 11th, good to return until Monday evening, the 14th.

County Is In Line

Gives Roosevelt 903 Majority, Johnson Only 12, and Republicans Are Even On County Ticket.----Republicans Pleased With Showing in the County.

Several Very Close Fights on the County Ticket.

The result on county affairs in Red Lake county did not contain many surprises, and the only things that made the interest a little stronger when returns came were the majorities received by several of the local candidates.

For Judges both Watts and Grindeland run without opposition as did Messrs. Steenerson for congress and Simons for represntative.

For County Auditor it was conceded everywhere that James E. Ford would win and his large majority is a testimonial to the excellent manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the office, and of the esteem in which he is held by the people.

The treasurship was considerable of a surprise, as it was figured tha Ovide Moreau, the Republican candidate, would have several hundred to the good. Mr. Moreau wins, but by the narrow margin of 7 votes.

The Register of Deeds contest was one that opened the eyes of the people, and while it was generally conceded that Frank Jeffers had a good chance of winning, nevertheless the wise ones had predicted that he would be defeated anyway. Jeffs ability as a campaigner, however, was a trifle underestimated and even his most ardent supporters were surprised.

The Judge of Probate fight went as everyone expected it would, and the popular Tarrant has a large vote to his credit. Mr. Tarrant has conducted the office in a highly credible manner during the last two years and the result could hardly have been different.

The greatest surprise of the day was the defeat of Mrs. J. J. Doe for the superintendency, by H. T. McAnulty, the independent candidate. Mrs. Doe was running way ahead on the earlier returns, but the country districts cut down her majority and the official count gave McAnulty a lead of 43. There had hardly been any one that figured on this result, and general surprise was expressed at the way it turned out.

For County Attorney, Thomas Germo, who two years ago lost by a narrow margin, wins handily with a couple of hundred to spare. The present county attorney, Frank A. Grady, made the race as an independent, and considering that he was not on any ticket he made a remarkable showing. A man to run independent has tremendous odds to overcome, and while Mr Grady made a good record in the office during the two terms he held it, nevertheless he was running against a very popular young Republican, and was hardly expected to overcome the difference.

For Sheriff, Dan Linnihan was the Roossvelt of Red Lake county—although a Democrat—and his majority is over half larger than any other on the ticket. Dan had not held quite one full term, and it seemed to be the general impression that he was entitled to the office this time.

The commissioner fight in the Fourth district was "easy money" for Daniel Shaw, who had two dead easy opponents in the Review and Ole Tweet. Mr. Shaw is the typical man for commissioner and it was beyond understanding how the people of Thief River Falls would allow the result to be otherwise—and the thought was never for a moment entertained that Dan stood a show of being defeated.

The commissionership in the second district was a decided surprise to the people, as Wm. C. L. Demann came out of the race with 13 votes to the good. The reason of this was that a large quantity of

SOO LINE COMPLETED

Official Notice Given St. Paul Quarters of the Work Done.

Official reports which reached St. Paul Saturday, state that surfacing on the new Soo line extension to the Canadian boundry, between Thief River Falls and Emerson, was completed Saturday, swinging the last section of the new construction into shape for passenger service. Through service will be inaugerated on Dec. 1, with through trains between St. Paul and Winnipeg over the Soo line to the boundry, and the Canadian Pacific from the boundry to Winnipeg and points West.

Some minor work is yet to be finished before the line is in such condition that the Soo will put on regular trains. The important work is done, however, and what remains is merely the finishing touches. Services between St. Paul and Thief River Falls has been in operation for some time, but north of that point trains have run very irregularly and then only for construction purposes.

The completion of the line is of immence importance to the Red river valley country and Western Minnesota, bringing the territory under keen competition and breaking the hold which the merger has had for some years past. It is expected that the first result will be the establishment of more advantageous freight rates and a shifting of traffic, under which the Soo will be able to do a profitable business from the start. In all the territory served by the extension there will be a modification of present tariffs forced by the fact that the Soo is in a position to take the business if it wishes. The Great Northern is blanketed on the east by the new line and will be blanketed on the north and in Northeastern North Dakota shortly by additional construction put through by lines in the Canadian Pacific group.

General Passenger Agent W. R. Callaway, of the Soo, has been honored by the establishment of a new town which will hand his name down to posterity. A dozen other new towns have been opened between Glenwood and Thief River Falls, and sites have been marked out north of Thief River Falls for eight more. The stations on the new line taken in their north-bound order are Forada, Alexandria, Carlos, Parker's Prairie, Almora, Henning, Ottertail, Richville, Dent, Altona, Detroit, Westbury, Callaway, Ogema, Waubun, Mahnomen, Bejou, Winger, Erskine, Cisco, Brooks, Plummer, Hazel, Thief River Falls, Anita, Newfolden, Lund, Clayton, Halma, Bronson, Lancaster, Orleans. The mileage from St. Paul to Emerson over the Soo will be 396.4 and to Winnipeg 460.

A tremendous area of rich agricultural country is opened by the new line and settlers are already going in in large numbers. The new towns are developing rapidly and business houses and the ordinary lines of activity are establishing themselves. It is expected that the spring months will bring a heavy influx of new population in the tributary country, in which there is yet a considerable amount of good land, at low prices.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough Any child will take it It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces

LABORER SHOT BY POLICE.

John Danielson Killed by Night Policeman in Self Defense.

Thief River Press: John Danielson, a railroad laborer employed by Guthrie & Co., was shot and fatally wounded Tuesday morning by Night Policeman Frank Cernousek. The man never regained consciousness and died nine hours later, or at 11:30 a. m. at the hospital. Immediately following the shooting Mr. Cernousek gave himself up to Chief of Police Erickson, but was not placed under arrest.

As told by the only witness, of the tradedgy, Mr. Cernousek himself, there can be no reason for doubting that he was justified in shooting to kill. His story in substance is that at shortly after 2 o'clock he found a man lying behind the Oyster Bay Restaurant in an intoxicated condition after waking him and getting him on his feet the man showed fight and was clubbed, but not seriously, evidently just enough to make him ugly for when Cernousek started him down the alley toward the jail he again showed fight and began reaching for the policeman's gun. Cernousek grabbed his hand and in the struggle that followed the two fell to the ground and the now savage man got on top and grasping Cernousek by the throat growled, "I'll kill you now, you son-of-a———." At this he was warned that he would be shot, and finally when he believed his own life to be in danger, Cernousek fired the fatal shot.

The bullet entered Danielson's right nostril and ranged up through the head entering the brain.

Danielson resided at 1118 Washington avenue south, Minneapolis, was 27 years of age and was unmarried. He was of average size but well built and muscular. His friends give him the reputation of being very ugly when intoxicated, and he is reported to have had trouble with the police in other cities.

A brother arrived here Wednesday from Minneapolis to investigate the affair.

Thursday a coronor's jury composed of O. Jacobson, C. L. Dobner, D. J. McNiven, H. O. Rollag, C. Amundson and C. M. Evenson returned a verdict as follows: "That on the morning of Nov. 1, between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock a. m John Danielson came to his death at the hands of Frank Cernousek while acting as night watchman by a shot fired from a revolver, said deed being done in self defense."

Only Makes a Bad Matter Worse.

Perhaps you have never thought of it but the fact must be apparent to every one that constipation is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the use of drastic cathartics like the old fashioned pills only makes a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are much more mild and gentle in their effect, and when the proper dose is taken their action is so natural that one can hardly realize it is the effect of a medicine. Try a 25 cent bottle of them, For sale at Schreiter's Drug Store.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at W. A. Schreiter's.

Department Makes Ruling.

The United States land office at Crookston is in receipt of a ruling by the commissioner of the general land office relating to relinquishments of Red Lake lands, the 11 towns east of Thief River Falls.

The commissioner holds. That in case of a failure of a purchaser at the public offerings of any of these lands, to make the required payments, whether such failure results from a relinquishment of his entry or any other cause, the land involved is not again subject until it has been reoffered by authority of the Secretary of the Interior. Any payment made by a purchaser before his relinquishment or failure to pay will be forfeited.

Where, however, an entry has been made subsequent to the public offerings and the same is relinquished, the land would seem to be subject to entry by the first legal applicant.

A second entryman could in no event receive credit for any payments made by a former entryman.

This ruling will thwart the scheme proposed by some of the purchasers of land at the public auction held at Crookston. It was proposed by them to bid the land in, make one payment and then relinquish. Some relative or friend would homestead the land under the four dollar an acre provision of the bill and on high priced lands they would save several dollars per acre. The secretary of the interior has foiled their scheme.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale at Schroiter's Drug Store.

Quick Arrest.

J. A. Gulledge of Verbena, Ala., was twice in the hospital from a severe case of piles causing 24 tumors. After doctors and all remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and kills pain. 25c at W. A. Schreiter, Druggist.

ROOSEVELT WINS

SECURES 325 ELECTORAL VOTES TO 151 FOR DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

PARKER CARRIES SOUTH ONLY

EVERY DOUBTFUL STATE IN THE UNION CONCEDED TO THE REPUBLICANS.

GAIN SEATS IN NEXT HOUSE

REPUBLICANS WILL HAVE INCREASED MAJORITY IN CONGRESS.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Republican national ticket has been elected by a vote in the electoral college that will exceed that of 292 given for McKinley in 1900. The result of Tuesday's balloting was astonishing even to the most sanguine of the Republican managers. Confident as they were of success, they were not prepared for the astonishing figures which followed the closing of the polls, bringing into the Republican column not only all of the states they had claimed as safe for their candidate, but, with the possible exception of Maryland, every state classed as doubtful.

Democratic successes are confined to the solid South, in which Kentucky is included. Mr. Parker has not carried a single state which did not give its vote to Mr. Bryan four years ago. Unofficial returns indicate that he has lost some of those which the Nebraska candidate held for his party. Official figures from some of the Northwestern states may slightly change the totals, but based on the returns available at a late hour the electoral vote stands as follows:

For Roosevelt.

	Estimated Plurality.	Electoral Vote.
Colorado	5,000	5
California	conceded Rep	10
Connecticut	25,000	7
Delaware	2,500	3
Idaho	conceded	3
Colorado	5,000	5
Illinois	150,000	27
Indiana	50,000	15
Iowa	125,000	13
Kansas	30,000	10
Maine	37,000	6
Maryland	probably Rep	8
Massachusetts	80,000	16
Michigan	100,000	14
Minnesota	100,000	11
Montana	conceded	3
New Jersey	50,000	12
Nebraska	30,000	8
New Hampshire	20,000	4
Nevada	probably Rep	3
New York	185,000	39
North Dakota	25,000	4
Ohio	100,000	23
Oregon	30,000	4
Pennsylvania	300,000	24
Rhode Island	5,000	4
South Dakota	30,000	4
Utah	8,000	3
Vermont	30,000	4
West Virginia	conceded Rep	7
Washington	30,000	5
Wisconsin	50,000	13
Wyoming	large Rep	3

This gives Roosevelt a total of 325 electoral votes.

For Parker.

	Estimated Plurality.	Electoral Vote.
Alabama	37,000	11
Arkansas	40,000	9
Florida	18,000	5
Georgia	45,000	13
Kentucky	10,000	13
Louisiana	35,000	9
Mississippi	largely Dem	10
Missouri	35,000	18
North Carolina	large Dem	12
South Carolina	largely Dem	9
Tennessee	25,000	12
Texas	190,000	18
Virginia	largely Dem	12

This shows a total electoral vote of 151 for Parker.

The perfect weather conditions which prevailed practically over the entire country brought out a vote which experienced politicians predict will be a record-breaker and in this increase of ballots the Republicans gained more than their share.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

REPUBLICANS GAIN A NUMBER OF SEATS IN THE LOWER BRANCH.

Washington, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt is assured of the co-operation of a Republican congress. The present majority in that body is thirty-four and there need be no surprise if this figure is almost doubled and it is reasonably certain to reach a majority of at least fifty. In practically all districts the Republicans have held their own, while in some insignificant instances the Democrats have lost. Probably the most marked of these cases are the Fourth and Fifth districts of California (San Francisco), now represented by Representatives Livernash and Wynn, Democrats, which reports indicate have been gained by the Republicans. In the Twelfth Ohio district Taylor, Rep., is reported to have defeated Badger, Dem. The most surprising of all the reports, however, have come from the Fifth and Fifteenth Missouri districs, both strongly Democratic, and the former represented by Mr. Cowherd, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee. The Republicans claim to have carried both districts. In the light of these reports a Republican majority of 50 in the house is considered a conservative estimate.

THE LARGEST ON RECORD.

Illinois Gives a Big Plurality to President Roosevelt.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—According to late returns Illinois will give to President Roosevelt the largest plurality ever given to any presidential candidate by this state. He has by the unofficial returns carried Chicago by 97,000 and the county of Cook outside of the city will give him about 9,000 additional, making his plurality in Cook county not far from 107,000.

The Republican state central committee claim the possible plurality for President Roosevelt will total between 214,000 and 230,000. The greatest plurality ever given in Illinois before was 143,000 for McKinley in 1896.

The Republican state ticket has been overwhelmingly elected, Deneen for governor, running about 15,000 behind the national ticket in Cook county. Both branches of the legislature will be overwhelmingly Republican.

The Republicans have increased the congressional delegation from 17 to 20.

CARRIES HIS NATIVE STATE.

Roosevelt Polls a Large Vote in New York.

New York, Nov. 9.—Theodore Roosevelt's plurality in this, his native state, is second only to McKinley's in 1895. It exceeds McKinley's in 1900 by about 41,500. The late returns show that there were cast for him in New York about 125,000 votes more than for Parker. Not only was his vote heavy in the country districts, where the Republican strongholds are, but in Greater New York, traditionally Democratic, he ran much closer to Judge Parker than had been expected even by his own campaign managers. It had been estimated that he would come down to the Bronx with better than 140,000 plurality, but the figures last night showed that this forecast would be exceeded by approximately 85,000.

Frank Higgins, Rep., is elected governor by a large plurality.

SLOW IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Nothing Upon Which to Base an Estimate of Results.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 9.—It is impossible to give any accurate estimate of the result in West Virginia. Only two precincts in Wood county have been counted and in other counties the results are as slow in coming in. There is absolutely nothing on which to base an estimate. Republican State Chairman Elliott Northcott claims the state for Roosevelt by 25,000 and that the entire Republican state ticket is elected, all five congressmen and the legislature, which will choose a successor to Nathan B. Scott. The Democratic state chairman does not concede the Republican claims and says the entire Democratic ticket is elected, the legislature is in doubt, and the Democrats have elected two or three congressmen.

INDIANA GOES REPUBLICAN.

Hoosiers Support Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—Indiana has been carried by the Republicans by from 45,000 to 55,000. The legislature will be Republican by nearly fifty, probably more. All the nine Republican congressmen are re-elected and the Republicans claim also the Second and Twelfth districts, now represented by Democrats. They are in doubt. The legislature which will meet in January will elect two United States senators, one of whom is to succeed Vice President-Elect Fairbanks. Senator Beveridge will be re-elected.

The Republicans have almost, if not quite doubled the McKinley plurality in the state of 25,467 four years ago.

THE RESULT IN NEW JERSEY.

Exceeded Expectations of Most Sanguine Republicans.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 9.—New Jersey was carried by the Republicans by a higher majority than even the most sanguine of the Republican predictions claimed. The state gave in the neighborhood of 60,000 for Roosevelt, exceeding McKinley's majority four years ago by 3,000 or more. Edward S. Stokes, the Republican nominee for governor, is elected. Eight Republicans and two Democratic congressmen were elected. The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican and John A. Kean will probably succeed himself as United States senator.

GOVERNOR BATES DEFEATED.

W. L. Douglas Elected Governor of Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Although the Republicans carried Massachusetts for President Roosevelt in Tuesday's election by 82,000 plurality, they lost the governorship for the first time since 1892, William L. Douglas of Brockton defeating Governor John L. Bates of this city by about 25,000 plurality. The balance of the Republican state ticket is claimed by the Republican state committee.

The Republicans made slight gains in both branches of the legislature, which will select two United States senators.

Line of Victories Unbroken.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.—This state has preserved unbroken its line of Republican national victories, which began with Fremont in 1855, and has given its electoral vote to Roosevelt by approximately 20,000. The legislature will be strongly Republican.

Ran Ahead of McKinley's Vote.

White River Junction, Vt., Nov. 9.—Roosevelt carried this state by about 31,000. Roosevelt ran ahead of McKinley's vote in 1900, while Parker ran behind that of Bryan. The only question at issue was the choice of presidential electors.

Utah for Roosevelt.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 9.—The few returns received show heavy Republican gains on the national ticket, and Roosevelt undoubtedly carried the state.

Idaho Goes Republican.

Boise, Ida., Nov. 9.—A plurality of 25,000 for Roosevelt seems to be indicated by returns at hand and 15,000 for Gooding, Rep., for governor.

THE NORTHWEST

REPUBLICANS SECURE NEARBY STATES FOR THEIR NATIONAL TICKET.

CLOSE ON STATE ELECTIONS

LAFOLLETTE WINS IN WISCONSIN BUT MINNESOTA IS SOMEWHAT IN DOUBT.

LANDSLIDE FOR ROOSEVELT

NORTH AND SOUTH DAKOTA ROLL UP LARGE MAJORITIES FOR REPUBLICANS.

St. Paul, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt received a record-breaking plurality in Minnesota, going far beyond McKinley's margin of 77,000 four years ago. On the face of the returns so far received the Republican electoral ticket will have a plurality of over 100,000. Parker's vote was much smaller than that received by Bryan four years ago, and Roosevelt was especially strong in counties which of old were Populist strongholds. In Kittson county, for example, Roosevelt polled 1,500 votes, as against 100 for Parker, whereas McKinley carried the county by only 300. In St. Paul and Ramsey county Roosevelt will have close to 7,500 plurality, nearly 2,000 greater than McKinley's vote.

Despite the tremendous plurality for Roosevelt, the Democrats, apparently, have elected their candidate for governor, John A. Johnson. He is running well ahead of the vote cast for Lind, Dem., who was defeated four years ago by 2,300. At Democratic headquarters Johnson's election was claimed by a plurality of from 20,000 to 22,000. James A. Martin of the Republican state central committee claimed the election of Robert C. Dunn, Republican candidate, but admitted that the result would be close. No returns have been received from the legislative candidates, but it is generally conceded that, with their hold-over senators, the Republicans will have a good majority on joint ballot, insuring the election of a Republican successor to United States Senator Moses E. Clapp.

All of the Republican congressmen are elected, with the possible exception of Buckman in the Sixth, from which district nothing has been heard.

LAFOLLETTE ELECTED.

Carries Wisconsin for Governor by 50,000 Plurality.

Milwaukee, Nov. 9.—It is generally conceded that Roosevelt has carried Wisconsin by a plurality estimated at between 60,000 and 75,000.

Republican Chairman W. D. Connor said that Lafollette's plurality for governor would be near 50,000. The Republicans also claim the legislature, which is to elect a United States senator.

Eight Republican congressmen have been elected and two districts are still to be heard from. In the Third district the race is close between Babcock, Rep., and Grotophorst, Dem. The latest returns show the Democratic candidate to have a slight lead. In the Ninth district the meager returns show Minor, Rep., to have a slight lead.

RESULT IN NEBRASKA.

Roosevelt Carries the State But Fusion Governor Is Elected.

Omaha, Nov. 9.—Nebraska will give Roosevelt a plurality which will reach nearly or quite 40,000. George W. Berge, Fusion candidate for governor, is probably elected by a plurality of from 5,000 to 8,000.

At least four out of the six congressmen will be Republicans and it is believed the legislature also will have a Republican majority. That body will elect a United States senator to succeed Senator Charles Dietrich.

LANDSLIDE FOR ROOSEVELT.

South Dakota Rolls Up a Large Plurality.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 9.—Roosevelt has carried nearly every county in the state by pluralities of from 100 to 2,000, indicating that his plurality will not be far from 50,000. Returns from the rural precincts indicate a landslide for Roosevelt. The largest previous Republican plurality was 30,000, in 1889. The entire state and congressional ticket and nearly every Republican county ticket as well as members of the legislature are elected.

BIG MAJORITY IN IOWA.

Roosevelt Carries the State by About 125,000.

Des Moines, Nov. 9.—Iowa returns are slow in coming in, but the indications on well distributed returns indicate that Roosevelt's plurality will be 125,000 and the entire state ticket will have about the same number.

Republican Gains in Montana.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 9.—Montana is for Roosevelt, late returns indicating gains by the Republicans of over 40 per cent over four years ago. Governor Toole, Dem., is re-elected.

Republican Victory in Oregon.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 9.—The Oregonian estimates from complete and incomplete returns at hand that Roosevelt has carried Oregon by 40,582.

North Dakota for Roosevelt.

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 9.—State returns are coming in very slowly, so far a nominal vote is indicated, with 25,000 majority for Roosevelt.

Election is over. Let us love one another.

Well if we must, here goes—hurrah for Johnson.

To Commissioner Dan Shaw, of the Fourth district, the Gazette bows its bare head (we can't doff our hat, because we lost it on Dunn). Dan will make one of the best county commissioners that the county ever had, and the Thief River people will never have cause to regret that they chose him.

The St. Hilaire Spectator has changed its publication day from Wednesday to Saturday, and last week issued two numbers—one on each of the days above mentioned—to preserve its legality. The Spectator will continue to be as interesting as of yore, even if we don't get it as early.

Auditor James E. Ford is quoted as saying that he will not again run for the office. The next day after on most occasions is a good time to "swear off," but the Gazette doesn't believe that Jim's friends will let him out of the of the office for several years to come. Jim is too good an auditor to lose, and the public appreciates the fact.

The Thief River Review's political prestige isn't at a very high ebb just now. The only fortunates that the Review supported were Wntts, Grindeladd, Belair and Wood—and none of them had opposition—so the Review's support couldn't act as a dead-weight. There are some things that a "great man" from Iowa can't do—but they are too evident to the people to need repetition here.

THE COUNTY RESULT.

The battle of ballots fought in Red Lake county Tuesday resulted in the election of four of the Democratic ticket, and six of the Republicans.

It cannot be said that this was unexpected, inasmuch as for several years past one out of eight was about all the Republicans hoped for and got, and it has never been claimed, and backed by figures, that the county was anything but anti-Republican.

The officers selected Tuesday have mostly all proven their worth, as officials and men, and the five new ones elected, Germo, Moreau Wood, Belair and Shaw, will make excellent records during their incumbency. If the county was overwhelming Republican and the result still the same, it could not be said that the voters had not chosen well. There is no better gauge for political affairs in county elections than fitness for office, and in the selections Tuesday the voters used this as the standard of measure in as far as they believed was correct.

Red Lake county will prosper under the administration of the newly elected officials, and The Gazette congratulates the victors and the county on the result.

The decided frost dished up to the Republicans of Minnesota Tuesday brought with it a change in the weather, and Wednesday, as Johnson's majority increased, it turned into snow and became decidedly colder. This morning, however, all signs of despondency in the weather clerk's office passed away, and the glorious sun burst forth to welcome the great Roosevelt, whose election means four years more of peace and prosperity.

The Republican national ticke has been elected by a vote in the electorial college that will exceed that of 292 given for McKinley in 1900. The result of Tuesday's balloting was astounding even to the most sanguine of Republican managers, confident as they were of success, they were not prepared for the astonishing figures which followed the closing of the polls, bringing into the Republican column not only all of the states they had claimed as safe for their candidate, but with the possible exception of Maryland, every state classed as doubtful.

Democratic successes are confident of the solid south, in which Kentucky is included. Mr. Parker has not carried a single state which did not give its vote to Mr. Bryan four years ago. Unofficial returns indicate that he has lost some of those which the Nebraskan held for his party.

As a dramatic climax to the sensational majorities given him came President Roosevelt's formal announcement that he would not be a candidate for re-election, lending the only exciting aspect to an election so one-sided it was impossible even for the victors to maintain that degree of enthusiasm that usually marks occasions. Late in the night an announcement from Melvin G. Paliser, manager of the campaign for Thomas E. Wntson, candidate for the People's party, that as the result of the overwhelming Democratic defeat steps would be taken to form a new party. To this end, according to the announcement given out, Mr. Bryan, Mr. Watson and William Randolph Hearst would hold a conference in New York in a week's time.

The period of suspense that followed the closing of the polls was not prolonged. In no election in recent years has the result been definately known so soon. The perfect weather conditions which prevailed practically over the entire country brought out a vote which experienced politicians predict will be a record breaker, and in this increase of ballots the republicans gained more than their share.

FIRST BAND CONCERT

Red Lake Falls' Concert Band Will Start Winter's Concert Work on Monday Evening, November 21.

The first indoor band concert of the winter season of 1904-1905, will be given at the Metropolitan Opera house on Monday evening, November 21.

The program is being prepared by Prof. Onstad this week, and will be ready for publication in next week's papers.

The band has had a busy fall, and on account of the hurry of the campaign could not make arrangements to give a concert during October, will be made up during the winter, however, by doubling in some month.

A brand new lot of the latest and best music is ready to be tackled by the band, and the programs this winter promise to be varied and highly enjoyable.

Congressmen Republican.

The nine districts of Minnesota all elected Republican congressmen at Tuesday's election, and in a majority of the districts of the state Republican representatives are also chosen, which will make the national congress Republican, as well as Minnesota's legislature. If harmony only could have prevailed among the Republicans of the state there wouldn't be a thing in the election that there could be regret expressed over.

Thief River Press: The Thief River Lumber company will close down their big mill at this point next week. Mr. Winton stated that the season would be closed about November 10th possibly continuing until the 12 inst. The season's run has been a very satisfactory one, 40,000,000 feet of timber having been cut since the plant was put in operation early last spring. Owing to the high water of the early season the plant was shut down for a number of days. Had it not been for this set back the season's run wuuld have broken the record. During the winter the company will cut 35,000,000 feet of logs, and will put seven camps, all in charge of sub-contractors, in the woods. In all some 500 men will be employed.

The ladies of St. Mary's church served a supper in the room opposite the Grand View hotol Tuesdsy evening, and a large number of hungry election return seekers were fed. The ladies netted a neat sum for their effurts.

J. R. Emard will hold an auction sale at his farm next Monday, the 14th inst., at which time he will sell several head of cattle, some hay and wood and numerous other articles. Remember the date, Monday, November 14, and attend the sale.

Auditor Ford, Editor King, Register Jeffers and several other prominent Democrats were at St. Hilaire Monday evening to fire the closing gun of the campaign. The band drove up from here in the afternoon and livened up things for the benefit of the crowd.

Ralph E. Wyer went down to Minneapolis yesterday, to spend a week with his parents and take in the big Wisconsin-Minnesota foot ball game Saturday. Ralph has been confined closely to his work during the past year, and his week's vacation will undoubtedly be highly beneficial.

Thief River Press: The Great Northern depot has reached its final destination on the west side of Maine avenue just below the old Kretzschmar fur house, and the first passenger train came up town Wednesday forenoon. A good wide platform will be built, and dispite the old building being retained the change is a decided convinience.

The congregation of the Presbyterian church gave a farewell party to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rodgers and family at the church parlors last evening. Refreshments were served and the evening was very pleasantly spent. Before the affair ended the congregation presented to Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers a handsome leather chair as a token of the esteem in which they are held by the people here.

She was a very smart girl indeed and she sat in the corner with her lover and with her tiny niece upon her knee. The folding doors were open, and all at once the visitors in the adjourning room heard the childs piping voice exclaim, "Kiss me too, Aunt Gertie." "Maude, darling," came the reply, as quick as thunder after lightning. "You should say kiss me twice', kiss me two is not grammar."

Crookston Times: O. E. Ford, the genial Coe Commission company manager, who has during the past three weeks been stationed in charge of the Red Lake Falls office at that place, has returned from the Falls and will reaccept the position of manager of the company's branch office in this city. "Forde," as he is known in the city, is popular here and will doubtless work up a large business. J. F. Spencer, who has been with the Coe company for some few weeks, has resigned and it is understood will engage in a business venture of considerable magnitude in the southern central portion of the state. The details of the deal are not yet ready for publication but it is understood that Mr. Spencer has unlimited backing in a very profitable enterprise.

Deputy.

MISSOURI IN DOUBT.

Both Democrats and Republicans Claim That State.

St. Louis, Nov. 9.—At 1 o'clock the result of the election in Missouri and in St. Louis was in doubt. Both sides claimed victory. The Democratic state committee claimed that the state had been carried by a majority of 25,000 and St. Louis by 5,000; that fifteen Democratic congressmen had been elected and the legislature will be Democratic by a majority of forty, assuming the re-election of United States Senator Cockrell. State Republican Chairman Neidringhaus claimed that St. Louis had gone Republican by 20,000 and the state majority would reach 5,000; that five Republican congressmen had been elected, and claimed a majority in the legislature on joint ballot.

ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN.

Republicans Roll Up An Enormous Plurality in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—The returns from different cities and counties indicate that the Republicans have broken all their records in Ohio. Their highest plurality was 137,000 in 1894 on a small vote, while that of Tuesday was on a large vote greatly exceeding 1,000,000.

The largest plurality Ohio ever gave any president was 69,030 for McKinley four years ago and the Republican committee estimates that the plurality for Roosevelt and Fairbanks will be double the highest plurality ever given McKinley either for governor, or president.

MADE A CLEAN SWEEP.

Republicans Carried Everything in Connecticut.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt and the entire Republican ticket carried the state by an overwhelming plurality, which was even larger than the most sanguine of the party predicted. It is estimated that President Roosevelt's plurality will be almost 25,000, or several thousand ahead of McKinley's figures in 1900. From Henry Roberts, Republican candidate for governor, down, there was a clean sweep. The legislature is Republican.

BY UNPRECEDENTED MAJORITY.

President Roosevelt Carries the State of Michigan.

Detroit, Nov. 9.—Michigan was the scene of a Republican landslide. Roosevelt and Fairbanks have carried the state by an unprecedented majority variously estimated at from 100,000 to 150,000. Fred M. Warner and the Republican state ticket are elected, at least eleven of the twelve congressmen from Michigan are Republican and the legislature is overwhelmingly Republican, insuring the re-election of United States Senator J. C. Burrows.

BY A FEW HUNDRED VOTES.

Roosevelt Is Thought to Have Carried Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Though the returns from the counties of Maryland are not complete and those from four precincts in Baltimore are missing, the returns that have been received indicate that Maryland has gone for Roosevelt by a small majority, probably a few hundred votes. In the congressional districts of the state, three Republicans and two Democrats have been elected.

FAR EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS.

Republican Vote in Pennsylvania Very Large.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's vote in Pennsylvania far exceeds the expectation of the Republican managers. There is a heavy falling off in the Democratic vote all over the state.

Estimates from the entire state give Roosevelt a plurality in Pennsylvania of between 390,000 and 400,000.

MAKE GAINS IN MAINE.

Republicans Carry the State by Over 34,000 Plurality.

Portland, Me., Nov. 9.—The six Maine electors will cast their votes for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. Returns received from all but 134 of the 519 cities, towns and plantations gave Roosevelt a plurality of 34,785. This is a Republican gain of 8,348 over four years ago.

PARKER CARRIES KENTUCKY.

His Majority in That State May Reach 14,000.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—With one-third of Kentucky's 1896 precincts reported the vote indicates a majority in the state for Parker of from 12,000 to 14,000. The congressional delegation is unchanged—ten Democrats and one Republican.

COLORADO FOR ROOSEVELT.

Estimated to Have Carried the State by 10,000 Plurality.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 9.—Estimates from scattering and incomplete returns indicate a plurality of over 10,000 for Roosevelt in Colorado. The result as to congressmen and state officers is still in doubt.

Returns Slow in Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 9.—Only a few of the very smallest precincts have been heard from. It is probable that the state Democratic ticket is elected by 20,000 plurality. The presidential ticket is running slightly behind.

Republicans Win in Wyoming.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt has carried Wyoming by from 7,500 to 8,000. Brooks, Rep., has been elected governor. The Republicans will control the state legislature, insuring the re-election of Senator Clark.

Roosevelt Carries Rhode Island.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 9.—Indications are that Roosevelt has carried Rhode Island by a plurality of over 5,000. The result for governor is still in doubt with Utter, Rep., slightly in the lead.

Washington for Roosevelt.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 9.—Complete and incomplete returns point to Roosevelt carrying the state and the election of Meade, Rep., for governor.

ITALIAN ELECTION RETURNS.

Government Gains Twenty Seats From Extremists.

Rome, Nov. 7.—Definite returns show that all the members of the cabinet have been re-elected. Former Premier Rudinia, Baron Sonnini, leader of the constitutional opposition, and Signor Priniti, the former foreign minister, and Ferri, the Socialist leader, have also been re-elected.

Summing up the result it is established that the government has been victorious over the Extremists, who lost twenty seats. Turin, Naples, Palermo and almost all the large towns joined Milan and Genoa in defeating the Extremists as a manifestation against the general strike. This really was the predominant note in the elections.

Signor Nasi, former minister of public instruction and a fugitive from justice, accused of peculation, was reelected unanimously by his fellow townsmen of Trapani as a protest against the charges brought against him, the people of Trapani not believing him guilty.

HANGING FOR HOLDUPS.

Chicago Grand Jury Recommends Such a Law.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Capital punishment for highway robbery is formally recommended in a grand jury report submitted in court here during the day. The report says:

"In view of the prevalence of the phase of crime known as 'holdup,' its brutality and the frequent loss of life resulting therefrom, we would respectfully petition the next general assembly to frame severer laws bearing thereon even to the extent of capital punishment for such offenders. Any man who with firearms commits a robbery in the street does so with murder in his heart and murder following it is but an after result."

TWO HUNTERS DROWN.

Overcome by Cold and Exposure While Wading Ashore.

Detroit, Nov. 8.—James H. Foote and Alfred Gaines, electricians, were drowned while duck hunting at the St. Clair flats and their bodies were recovered in the north channel in shallow water about 150 feet from shore.

They, with Alex Lempke, were in shallow water when their boat began to leak and filled. They started to wade ashore, Lempke sticking to the boat and the other two setting out on a different course. All three were overcome by cold and exposure, but Lempke had reached the shore before he fell unconscious.

WILL BE OFFERED TO DEWEY.

Position on Anglo-Russian Inquiry Commission.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Unofficially, though from an official source, officials of the navy department on duty in Washington have learned that the American government will be invited to name a representative on the Anglo-Russian inquiry commission which will investigate the North sea affair. It can be stated that Admiral Dewey will, of course, be given the refusal of this mission and his acceptance will be most agreeable to the officials. The admiral has given no intimation as to his decision should the present programme of the British government be carried out.

DIED TO SAVE FRIEND.

Watchman Receives Bullet Intended for Fellow Workman.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—John Kerr, aged forty-two years, watchman for the Pennsylvania Sweep and Smelting company, was killed by a robber while attempting to save a fellow workman from being murdered. David Rikle, engineer for the company, came upon two young men robbing freight cars. He attempted to catch them when one of the robbers drew a revolver and, just as he pulled the trigger, Kerr jumped between the burglar and Rikle. The ball entered Kerr's breast, killing him. The robbers escaped.

TWO DEAD, MANY INJURED.

Freight and Work Trains Collide at Clinton, Ind.

Clinton, Ind., Nov. 8.—In a collision between a work train and a freight train John Blot was killed, an unrecognized body is pinned under the wreck and twenty-five other men were injured. William West will die. Edward Harrington, James Kelly and John Cooley are believed to be fatally injured. All the injured were taken to Danville, Ill.

The wreck occurred on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad.

HERO DIES IN HOTEL FIRE.

After Saving Five He Perishes by Wife's Side.

New York, Nov. 7.—Joseph Capple, a hotelkeeper of Chauncey, Westchester county, after saving his aged mother and father and three children from his burning hotel, lost his own life by rushing into the flames when he learned that his wife had not escaped.

The bodies of Capple and his wife were found later in the building lying side by side, burned almost beyond recognition.

GIANT BRIDGE COMPLETED.

Northern Pacific Steel Structure Costs a Million.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 7.—The new Northern Pacific steel bridge over the Pend Oreille river at San Point, Ida., has been completed and turned over by the construction department to the traffic department. The estimated cost of the new bridge is $1,000,000. In its construction 2,300 tons of steel were used. The new bridge is the largest on the line of the Northern Pacific.

HUNDREDS DIE IN FLOOD.

Heavy Rainfall Causes Enormous Loss of Life in China.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 7.—Advices brought by the steamship Tremont give details of a disastrous flood in the vicinity of Changchow, China. A heavy rainfall flooded the river, causing the highest water in three centuries. At Changchow it destroyed 3,000 houses and many hundreds of people.

Blame
No One But Yourself if You Don't Get Well When Sick.

All we can do is give advice.
Of course that's easy.
But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you
We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house.
Dr. Miles' Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.
Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.
All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for your complaint. If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitchings, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.
You are the doctor.
"My son Bert, when in his 17th year, became subject to attacks of epilepsy, so serious that we were compelled to take him out of school. BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK & POULTRY MEDICINE

This great stock medicine is a money saver for stock raisers. It is a medicine, not a cheap food or condition powder. Though put up in coarser form than Thedford's Black-Draught, renowned for the cure of the digestion troubles of persons, it has the same qualities of invigorating digestion, stirring up the torpid liver and loosening the constipated bowels for all stock and poultry. It is carefully prepared and its action is so healthful that stock grow and thrive with an occasional dose in their food. It cures hog cholera and makes hogs grow fat. It cures chicken cholera and roup and makes hens lay. It cures constipation, distemper and colds in horses, murrain in cattle, and makes a draught animal do more work for the food consumed. It gives animals and fowls of all kinds new life. Every farmer and raiser should certainly give it a trial.
It costs 25c. a can and saves ten times its price in profit.

PITTSBURG, KAS., March 25, 1904.
I have been using your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine on my stock for some time. I have used all kinds of stock food but I have found that yours is the best for my purpose.

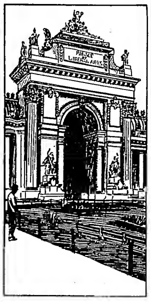
PHILIPPINES AT WORLD'S FAIR

Complete Exhibition of Island People and Industries Covers Forty-seven Acres and Is Independent of Larger Show.

Not even in the heart of Manila city could there be found forty-seven acres of Philippine territory as interesting as that amount of space covered by the islands' display at the World's Fair. Here is an exposition within an exposition, a little wheel that revolves independently of the larger one encompassing it.

Scores of buildings are filled with exhibits, native life is depicted by as many different villages as there are tribes on the islands, military drills are given by Philippine troops, and concerts are rendered by native bands. For its amusement features the Philippine exposition has the humorous Igorrote, who dines on dog meat, and visitors are entertained by Visayan actors and actresses. Nothing is lacking to make the show complete.



SOUTH ENTRANCE PALACE OF LIBERAL ARTS, WORLD'S FAIR.

The Administration building is a replica of the government offices in Manila, while the Art and Education building reproduces in miniature the cathedral within the walled city, even the mellowed tints of age being faithfully rendered. A section of the ancient but still serviceable town wall has been reconstructed to serve the double purpose of a gateway to the show and a museum of arms and war relics. The other main edifices are types of Filipino homes, being built of undressed timber, bamboo and rattan, with thatched roofs and broad verandas.

Then there are the tribal villages nestling under the trees, some of the houses perched high up among the boughs, others on piles above the waters of the Arrowhead lake, all of them actual dwellings fashioned of native materials by native workmanship and illustrating the manners, customs and pursuits of their occupants. Here are women weaving a coarse cloth on a rude hand loom, others making baskets, others tending irrigated fields of rice. One group of men are in village council, trying an offender according to their tribal laws; others are slowly moving in a circular dance to the thump of tomtoms and the clang of brass gongs; others, again, are smelting iron by the aid of a primitive but most ingenious bellows, the constituent parts of which are a bamboo tube and an air-tight mop of feathers working therein like the piston of a syringe. And these are but a few of an almost endless variety of life pictures.

The ethnological problem is a somewhat complicated one; but, although there are no fewer than sixteen races represented among the village dwellers, the scouts and the constabulary, each race speaking its own dialect and following its own customs, all may be roughly classified into four groups—the true aboriginals or non-Malays, the pagan Malays, the Christian Malays and the Mohammedan Malays.

The first are the dwarf Negritos, with dark skins and woolly heads, wearers of scanty raiment, proficient in the use of the bow and poisoned arrow, a race of nomads and forest dwellers, pagans pure and simple. They live in their own stockaded village.

Next to them are the Igorrotes, whose origin is traced back to the first wave of Malay invasion. Here, again, we have scanty clothing, amounting almost to nudity, but copper colored skins, long wavy tresses, pleasant featured faces and fine physiques, even though the stature be small. Among these pagan Malays are the head hunters and the dog eaters. They are savages, yet have their code of laws and a knowledge of several primitive industries.

The Christian Malays, produced by the second wave of invasion, are represented by the Visayans, a tall and handsome race, dressing well, living in pretty homes, skilled in weaving, dyeing, basket making, hat making, wood carving and other handicrafts, musicians of no mean merit, the one group of natives who came early and thoroughly under the influence of the early Spanish settlers.

Very different are the Moros, who swept into the islands from the Malay peninsula last of all, bringing with them their Mohammedan religion, also a knowledge of gunpowder acquired with the Koran from the Arabs—fanatics like their teachers, pirates, bloodthirsty, treacherous and vindictive —

"SCHOOL IS OUT."

"School is out; now go and play."
There is an unfinished sum
On the blackboard. Who could stay
Once the happy news had come?
In the copybook a blot
Shows where a half written word
Ended, when the writer caught
All the joy in what he heard.

"School is out!" No one has sung
Sweeter, gladder chant than this
From the boy whose books are flung
In a heap, lest he shall miss
Half a moment of the play.
And he runs—he runs to meet
Summer dancing down the way;
Summer on her flying feet.

"School is out"—with this there dies
All remembrance of the task
That was hard; instead arise
Woodlands in whose shadows bask
Lazy boys and birds and bees
In the summer noon's delight;
And there come the ecstasies
Of the song of summer night.

"School is out"—when we have turned
Page by page the book we live,
With our lessons still unlearned,
What will deeper pleasure give
Than to see the open door
And to hear the teacher say:
"Close the book and fret no more—
School is out; now go and play?"

A DEAL IN WHEAT

By J. C. PLUMMER

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

THERE was a financial crisis in the home of Capt. Soloman Peebles. The butcher and the grocer each had menaced the unfortunate mariner with legal proceedings if their accounts were not settled forthwith and the furniture man hinted strongly at removing the parlor suite if the balance owed thereon was not paid, a dire threat, which, if accomplished, so Mrs. Peebles said, would forever disturb her rest in the grave. Added to this Mrs. and Miss Peebles were without proper attire to appear before their neighbors without a feeling of deep humiliation.

"I can't understand it," said Mrs. Peebles, for the hundredth time, "why you can't make money. There's Capt. Lanyard, not as good a sailor as you, and yet he lives fine."

Capt. Peebles, who had been beating the devil's tattoo on the table during this address, flung his hat on his head, said something which caused his wife to elevate her hands aloft, and left the house.

Luck and Capt. Peebles did not get on together. Always a careful master and latterly an over-careful one, he was constantly having accidents. From sticking on a bar to fouling a wharf his craft was always paying damages or expenses until shipowners dropped him. He was too old and fat for a mate, and it would have been folly to work for 'foremast' wages with his family. Hence the straightened condition of the Peebles family at present.

One thing, amid all his troubles Capt. Peebles had kept intact this home. Purchased in installments, the fruits of hard toil and privation, he regarded it as a refuge for him and his family that should never be touched and yet when he left the house he had resolved to sacrifice it.

"I will lend you $200 on your house, Peebles," said John Simms, capitalist, "and what's more you sign the mortgage and I won't require your wife's signature, nor will I record it until necessary. You pay up your debts as you agree and pay up the mortgage as you can."

With the money in his pocket and trouble in his heart, Peebles walked homeward, feeling as does a sailor when he abandons his ship. His home was gone, he could never repay the mortgage under the present frown of fortune.

At the street corner he met Capt. Lanyard.

"Hello, Peebles," said he, "you look as if you had been dismasted in a squall."

However reticent a man may be about his own troubles sometimes they gall him so that it is a relief to talk of them and Peebles told Lanyard the whole story.

"Whew!" said Lanyard, "that's tough. Why don't you make some money?"

"But how?" asked Peebles.

"Spekilate," replied Lanyard. "The time's gone by when a man can make any money sailing schooners for wages and gratuities. I wouldn't be master of any ship built and I have money in bank and in my pocket. Now, I never met a belated craft on the sea that I did not have provisions and spare spars to give her and I'll help you, Peebles. Buy wheat."

"Wheat!" ejaculated Peebles.

There was a curbstone broker in New York who thought himself lucky if he had a bloater for his Sunday dinner. He went to Chicago and he's made a forlin and, as I did him a favor or two when he was poor, he gives me some tips and they never go wrong. Here's a letter from him saying 'buy wheat, September wheat. The government report will be out next week and it has leaked. It will show a damaged condition and wheat will go up five or ten cents with a jump.' There you are, buy September wheat."

"I've only $200," said Peebles.

"Plenty," said Lanyard, "buy 5,000 bushels, put up your $200 and when it goes up to where you'll have $250 profit sell her out. It's as easy as heaving a log."

"S'pose it goes down?"

"It won't go down. This fellow is never wrong. I'm going to buy 20,000 bushels. See Comstock and tell him I sent you."

Peebles walked on thinking deeply. This was the secret of Lanyard's prosperity. Why shouldn't he do as well.

He heard himself hailed and saw Josiah Boggs, a shipowner, beckoning to him. "Peebles," said Boggs, "I've manners of the west, and rather proud of the facility of her baby for making friends, was about to pass the baby to Billy, when suddenly there came from the engine the long, shrieking whistle which all railroad men know and dread —the danger signal. The next second the brakes gripped the car wheels with a suddenness and force which sent the passengers tumbling over each other and the seats. The car seemed to recoil on itself in its desperate effort to stop. Then the front trucks rose from the ground, there was a crashing of timbers, a hissing, rending sound, rising in the scale to almost a wail, as the front wheels tore their way through the woodwork on the preceding car, the floor of the car seemed to twist and writhe like a living thing. Then the whole car careened wildly and with a crash of breaking glass and smashing timbers, fell over on its side, the opposite to that on which Bill and the sheriff had been sitting.

For a moment Billy was stunned and helpless. Then as his senses came back he struggled to his feet, how he scarcely knew. He had been cut by the glass in the car windows and was bruised from head to foot, but to his surprise found that he was not seriously injured. On the ground, a few feet away, lay Sheriff Wilson, unconscious, the blood running from a gash in his forehead.

On every side were men and women, some dangerously injured, others dazed, yet little hurt, others still pinned down by the wreckage. It had been a collision and a bad one, and even as Billy straightened himself up and tried to recall his scattered senses, from every direction came groans, shrieks, calls for help, and all the heart-breaking accompaniments of a railroad accident.

Billy's first thought was to turn in and devote every energy to helping those less fortunate than himself who had been caught in the wreckage. Then he stopped. Sheriff Wilson was unconscious. Before he regained his senses Billy could be far away. When the sheriff missed him it would be thought he was hurled in the wreck. With so much time Billy was certain of making a successful escape. It would be a mean thing to do, thought Billy, but on the other hand rose up the grim picture of the penitentiary, its narrow cells, its bitter routine of labor, its hardships and loss of all that made life worth living. Besides, what difference would one man make in the task of clearing such a wreck?

Once again, when he had regarded all as definitely settled, Fate had brought home to Billy Thompson the choice of which path in life he should take.

It was a baby's chubby hand that turned the balance. Even as Billy stood undecided he heard a frightened wail, and saw a dimpled little fist sticking out from under one of the shattered fragments of the car in which he had been sitting before the wreck. And with a sudden thrill Billy realized that the plump, friendly baby, who a moment before had been cooing and laughing in his very face, was pinned under the wreckage. All thought of the penitentiary vanished. Billy plunged at his task of rescue, working furiously, yet careful not to dislodge any of the timbers in such a way that they would fall on the little prisoner.

It was a hard task and not a short one, though other willing hands soon had joined to Billy's. But in the end both the plump baby and its young mother were extricated from the wrecked car. In the car were dead and badly injured, but the baby and its mother were unhurt, except for a few bruises. When the car had careened to one side the back of the seat on which they had been sitting had turned over in such a manner as to imprison them, but also to protect them from the broken glass and timbers. But if it had not been for Billy's prompt and desperate work there was a chance that they would not have been released until the flames which now were sweeping through the mess of wreckage had rendered it too late.

When Billy realized that the plump baby and its mother were safe he drew a long breath of relief. Then he suddenly realized that among the men who had been assisting him was Sheriff Wilson. The sheriff had been only slightly injured, and as soon as he regained his senses, regardless of the blood which was pouring from the cut in his forehead had rushed to help in the work of rescue. Now he turned to Billy.

"So, while I was on my back you were getting the kid and its mother out of the wreck, instead of trying to run away?" he observed, in a voice whose gruffness tried in vain to conceal its kindliness.

He glanced sharply at Billy as he spoke. But it was not the look of a sheriff towards his prisoner, but such as one brave man gives another. Billy met it with as straightforward a glance. For a moment he was no longer the convict, but a man who had made his choice bravely and well in one of life's great emergencies.

"If I've got any influence in Williston county," added Sheriff Wilson in emphatic tones, "and I think I have, it won't be so very long before a pardon comes to the pen, Billy."

Billy looked at the plump baby and its mother. She was weeping, but her tears were not those of grief. And Billy did not regret his lost chance to escape, nor the choice he had taken. Even without the sheriff's last words he felt that it had been a good one.

More Than One Could Handle.

Experts declare that there is but a small supply of contract wheat in the country. However, remarks the Chicago Daily News, the man who might start in to buy it all doubtless would find several carloads still offered after his bank account had run out.

Troubles of Russia.

Some of our best sign readers, remarks the Chicago Daily News, think there are a few signs of the times that indicate more danger for the imperial government of Russia from the red peril at home than from the yellow peril abroad.

over-confidence got the hest of Mr. Demann's friends, and they had no thought that he was in danger of defeat. There was hardly a business man in town but what was in favor of his candidacy, but as they had figured that he had an easy victory no attempt was made to show the voters why they should stand by him. Mr. Demann has always been a loyal friend to Red Lake Falls and deserved a much larger vote than he got here.

For Coroner, Joseph Belair was elected without opposition, as was J. K. Wood, of Thief River Falls, for Surveyor,

The ticket is composed of first-class men, and is an assured fact that the affairs of the county will be ably handled during the next two years.

The Local Field...

Polk county elected her full set of Republican officers at Tuesday's election.

Services will be held at St. Joseph,s church in this city Monday morning at ten o'clock, for the late deceased father of L. P. Berthon, who died at Paris, France, today.

Election day was rather exciting in Red Lake Falls, and enthusiasm got worked up to a rather high pitch on several occasions. The saloons were closed and business was at a general standstill, so that the people had ample opportunity to discuss their views on the street corners.

An eastern man recently made a trip through Kansas and Oklahoma, a region that he had not visited for more than thirty years. "I suppose that you noticed many changes out there," remarked a friend. "Yes, indeed," replied the traveler: "when I first visited that country there were many red men there without a white. On my recent trip I saw many white men without a red."

L. P. Berthon received a telegram this afternoon, announcing the death of his father, Edward Berthon, at Paris, France. at 1:30 today. The cause of his death was cancer of the throat, from which he had been a long sufferer. Seven years ago he underwent an operation to relieve him of his disease, but it grew again and during the last six months he has been failing, death resulting at last. Mr. Berthon was 72 years of age, and leaves a wife and four children, 3 sons and one daughter, to mourn his loss Two of the children are in Paris, one in England and one, L. P., a resident of this city. The elder Berthon was an old and respected resident of the Parisian capitol, and his death will be mourned by countless friends.

Thief River Press: It is rumored, and it seems plausible, too, that the Great Northern railway will next year extend the Pelican Rapids branch to Winnipeg Junction to connect with the Northern Pacific at that place and that trains will be run over that line to Red Lake Falls and the towns north of there. Pelican Rapids is only 22 miles from Winnipeg Junction and is on a straight line with this branch of the Northern Pacific. Just take a look at the map and see how plausible it looks. The Great Northern has a grade some three miles east of Fertile that was built with the intention of extending the Pelican Rapids branch some sixteen or seventeen years ago but persons who are in a position to know claim it will never be utilized and as the two roads are practically under one management if the extension is to be made it will be done as stated above.

"An Ame ican Tramp."

A new play to our theatre-goers comes to Red Lake Falls next Tuesday night. It is said to be one of those comedy melodramas suited to the taste of the popular-priced circuit and was written especially with this view to entertain the masses. There are situations that are humorous and lines that are said to be bright and the piece contains plenty of action. The play, which is in four acts, should please the patrons of the Metropolitan Opera House.

A genuine tramp, a life insurance agent, a wealthy rogue and deceitful husband, a persecuted wife and mother, a beautiful daughter and a village ne'er-do-well, are the principal actors which go to make up Manager Newell's comedy sensation, "An American Tramp". The play is from the pen of Mr. E. E. Kidder, who is responsible for more tender, touching, pathetic, heart-interesting plays than any other author now before the public. His "Peaceful Valley" and "A Poor Relation" made the late Sol Smith Russell famous and a millionaire. In this work he promises ot surpass his other efforts and give to us a piece that for stirring situations, startling climaxes, as well as heart touching interest cannot be surpassed. Manager Newell has cast "An American Tramp" with care, selecting only artists eminently fitted for their respective roles. Comedy and pathos richly blending, touching that wellspring of emotion, the heart, and aus the risibilities of its beholders to broaden from a smile into a hearty laugh, may be expected. The cast includes Miss Virginia Melville, Miss Edna Clayton, Miss Rhea Lusby, Miss Vera Wilson, Messrs. Charles Porter, William L. Baker, Hugh Adams, Charles Emmett, Horace Vinton and others. There are specialties introduced in each act. Songs that reach the heart, witticisms that will bring smiles, comedy that will cause laughter and sensational climaxes that will thrill all who witness the startling situations contained in "An American Tramp" on next Tuesday, November 15th.

Department Makes Ruling.

The United States land office at Crookston is in receipt of a ruling by the commissioner of the general land office relating to relinquishments of Red Lake lands, the 11 towns east of Thief River Falls.

The commissioner holds. That in case of a failure of a purchaser at the public offerings of any of these lands, to make the required payments, whether such failure results from a relinquishment of his entry or any other cause, the land involved is not again subject until it has been reoffered by authority of the Secretary of the Interior. Any payment made by a purchaser before his relinquishment or failure to pay will be forfeited.

Where, however, an entry has been made subsequent to the public offerings and the same is relinquished, the land would seem to be subject to entry by the first legal applicant.

A second entryman could in no event receive credit for any payments made by a former entryman.

This ruling will thwart the scheme proposed by some of the purchasers of land at the public auction held at Crookston. It was proposed by them to bid the land in, make one payment and then relinquish. Some relative or friend would homestead the land under the four dollar an acre provision of the bill and on high priced lands they would save several dollars per acre. The secretary of the interior has foiled their scheme.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. Van Metre of Shepherdtown, W. Va., says: "I had a severe case of Bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. EVENTS OF THE WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Jeff O'Connell, aged eighty-two, for fifty-five years a resident of the state, is dead at his home in Waverly.

Freeman H. Randall, a fifteen-year-old Duluth schoolboy, dived fifteen feet from a bridge and saved the life of a companion.

Leonard Peterson, ten years old, fell fifty feet from a building in course of construction at Minneapolis and may die of his injuries.

Marsh P. Hawkins, for many years a well known and prominent resident of Minneapolis, is dead at Los Angeles, Cal., after a long illness.

Charles Powers of Lanesboro, who assaulted a young girl, pleaded guilty in the district court at Preston and goes to Stillwater for fifteen years.

Frank E. Holmquist of St. Paul fell from a wagon while attempting to climb to the seat and the wheels passing over his head crushed his skull.

Poul Darrenberger, the seven-year-old son of Gebhord Darrenberger, accidentally killed himself at Le Sueur while playing with a loaded shotgun.

Mrs. Drury Cogswell, a pioneer resident of Lake City, is dead, aged eighty-eight years. She was born at Stewarts Corners, N. Y., and resided in Lake City about fifty years.

The St. Paul branch of the Cigar Dealers' Association of America has decided to put its own copyright brands of smoking and chewing tobacco on the market to compete with the "trust" goods.

Guests of the fashionable Berkeley hotel at Minneapolis were routed out by fire one day last week. A. H. Sherman, an invalid, was rescued with some difficulty and it is feared the shock and exposure may result seriously.

Mrs. G. Gesca, living south of Le Sueur Center, was accidentally shot by the hired man on the place, who was shooting at a cat. The charge from the gun went through a building and lodged in her hip. She is in a critical condition.

Lighting a fire with kerosene is not an unnecessary exposure to obvious risk of injury or obvious danger, provided the person has good reason to believe that there is no fire in the stove, according to a decision of the state supreme court.

An interurban car bound from Minneapolis for St. Paul was struck by a train at a railroad crossing. The car was hurled completely from the tracks and turned over. Andrew Jackson of Roscoe, S. D., was killed and several other passengers were injured.

Wallace E. Smith, aged fifty years, an engineer on one of the engines operated by the Drake & Stratton company, stripping contractors, at the Stevenson mine, near Hibbing, was accidentally killed Friday. His engine collided with another in the pit.

Miss Eloise Reusse of St. Paul, who became insane at Chicago while undergoing the ordeal of the so called "sunworshipping fast," is dead in the state hospital for the insane at Elgin, Ill. Dr. Frank S. Whitman, superintendent of the hospital, says that death was due to acute mania, induced by starving.

After three years of continued effort toward the desired standard of equipment and efficiency the Minnesota national guard has received recognition from the war department as being "sufficiently armed, uniformed and equipped for active duty in the field," according to the requirements applied to the regular army.

H. D. Howell is dead at Aitkin as a result of a quarrel with L. W. Daniels, who, it is charged, struck him a blow behind the ear, felling him to the ground, where his head came in contact with the pavement and resulted in injuries to which his death was ascribed. The quarrel was a continuation of a dispute between the children of the two men.

Dull times on the Mesaba iron range due to the lake strike, seem likely to cause a movement of population into the homestead section of St. Louis county. The latest development is the plan of certain Finns of Eveleth to form a co-operative society to take up land in the Pelican lake region. Their plan is to get a tract of land where sixteen quarter sections can be homesteaded.

The Iowa and Minnesota Cereal company of Mason City, Ia., has concluded the purchase of a line of twenty-two elevators in Southern Minnesota and Northern Iowa, making it one of the largest grain companies in its territory. Governor Cummins, Senator A. G. Gale, T. A. Way, State Treasurer Gilbert and others of prominence in Iowa politics are interested in the company.

After floating about the bay at Duluth for two weeks the body of Axel Leonard, a bartender, was fished out of a slip Thursday night. Leonard was discharged from his brother's employ on account of drink and shortly afterward began buying and selling notes and mortgages. Approximately $900 in gilt edge notes were found in his pockets. Death is believed to have been accidental.

The case of Russell Sage, assignee for the Hastings and Dakota Railroad company, vs. Theodore A. Maxwell has been docketed in the supreme court of the United States. The case grows out of a dispute over title to the land within the indemnity limits of the Hastings and Dakota railway in Minnesota, of which it is claimed that there should originally have been 922,182 acres. Maxwell claimed under a homestead entry and his contention was sustained by the Minnesota state supreme court. This is a test case.

Attending Chapel Services.

SISTERS OF CHARITY

All Over United States Use Pe-ru-na for Catarrh,

From a Catholic Institution in Ohio comes the following recommend from the Sister Superior:

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character.

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold, cough and bronchitis."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8, 1901.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sir---"The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after further use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured."

This young girl was under the care of the Sisters of charity and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat, with good results as the above letter testifies.

Another recommend from a Catholic institution in one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as follows:

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and since then we have used it with wonderful results for grip, coughs, colds and catarrhal diseases of the head and stomach.

"For grip and winter catarrh especially it has been of great service to the inmates of this institution."

SISTER SUPERIOR.

A prominent Mother Superior says:

"I can testify from experience to the efficiency of Peruna as one of the very best medicines, and it gives me pleasure to add my praise to that of thousands who have used it.

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself very much improved. The remains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna.

"I am now treating another patient with your medicine. She has been sick with malaria and troubled with leucorrhœa. I have no doubt that a cure will be speedily effected."

MOTHER SUPERIOR.

These are samples of letters received by Dr. Hartman from the various orders of Catholic Sisters throughout the United States.

The names and addresses to these letters have been withheld from respect to the Sisters, but will be furnished upon request.

In every country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of those with whom they come in contact, but they minister to their bodily needs. They are as skilled as trained nurses in their treatment of diseases and are looked upon as messengers of good cheer by countless patient sufferers.

One-half of the diseases which afflict mankind are due to some catarrhal derangement of the mucous membrane lining some organ or passage of the body. A remedy that would act immediately upon the congested mucous membrane, restoring it to its normal state, would consequently cure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it be in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations.

The Sisters Find Pe-ru-na a Never Failing Safeguard.

Peruna is such a remedy. The Sisters of Charity know this. When catarrhal diseases make their appearance they are not disconcerted, but know exactly what remedy to use. These wise and prudent Sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard. They realize that when a disease is of a catarrhal nature, Peruna is the remedy. Dyspepsia and female weakness are considered by many to be entirely different diseases. That dyspepsia is catarrh of the stomach and female weakness is due to catarrh of the pelvic organs the Sisters are fully aware, consequently Peruna is their remedy in both these very common and annoying diseases.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Exuality—Frank Compton.

Plummer—J. E. Buskirk, W. G. Brown.

SHOW IS WAY UP.

Thief River Falls Pleased With Charlesworth Co.

The Gazette is in receipt of a telephone message from Editor S. W. Bagley, of the Thief River Falls Press, stating that the Charlesworth concert company, which shows here Friday evening, gave a concert to a crowded house at Thief River Falls last night and that it was by far the finest entertainment ever given in that city. Every member of the company is an artist of rare ability, and the people there were delighted with the company. Everyone should turn out and hear these people. Seats are on sale at Anderson's Jewelery store.

MORE RAILROAD TALK.

Claim Made that N. P. Will Build Line To Rosean.

Charles A. Scott, of Madison, Wis., of the engineer's department of the Northern Pacific railroad company, arrived in Rosean Wednesday from a drive across the country from Warren to Roseau, says the Rosean Times. Mr. Scott stated to the Times reporter that he was sent out by his company to look over the country in advance of the survey of a line now being run by the N. P. engineers from Keystone to Rosean. Mr. Scott said the survey crew had reached a point 20 miles northeast of Warren and would complete a survey of the line to Rosean and thence to Warroad this month. "The building of the road has been decided upon," said Mr. Scott, "and the road will be built before next fall. There is no secret about it, and I was sent out to get a general idea of the country for the benefit of the construction department."

COMPETITION FOR SOO

Great Northern Planning On Operations In Northern Territory To Retain Their Hold On Trade.

Captain Jenks, of the Great Northern, Contractor Guthrie, who does all of the heavy structural work for the firm and is at present engaged on the Red Lake Falls connection with the Northern Pacific as well as upon the Thief River Falls extension, came in yesterday morning on their way to Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls, says the Crookston Journal, where during the day yesterday they investigated conditions and made plans for the completion of the work. The Thief River Falls extension work has about all been stopped because of the freeze-up and the crews are now at work getting things in readiness for the winter season. At Red Lake Falls, however, the conditions are different and the railroad men are busy daily hurrying the big cut to completion in order that the rails may be laid and the Great Northern trains allowed to enter the place from Dndgale over the Northern Pacific tracks rather than through Wylie as heretofore.

It is generally understood in railroad quarters that the Wylie line will be torn up in the spring and that representatives of the G. N. have already made offers to the Wylie people who will be put out of pocket considerably by the removal of their station and connection with the road, for settlement. That the Great Northern has either leased or acquired title to the Northern Pacific line from Tilden to Red Lake Falls is generally understood and the impression has also got aboard that the piece of track from Carthage Junction to the Falls, which will be practically useless under the new arrangement, will be abandoned and torn up.

The plans of the Great Northern officials as viewed from the present manipulations are evidently for the pushing of the Pelican Rapids line northward next season and the beginning of a fierce competition with the new Soo line in its own territory. The Pelican Rapids line will traverse a district covered by the Soo and will run almost parallel with the Glenwood extension of that road.

THE FIRST SESSION.

Recently Organized Teachers' Protective Association Will Meet.

The recently organized Red Lake and Polk county Teachers' Protective association will hold their first meeting at the high school building in this city Saturday next, November 19, and an excellent program is being prepared for the meeting.

Three sessions will be held, one in the morning, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, and at each of these an appropriate program will be rendered. Several outside speakers are expected to assist the local entertainers with the program, and altogether the day is expected to result in much pleasure and great good to the members of the association.

It is expected that frequent meetings will be held during the winter, and this newly formed association promises to be one of the most successful organizations in the Valley.

John Lacrosse vs. Dolphis Beausoliel.

Many Marrige Licenses.

The election excitement of the past couple of months put a decided damper upon the matrimonial market in Red Lake county, but now that the thing is settled as to who will save the country for the next two years, the stock has taken a decided boom and Clerk Perrault has done a rushing business since last Thursday. The following licenses have been issued since last Thursday:

J. W. Rayson and Beatrice Beasley, of Thief River Falls.

Harry L. Blair and Marie Krouse, of Thief River Falls.

Chas. J. Erickson and Dena Marie Berg, of Thief River Falls.

Fred Sandmoen and Emma Thompson, of St. Hilaire.

Christ Anderson, of Marshall county, and Tona Sordahl, of Thief River Falls.

A SUCCESS.

Concert at the Opera House Drew Out a Large Attendance Last Night.

Bemidji Pioneer: The appearance of the Charlesworth company at the opera house last evening was signalized by a large attendance. The concert was given under the auspices of the Ladies Musical club and was a complete success from a financial as well as from a musical standpoint.

Miss Charlesworth has a contralto voice of great power and purity and her every appearance brought forth an enthusiastic applause. Her "Response a Amoureuse', and her final number "Cradle Song" were especially fine. Mr. Copley is an English cellolst of exceptional ability and his selections were thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Berryman's voice is sweet and musical and the company as a whole is a strong one.

The Ladies Musical club is to be congratulated in securing so superior an attraction for Bemidji and to the success which it made of the entertainment.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale at Schreiter's Drug Store.

Life Scholarship at the Crookston College for $50.

Dayton, Ohio, Mrs, Mary Simpson— "Everything disagreed with me and baby until I used Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. Now baby sleeps and grows like a weed." 35 cents. Tea or tablet form. W. A. Schreiter.

COAL—Joseph Sally has a complete assortment of all grades of hard and soft coal on hand and is prepared to deliver it in ton lots, more or less on short notice. Hunt up Mr. Sally when you want that next supply of coal.

"I was troubled with constipation and stomach troubles, lost flesh, my complexion was ruined; Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea brought back my health and complexion."—Mary Allen, St. Louis. 35 cents. W. A Schreiter.

Quick Arrest.

J. A. Gulledge of Verbena, Ala., was twice in the hospital from a severe case of piles causing 24 tumors. After doctors and all remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and kills pain. 25c at W. A. Schreiter, Druggist.

Charlesworth Concert Company.

Cass Lake Voice: It is rare indeed that a Cass Lake audience has an opportunity to listen to such a high grade and classical entertainment as that given by the Grace Charlesworth concert company. Miss Charlesworth possess a superb contralto voice, highly cultivated which she uses to great advantage. Her rendition of the several numbers on the program were well received and the lady was compelled to respond with an encore. Mr. Copley is a violinist of special merit. His handling of the instrument showed the master with every touch of the bow. His rendition of selections from Verdi's "Ill Frovatore" showed the artist in every way. Miss Cecille Berryman, as accompanist is a piano player of rare merit. This lady is the possessor of a rich soprano voice, which she is not using at the present time on account of an attack of laryngitis. Should the company ever again visit Cass Lake it will be favored with an overflowing house.

'Taint no use to sit down and whine,
When no fish get tangled in your line;
Bait your hook with a bumble bee,
And keep on taking Rocky Mountain Tea. W. A. Schreiter.

Politics are very important factors in our country but still more important are the care of your feet, shoe them well with a W. L. Douglas, fall calf shoe—Carceau & Zaiser.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at W. A. Schreiter's.

You can buy your dress shirts now below wholesale price from Berthon & Armstrong—your choice at 70c.

Only Makes a Bad Matter Worse.

Perhaps you have never thought of it but the fact must be apparent to every one that constipation is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the use of drastic cathartics like the old fashioned pills only makes a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are much more mild and gentle in their effect, and when the proper dose is taken their action is so natural that one can hardly realize it is the effect of a medicine. Try a 25 cent bottle of them. For sale at Schreiter's Drug Store.

Train Robbery.

Bert Martin, the baritone. will present his illustrated concert at the opera house Wednesday and Thursday November 23rd and 24th, Entertainments of this kind are all the rage where they are presented in a proper manner. All go to see the beautiful pictures and hear the songs.

Song program: "Star and the Flower," "Niggar with a Beard," "Please Mr Conductor Don't put me off the Train" and "Jack How I Envy You." The features in the moving pictures: "Little Red Riding Hood," the picture illustrates the story entire: "Casey's Night Mare," "Trip to the Moon" and the great sensational subject, "The Great Train Robbery," showing bandits boarding train, fight on engine, passengers held up, removing booty, getting away, operator found bound and gagged, western dance hall, sheriff and cow boys in pursuit, death of robbers and no end of comic pictures from life. Something to see, to hear, to interest and to amuse all. Admission 35c, children 15c, reserved seats 50c.

Made Young Again.

"One of Dr. King's New Life Pills each night for two weeks has put me in my 'teens' again" writes D. H. Turner of Dempseytown, Pa. They're the best in the world for Liver, Stomach and Bowels. Purely vegetable. Never gripe. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's Drug Store.

SIR JOHN SOANE'S WHIM.

The Practical Joke a Celebrated Man Played on Posterity.

One of the most famous of postmortem jokes was that perpetrated by the donor of the celebrated Soane museum of pictures and other valuable objets d'art to England, the late Sir John Soane, who died in 1837. In his will Sir John made provision for the opening of three sealed cupboards on certain specified dates in the presence of the trustees. In 1866, that is to say almost thirty years after the death of the testator, the first of the mysterious receptacles was with much ceremony and breaking of seals opened in the presence of a committee of men, with the then president of the Royal academy, Sir F. Grant, at their head. Instead of a priceless treasure or some evidence that would throw an entirely new light upon some doubtful incident in political history the contents of the cupboard proved to be worthless accounts, letters and stationery.

Twenty years passed by, and the interest that had smoldered after the disappointment of 1866 was again fanned into flame at the prospect of breaking the seals of the second cupboard, at which rite there were present among others Dr. Alfred Waterhouse, R. A., and Sir (then Dr.) B. W. Richardson. Like the cupboard mentioned in the well known nursery rhyme, Sir John's second cabinet proved "bare" of any sensation, the contents being chiefly composed of letters relating to certain long forgotten family quarrels that had not even the merit of being interesting. If some of those authorized to be present at the opening of the third and last receptacle of mystery were dubious about the profit that would accrue by letting the light of day fall upon the contents thereof after sixty years' darkness one at least, Sir B. W. Richardson, looked forward with unabated interest to that day in 1896 when the last seal would be broken and the mystery solved, but he, alas, died just two days before the ceremony was performed, and the fact that Sir John had played a practical joke upon posterity was duly confirmed by the presence of a collection of perfectly worthless letters and papers.

WAGE EARNERS AT THE FAIR

Prominent Men Planning to Help Workers See the Great Exposition.

Wage earners of America are to see the World's Fair by tens of thousands under the auspices of the National Civic Federation. A new bureau of the Federation has just been established at St. Louis upon the World's Fair grounds. Back of the movement are Grover Cleveland, David R. Francis Andrew Carnegie, Cornelius N. Bliss and others. Plans are making to have a vast number of the wage earners of the United States see the World's Fair, the most glorious spectacle of the age and the most influential factor in the education of the American citizen.

The bureau is in charge of Miss Gertrude Beeks, secretary of the Federation's welfare department, of which Mr. H. H. Vreeland, head of the street railway system of New York city, is chairman. The bureau headquarters is in the east end of the Palace of Transportation, on the ground floor. The Exposition management is in hearty accord with this movement on the part of the Federation to induce the large manufacturers and other employers of labor to provide ways and means for the wage earners of America to visit the Exposition. President Francis is displaying personal interest in the undertaking by affording the Federation every facility for the consummation of its efforts, and in this connection he has directed Theodore Hardee, assistant to the secretary, to co-operate with Miss Becks and Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the Federation's executive council, in every possible way.

The Exposition management has also equipped this bureau with clerical assistance and a full supply of World's Fair literature. The bureau will be used as headquarters for all wage earners coming to the Exposition under its auspices. The aim of the Federation is to make it feasible for the largest possible proportion of wage earners to visit St. Louis and see the World's Fair. It will see that they are met at the depot by responsible persons and conducted to suitable lodgings, where they will be treated fairly.

There will also be furnished, free of charge, appropriate itineraries indicating the points of interest to be seen within a limit of one week, which is about the average time each party will spend here. It will also indicate the objects of special interest to various craftsmen in their particular lines, so that they may devote as much time as possible to the objects of peculiar interest to them. These and many other efforts will be made to help all wage earners to enjoy the benefits of this great Exposition comfortably and at an expense within their means.

Japanese Dwarf Trees.

There have been a good many rumors and theories as to how the Japanese dwarf trees are prepared in the first instance, but this is a secret which the Japanese keep carefully to themselves, and even then it is only known among a limited number of families, who hand it down from generation to generation. One account states that a little soil is placed in half an orange from which the inside has been removed. In this soil is placed the seed which it is desired to grow. As the roots burst through the skin of the orange they are cut off with a sharp knife. The process is repeated until the roots evince no further desire to penetrate. The outside of the orange is then varnished with a secret varnish and the young tree planted in an ornamental pot.

Some of the Strongest Fliers.

Of birds now in existence probably the one with the greatest expanse of wing in proportion to the body and with the greatest power of flight is the frigate or man-of-war bird. This bird apparently flies more by skill than by strength, for it has no great carrying powers. The wandering albatross, the largest of all sea birds, is also one of our strongest fliers. One bird was known to fly at least 3,150 miles in twelve days. This bird was caught, tagged, released and caught again.—St. Nicholas.

Where She Had Felt.

"See here!" exclaimed Mr. Clubb upon discovering next morning that all his "change" was gone. "During your talk to me when I came in late last night I believe you remarked among other things that 'woman feels where man thinks.'"

"I did," replied his wife. "You have no feeling, and"—

"Well, I merely want to say you're mistaken if you suppose I do my thinking in my pockets."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Prodigal Father's Intention.

The prodigal son had just come home.

"I really meant this reception to impress your mother," confided the old gentleman. "My welcome when I came home from the club last night was very different."

Satisfied with having set a fine example for the future, he turned his attention to the veal.—New York Tribune.

In Comparison.

"I don't believe there is anything in the world hotter than a cup of chocolate!"

"Oh, yes there is," replied the wise guy. "The man who burns his tongue trying to drink it in a hurry."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Many a man lays the foundation of his misfortune by knowing too many … e of his business.

An Apt Pupil.

Teacher—James, you were late yesterday morning. Pupil—Yes; but, as you were saying to the class today, we should let bygones be bygones. Teacher—But have you no excuse to offer? Pupil—In that same talk you said that one who was good at excuses was usually good at nothing else. Under the circumstances I think it better for me not to do anything that will lower me in your estimation.—Boston Transcript.

A Reminder.

Mother—Johnny, on your way home from school stop at the store and get me a stick of candy and a bar of soap. Father—What do you want of a stick of candy? Mother—That's so he'll remember the soap.—New York Weekly.

No Chance For Him.

"Come on; have a game of poker!"

From a balloon shallow places in the ocean and rocks rising near to the surface can be seen much more clearly than from the shore or from shipboard. For this reason the French naval engineer, Renaud, suggests that a captive balloon would be a most useful accessory to a marine surveying ship.

Last year there were taken from the streets of Manchester 78,660 tons of mud in various stages of moisture and deposited on moss and peat land, with the result that really valuable agricultural land is reclaimed. Now the London corporation has bought about 100 acres of ground near Barking and will soon make similar experiments.

The most curious spire in England is at Chesterfield, the leaning tower of Pisa not being more interesting to sightseers than the queer kink in a respectable church, which, tradition says, was caused by the devil kicking out as he passed the spire. The devil had just had his hoofs shod by a local blacksmith, and his pain was so intense the edifice was shaken out of shape.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. PLURALITY OVER 200

ROOSEVELT SECURES 335 ELECTORAL VOTES TO 133 FOR JUDGE PARKER.

Maryland Still in Doubt, but Indications Are the Democrats Will Secure Seven Electoral Votes to One for the Republicans—Missouri in the Republican Column for President, That Party Also Securing a Majority of the Congressmen From That State.

New York, Nov. 14.—The latest returns on the election give President Roosevelt a popular plurality of about 2,000,000 votes. In the electoral college he will have 335 votes to 133 for Parker, with Maryland in doubt. Latest returns from that state indicate that Parker will receive seven electoral votes and Roosevelt one. Republican leaders, however, threaten to carry the contest into the courts.

President Roosevelt broke into the solid South by carrying Missouri by a good sized plurality. Folk, Dem., for governor, was elected in that state, but the Republicans elect nine of the sixteen congressmen and control the legislature which will elect a successor to United States Senator Cockrell, Dem.

DECIDED REPUBLICAN GAINS.

Increase in Roosevelt's Plurality in Missouri.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—Unofficial returns received by the Post Dispatch from all but twelve counties in the state give Folk, Dem., for governor, a majority of 36,338 over Welhridge, Rep., and Swanger, Rep., for secretary of state, a majority of 14,351 over Cook, the present incumbent. Returns from the counties received during the day show decided Republican gains, adding to the safe majority received by Roosevelt over Parker.

Judge Evans, chairman of the Democratic committee, admits the Democrats have elected only seven out of sixteen congressmen, a Democratic loss of eight.

United States Senator Cockrell will be succeeded by a Republican.

WILL CONTEST THE RESULT.

Republicans Still Claim Maryland for Roosevelt.

Baltimore, Nov. 12.—Although the task of counting the ballots on president in this state is not yet completed indications still point with seeming certainty to the election of seven Democratic and one Republican elector, but even this result will probably not be officially confirmed until the state board of canvassers meets and examines the work of the county boards.

Both sides still claim the state and Republican State Chairmen Hanna and Collector Stone, Republican leader, have announced that if the electoral vote of Maryland is not declared for Roosevelt they will contest the result in the courts.

THE RETURNS FROM ILLINOIS.

Show Roosevelt Has Carried the State by Almost 300,000.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Returns from Illinois show that Roosevelt has carried the state by over 290,000 plurality, the exact number, with quite a number of districts yet to hear from, being 292,245. The plurality of Deneen for governor is placed at 274,000.

The Republicans have made heavy gains in the state legislature, and will have a majority of 60 on joint ballot.

In congress, Illinois has gained six Republican congressmen, the Democrats retaining only two districts in the state.

HAVE BIG MAJORITY.

Republicans Gain Many Seats in the Next Congress.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—The sentiment which swept the Republican candidates into office will be reflected in the next house of representatives. From figures obtained by the Associated Press the Republicans have elected 249 representatives and the Democrats 137, a majority for the Republicans of 112. Among the prominent Democrats retired to private life is Representative Cowherd of Missouri.

OHIO BREAKS ALL RECORDS.

Gives Roosevelt Largest Plurality in History of the State.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—Almost complete unofficial returns indicate that the Republican plurality in Ohio is between 240,000 and 250,000, or three times the plurality this state ever gave any national ticket. About a dozen counties have been carried by the Republicans for the first time.

The Republicans gained three congressmen by carrying all of the congressional districts except the Fourth.

INDIANA FOR ROOSEVELT.

Republicans Elect State Ticket and Gain Two Congressmen.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—Latest figures from all counties in the state give Indiana to the Republicans by probably 60,000. The Republicans gain two congressmen, defeating Representatives Miers and Robinson in the Second and Twelfth districts. The state ticket runs 5,000 behind the national ticket.

BIG PLURALITY FOR ROOSEVELT.

Iowa Republicans Also Elect Every Congressman.

Des Moines, Nov. 10.—Chairman Spence of the Republican state central committee places Roosevelt's majority in the state at about 130,000. Chairman Spence also announces that all the Republican congressional candidates were elected.

Fifteen Thousand in Utah.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 10.—Unofficial returns from all but three counties in Utah indicate that Roosevelt's plurality will be approximately 15,000.

LATE COLORADO RETURNS.

Democrats Elect Governor and Control Legislature.

Denver, Nov. 11.—The News (Democratic) says:

While the returns on the vote for state officers apart from governor are far from complete the News has compiled tables that seem to show the election of the entire Republican state ticket, except Peabody, and of the three Republican congressmen. A considerable number of counties are estimated on the best possible advice and there is a chance that Mrs. Grenfell, Democratic candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, may pull through on the scratch vote in her favor.

The state senate is Democratic by a good majority, but the complexion of the house is in doubt.

MICKEY RE-ELECTED.

Governor of Nebraska Secures Small Plurality.

Omaha, Nov. 10.—Enough returns have come in to leave little doubt that Governor Mickey is re-elected by from 5,000 to 7,000 plurality. The Republicans made a clean sweep on national, state, congressional and legislative tickets. President Roosevelt carried the state by probably 75,000.

LAFOLLETTE CHOSEN

CARRIES WISCONSIN FOR GOVERNOR BY AT LEAST FIFTY THOUSAND.

Milwaukee, Nov. 10.—The result of the election in Wisconsin shows that Roosevelt ran ahead of every ticket and carried the state by a plurality estimated at between 60,000 and 75,000; that Governor Lafollette has been re-elected by a plurality of about 50,000 and that the congressional complexion remains unchanged from two years ago. The legislature, which is to elect a United States senator to succeed Joseph V. Queries, is largely Republican and the question of whether Wisconsin shall have a primary election law has carried by a safe majority. One of the surprises in the election was the big increase in the vote of the Social Democratic party. Four years ago that party polled 4,458 votes in Milwaukee county; two years ago 10,704 and in this election 18,120. The Social Democrats elected four assemblymen and one senator to the legislature.

PLURALITY OF 10.000

JOHNSON HAS A BIG LEAD OVER DUNN FOR GOVERNOR OF MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Nov. 14.—With complete returns in from more than sixty counties outside of Ramsey and Hennepin John A. Johnson maintains a good lead over Dunn and his plurality will be slightly above 10,000. The official canvass of the state vote will not be made until Dec. 20, but it is not expected that this canvass will change the figures to any great extent.

It is just as apt to increase Mr. Johnson's lead as it is to reduce it.

Roosevelt carried the state by nearly 125,000 and the Republicans elected all of the nine congressmen, Buckman in the Sixth securing the smallest plurality, about 3,000. The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

BIG VOTE IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Roosevelt's Plurality Nearly Five Hundred Thousand.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Complete returns from 55 of the 67 counties in Pennsylvania and estimates of the total in the remaining twelve counties show that Roosevelt had 824,907 votes, Parker 339,495, a plurality for Roosevelt of 485,412. The official count will undoubtedly increase Roosevelt's plurality to 490,000 and possibly more.

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED.

Secretary Hay to Remain at Head of State Department.

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Roosevelt has made the announcement that Mr. John Hay would continue as secretary of state during the four years beginning March 4 next.

"You may state positively," were his words, "that Mr. Hay will continue as secretary of state up to the 4th of March, 1909."

The president was asked regarding other possible cabinet changes, but indicated there was nothing to be said at present.

TERRIBLE CRIME CHARGED.

Youth Accused of Killing Parents, Sister and Brother.

Auburn, Cal., Nov. 14.—Adolph Weber has been placed under arrest charged with the murder of his parents, sister and younger brother last Thursday night and with having set the family residence on fire afterward to conceal the crime. Weber took his arrest coolly.

The arrest took place immediately after he left the witness stand and after he had reluctantly answered the questions propounded to him by Coroner Shephard, the district attorney and several of the jurymen.

ALL BUSINESS SUSPENDED.

Rioting at Rio Janeiro Against Vaccination Law.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 14.—Business is suspended here in consequence of the rioting as a result of the opposition to the compulsory vaccination law. Military and naval detachments have been called on to restore order. Thus far seven persons have been killed and thirty others have been wounded. It is believed that the opposition to vaccination is only a pretext for disorder and that the disturbances are really instigated by discontented politicians.

CAUSES DEEP GLOOM

CONDITION OF AFFAIRS AT PORT ARTHUR DEPRESSES RUSSIAN OFFICIALS.

St. Petersburg Prepared to Hear of the Fall of the Fortress at Any Time. Situation South of Mukden Shows Little Change, Occasional Artillery Firing Along the Line Breaks the Monotony.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—The condition of affairs at Port Arthur causes the deepest gloom to pervade the official circles of the capital. It has been fondly believed here that the fortress was impregnable, and as Stoessel succeeded in holding out from month to month this belief has increased.

The methods adopted by the enemy of digging trenches to approach the fort has caused not a little disappointment here, as it makes any mining plans that Stoessel had laid abortive. It is almost a waste of good powder to explode mines under a handful of soldiers engaged in tunneling, and in a sense works for the benefit of the enemy, for though they suffer the loss of possibly a score of men the resulting explosion accomplishes for them an amount of tunneling that would otherwise consume weeks.

The city is fairly well prepared to hear of the fall of the fortress, and it will not come as any surprise. It will only bring more sharply to the fore the question, "What is to become of the Baltic fleet?"

It is certain that if this ill-starred armada does not blow itself up, it will reach the vicinity of Port Arthur about the 1st of February, and with the fortress in the hands of the Japanese there will be no port for it but Vladivostok, and at that time it will be ice locked.

FOR POSSESSION OF MUKDEN.

Big Battle Will Probably Be Fought Within a Few Days.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—The latest indications from the front point to an early resumption of military operations on a large scale. Field Marshal Oyama has received heavy reinforcements from Newchwang and evidently is about ready to wage battle for the possession of Mukden.

The Japanese are showing particular activity on their right flank, as if they were contemplating a turning movement from that direction.

General Kuropatkin has fortified his positions along the Shakhe river and as he seemingly is prepared to accept a battle he doubtless has made dispositions to block a flanking operation. According to the opinion of the military authorities here his left flank is secure.

LOSE A THOUSAND MEN.

Japs Make More Progress Toward Taking Port Arthur.

Headquarters Third Japanese Army in the Field Before Port Arthur, Nov. 4, via Fusan Nov. 15.—By a general attack upon the eastern fortified ridge on Oct. 30 the Japanese gained the moats of the principal forts assailed. These were wider, deeper and stronger than had been supposed and were defended by caponieres or galleries running north of the Keekway forts. The galleries were captured after desperate fighting underground. The Russians still hold parts of the moats, but the Japanese are engaged in sapping to dislodge them, after which the capture of the forts should be easy.

The casualties on the Japanese side in this engagement were 1,000.

KUROKI VERY MUCH ALIVE.

Jap Army Staff Declares Story of His Death False.

Tokio, Nov. 15.—The Japanese army staff pronounces the report of General Kuroki's death to be absurd.

ONE MAN PERISHED.

Many Persons Have Narrow Escapes in Wisconsin Fire.

Milwaukee, Nov. 12.—An Evening Wisconsin special from Hayton, Wis., says James Releigh lost his life in a fire which destroyed Eckes & Foh's barns, together with thirty-six horses. When the fire broke out two dances were in progress in halls nearby and many persons had narrow escapes from death in their endeavor to leave the halls, which were thought to be burning. The whole village was at one time threatened. Raleigh lost his life in his endeavor to liberate the horses.

DEATH LIST INCREASES.

Fourteen Persons Perished in Union Pacific Wreck.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 14.—Late returns from the scene of the Union Pacific wreck near Granger, Wyo., place the number of dead at fourteen, of whom thirteen have been recovered and identified. The remains of an unknown woman passenger are still under the pile of wreckage. Three or four male passengers are reported to be missing and may be buried under the debris.

ANOTHER IOWA BANK FAILS.

Thirty-eight Within a Year to Go Into Bankruptcy.

Des Moines, Nov. 14.—The private bank of E. H. Skinner at Birmingham has entered voluntary bankruptcy. The cause of the failure is attributed to heavy investments in a railroad project a number of years ago.

This makes a total of thirty-eight Iowa banks to fail within the last year. In eleven instances the bank officials have taken their lives.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED.

Pension Commissioner Ware Desires to Retire.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Commissioner of Pensions Ware has tendered his resignation to the president and it was accepted to take effect Jan. 1.

The Hawley Herald (professed Republican) says that if we have "good men" to vote for he will guarantee that the Democrats will not be successful in Minnesota. Brother Reid is evidently in line for the nomination two years hence.

The Roseau Region says "Dunn run neck and neck with the ticket in Roseau county Tuesday, a shining example to the rest of the state of Minnesota. No Minneapolis Republicanism or nationality business goes in this county." Hurrah for Roseau.

It is stated on good authority that Editor John E. King will be given the position as State Librarian under the Johnson administration. The appointment is one of the best in the hands of the governor, and Mr. King's friends will be pleased to learn that he will receive recognition.

Reports to the dailies of the Johnson reception at St. Peter Monday state that the pick-pockets did a thriving business and that considerable 'Democratic' money was secured. If the Democrats down there were like these up here, it wasn't Democratic money that the pick-pockets secured, though, as a whole lot of Republican money has been handled by the Democrats here since the election bets were decided.

Crookston people have reason to be pleased that John A. Johnson was elected governor, for one reason at least. In the advent of Dunn's election, Prof. E. E. McIntyre, the efficient and popular superintendent of the Crookston schools, would have been appointed state superintendent of public instruction, but now that Dunn lost he will remain at Crookston, much to the joy of the friends and patrons of the schools there.

The Duluth News-Tribune's bright little paragrapher, Mary McFadden, hit the nail on the squarely on the head again in the following thought: "No word of reproach was ever directed against the record of Robert C. Dunn before he was a candidate for governor. Some of the men whose knives were the sharpest against him held office because of the prestige given the party by that same record, and there is no doubt that the people will soon see for themselves how grossly they were deceived into voting against one of their most faithful and competent public servants."

THE DECLINE OF DEMOCRACY.

Slowly but surely, it would appear, the people of this country are giving up the ideas that appealed to their forefathers. In the days of Washington and Franklin and Jefferson there was a revolt against the empty ceremonies which were dear to the hearts of kings and their flunkies. The framers of the Constitution went on record in opposition to frippery. They put a ban upon titles of nobility and the decorating business. If they had found it possible to launch any great war ships they would hardly have considered it necessary to provide for spectacular christenings of the boats, says the Chicago Record Herald.

In these days it would almost be considered a fatal omission if a cruiser or a battle ship were to be launched without the breaking of a bottle of champagne over her bow and a formal christening by some lady fair. Ill luck would be expected to pursue the ship that went into the water without the usual ceremonies, and all but the Prohibitionists would consider it a shame that a quart or two of good wine had not been spilled over her. But the christenings are no longer for ships alone. In Milwaukee a few days ago there was a "christening" of a brewery smokestack. A new chimney, 235 feet high, was dedicated to the service of mankind by a maiden fair, who smashed a bottle of champagne over the topmost brick, while thousands of people below gave enthusiastic cheers. Why she smashed a bottle of champagne instead of a bottle of beer has not been explained, but we may infer that wine was used merely as a matter of form. Almost at the moment when Milwaukee's great brewery was being christened, the wife of a former President of the United States was the chief figure in impressive ceremony attending the laying of a corner stone, and it is announced that the statue of Frederick the Great which was presented to America by the German emperor is to be unveiled amid grand ceremonial arrangements by the wife of Ambassador von Sternburg.

These are but a few instances tending to show the drift of public thought from the safe moorings provided by the nation's founders. The ceremonies with which New York's subway were opened are fresh in the public mind, and if to-morrow a cheese factory were to be opened in Coshocton, Ohio, it would doubtless have to be done with formal ceremonies of some sort. Since it has come to pass that Milwaukee smokestacks must be "christened" with champagne, we may easily forsee the time when it will be customary for people who buy new automobiles to have "christening" ceremonies, and the day may not be distant when Mrs. Maginnis on setting up a new kitchen stove will have to break a bottle of champagne over its rim and "christen" it in order to maintain her standing in society.

No wonder the Democracy has fallen so far in the rear. It is apparent, alas, that in our enthusiasm over form and ceremony we are rapidly ceasing to be a democratic people.

Something Worth Knowing.

Never, we believe, in the history of the United States has there been such a difference between the price of cattle on foot and their hides or skins as there is at the present time. Cattle at Minneapolis, South St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City and Chicago range in price from $1.75 to $3.50; cows average 2¼; steers 2 to 3¾; bulls 1 7-8; veal calf 2 to 4¾. If the cattle were all hides and tallow the farmers would receive more money according to the price circular issued by the Northwestern Hide & Fur Co., Minneapolis, who quote the following cash prices: Cow hides, green, salt cured, No 1, 9½c; No. 2, 8½c; Cow hides, green, unsalted, No. 1 8½c; No. 2 6½c; heavy steer hides ½c per pound more; bull hides ½c per lb. less. Veal calf, green salt, cured No. 1 12 3-4c; No. 1 11½c; Veal kip, green salt cured, No. 1 10½c, No. 2 9c; Veal kip, green unsalted, No. 1, 9 1-2c No. 2 8c. It is shown from the above figures that the hides and skins are worth from 3 to 3 1-2 times as much per pound as the cattle on foot. Rendered tallow is worth 4 1-2c per pound, rough 2 1-4c. It would seem exceedingly wise on the part of the farmer and stock-man to slaughter his stock at home and eat or sell his beef rather than ship to market; after the freight and commission is paid there is little left in common stock.

GUILMETTE IS HELD.

Mentor Murderer Waves Examination and is Held to the Grand Jury.

Joseph Guilmette, brought back from Woonsocket, R. I., for the murder of Joseph Mongeon, was arranged before Judge McLean at Crookston Saturday afternoon, waved examination and was held to the grand jury without bail for examination.

He was deathly pale when arranged and showed evidence of intense strain. He had no attorney, but says he will secure one from Woonsocket before his trial.

When interviewed he reiterated the story of selling his gun and pack to Mongeon, and says he parted with him at nine o'clock on the Monday morning Mongeon was found murdered. He claimed he talked for some time with a friend in Badger township on his way to Red Lake Falls, where he took the train, at an hour that would of made it impossible for him to have been with Mongeon in the afternoon when the latter was killed.

Good Business at Land Office.

Business at the United States land office during the past few weeks has been very good and the demand for the remaining tracts of land upon the newly opened Red Lake Indian reserve is increasing says the Crookston Journal.

Since the public sale in this city closed a hundred and fifteen homesteads have been filed upon by settlers and the choice quarter sections remaining upon the tract are being picked up rapidly. Receiver George of the land office, stated yesterday that the number of filings upon the Red Lake land was very satisfactory to the officials of the office, being ahead of what was expected at the time the sale closed here. Apparently the true value of the land opened is not learned until a tour of inspection has been made and homesteaders who go north to look the homesteads over invariably file on quarter sections.

Reports from Thief River and Plummer are to the effect that houses and homes are being built upon the land in great number this and that a great many homesteaders who have been away from their holdings all summer will spend the entire winter upon their claims. Plummer is rapidly becoming one of the greatest central points for the Red Lake territory.

RED LAKE RAILROAD

New Line To Be Built North From Bemidji Will Tap Excellent Territory.—Operations Under Way.

Before July 1, next year, the enormously rich country in the neighborhood of Red Lake will be tapped by a railroad. A contract was recently let to construct a new line rom the terminus of the logging road of the Red Lake Transportation company from Nebish to Bemidji, where it will connect with the Great Northern and the Minnesota & International, and also to improve the roadbed from Nebish to the lake. Under the terms of the contract, which was awarded to Halverson & Carlson, of Minneapolis, ten miles of track must be laid out of Bemidji by the first of June, while the entire road must be constructed by the first of July.

The line is the successor of the Red Lake Transportation company. The latter owned fourteen miles of track from the lake to Nebish. From the start, this road was a losing proposition. After hauling its locomotives and rolling stock into the woods on skids, and going to an enormous expense to equip the road, the company went into the hands of a receiver. The bondholders acquired the property through foreclosure and organized the new company.

There is no richer territory in the state than that which will be tapped by this road. Tributary to it are millions of feet of white and Norway pine, to say nothing of the poplar. There is every reason to believe that in the course of time the country will be settled and as the woods disappear it will develop into a rich agricultural district.

THE SON OF EX- U. S. MINISTER TO ENGLAND

Commends Pe-ru-na to All Catarrh Sufferers.

Hon. Louis E. Johnson is the son of the late Reverdy Johnson who was United States Senator from Maryland, also Attorney General under President Johnson, and United States Minister to England, and who was regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer that ever lived.

In a recent letter from 1006 F St., N. W., Washington, D. C., Mr. Johnson says:

"No one should longer suffer from catarrh when Peruna is accessible. To my knowledge it has caused relief to so many of my friends and acquaintances, that it is humanity to commend its use to all persons suffering with this distressing disorder of the human system."---Louis E. Johnson.

Catarrh Poisons.

Catarrh is capable of changing all the life-giving secretions of the body into scalding fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Applications to the places affected by catarrh can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. Hence it is that gargles, sprays, atomizers and inhalants only serve as temporary relief.

There is but one remedy that has the desired effect, and that remedy is Peruna. This remedy strikes at once to the roots of catarrh by restoring to the capillary vessels their healthy elasticity. Peruna is not a temporary palliative, but a radical cure.

Mrs. A. J. Schaeffer, wife of the editor of the Adrian, Minn, Democrat, arrived here Tuesday morning for a visit of several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John E. King.

Prof. and Mrs. E. W. Chamberlain moved their household effects to the Johnson residence on Bottineau avenue last week, and are now comfortably settled in the new home.

The Grace Charlesworth company, which appears at the Metropolitan opera house Friday evening o this week, comes exceptionally well recommended, and our people should turn out in large numbers to hear the concert.

C. L. Hansen, of Crookston, who represents the Watkins Medical company, is doing business through the county on his fall trip. Watkins Remedies are used from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Northern Canada to Southern Mexico. No wonder they are used in Red Lake county. 2w

St. Hilaire Spectator: Dr. N, M. Watson came up from Red Lake Falls yesterday afternoon. He was on his way to Minneapolis to see the Minneapolis-Wisconsin football game. Considering what has happened the genial doctor is lucky to have money enough left to makethe trip. Quite a number of us will stay home and be good for awhile.

J. W. Rodgers and family left Monday for their new home at Granite Falls, where Mr. Rodgers will have charge of the new store to be opened by Bangs & Co. The Rodgers family have been residents of Red Lake Falls for a long time, and enjoy the esteem of a large circle of friends, who will join with The Gazette in wishing them a prosperous existence in the new home.

T e Gazette would like to buy several cords of good wood, and would be pleased to take the same on subscription and pay the difference. Let us know if you wnat to sell your wood.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Hon. L. C. Simons was here Thursday looking over the affairs at the Merchants State Bank. Mr. Simons was one of the lucky ones who did not have opposition at the election and will represent us in the legislature this winter.

Herman Kreuger left Monday afternoon for Granite Falls, this state, where he will continue in the employ of J. W. Rodgers, who will have charge of the new Bangs & Co. store Mrs. Kreuger will not go to Granite Falls until later, but expects to spend the next month visiting with relatives in the valley.

George Lang and family, who have spent the past fourteen months on Mr. Lang's farm in Louisville, shipped their household goods to Cottonwood, Lyon county, Tuesday, where they will reside in the future. Mr Lang having rented his farm in Louisville. The Langs were good residents and the Gazette regrets their departure from the county.

P. N. Bourdon and family left last Saturday for Wadena, where they will make their home for the winter with the family of Mr. Bourdon's son-in-law. They have not left Red Lake Falls for good, but expect to return here again next spring. Mr. Bourdon's misfortune in losing his home by fire recently, made it inconvenient for them to stay here this winter, and he decided that he would spend the winter at Wadena in preference to renting and remaining here.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Manager H. D. Pettibone and Foreman Fred Stapelton went down to Crookston Thursday evening to confer with Mr. Shelvin in regard to the alterations in the saw mill here for the coming season. They seem to be undecided whether to put in a gang, another hand or a re-saw, and the meeting at Crookston is to decide the question. It seems to be a settled fact that the mill will be enlarged and the prevailing opinion is that a re-saw will be put in. This would increase the cut about 25 per cent. There will be plenty of logs for next spring and the mill will start as soon as the season will permit.

"A Trip to the Moon," and "Casey's Night Mare," November 23 and 24.

Look up the program for the band concert to be given Monday evening.

For Sale—Fourteen head of stock—seven good milch cows and seven calves, also about 25 tons of fine timothy and clover hay. Apply to Mrs. H. J. Bischoff.

The "Jolly American Tramp" company gave an entertainment at the opera house Tuesday evening to a good-sized audience, and the play is said to have been very well put on.

A. O. Davison has accepted a position as cashier of the Bank of Wylie, and left for that place Monday to take up his duties. He will move his family there later in the season. Mr. Davison is a popular young fellow, and the people of Wylie will secure a good citizen.

The Clearwater and Red Lake rivers were frozen over sufficiently to allow the small boys to indulge in the first skating of the season Saturday and Sunday, but the bright sunshine of Monday and Tuesday soon put a stop to that exhilarating sport by melting the ice and leaving the rivers open again.

P. A. Fouts, a prominent farmer of Black River township, leaves tomorrow for Esterville, Iowa, where he will make his future home. Mr. Fauts has rented his farm in Black River, and will continue to be interested in Red Lake county's development. The Gazette trusts that they may meet with success in their new home.

Mrs. William Findeisen entertained a party of the young girl friends of her daughter, Maude, at her home Saturday, in honor of Miss Maude's birthday anniversary. Covers were laid for eight, and the luncheon was very elaborate and highly enjoyed by those present. The guests presented Miss Maude with a souvenir spoon as a token of their esteem.

Dr. N. M. Watson, Will Hunt, Fred Richard, Joseph Toupin, Harry Healy, Will Erickson, S. A. Swanson, Raymond Dautremont and Sam S. Haislet went down to Minneapolis Friday to take in the big Wisconsin-Minnesota football game at Northrop field Saturday afternoon. The game, which was won by Minnesota by a score of 28 to 0, was one of the finest ever witnessed on a field, and the boys from here felt well repaid for their trip.

Rufus Poirier, who has been assistant at the Thief River Falls Lumber company's yard here for a long time, expects to leave the latter part of the week for Brooks, where he will take the management of the new lumber yard recently started there by the Bovey-Schute company, of Minneapolis. Rufus is a hustler and will make a valuable man to the new company. The Gazette commends him to the people of Brooks, and trusts that his future may be full of success and contentment.

The Crookston and Warren papers are having a heated argument over the treatment accorded the Warren football team when they visited that city to play recently, and the Crookston papers have referred to the Warren boys as "rowdies," "toughs," etc., and accuse them of slugging in the game. The Warren team played here earlier in the season and there isn't a boy on our team but what speaks in the highest terms of the playing and conduct of the boys from Warren, and the charges of the Crookstonites are without doubt of the usual color of things that eminate from that bunch of "sports." Every town in the Valley should unite on cutting Crookston out of all their doings in base ball, foot ball, field meets and and other sports until such time as the fellows who are interested in these sports over there learn to treat the outside people in a respectable manner when they go there to play. The cry against Crookston's dirty methods isn't a new one, by any means, and every town in the Valley has in the past had occasion to object to the treatment outside institutions were given when they visited Crookston and of the way the Crookston "sports" acted when they got away from home.

WORST IN MANY YEARS.

Storm Paralyzes Business in New York City.

New York, Nov. 14.—A terrible storm accompanied by rain and snow swept the Atlantic coast Sunday. The storm started up from Florida Saturday night. Early Sunday morning rain began falling in New York. Soon this turned to snow and the hurricane increased in violence.

Telegraph wires are down in all directions, brief messages being sent out with great difficulty. Railroad traffic along the coast is seriously hindered.

Many boats caught in the fury of the storm are reported to be in distress, with little chance of aiding them.

In New York city the streets are deserted and business is paralyzed.

Telegraph service is tied up more effectually than at any time since the terrible blizzard of 1888.

Boston, Nov. 14.—New England was the center Sunday of the storm which, since Saturday morning, has been sweeping up the Atlantic seaboard. When morning dawned Sunday the immediate storm center was off Cape Hatteras, but in the afternoon it had moved to the vicinity of Nantucket island. When at its height the wind blew with hurricane velocity. In this city the maximum velocity was forty-five miles at 6:20 in the afternoon. At Block Island, R. I., there was a seventy-six mile gale and at Nantucket, this state, a velocity of sixty miles was recorded. The storm passed east and was severe in Maine and the maritime provinces. The coast storm was accompanied by snow, rain, hail and slee.

Baltimore, Nov. 14.—It is apparent from the meager and fragmentary reports obtainable by the local weather bureau that the two storms—one from Florida, the other from the Great Lakes and Canada—met a few miles south of Washington. Rain, wind, snow and sleet continued until a late hour at night, causing an almost complete prostration of telegraph and telephone wires out of Baltimore.

In Baltimore city rain, snow and sleet have fallen, causing the demolition of all electric wires outside the district in the central portion of the city where an underground system was recently installed.

SEVERAL WILL DIE.

Forty Persons Injured in Wreck on Wabash Road.

St. Louis, Nov. 14.—The Wabash Chicago limited No. 10, loaded with 1,200 fair visitors, was wrecked on a sharp curve in North St. Louis, fatally injuring Engineer Joseph Hines and Fireman J. D. Llewellyn of Decatur and seriously injuring about forty passengers.

The train was going at a high rate of speed when it left the track. The engine and tender turned completely over. The baggage car, day coach and parlor car also left the tracks.

Then followed a mad panic among the passengers in which many were hurt.

HUNDRED HOUSES BURNED.

Town of Anaconda, Colo., Experiences Destructive Fire.

Anaconda, Colo., Nov. 12.—This mining town was practically wiped out by fire during the night. Fully 100 frame structures were destroyed. The estimated total loss on buildings and contents is $26,000. No damage was done to the many large and valuable shafthouses of mines in the town.

STATE NEWS ITEMS.

It is estimated that not less than $60,000 changed hands in St. Louis county on the election.

Henry Theleman, a wealthy farmer living near Le Sueur, was gored to death by a vicious bull.

Edgar H. Metcalf, a well known St. Paul real estate man, is dead as the result of eating tainted meat.

Albert Hanson, a settler living twenty miles from Cohasset, while out hunting deer shot and instantly killed his son, whom he mistook for a bear. The father subsequently attempted to commit suicide.

Eight passengers and a conductor, imprisoned in a burning street car at Minneapolis, were obliged to force the gates and jump over live electric wires in order to escape from the burning car.

The Great Northern depot at Mora was burglarized one night recently. The safe was blown, but fortunately there was no money to speak of in the safe. Only 49 cents in cash was secured by the burglars and two express packages, value unknown.

One end of a riveting scaffold on which two Minneapolis ironworkers were at work at Fort William, Ont., gave way and the men, J. W. Concannon and Edward Ring, fell thirty-six feet to the ground. Mr. Concannon died an hour afterward and Mr. Ring is fatally injured.

Because she was angry with her husband, her eldest son and herself Mary Clancy, wife of John Clancy of Minneapolis, drank carbolic acid and ended her life. This was the end of an afternoon's carousal and the climax of a series of squabbles in which Mrs. Clancy had engaged.

Herman Voight, a young farmer aged eighteen years, residing two miles north of Arlington, was found dead on the banks of High Island creek with an ugly gunshot wound above his heart. Death is supposed to have been caused by the accidental discharge of his own weapon.

To meet the needs of men of mature years who are busy on the farm the greater portion of the year the department of agriculture of the university of Minnesota has established what is known as "The Short Course for Farmers," which has been in operation for four years. For the coming year some important changes are to be made in this course which will, it is hoped, make it still more useful and popular. This course will open Jan. 10, 1906, and the first two weeks will be devoted to judging grains, dairy stock and live stock, including horses, beef cattle, sheep and swine.

I was all run down from nervousness and overwork and had to resign my position and take a rest. I found that I was not gaining my strength and health as fast as I could wish, and as your Wine of Cardui was recommended as such a good medicine for the ills of our sex, I bought a bottle and began using it. I was satisfied with the results from the use of the first bottle, and took three more and then found I was restored to good health and strength and able to take up my work with renewed vigor. I consider it a fine tonic and excellent for worn-out, nervous condition, and am pleased to endorse it.

Julius Pleth made a business trip to Red Lake Falls on Wednesday afternoon.

Otto Class came out from Red Lake Falls on Wednesday and returned next morning.

Eight men of the section crew were laid off Thursday evening. A crew of four men will be retained during the winter months.

Dan Lynch, who has been working on the big ditch at Neilsville, came home on Monday and went out to Equality to vote on Tuesday.

Mrs. Con Short and Miss Maggie Short were in from their home in Equality township on Wednesday and went from here to Red Lake Falls.

Dr. J. C. Cummings, the St. Hilaire physician, was here on Sunday to attend Mrs. Pleth, who has been ailing for several days with a severe attack of quinsey.

W. G. Brown and J. E. Buskirk drove to Red Lake Falls on Monday and remained until Wednesday to attend to some business and vote for their favorite candidates.

P. K. Olson was at Red Lake Falls on Thursday looking after some business matters, visiting his family and getting the complete election returns for this county.

Arthur LaPlante, of the "J. B." Cigar Co., and Jo Morinville were out from Red Lake Falls on Thursday to transact some business with the local cigar retailers.

The new steel bridge over the Red Lake river at Red Lake Falls was completed on Monday and inspected and accepted by the county commissioners the same day.

On Thursday Julius Pleth received a letter from General Superintendent Pennington, of the Soo railroad, stating that Plummer would have a depot agent within three or four days.

Ole J. Johnson, manager of the Hanson & Barzen Milling Co's elevator here, yesterday shipped two carloads of flax and one of wheat to Minneapolis. This is evidence of the business prosperity of Plummer.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachien Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough Any child will take it It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMetre of Shepherdtown. W. Va., says: "I had a severe case of Bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for Croup, Whooping Cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, Druggist. BEHIND THE SCENES

THE MARVELS AND THE MYSTERIES OF STAGE REALISM.

How Mimic Storms, Rain, Lightning, Thunder and Snow Are Produced. The Raging Sea and the Flying Spray—The Pomp of War.

If you want to realize how easily the senses can be deceived by simple artifices, said a well known actor to the writer, you should just take a peep behind the scenes of a theater. I'm not sure whether it is kind to allow you to take the peep, though, for it is not always a desirable thing to lose one's illusions, but if you don't mind I'm sure I don't, and I will guarantee that you will find the little secrets of my trade vastly interesting.

Of course you've often seen the stage storm, and a most realistic thing it is, as you know. You see the cozy room, with its glowing fire and its general atmosphere of cheeriness and warmth, made all the more so by the howling of the blast outside. Suddenly the door is flung open, you catch a glimpse of the arctic world, and the wind rises to a positive shriek as the hero or the villain of the piece rushes in, pursued by a hurricane of snow, and bangs the door in the face of the baffled storm fiend whose clutches he has just escaped.

It is all so terribly real that you insensibly shiver in your warm seat and draw your coat closer round you, and yet if you only knew how it is all produced you would—well, you would smile. Where, for instance, does that wind come from with its wonderful crescendo, from the faint sigh to the shrieks and howls of a lost spirit? Let me introduce you to the genius of the storm, a gentleman who is busy turning a small wheel with projecting paddles, which, as they revolve, scrape against a tightly stretched piece of strong silk. As he turns very slowly the wind just sighs gently, like a child in its sleep; faster, and the gale grows, the wind sobs and moans and whistles, until it rises, as the wheel goes swifter and swifter, into a tumult of shrieks and howls, as if all the demons of the air were roused to a frenzy of fury.

The snow? Oh, that's just as simple! The landscape you catch a shivering glimpse of is made arctic by plenty of cotton wool and a paste brush, and the flakes which cover the hero from head to foot and melt and trickle under the genial warmth of the fire are so many splashes of soapsuds. Ah, I see now you are getting disillusioned! Pity, isn't it? But still it's always fascinating to find out how things are done.

As for the fire which glows so warm, it is merely so many electric lights shining through a medium of ruddy gelatin paper, while the smoke by no means comes from the fire as it ought to do, but from a concealed receptacle containing a little quicklime and hot water. There you have it all—shrieking wind, drifting snow and glowing fire realistically produced in the most absurdly simply way.

You can make the lightning zigzag in blinding flashes and the thunder roll and rattle equally easily. You can get capital thunder by rolling a cannon ball or two along the floors overhead or by shaking a piece of sheet iron pretty much as you would shake a duster. But hark! There's the rain pattering on the roof. I knew it would come, and so did a certain man behind the scenes who has poured a pound or two of split peas into a barrel. Inside the barrel, you must know, are several crosspieces of wood, against which the peas rattle in their descent—that's the rain—and when they get to the bottom he turns the barrel, and the patter patter continues while wanted.

The hero who plunges with reckless courage into the sea runs little risk even of a wetting. The waves which open to receive him are painted india rubber, which are made to roll and heave by very human agency below. The foam that he sends flying up in a cascade as he vanishes into the watery depths is a handful of common or table salt thrown up from beneath, and instead of disturbing any mermaids in their grottoes he is content to tumble on to a mattress.

Then could anything be more real than the scene in which the heroine looks down from the upper window as the soldiers—her lover, of course, among them—march off to the war? Tramp, tramp, tramp—why, there must be hundreds of them. And just listen to the cheers of the crowds lining the streets and the short, sharp words of command. How it fires your blood and makes you long to join them!

Well, come below decks, and I will show you a handful of men, half a dozen or so, "marking time" on a loose board, clinking pieces of metal together, cheering and shouting words of command to one another, and there you have it all, the passing of a mighty host, the jingling of accouterments, the many voices, cheering crowd—all the "pomp and panoply of war."—London Tit-Bits.

Whistler and Boldini.

Here is a Boldini story which goes to prove that Whistler's method was open to constant criticism even from his brother artists. Whistler had finished his portrait of Mr. George Vanderbilt. It is a full length standing figure in black clothes against a black ground. The original feature of the canvas is a walking stick held at a rather acute angle against the right knee, and the whole effect is very somber. Whistler asked Boldini what he thought of it. Boldini leaned forward and said:

"He'll surely miss it. He'll never get him."

"Miss what? Get whom?" asked Whistler in amazement.

"Why, the rat in that cellar. No matter how the man strikes at him the rat will be sure to get away in the dark."

IT IS THE FACE

It was in Rome and at the season of the year when the old world city is full of strangers from every part of the globe.

The rush of visitors made little difference to Paul Rizeni, the wood carver, except that it brought him now and again a private order.

One day a stranger passed the little workshop and was attracted by a large, unfinished panel that leaned against the side of the window, and, glancing at the workmanship, he noticed the worker within.

Paul lifted his head and met the gazer's eyes, and the stranger smiled and hurried on. But after that he passed the corner constantly, and Paul got to look for his honest, cheery face and kind blue eyes. He was an old man and English, every bit of him.

At last one day he knocked at the low door, and Paul admitted him.

"Could you execute a little order for me?" he asked. "I want to surprise my little granddaughter with one of your beautiful crucifixes."

"Certainly," Paul answered. "It will give me great pleasure, but I am very busy, and you must allow me some time."

"I want it for an Easter gift."

Paul calculated. "Yes, I think I can let you have it."

"I am hindering you, I fear," the old man said, "but I have peeped at your work so often through the window, and that was so unsatisfactory. You are a great artist!"

"Do you find me so?" he said in his foreign way. "That panel will sell for 4 francs, and I shall get 1. Great artists are paid better than that, signor!"

"Why don't you demand a just value?"

"Oh, why should I care? If they gave me 1,000 francs it would be the same—I should only work on and on. Aye, signor, I love my art! Do you know, the petal of that rose took me one whole week to bring to perfection?"

"I can imagine it. It is superb! But I like your faces best. Those angels on that shield"—

"Ah, but they do not satisfy me. My angel's face I have not attempted yet, but I have seen it. I go to benediction at St. Mark's every night to watch it and carve it on my soul, and one day I shall produce it."

The old man took his departure, but he came again and again, making each time some excuse to speak about the crucifix, and gradually he won Paul's confidence, and the carver told him his story.

He belonged by birth to the old Italian aristocracy, but his boyhood had been passed in troublous times, and his family had had to fly from the country. Gradually he had worked his way back to his native Italy, the seat of all art and beauty, and there he had settled down to his life's dreams.

That night in St. Mark's at benediction, when he knelt gazing at his angel's face, a sudden warm glow stole through his frame. His angel had turned her face and met his eyes, and she had flushed with emotion, and he realized it was the loveliness of a living woman; no ethereal spirit, as he had almost grown to believe.

His old friend wondered at his change, and at last Paul told him.

"I am in love," he cried restlessly, "and I must—I will possess her."

"But, my friend, I thought"—

"Yes, that is true. I only see her in church. We have never spoken."

"Most wonderful!" the old man muttered to himself as he walked home. "But I wish it hadn't happened. I—I have been so slow. I ought to have brought him to see Eileen before. Now it is too late. Ah, and they were so suited—both so pure, so beautiful, so idealic!"

"Grandpa," Eileen said to him one evening—it was Easter eve—sitting at his feet in her white gown and resting her beautiful arm across his knees, "grandpa, I want to confess to you. I am in love."

"Eh? Eh? What's this?"

"Nothing, dear, for it is nothing! It is only a face—a face that haunts me night and day—that—that—oh, you cannot understand, but my soul goes out to that face!"

"A gentleman to see you, sir. I have asked him into the salon. A foreigner, I think, sir—Signor Ritz—Ritz"—

"I know. That will do. Excuse me a minute, my dear."

Paul was standing at his full height gazing into the fire, and the red glow lit up his distinguished features, and the old man, looking upon him, realized what a splendid man he was, and he wished Eileen could have seen him thus.

"How kind of you to bring the crucifix yourself, my dear friend. I see you have it."

With a cry of wonder, delight and amazement he seized it in his hands and touched the angel's face that stood out at the top of the cross.

"It is Eileen!" Then, recovering himself, he grasped the artist's hand. "I cannot thank you—it is all so marvelous—but come with me. Let her thank you—your angel, you know."

Paul followed the old man to Eileen's room in a dream and stood at the threshold gazing at the girl, who came toward them as if, after all, she could not be flesh and blood.

"Eileen, my child! What is it?"

She was tottering toward her grandfather. "That—that!" she cried. "It is the face—the face I have loved so long!"—London News.

Then She Smiled.

"I'll bet my boots it isn't so."

It was not an elegant expression for a young lady, but it was very emphatic.

"But that would be such a very small wager," he urged.

Then she smiled sweetly upon him.—Detroit Free Press.

John Daly, of St. Paul, a brother of M. J. Daly, former candidate for congress, spent several days here renewing acquaintances and looking up business for the insurance company of which he is state agent.

Charley Knauft, a member of the Great Northern surveying crew that has been here during the fall, left last Friday for Bemidji, where he was sent to work on the survey of the new railroad north from that town.

Representative L. C. Simons has been out at Brooks this week getting things in shape at the new bank started there by Messrs. Simons, Bourdon and Cheshire. The new town of Brooks is forging rapidly to the front, and the bank will undoubtedly do a good business.

John Doyea met with an accident last week while working on the section at the Northern Pacific, and he left Friday evening for Brainard to enter the N. P. hospital. Some obstacle on the track brought the handcar on which Mr. Doyea was riding to an abrupt stop, and threw him to the ground, his back being quite badly hurt by the fall.

The new steel bridge over the Red Lake river north of the city, which was accepted by the board of commissioners last week, is one of the finest structures of the kind in the northwest, and has been viewed and admired by nearly every resident of the city during the past ten days. The bridge is of the latest type of steel arch, and makes a lasting and substantial improvement.

Peter Kamm and children left Monday evening for Cavanaugh, Illinois, Mr. Kamm having rented his farm in Terrebonne, and sold his personal property and live stock. Mr. Kamm had the body of his wife, who died early in the fall, exhumed and shipped back to the old home, where the remains will be interred in the family lot. Red Lake county loses a good citizen by Mr. Kamm's removal and it is to be regretted that circumstances were such that he found it necessary to leave here.

Erskine Echo: The village council has given to A. F. Cronquist, J. A. Lang and F. E. Payne, a twenty year franchise for a local telephone system, and the work on the line has already been commenced. J. I. Wyer, who came up from Minneapolis last week to look over matters at the First State Bank, expects to remain here a month or six weeks, at least, and may later decide to bring his family here for the winter.

Ernest Buse, jr., is expected here from Minneapolis the first of the week, to spend a few days with his many friends. He is a witness in a law suit called at next week's term of court, and will come up for that purpose.

Graceville Phenix: Mrs. S. M. Sivertson and daughter, Helen, of Red Lake Falls, who were visiting Mrs. C. S. Pierce, Mrs. Sivertson's sister, returned to their home Monday, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sanderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Wilkinson were in from Poplar River Tuesday, and in the afternoon Mrs. Wilkinson took the train for St. Louis, where she expects to spend some time looking at the sights of the World's Fair and visiting with relatives.

Religious services were held at St. Joseph's church Monday morning in memory of the late Edward Berthon, father of our townsman, L. P. Berthon. A large number of people attended the services which were very solemn and impressive. High mass was said by Father Fayolle.

Representative L. C. Simons went down to the cities the latter part of last week and spent several days there with his family, returning home Monday. Mr. Simons is arrainging his business affairs so that he can leave the first of the year to take up his work in the lower house of the Minnesota legislature, where he will spend three months in the interests of his constituents.

Thief River Press: The defeat of Dunn in Red Lake county brought in the neighborhood of $150 of good St. Hilaire money to Thief River. Messrs. H. G. and C. L. Dobner and W. B. Fuller had sufficient faith in Johnson to wager this sum on the outcome of the county, the Dunn end being taken by editor Harry Ives of the St. Hilaire Spectator and Nels G. Otterness the land man who succeeded Julius Pleth.

Crookston Journal. Art Zaiser, the genial Red Lake Falls miller, who superintends the manufacture of Mascot flour at that place, spent Sunday in the city with friends and acquaintances. The mill at the Falls broke down last Friday and the wait while repairs were being made and new machinery obtained was enjoyed by the employees as a sort of breathing spell. The castings needed arrived yesterday morning, however and work will be begun at the mill some time today.

Thief River Press: County Auditor J. F. Ford was up from the Lower Falls over last Friday night for the purpose of issueing licenses to the nimrods of this vicinity desirous of traversing the wild north land in search of moose and deer. Those who have paid Mr. Ford the necessary dollar and are now entitled to go in quest of big game are Messrs. J. M. Bishop, J. L. Durbin, M. C. Harlow, John Chestnut, E. L. Wilcox, E. T. Emerson, Dr. G. R. Lanning and E. W. Lansing.

The high school football team will go to Thief River Falls Friday, to play the team there, providing the weather is favorable, and quite a number from here will go up to see the game. The boys broke training right after the game with Grand Forks, not expecting to play any more games, but as Thief River's team has been unable to secure a contest this fall, and wanted to play a game before the winter set in the boys decided to go up and give them a game. The Thief River team is said to be very speedy, and the game will undoubtedly be a good one.

Mrs. William Findeisen and daughter, Maude, had a narrow escape from serious injury while driving to Miss Maude's school in Polk Center last Sunday. The horse was going along at a rapid rate, when all of a sudden the buggy broke and the occupants were thrown heavily to the ground. The horse became frightened and run away, and after righting themselves Mrs. Findeisen and Maude walked back to Wylie and 'phoned for a rig to take Maude to her school and bring Mrs. Findeisen home. The accident was an unfortunate one, and might easily have resulted seriously.

Until the last Legislature amended the law it was permissible for Minnesota Health and School Boards to insist on the vaccination of all scholars in this State. Many parents will be glad to learn that this can no longer be required except in cases of epidemic, and then pupils cannot be kept from school until the health and school boards jointly declare an epidemic exists. Even then children not vaccinated can go to school if they have certificate from a physician that for any reason they should not be vaccinated. Many doctors realizing the danger from injecting virus into a child are willing to give such certificates upon request of the parents. Those who think it protects their children from small-pox can have them vaccinated. Others are no longer obliged to.

The past week's weather has been of the finest quality of "Indian summer" ever seen in this part of the state, and as a result the farmers have their plowing and fall work well in hand, and are generally prepared for winter. The "old residents" are already making their predictions on the coming winter, and they vary from an open winter to a continuous blockade. It is all very well to have faith in the signs indicative of the weather ahead, but it is also well to have a well filled coal bin in order to be prepared for what may happen. Red Lake county farmers are a great deal better prepared to stand a severe winter than they were last fall, an abundance of hay and feed has been provided early, but there probably wouldn't be any objections if the present favorable weather continued until May 1 of next year.

Elected Superintendent of Schools of Red Lake County.

PRESIDENT PROCLAIMS

Sets Thursday, November 24, as he Day for the People of This Great Nation to Give Thanks.

"It has pleased Almighty God to bring the American people safety and honor through another year, and, in accordance with the long, unbroken custom handed down to us by our forefathers, the time has come when a special day shall be set apart in which to thank Him who holds all nations in the hollow of his hand for the mercies thus vouchsafed to us. During the century and a quarter of our national life we as a people have been blessed beyond all others, and for this we owe humble and heartfelt thanks to the Author of all blessings.

The year that has been closed has been one of peace within our own borders as well as between us and all other nations. The harvests have been abundant and those who work, whether with hand or brain, are prospering greatly. Reward has waited upon honest effort. We have been enabled to do our duty to ourselves and others. Never has there been a time when religious and charitable effort has been more evident. Much has been given to us and much will be expected from us. We speak of what has been done by this nation in no spirit of boastfulness or vainglory but with full and reverent realization that our strength is as nothing unless we are helped from Above.

Hitherto we have been given the the hearty strength to do the tasks alloted to us as they severally arose. We are thankful for all that has been done for us in the past, and we pray that in the future we may be strengthened in the undying struggle to do our duty fearlessly and honestly, with charity and good will, with respect for ourselves and with love toward our fellow men.

In this great republic the effort to combine national strength with personal freedom is being tried on a scale more gigantic than ever before in the world's history. Our success will mean much not only for ourselves, but for the future of of all mankind, and every man or woman in our land should feel the grave responsibility resting upon him or her, for in the last analysis this success must depend upon the high average of our individual citizenship, upon the way in which each of us does his duty by himself and his neighbor." Such is the President's proclamation fixing Thursday, November 24 as Thanksgiving day.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Former Resident of Red Lake County Killed By Falling Roof at Cheyenne, North Dakota, Last Thursday.

John Malmquist, a former resident of Bray township, this county, met with a fatal accident at his home at Cheyenne, North Dakota, to which place he moved about a year ago, Thursday of last week, by being caught underneath the sod roof of a hen house, the interior of which he was repairing. The victim of the accident was working with no one near him, but his oldest child, a girl about six years old, who ran for her mother, who in turn called August, who was plowing in a field near by. Malmquist was alive when they reached him, and pleaded with his brother to help him. However, his spine had been broken by the immense weight and he died about five minutes after having been rescued by his brother, who could not release the body of his brother until after life had fled.

Malmquist was 30 years of age, and leaves a wife and two small children. He resided in this county for several years, but left last spring for western North Dakota, where he secured a farm. He had many friends who were greatly shocked by his death and who feel deep sympathy for the bereaved widow and two little ones.

The remains were brought to Wylie the latter part of last week, and interment was made in the cemetery near that place.

HANSON WILL CONTEST

Defeated Democratic Candidate for County Treasurer Will Appeal to the Courts for Decision.

Karl M. Hanson, defeated Democratic candidate for County Treasurer, has filed notice with Clerk of Courts Perrault, of intention to contest the election of Ovide Moreau, the successful Republican candidate who the canvassing board declared elected by seven votes.

No grounds for contest are set forth in Mr. Hanson's notice and it is not given out along what lines he will question Moreau's right to the seat.

To an outsider it would look as though Mr. Hanson was using poor judgment in making a fight against a regularly elected officer taking his seat, and even should he win, which is extremely improbable, he will injure himself in the opinion of the voters to a great extent.

If there was an honest, clean campaign conducted in the county at the recent election, Mr. Moreau certainly conducted it, and now that he has been declared fairly elected he deserves his seat.

Two years ago Attorney Germo came within five votes of landing and against the advice of a large number of his friends he positively declined to contest, and the result was that he raised himself perceptibly in the eyes of all fair-minded men.

A majority of the voters of Red Lake county have expressed a desire to have Ovide Moreau for county treasurer for the coming two years and unless Mr. Hanson was prepared to abide by the decision rendered November 8 he should have kept out of the game of politics.

G. N. RUSHING WORK

Building of Connecting Spur Between the N. P. and G. N. Being Hurried Along Rapidly.

The work of connecting the tracks of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads in this city is being pushed rapidly these days, and the favorable weather of the past couple of weeks has been of great help to the contractors.

The big steam shovel is, at present cutting its way through the smaller cut in the extreme south-east part of town and as soon as this is finished it will be brought back to the big cut and commence its second trip through.

It is announced that as soon as the present work is done the track will be laid temporarily, and the connection made, in order that the trains may run through this way before the freeze-up, and these temporary tracks will be used until such time as the shovel finishes the permanent cut, and gets the grade in shape for the tracks.

It is not likely that the trains will run further than Tilden on the N. P. tracks this fall, going from there to Crookston on the Duluth line, but the rumor is current that early in the spring the Great Northern will finish their line from Pelican Rapids to Fergus Falls, and then run their trains from the boundary south through here and on to the main line at Fergus over the N. P. tracks and their new line. This will give them a direct line from the cities to the boundary line, and will open a country heretofore untouched by a railroad, giving all the towns on this line direct connection with the cities and a main line service. The new arrangement will be of great benefit to this country, and will do much toward advancing the value of property all along the line.

NEW G. N. SCHEDULE

Sweeping Changes In Running Time of Great Northern Trains To Be Inaugurated Monday.

Monday morning the Great Northern will inaugurate a sweeping change of time tables which have during the past few months governed the movement of trains on the road and the public will be benefitted in a great many ways by the changes which are being planned on.

Train number 7 from St. Paul will arrive in Crookston at 2:08 in the morning rather than at 4:52 as at present and the time of arrival in Winnipeg of the flyer will be 7:30 a. m. Train 13 on the Duluth line, according to the schedule being arranged, will reach that city west bound at 7 o'clock in the evening rather than at 5:45 as heretofore. The changes in train service will be sweeping in character and all of the changes to be made have not as yet been announced. It is known quite positively, however, that the Fargo St. Vincent local train will be converted into a Winnipeg through passenger and will go right through to the Manitoba metropolis. Trains 25 and 26 from Duluth to Larimore will it is understood, run only as far as Grand Forks under the new arrangement and their time will be changed somewhat.

An additional local train covering the Dakota division stations will leave Larimore early in the morning, arrive in Crookston at or near eight o'clock and head directly back to its starting point, then to Mayville and thence back over the line to that city upon a second trip. The return to Larimore will be made again late in the afternoon and that place made a layover point.

The Greenbush line trains will run direct from Crookston to Greenbush via St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls and a stub train from St. Hilaire to Red Lake Falls will be run during the progress of the operations upon the cut at the latter place. After the connection with the N. P. at the Falls is completed the trains will be sent up via the Dugdale route.

WE WIN ONCE MORE

Thief River Falls Foot Ball Team Gets a Demonstration Of Scoring Powers of Red Lake Falls Highs.

The Red Lake Falls High School foot ball team went up to Thief River Falls last Friday and played a game of football with a team composed partly of high school players and partly of outsiders, defeating them by a score of 29 to 0—although our boys had to make 34 points to get credit for the twenty-nine.

This was the first foot ball game a majority of the people of the up-river town had ever seen, and from reports a portion of the crowd conducted themselves in anything but a gentlemanly manner. The Red Lake Falls boys clearly outplayed the Thief Riverites in every part of the game, and spurred on by one Dr. Bockman, a new arrival at the up-river town, and one who probably won't stay there long, a portion of the crowd resorted to very unfair tactics to try and help their team.

Red Lake Falls, by hard plunges and fast plays, worked the ball to Thief River's goal line towards the close of the second half, and on the first play after the formation pushed it over the line, but before the referee could get hold of the ball a crowd of Thief Riverites on the side lines got behind their team and pushed our boys back. The next trial resulted the same way, but the crowd on the side lines again shoved our boys back. Referee McIntyre attempted to give Red Lake Falls the credit for the touchdown, but this Dr. Bockman and several others of his calibre would not have it that way, and threatened to give Mr. McIntyre a severe thumping, and probably would have done so had not the foot ball boys got around him and kept them off until the respectable people of Thief River could call Bockman and his set off. Time was called here, the score being announced as 29 to 0 in favor of Red Lake Falls, although it was by right 34 to 0. Alvin Berg, who acted as official for Thief River, was very fair in his decisions and our boys speak very well of him and also of the members of the football team. The majority of the people of the upper Falls were entirely out of sympathy with this Bockman and his crowd of rowdies who disgraced themselves so horribly, and it is to be regretted that things were carried on the way they were.

Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls have always contested with each other in the friendliest spirit along other lines, and could without doubt do so in football if the disturbing element of the Thief River crowd could have been muzzled.

The home boys have played four games prior to the one at Thief River last Saturday, and until that day they had never had a second's dispute with a player on a single team they met.

Coach Wyer and Professor Chamberlain have both laid stress on the importance of playing clean football, and in every game prior to last Saturday the absence of slugging, dirty-play and rag-chewing has been a feature.

The football boys at Thief River are not at all to blame, as this Bockman had coached them and taught them and drilled them to play dirty ball and resort to any thing in order to win. Mr. Bochman will find, however, that that doesn't go up here, and he will either have to teach his team to play football as it should be played or he will find that he won't be able to get any team to play with.

The Gazette regrets that the season is so late that it will be impossible to get the Thief River boys here this year, because there is no question but what if they were shown fair treatment and had no one to urge them to dirty work, that they would put up a first-class exhibition of football, and the pleasant relations heretofore existing between the towns along the line of sports would be continued.

PLUMMER

(From the Plummer.)

P. Taggart arrived on Thursday night from Richville with his family to take charge of the Soo depot here as permanent agent, relieving J. B. Branley, who has been acting as temporary agent for the past few days and has been transferred to Newfolden. Mr. Taggart has been located at Richville for some time, and had got pretty well acquainted with the work there when he was removed to Plummer. However, he expects to remain here permanently and is as warmly welcomed by the business men here as a new baby in the family.

Dr. J. C. Cummings was out from St. Hilaire on Monday attending Mrs. Pleth who is now recovering nicely from a bad attack of quinsy.

Louis Siefl was out from Red Lake Falls this week and spent several days looking after business matters in this vicinity.

W. G. Brown, Adam Zeh and F. E. Sullivan went to Thief River Falls last evening each having business of his own to attend to.

The Plummer camp of the M. W. A. held a regular meeting here on Saturday evening last. The session was mainly devoted to routine business and applications of new members.

J. E. Buskirk took his rifle Thursday evening and went to the reservation in search of venison. He returned just after noon yesterday bringing with him a fine 200-pound buck. One shot did the trick.

G. H. Thompson, of Alexandria, was here on Thursday and went out on the reservation and was located on a choice quarter section of land by an agent of Julius Pleth's. He went to Crookston yesterday to file on the land and will return this evening. He is very much pleased with Plummer and expects his brother and others to come from Alexandria and locate here in the near future.

P. K. Olson is having the interior the "Welcome" saloon and restaurant renovated and fitted up in first-class with tile flooring and a couple of cozy wine rooms. Brown & Buskirk have charge of the constructive work and E. Bray, the painter, is putting on the finishing touches as they ought to be. Mr. Olson is determined to have one of the neatest and most convenient places in Red Lake county to say the least.

A Startling Test.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at W. A. Schreiter's.

Only Makes a Bad Matter Worse.

Perhaps you have never thought of it but the fact must be apparent to every one that constipation is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the use of drastic cathartics like the old fashioned pills only makes a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are much more mild and gentle in their effect, and when the proper dose is taken their action is so natural that one can hardly realize it is the effect of a medicine. Try a 25 cent bottle of them. For sale at Schreiter's Drug Store.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale at Schreiter's Drug Store.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough. Any child will take it. It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. Trial bottles 25c; regu o ale by A. L. Reichert.

TWELVE PERSONS DIE

TWO FAMILIES WIPED OUT BY A TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE IN BROOKLYN.

Victims Were Unable to Reach the Rear Fire Escape Before Being Overcome by the Flames and Smoke. Fire Supposed to Have Started in the Cellar of a Grocery Store and Spread Rapidly.

New York, Nov. 21.—Smothered before they could reach the rear fire escape in a burning tenement building at 186 Troutman street, in the Williamsburg district of Brooklyn, twelve persons met death shortly before 2 o'clock a. m.

Two entire families, those of Maranio Triolo and Charles Polognio, are wiped out, the last living member of each being now in a hospital, with no hope of their recovery. They are Charles Polognio, thirty-three years old, and Tony Triolo, thirteen years old, both of whom are terribly burned. Although in the opinion of the coroner, all the dead were suffocated, the bodies were badly burned before they could be taken from the ruins by the firemen.

The dead are: The mother and two children of the Polognio family, Maranio Triolo, his wife and three children. Marie Ambrosio, and her eighteen-year-old daughter, Mary Galigoni, aged eighteen and Lonaria Crosseppi, aged thirty.

The burned tenement house is in the center of a row of three-story tenements extending the length of the block and was occupied by Italians.

The fire is supposed to have started in the cellar of the grocery store of Antonio Giambalvos, on the ground floor. The cellar was stored with inflammable material and the flames spread with lightning-like rapidity. All the occupants were asleep at the time and there was considerable delay in sending in the first alarm.

GAS TANKS EXPLODE

FOUR PERSONS KILLED AND A SCORE INJURED IN ACCIDENT AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Four persons were killed and a score of other persons were injured by a series of gas explosions that completely destroyed the plant of the Pyle Electric Headlight company in South Chicago during the day. The shocks of the explosions were so severe that all the buildings near the demolished plant were badly damaged and windows were shattered for blocks and persons walking in the streets were thrown from their feet at a greater distance. Overpressure on tanks containing gas is believed to have caused the accident.

The dead are: Ralph Wells, superintendent for the Pyle National Electric Headlight company; Amos Watkins, assistant superintendent for the same company; George Muehl, draftsman, employed by the People's Gas Light and Coke company; Thomas Jinnings, employed by the Pyle National Electric Headlight company.

All of the dead were buried under tons of burning timber and hot brick and iron, making it impossible to remove their bodies for hours after the accident occurred. Firemen poured water on the portion of the building in which the dead were thought to be buried until the flames were subdued sufficiently to permit of the four dead bodies being removed from the debris.

SPANISH BARK LOST.

Vessel Foundered in the Atlantic During Recent Storm.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—The British steamer Aros Castle, Captain Day, fifty-seven days out from Java with a cargo of sugar, arrived at this port during the day and reports the probable foundering on Nov. 15 of the Spanish bark Tagalia with her crew of fifteen men during the recent storm. The steamer stood by the sinking bark for two days and on the second night the Spanish vessel disappeared. The condition of the Tafalia when the crew of the Aros Castle last saw the vessel was such as to lead them to believe that the bark went down during the night.

ON HIS WIFE'S GRAVE.

Hibbing (Minn.) Man Suicides on Account of Grief.

Duluth, Nov. 22.—Despondent over the death of his wife, which occurred about two months ago, Charles Mikelson, aged thirty-five, a trusted employe of the Oliver Iron Mining company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, went out during the evening at Hibbing and, reclining on his wife's grave, shot himself through the head with a revolver, dying instantly.

The unfortunate man had been brooding over the death of his wife and it is probable that his mind became unbalanced in consequence and led to his rash act. He leaves one child, an infant.

DIES IN SAVING BROTHER.

Girl of Thirteen Hit by Train, but Boy Escapes.

Carroll, Ia., Nov. 17.—Katie Stummeyer of this place is dead as the result of a heroic and successful attempt to save her little brother from being run down by a train. The little boy was not hurt, but the girl, who was thirteen years old, failed to get out of harm's way and was instantly killed.

Arbitration Treaty With Italy.

Rome, Nov. 19.—Foreign Minister Tittoni has informed Ambassador Meyer that he had given instructions to the Italian ambassador at Washington to sign an arbitration treaty with the United States similar to those between the United States and France and France and Great Britain.

REVISION OF THE TARIFF.

Subject Will Not Be Considered in President's Message.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Secretary of War Taft had a conference with the president during the day regarding some features of Mr. Roosevelt's forthcoming message to congress. The president is devoting considerable time each day to work on his message and it is likely that at the next cabinet meeting he will be able to present a pretty careful draft of the document.

While the president has considered with members of his cabinet and with some members of congress the subject of revision of the tariff the consideration thus far given the matter has not been of a serious nature. It can be said authoritatively that he will not discuss the subject in his message. The consensus of opinion, as expressed to the president, is that if the tariff is to be revised the work should be taken up at an early date, but thus far no decision has been reached in regard to the matter and none will be reached until President Roosevelt has had opportunity to thoroughly discuss the subject with members of congress generally.

WEDDING GUEST KILLED.

Jealousy Leads to Murder and Friends of Slayer Shield Him.

Duluth, Nov. 22.—A wedding at Eveleth, Minn., was followed by a murder at 3 o'clock a. m. when one of the guests shot another to death in the room where a few hours before the nuptial knot had been tied. The victim was Frank Parchner, a well-to-do Austrian, who had been visiting friends in Eveleth and who was soon to return to his home. The name of his slayer is unknown and it is believed that the latter's friends are shielding him.

The shooting occurred in a crowded room, during the wedding festivities, and the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. John Bolter, were dancing in an adjoining room at the time of the tragedy. It is said that Parchner, who had been an honored and popular guest, inspired the jealousy of several local guests, and it is supposed that one of these did the shooting while inflamed with wine. Parchner was shot twice and died almost instantly.

CAR HIT AT CROSSING.

Four Persons Killed and Many Seriously Injured.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 18.—A Queens street car was entirely demolished by a Grand Trunk train at a grade crossing, four persons being instantly killed and seventeen badly injured, some so seriously that they will not survive.

The demolishment of the first car was complete. It was broken to splinters like an eggshell and the bruised and mangled bodies of its twenty-one occupants thrown in every direction.

CANOE UPSETS IN HEAVY SEA.

Three Men Drowned in Lake Near Eagle River, Wis.

Eagle River, Wis., Nov. 19.—Horace Bent, a summer hotelkeeper; Frederick Anderson and an unidentified Eastern tourist, a guest of Bent's, were drowned in an attempt to cross Tenderfoot lake in a canoe through a heavy sea.

Bent was a splendid swimmer and could easily have saved himself, but it is thought he lost his life in an effort to help his guests.

Commissioner Jones to Retire.

Washington, Nov. 19.—William A. Jones of Mineral Point, Wis., United States commissioner of Indian affairs, in all probability will tender his resignation to President Roosevelt early in the administration. Commissioner Jones has been in office about seven years, having been appointed by President McKinley in 1897.

LEAVENED BREAD

Has Been Man's Constant Mainstay From Time Immemorial.

Some writer has said that "The first miller emerging from his savage state, with no thought save hunger, plucked the wheat from the stock, and, using his teeth for millstones, ground the first grist for a customer who would not be denied—his stomach." Thus gaining experience by test in the food line, it would be only natural for this miller to lay up a quantity of grain against an hour of need. Just when he commenced grinding his wheat in the rude stone mortar and moistening the flour preparatory to baking it in the ashes of his camp fire, and just when it was found that an old piece of dough in a fresh batch made it better or "leavened" it, is beyond the reach of historians. Certain it is that though the principle was the same thousands of years ago as it is to-day, it has remained for the makers of Yeast Foam to supply a yeast with all the true leavening powers minus the properties that produce sour, "runny" or soggy bread. This is the yeast that took the first grand prize at the St. Louis Exposition, and revolutionizes the bread making in every home where it is used because much better bread can be made with it from any flour.

Yeast Foam is purely vegetable, being made of the best malt, corn, hops and other healthful ingredients. The factory is also the cleanest and best equipped in the world. This yeast is the only kind that preserves in the bread all the delicious flavor and nutritive value of the wheat. The bread made with it is always sweet and wholesome and stays moist until used. Forty loaves of bread can be made from one 5c package. The makers of Yeast Foam are giving out a new book called "Good Bread; How to Make It." This little book, invaluable in its way, has twenty-six illustrations in colors, and tells how to make all kinds of bread, biscuits, buns and rolls, as well as containing other recipes which will be found invaluable in the home. The way of preparing the different recipes is very clear and comprehensive. The book will be sent free to any one sending their name and address, with a request for same, to the Northwestern Yeast Company, Chicago, Ill. Every woman who bakes should secure a copy.

The official count of the votes in the recent election gives Johnson's plurality as exactly 7,671 votes. There is no use in harping about it, though; the 671 would have been sufficient to have made us dig up all those hats.

Judge Ira B. Mills, of Moorhead, was honored by the election to the office of president of the National association of Railway Commissioners at the meeting of that association last week. The judge is one of the most capable railroad men in the country, and his election to this high office is a tribute to his excellent service to the association.

Mr. Dunn has lived and done business in the village of Princeton for many years. Out of the 400 votes cast in the village last week Mr. Dunn's opponent got just fourteen. Frankly, now that there is no longer any necessity to lie about it, don't you think that a man who looks so good to his neighbors is "fit" for any office in the land? pertinently questions the Bemidji Pioneer.

The Minneapolis Journal denies that T. Lowery is a candidate for the United States senate says the Crookston Times. The Journal is in a position to know what Tom Lowery is doing, but the press of the state do not seem inclined to take its denial seriously. It is generally conceded that the Minneapolis street car magnate is in the race and that he will get the support of the same republicans in Minneapolis who supported Johnson. It looks at present as if Senator Clapp would be given a hard fight for re-election

Roosevelt's plurality in Minnesota was 158,192 by the official count. This is by far the largest vote ever given a candidate in the history of the state, and the only thing that will retract for the glory of the thing is the election of a Democratic governor under these conditions. If the Republican state organization is responsible for this state of affairs it would look as if there was "something rotten in Denmark" and it is time that things were looked after with a view to getting together for Republicanism.

All three of the state amendments were carried in Red Lake county at the late election. The amendment increasing the gross earnings tax of railroads from three to four per cent. received 1914 affirmative votes and 166 negative. The second amendment providing for the loaning of the permanent school and university funds to or the purchase of bonds of cities, villages, towns, counties and school districts received 1568 affirmative votes and 229 negative. The third amendment providing for criminal prosecutions and the rights of the accused was carried by a vote of 1315 to 350.

Frank Eddy's Sauk Center Herald gets off the following: "A pupil in one of the public schools of this state, being required to write a paper on Minnesota, handed in the following: 'Minnesota is bounded on the north by Halvor Steenerson, on the east by James A. Tawney, on the south by John A. Johnson, on the west by the Brown's Valley Tribune. Its capitol is Granville S. Pease of the Anoka Union, the interior is occupied by Elmer E. Adams. It's naturally severe climate is modified by the hot air eminating from the Minneapolis Journal. It's inhabitants belong to the Republican race; its chief production is candidates and the principal occupation is talking politics.' The teacher marked the paper 100 and mailed it to James A. Martin."

Robert C. Dunn takes his defeat philosophically and in the current issue of his paper, the Princeton Union, comments on the election as follows: "The people of Minnesota have spoken by ballot and by that token the Democratic candinate for governor from the indications has been elected with a plurality of 4,000 to 5,000. There is no need of further comment. The result is probably decisive. The people have seen fit to elect John A. Johnson governor and one would be unreasonable to question their right to do so. All was done that could be done by the faithful friends of the Republican candidate for governor, and by the loyal party workers throughout the state who fought against calumny abuse, slander, perversion of the truth and distortion of facts and records only to face defeat. Those who have been chosen by the people to conduct the affairs of the state, will assume and discharge their duties, we believe, to the best of their ability, doing what they think is right according to the provision of the statutes and their best judgement. May they regardless of their political belief, be spared unjust criticism in the discharge of their duties.

NELSON GOES TO JAIL

Found Guilty of Assault In the Second Degree and Given a Four Months Sentence By Judge Watts.

The case of the State of Minnesota vs. Gus Nelson, of this city, was tried in district court this week, and after being out several hours the jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment, but in behalf of Nelson's family recommended the clemency of the court.

Nelson was indicted by the grand jury for assualt with an attempt to do bodily injury on the person of John Gjerherg, of this city, early last fall. It developed that Nelson was looking for trouble one night last fall over on the North Side and was creating such a disturbance that Gjerherg finally ejected him from the place, and later Nelson laid for him and struck him over the eye with a stone, putting out his eye and making him blind for life.

Gjerherg went before the grand jury and secured an indictment, and after deliberation the jury found him guilty as charged.

Judge Watts listened to the petition of the jury for clemency and sentenced Nelson to four months in the county jail, and he commenced boarding with Sheriff Linnihan yesterday.

Boys Who Must Work Summers.

Knowing how difficult it is for boys who can go to school but three or four months in a year to get much out of the regular grade work, I have decided to form a new class just for those boys. We will begin at the beginning of the work in all the branches and give them all they can do along the lines that will be the most useful to them. The work will be divided up among the teachers and done by those best fitted for that work. There are quite a number of boys in school now who will enter the class, and if there are any more around town who would like to enter the class we would be pleased to have them come next Monday as the class will be formed then. Come, boys, now and take advantage of this offer.

Sauk Centre Herald: When a girl calls you a bear it is time to do the hugging act.

A man always hopes that his daughter will follow in the footsteps of her mother, but he is not particularly anxious that his son will take him for a model.

A young man who shocks a girl now and then stands a much better show of being popular with her than one who is always a model of proprietary.

A woman always smiles with satisfaction while she is spanking her young son for acting like his father.

A girl seldom requests a young man to call again that asks permission to kiss her.

A true wife would rather her husband would succeed than to succeed herself.

No girl ever loved another girl so much that she wouldn't take her beau away from her if she got a chance.

No woman, however religious, ever enjoys a church service if her husband persists in looking at another woman during the sermon.

A woman would rather know her husband was in jail than not to know where he spends his evenings.

When a girl can succeed in making a man think he is cleverer than the rest of mankind he is her slave.

At this time of the year you ought not to expect a young lady to give a definate answer to a marriage proposal till after Christmas.

After she has passed thirty there is one secret that a woman can always keep and that is the secret of her birthday.

The most exqusite pleasure that a woman enjoys is suffering for those she loves.

COURT IS IN SESSION

Adjourned Term of October District Court Being Held at Court House With Judge Watts on the Bench.

The adjourned session of the October term of the District Court convened here Monday with Judge William Watts on the bench, and several cases have already been disposed of.

The first case was that of Andrew O. Letvig vs. Herman Schultz, Letvig suing for $200 for putting down a well for said Schultz. Schultz claimed that the work was not properly done, and half a day was given over to taking the evidence in the case. After being out a few hours the jury brought in a verdict in favor of Letvig for $60 for the work, and also allowed him $100 on a note that Schultz had endorsed and paid. F. A. Grady was attorney for Letvig and Chas. E. Boughton for Schultz.

The appeal of John Lacrosse et. al. from justice court was taken up and the decision of the lower court was reversed by Judge Watts. The suit was over some hay lands in Lake Pleasant township.

The several cases of residents of the town of Rocksbury vs. the Board of County Commissioners were bunched and a jury empaneled and sent out to Rocksbury to look over the proposed ditch line and get an idea as to what the rights of the assessed were. The case is an appeal from the assessment on the new ditch No. 21 traversing through Rocksbury, the farmers asking for a reduction in the assessments charged against them for the new ditch. The case went to trial yesterday afternoon and all of the afternoon and part of last evening was occupied in examining witnesses and taking evidence. The jury has not rendered a verdict up to the time of going to press.

Quite a number of cases have been passed and continued and while there are still a large number to be disposed of Judge Watts hopes to be able to finish by Tuesday of next week at the latest.

N. P. BRAKEMAN HURT.

Falls From Train at Dugdale and Is Picked Up For Dead.

Monday morning George W. Beach, a brakeman on the Northern Pacific fell in alighting from a rapidly moving northbound train at Dugdale and sustained serious scalp wounds. He was brought to this city and attended by Dr. Watson, the company's physician, and was later taken to his home at Grand Forks where he will remain some time before resuming his duties. His escape from fatal injuries is considered remarkable, as in falling he lit on his head.

Superintendent Sovereign, who was on his special car at the rear of the train was the first to see the accident and stopped the train at once. It was thought when Beach was picked up that he was dead but he soon came to and was fully conscious when he reached here.

Had No Election.

Thief River News: The people in the town of Esplee, Marshall county, failed to hold an election on Nov. 8th. The clerk refused to act because he is not a resident of the town since he purchased land on the reservation, and as the board did not appoint a clerk the voters were turned away and not given a chance to vote. For the board to refuse a citizen of a town a chance to vote for the simple reason that they had no clerk, when the judges are at liberty to make such appointments in case of vacancies is a matter of so small importance and is likely to cause more or less trouble especially as a number of the candidates run close.

The law provides that if any clerk of election is absent, disqualified or refuses to act, the judges of election shall appoint some qualified elector of the same political party as the clerk so absent, disqualified or refusing to act, in place of such clerk.

WORTH A KING'S RANSOM.

How Pe-ru-na Saves Life.

MRS. COL. E. J. GRESHAM.

MRS. COL. E. J. GRESHAM, Treasurer Daughters of the Confederacy, and President Herndon Village Improvement Society, writes the following letter from Herndon, Fairfax county, Virginia:

Herndon, Va.
The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"I cannot speak too highly of the value of Peruna. I believe that I owe my life to its wonderful merits. I suffered with catarrh of the head and lungs in its worst form, until the doctors fairly gave me up, and I despaired of ever getting well again.

"I noticed your advertisement and the splendid testimonials given by people who had been cured by Peruna, and determined to try a bottle. I felt but little better, but used a second and a third bottle and kept on improving slowly.

"It took six bottles to cure me, but they were worth a king's ransom to me. I talk Peruna to all my friends and am a true believer in its worth." ---Mrs. Col. E. J. Gresham.

Thousands of women owe their lives to Peruna. Tens of thousands owe their health to Peruna. Hundreds of thousands are praising Peruna in every state in the Union. We have on file a great multitude of letters, with written permission for use in public print, which can never be used for want of space.

Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for a book written especially for women, instructively illustrated, entitled "Health and Beauty." Sent free to women.

IN THE LOCAL FIELD.

David Laurent was in from Gentilly Tuesday doing some trading.

Harry E. Ives, the Spectator's leading light, is down from St. Hilaire doing jury duty this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Perl W. Mabey came down from Thief River Falls Monday, Mr. Mabey to attend the session of court, and Mrs. Mabey to spend a few days at the home of her friend, Mrs. W. A. McIntyre.

John Lorentzon, one of Grits prosperous farmers, was a visitor here Tuesday attending to some business matters. This was Mr. Lorentzon's first visit here for some time, and he was pleased at the evident signs of prosperity.

Thief River Press: Nicholas Helm, the Red Lake Falls painter and decorater, returned to his home Saturday last after completing the decorating of the Catholic church, a job which has occupied his attention for the past three or four weeks. The interior of the structure now presents a very pleasing appearance and the parishoners have reason to be proud of their church building.

The old adage, "see a pin and pick it up and all that day you'll have good luck," was recognized by a citizen of St. Hilaire Sunday. When he bent over to pick up the pin his hat fell off and rolled into the gutter; his glasses fell off and broke on the cement walk; his false teeth fell out of his mouth and broke; his suspenders gave way in the rear and his collar button was broken. He got the pin.

In the December McClure's Rex E. Beach offers the most powerful story which has yet appeared from his pen. He puts to "The Test" of cold and hunger and terrible hardship two men, one of supreme physical and the other of great mental power, and it is the mind that wins. Its courage and strength endure when the force o' matter collapses in defeat. It is a thrilling story of fearful struggle through the bitter cold of the Arctic Circle, fighting famine and blizzard and endless distance. Mr. Beach's descriptions are wonderfully graphic and picturesque, and his diagnoses of the psychologic forces which determine human power and achievement is wonderfully searching and true. He puts his conclusions in the words of his struggling Klondikers, "The man that can eat his soul will win," and "it takes the educated man to stand the hardship."

D. P. O'Neil, of Thief River Falls, was a business caller here Monday.

Chas. A. Halias, of Poplar River township, has been doing jury duty here this week.

Mankato Commercial College, Mankato, Minn., guarantees positions. Just think of it. Don't lose your chance.

The jewelery store of H. W. Anderson has been beautified this week by the addition of new paper and paint to the interior.

Confirmation and services will be held at the Scandinavian Lutheran Church Sunday promptly at 10 o'clock a. m., the Rev. I. T. Aastad, of Thief River Falls, officiating.

C. L. Hansen, of Crookston, who represents the Watkins Medical company, is doing business through the county on his fall trip. Watkins Remedies are used from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Northern Canada to Southern Mexico. No wonder they are used in Red Lake county. 2w

St. Hilaire Spectator: The saw mill is still turning out lumber as fast as ever with no prospects in sight of shutting down. Ice on the logs bothered some the first of the week but it has all disappeared and the logs are coming into the mill with little if any frost. This is the only mill in the northern part of the state that has operated the past week. The mill will run next week if the weather continues fine.

In making returns to the state auditor by county auditors there is one very peculiar provision in the instructions. The state auditor must receive two copies of the report of the county canvassing board, and for some reason that is not clear to the county auditor, each copy of the report must be made separately. They cannot both be enclosed in the same package. One report is mailed one day and the second one a day or two later. Whether this is done to guard against one of the reports being lost in the mails is not known, but that is about the only excuse for such a rule that can be thought of.

The first monthly indoor band concert by the Red Lake Falls band was given at the Metropolitan opera house Monday evening and a large number of townspeople turned out to greet the band in their first efforts of the season. The program was one that was constructed with a view to pleasing the audience, and the liberal applause accorded every number proved that the efforts were appreciated. The solos of Messrs. Healy and Prof. Oustad were well received, as was the singing work of the band quartette. The duet by the Misses Tibbetts and Dautremont was the decided feature of the evening, and they responded to a very enthusiastic encore. The concert as a whole was a great success and gave assurance that the winter season will be filled with enjoyable entertainments by this organization.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Manager H. D. Pettibone and Foreman Fred Stapleton returned from Crookston last Saturday where they were called to meet Messrs. Shevlin and Clarke of the Crookston Lumber company. It was decided at the meeting to enlarge the St. Hilaire mill by putting in a gang re-saw, a larger edger and another boiler. The work will commence soon after the mill shuts down. The entire mill will be thoroughly repaired and the new machinery installed in time for the mill to start the first thing in the spring. Manager Pettibone expects the new equipment will increase the capacity of the mill about forty per cent. The company have plenty of logs to start work on in the spring and it is their intention to make a large cut next season, probably in the neighborhood of thirty million feet.

Mrs. Frank Glass, of Lake Pleasant township, has been the guest of Mrs. J. C. Wilkinson here this week.

J. W. Lynch and J. J. Donahue, two of Equality's prominent farmers, have been in town this week attending the district court.

Joseph Miller has had the interior of his barber shop newly papered during the last week, which gives it a very pretty appearance.

Mrs. Theo. LaBissoniere and daughter, Erlu, have spent the week with Mrs LaBissoniere's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Martin, at Crookston, and will return today.

Thief River News: H. L. Dudley, who has been conducting a confectionary and cigar store, made an assignment last week. The assets are placed at $700 and the liabilities are about this amount. The business has been conducted at a loss for some time.

Kelliher Journal: Chas. Hartman left Monday for Red Lake Falls where he purchased a fine team of horses of Ed. Enright, for use on his dray line and livery stable. He will drive overland, and is expected back tomorrow, the trip taking about three days. The increased business in the dray and livery line necessitated this addition.

A farmer doesn't have to solicit patronage from any one. He doesn't have to enter into competition and strife with any of his neighbors like a merchant; he doesn't have to wrangle for a living like a lawyer; he doesn't have to depend upon his collections reluctantly doled out as editors do; in fact he can be the most independent man on God's green earth if he manages his business in a business like way. He has more time and opportunities for cultivating his mind; he has fewer allurements for corrupting his morals and his occupation is more conductive to the highest developement of his physical powers than any other.

Crookston Journal: The Edwards-Wood Commission Co. will install a branch at St. Hilaire and A. Skatelbol of the Crookston office departed yesterday morning for that place to arrange the details of the business, put in wires and begin the work. St Hilaire, while not a large town, is brim full of wealthy citizens, who do considerable speculating at odd times and the location of a branch of the big exchange and commission company will doubtless liven things up there considerably. The office will have full wire service and should be a money maker.

The Grace Charlesworth Concert company, under the management of Seymour E. Pond, gave a concert at the Metropolitan opera house last last Friday evening under the auspices of the High School foot ball team and greatly pleased those who were present. Miss Charlesworth is a contralto of exceptional ability and her rendition of her classical and difficult solos was beautiful and highly appreciated. Mr. Richard T. Copley, the violinist, was also very fine and his beautiful tone work and smoothness of execution brought forth loud applause and he was compelled to respond to several encores. Miss Berryman, at the piano, accompanied the soloists, and her work was also of a high order. The company is composed of artists of rare ability and should they ever visit this city again they will be given liberal support.

The Thief River Press reports that at a recent evening service in one of the churches in that city the pulpit was occupied by a bachelor preacher who had made a good impression upon some parts of the audience, at least. He had finished his discourse and was about to dismiss the audience, when the lights suddenly failed. As soon as he could realize the situation he asked that some one would start a song. The request was scarcely made when one of the young ladies near where the preacher stood raised in a plaintive voice, full of tenderness and longing, that old, familiar hymn, "Draw Me Nearer." The audience literally roared, and to make the scene more amusing the current of electricity came on again just then, and revealed the preacher's face, which was red as blood, while the singer went serenely on.

Tuesday morning of last week at nine o'clock at St. Peter's church, Gentilly, Rev. Theillen officiating Mathe Scully, of Crookston, and Miss Tillie Lance, of Gentilly, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Mr. Scully was attended by C. P. Hughes of Crookston, and Miss Lance by her sister, Miss Josie Lance, as bridesmaid. The wedding was a public affair and large number of friends of the contracting parties were present. After the binding of the tie the bridal party were entertained and feasted at the home of the bride's parents and that evening a wedding supper was served to the young people and guests at the home of Mr. Scully's mother. Both of the contracting parties are among the most prominent of the young Gentilly folk and their many friends in the country and in this city will wish them success through life.

Them Thanksgiving Pies
We've starved on warmed-up ends for sev'ril weeks,
Although our oven's been plum full of stuff,
For Mary—that's my wife—has an idee
A feast is jist about ten times enough.
And so she's baked and brewed and minced and beat,
My! all the fixin's she has mixed and chopped!
If Guv'ner Jones had changed and chose next week
I b'lieve she would a-cooked until she dropped.
The pies, of course, air the big job to make;
There's cranb'ry, pum'kins, apples, custard, creams,
Squashes and minces, cherry an' some more;
There ain't no end to pie-stuffs, so it seems.
The chicken pie is in the oven now,
The little goosb'ry torts are hid away.
The pastry letters on the biggest squash
Read plain: "Nineteen ought four, Thanksgiving Day."
For now, at last, the time to eat has come,
Bill's family's here, and Sister Jane's and Si's;
They've seen the pantry shelves, but, do their best,
They'll never clear away that load of pies.
An' so to-morrow we'll be eating pies,
Likewise a long day after that, I fear;
An' when I think how dry the last ones git
I'm glad the Lord ain't thanked but once a year.
Not that I'm blamin' Mary, understand,
She must do like the rest, of course,
'Tain't wise
To fight the fashions. Yes, sir, I expect
I'm proud as she is of them rows of pies.

SUSAN JANE

A Story for Thanksgiving

By T. C. HARBAUGH

SOME people have nothing to be thankful for," said Polly Baer, as she looked up from the oven. "Leastwise that's my opinion. Now, there's Susan Jane—"

Just then the door opened and a prim looking young woman, with a pretty cap, almost spinster like in its simplicity, entered the room. It was Susan Jane herself.

"Did you want me, Polly?"

"No; but I was just saying to Mrs. Darnell that some people haven't much to be thankful for."

"I don't see why they have not. We don't all see just alike, and our needs aren't just the same."

"That's true, Susan Jane," remarked Mrs. Darnell, who had just "dropped in," as was her invariable custom at least every other day. "No doubt there will be some thankless folks to-morrow, and I heard Miss Jackson say yesterday that she didn't see what Thanksgivings were for, unless every one could just naturally enjoy 'em."

"That's a narrow-minded view of Thanksgiving, to say nothing against Hester," returned Susan Jane. "Now, take my own case for an example," and the young woman smiled. "You know that people will talk—"

"They always will, Susan Jane."

"Just because it's their privilege, I suppose. Well, some one might say that I have little reason to celebrate Thanksgiving." Here she glanced demurely at Polly. "For you know that John doesn't write any more; at least, not as often as he used to," she corrected. "But it's John's way—I presume."

"But, Susan Jane, you ought to teach him a lesson in manners. Now, there's the young parson—"

"To be sure, Aunt Polly. It's always 'the young parson,' just as if there are no other catches in the world. John—"

"He does write occasionally, then, does he?" interrupted Mrs. Darnell.

Susan Jane's countenance fell.

"You know, Susan Jane, he hasn't written for eight months," said Polly. "He got the Klondike fever, Mrs. Darnell, and I shouldn't be surprised if he, man like, for all men are fickle, has given Susan Jane the go-by for another girl, for I've read as how men get awfully lonesome 'way up there."

SOME PEOPLE HAVE NOTHING TO BE THANKFUL FOR.

"It's too bad, but just like some men," sympathized the visitor. "Now, there's Daley Marshal—"

"Pardon me, but Daley's is no parallel case," gently broke in Susan Jane. "I haven't lost faith in John, whatever you women may think of his silence."

"But you'll admit that you have no cause to be thankful this time?"

"We will not cross the stream until we reach it, Mrs. Darnell," said Susan, with a show of spirit.

"Oh, well, Susan Jane, I've lost faith in mankind in general. They just twist us round their fingers and, when tired of the pastime, they untwist and throw us aside. I think John Moore needs disciplining. Why did he go 'way up there where men starve and die, where they become mere beasts, when he had you to look after at home, Susan Jane?"

"John wanted to go, and I did not say nay. You know the way of men, Mrs. Darnell. But there's the carrier!" and Susan Jane left the house and eagerly seized the letter which the R. F. D. man extended from his vehicle.

She glanced at the post mark, changed color twice in as many seconds and came slowly towards the house.

"John?" queried Polly, as Susan Jane crossed the threshold.

"John," simply answered the young woman, as she slipped past the two widows and entered her little room.

She did not emerge from the solitude of her chamber until after Mrs. Darnell had taken her departure. Polly did not question her, as her face was strangely pale and something glistened in her deep brown eyes.

SUSAN JANE CAME BACK TO THE HOUSE.

That night no one ventured to question Susan Jane about the letter. If she had a secret she carried it in her own bosom, and the ground was too sacred for even Polly to venture upon.

Thanksgiving morning dawned clear and bright, with a flurry of snow on the ground. It was the second snow of the waning year. Polly put the turkey to roast early, and Susan Jane helped her, saying little, but looking somewhat expectant, as Mrs. Baer decided to herself.

Mrs. Darnell who, as a neighbor, had been invited to share the Thanksgiving feast, dropped in, of course, ahead of time. She had the happy faculty of never being late—to a good dinner.

"I must say, Susan Jane," she remarked, "that your Aunt Polly was right when she said some folks have nothing to be thankful for to-day. Pardon me, but there's John, and the way he's gone and done—"

"Just a moment, please, Mrs. Darnell," interrupted Susan Jane. "Some one's stopped in the yard."

She opened the door and sprang out with a slight, joyous cry.

"Well, did you ever, Polly!" exclaimed Mrs. Darnell. "Why, it's John Moore—"

Susan Jane came back to the house with a big, handsome, bearded fellow, whose arm fondly encircled her waist.

Her own face was wreathed in smiles, and she trembled all over with the unspeakable pleasure of a new-found joy.

"Nothing to be thankful for, did you say, Aunt Polly, and you, Mrs. Darnell?" exclaimed Susan Jane, to the perplexed and astonished women. "I think I have, thankful for—John!"

And it is said that turkey went begging that day on Susan Jane's plate, for she could not take her brown eyes off the big fellow who was her Thanksgiving, and who had come back from the sick camps of the far away north, back to the heart that had waited for him, and for its happiest Thanksgiving.

TURKEY AT THE M'SWAT'S.

The Big Thanksgiving Bird Remained as a Family Bugaboo for Many Days.

CHAPTER I.

"Lobelia," asked Mr. McSwat, as he surveyed the enormous fowl that loomed up before him on the huge platter at the Thanksgiving dinner, "how much did this bird weigh—gross weight, I mean, feathers and all—as it came from its beautiful home in the country?"

"Twenty-seven and a half pounds," replied Mrs. McSwat. "The man said it was the biggest turkey he had sold this year."

After a few moments spent in a careful survey of the enemy, for the purpose of deciding the proper strategic point at which to begin the attack, he grasped his trusty weapons and sailed in.

CHAPTER II.

"I didn't order any meat for this meal, Billiger," said Mrs. McSwat, as they sat down to dinner next day. "There is plenty of the turkey left."

"Is this the same fowl we had yesterday?" asked Mr. McSwat, surveying it critically, carving knife and fork in hand. "It looks larger than it did then."

CHAPTER III.

Saturday.

Dinner hour in the McSwat mansion.

"How much did you say this majestic ruin weighed when in the pride of its full-grown beauty, Lobelia?" said Billiger, making a gash on the left side of the turkey, hitherto untouched, and slicing off some of the white meat.

"Twenty-seven pounds and a half."

"I had forgotten whether it was 27 or 37. Did you ever see a picture of an aepyornis, Lobelia?"

"No. What is it?"

"It is a gigantic bird, of which some remarkably interesting fossil remains have been found. Its egg was several times as large as an ostrich's egg. The bird itself, I am happy to say, is now extinct—unless this is an aepyornis."

CHAPTER IV.

"The sermon this morning, Lobelia," observed Mr. McSwat, sitting down at the table Sunday afternoon and unfolding his napkin, says the Chicago Tribune, "did not strike me as being in the preacher's happiest vein. What he said, though, about character being formed largely by the home life, with its quiet and refined influences—O, great Caesar, Lobelia! Is this that thundering old turkey again? Are we never going to have the last of it?"

"Now, you needn't make a fuss about that turkey, Billiger. It's nicely warmed over, and it will be just as good as ever. There's too much of it to throw away, and you know it as well as I do."

"Pardon me for asking the question again, Lobelia, but how much did you say it weighed in the raw?"

"Twenty-seven and one-half pounds. You ought to be able to remember it by this time."

CHAPTER V.

Early next morning, before anybody else in the house was stirring, Billiger McSwat slipped downstairs, took the remains of that turkey out of the icebox and weighed them on the scales.

There still remained seven pounds and a half, including the skeleton.

And the drumsticks, large, leathery and terrible, were yet untouched.

Thereupon Billiger McSwat, with a hunted look on his face, fled.

He took his dinner downtown that day, and when he did return, at 11 p. m., he sneaked upstairs to bed.

(THE END.)

The Day After Thanksgiving.

Said little Willie to little Millie:

"What did you do on Thanksgiving?

"Oh! I had the loveliest time. I was helped four times to turkey."

"So was I."

"And I had half a mince pie, and three dishes of ice cream, and a lot of cranberry sauce."

"So did I."

"Then I had nuts and raisins and oranges—"

"So did I."

"And a box of candy."

"So did I."

"And the next day I had the doctor—"

"So did I."

Said little Willie to little Millie.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Now Watch Him.

"Hear me gobble," said the turkey.

"Well," observed the farmer's son, as he dragged it toward the block, "turn about is fair play, you know."—Brooklyn Life.

Nerve Fag.
If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes.

The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or druggist returns your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well. In fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarcana, Ark.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Why We Give Thanks

By

WILLIAM ROBSER COBBE

THE United States of America is the one and only civilized nation upon earth which makes no acknowledgment of God in its constitution or its laws. French infidelity brought to the struggling colonies by the soldiers of Louis XVI., supplemented with reading of Voltaire and Rousseau, together with the powerful influence of Thomas Paine, who subsequently wrote his "Age of Reason," had made shipwreck of the faith of the fathers of the young republic.

While Washington and Hamilton, although in no sense religious, would have assented readily to recognition in some wise of the Deity, Jefferson and other free thinkers opposed the proposition vigorously, and it was signally defeated.

Again and again in subsequent years efforts were made to set apart a day by the nation for thanksgiving, prayer and praise to God for His blessings. No less than three presidents refused outright to recommend such a day, declaring there was no authority for it in the constitution or the laws.

It was not until the civil war, when there was weeping in every household for the loved that had been slain in battle—not until after the signal success of Vicksburg and Gettysburg (in September, 1863), that Lincoln requested the people to commemorate these successes on a given day by heartfelt prayers of thanksgiving and praise to the God of battles and of peace. Mr. Lincoln was not himself a religious man, but he knew the people to be God-fearing, and he had faith in the people, whom he sought to serve as well as to govern justly and righteously.

Let it not be forgotten that while Thanksgiving day, thus inaugurated by Mr. Lincoln, and duly observed every year since that time, has no authority in law. No president has a right to order an observance of Thanksgiving day. He only can request the people to observe such a day. So little is his authority in the matter recognized that his proclamation is supplemented with a proclamation by the governors of the 45 states composing the union. There is no national holiday, neither Fourth of July, nor Christmas, nor Labor day, nor Thanksgiving day, nor Decoration day. The constitution delegates no power to the congress to legislate upon such a subject for the states. A majority of the latter, however, have by legislative enactment, made Thanksgiving day a legal holiday.

Yet, while the voice of the constitution and the laws of the nation are silent concerning God and His watchful care over His people, the inhabitants of the land are God-serving and God-fearing. No other land can show such abundant church accommodations, or so generous provisions for the clergy of these churches. No other nation can point to so many and generous fruits of godly faith and practice as seen in hospitals and asylums for the widow and fatherless and they that have none to keep them. No other country can compare with this in the bigness of contributions by the rich for the relief of the poor.

This is a people whose God is the Lord. When the president makes proclamation, setting apart the last Thursday of November as a day of Thanksgiving, he does it in the confidence that all of the people, without regard to creed or sect, will observe it. He knows that all the great wheels of factories will be stopped, that the great hammers of the shops will be silent, that the places of business will be closed, that the farmers will rest from their toil, and that all the mines will cease their operations in obedience to his request.

Meet, right and proper is it that this spirit should prevail in American breasts, for God has blessed this nation as no other nation of the earth has been blessed. It is first in wealth, manufactures, in mining, in farming. It leads all other nations in foreign trade. It is separated by wide seas from other great nations, so that no great standing army is needed for the maintenance of its peace. Seedtime and harvest never fail within its border, and its people are spared the pestilence that stalketh at noonday and the famine that maketh desolate the remote places of earth.

The closing year has been one of peace and prosperity throughout the land. The products of mine and field have been bounteous. There have been no storms to make afraid and no calamities to excite grief or terror. In recognition of the truth that all good things come from God and that He has been peculiarly generous to this land, there will be general observance of this Thanksgiving day, in the which the people will acknowledge His benefits and praise His mercy and goodness.

Something to Be Thankful For.

Around the richly laden board
  Thanksgiving day we meet,
And render thanks with grateful hearts,
  For what we have to eat;
But always at this time of year,
  When skies are cold and murky,
I'm mostly thankful for the fact
  I was not born a turkey.
—Minna Irving, in Lippincott's Magazine.

Unexpected Attention.

Little Turkey—Mamma, where has papa gone? He seemed so happy because he was being fed so much and so well taken care of.

Mrs. Turkey—Your papa lost his head, like many others who receive unexpected attention.—Baltimore American.

A Thanksgiving Code

By JESSIE LLEWELLYN

THEY stood at a high mansard window and looked out through the tops of bare branches. The stars and the street lights blinked at each other across the cold, blue distances. All of human history seemed marching, ghostlike, through the pale night.

"This is Thanksgiving," she said.

"Is it, yes?" he asked, irrelevantly.

"What a little question in such a big world," she replied evasively, and then, "Thanksgiving! I wonder if everyone nowadays is not more resentful for what he has not than thankful for what he has?"

Her mood did not please him, because it did not include him, for it is rude to be impersonal when alone with one man.

She leaned out over the window ledge and drew a long breath: "On a still, cold night like this events of the past seem near—just on the other side of the darkness. I was thinking of the thanksgivings of Miles Standish and Priscilla and the others. How little they had to be grateful for, and yet how religiously great in their thankfulness."

He had not called to speak of the pilgrim fathers, and so he remarked, somewhat rudely: "I was not aware that you were an ultra religionist."

She answered absently, groping her hand along the window sill. "Ah, you mean lighted candles and contribution boxes. It is the courageous faith of our ancestors that thrills one with its dauntlessness. Think of those well-born ladies and gentlemen become pioneers in a wilderness in 67 short days. After drought and famine and visitations from adventurers they could still assemble to worship and to pray on days set aside for giving thanks. I believe their prayers were answered—even personally. As for us—we of the twentieth century—we are precious careful not to pray for anything we have not the cash to pay for."

"All we owe the pilgrims," he said, being compelled to follow her conversational lean, "is a vote of thanks for their generosity in the matter of ancestors. Almost anyone in the blue book can now afford at least two forefathers who came over in the Mayflower. But to return—you were about to answer my question. Is—"

"I can see them now," she interrupted, "with their broad hats and swords buckled at their sides, and—" uncertain in further details she swiftly began again: "How little pleasure they gave themselves! Imagine grown men in ye olden Plymouth playing football of a Thanks day! They would have had their offending feet stuck through a pillory in no time!"

"THIS IS THANKSGIVING," SHE SAID.

"Instead of legs done up in surgical splints—wooden customs both!" He refused to be serious.

She felt without seeing that he was approaching the window again. The pilgrims wouldn't hold out much longer, owing to her uncertain historical data. Was William Penn the first governor of the colony? Or was Cotten Mather? She must say something, or that inevitable question, and if she were to say 'yes' to this frivolous person, what should she say to the new Presbyterian minister of the red brick church?"

"Is it yes—dear?" There was a very personal note in the voice this time, and a hand was ominously near her own on the window ledge.

"If—if you were more serious about things," she began, unsteadily. "Religious things, like Thanksgiving, for instance. If you had a belief or a code or something I could believe in you more—don't you see. Everyone says—"

Evidently he saw something which pleased him, for there was an expansive smile on his face. Suddenly he struck an attitude.

"How would a code of thanks meet with your approval, just owing to the day—"

"I don't believe you were ever thankful for anything."

"My dear young woman, no divine was ever more so. I am thankful for—for the great commonwealth in which we live, with its waving fields of—of—"

"Hay," she suggested.

"I was about to say onions," he corrected. "And its greater statesmen—yes, with its statesmen ever greater than its onion fields, possessed as they are of nothing but love for the wage earner—during presidential campaigns.

"I am thankful that in these United States there are—are noble reformers—who find it possible to reap wealth by denouncing it—thereby proving the possibilities of American statesmanship."

"What are you talking about?"

"Proving myself eligible to ask a simple question. I am thankful for the female brains which discuss the question: 'Shall women propose?' occupying themselves with the discussion they do not propose.

"I am thankful that we do not live in the days of Puritanism, otherwise a certain girl in a certain window would have been burned for a witch—dead certain.

THE MINISTER SAW NOTHING TO BE THANKFUL FOR.

"I am thankful that said girl"—he lowered his voice in a telling way—"is going to say—"

"Yes," she finished softly.

And the Presbyterian minister of the red brick church saw nothing whatever for which to be thankful on the day "set apart and appointed."

Spirit of Thanksgiving

"It Is More Blessed to Give Than to Receive."

PHILOSOPHERS and philanthropists not only indorse the familiar and beloved aphorism, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," but go a step further and claim that the capacity to receive is absolutely dependent on a capacity to spend; that to maintain a receptive attitude towards all the good and enjoyable things of this world, one must spend. The same truth is expressed again in the statement, "He that loseth his life shall find it." We have come to interpret this paradox as meaning that true happiness is attained only when the seeker gets as far from his own personality as possible and interests himself in the life of the world or of the individuals around him. In proportion as we give spontaneously will we receive freely. The gift need not always be tangible and material; it may be the more valuable because of its spiritual quality, but into whatever we bestow some part of ourselves should enter. As Lowell puts it:

> "'Tis not what we give, but what we share,
> For the gift without the giver is bare."

Thanksgiving is the festival of the family and for that reason is a sad anniversary to the exiles from home, or to those who, lacking home ties, are alone in the world. It offers an especial occasion therefore for the bestowal of happiness. There is a certain embarrassment about inviting the stranger to a Christmas feast because custom calls for an exchange of gifts, but no such obligation rests upon the Thanksgiving guest and the poorest may accept without loss of dignity or pride. The Farmers' Voice is right—unless we can truly feel that we have occasion to rejoice over our own or some one else's good fortune, we would do better not to mock honest sentiment by going through the form of an observation of the day; but if the Thanksgiving spirit is ours, wherever it is possible let us take down the bars of consanguinity and open our hearts to the family of the world, instead of spreading the spiritual and material feast for "me and my wife, my son John and his wife; us four and no more."

Prepared.

Mrs. Todds—Good heavens, John! You're not going to dinner in that sweater?

Mr. Todds—Yes, my dear. The landlady told me last night that she was going to call on me to carve the turkey.—Judge.

Mrs. A. O. Davidson and Miss Clare Alnson drove in from Wylie Monday evening to take in the band concert.

Deputy Sheriff George Jarman has been down from Thief River Falls attending to duties at the session of court.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. H. W. Knox next Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Con. Keough went up to Northcote Tuesday for a few days' visit with a daughter living at that place.

The Big Store has a change of advertisement this week, which sets forth an array of bargains for the fall buyer.

Lost—A sorrel pony with bob tail and roach mane. Finder will be rewarded by notifying Louis Seiff, Red Lake Falls.

Prof. A. Oistad left last evening to spend Thanksgiving with friends at Minneapolis—or at least that is where he said he was going.

Emil Larson, P. O. Haglund and Chas. Ecklund were three prominent north end farmers who attended court here this week.

Mrs. Herman Kreuger went over to Crookston Saturday and will visit there and at other towns in the Valley for several weeks.

Mrs. A. P. Toupin left yesterday for an over-Thanksgiving visit with her daughter, Mrs. H. N. Johnson, at Park River, North Dakota.

Ed Bray and T. G. Brunelle drove to Crookston Saturday afternoon and spent Sunday with friends at that place, driving home early Monday morning.

A crowd of people from town will dine out to Louis Lambert's, west of town, tonight, where they will have a house-warming in Mr. Lambert's new residence.

The Gazette goes to press a half day early this week in order that the force may do justice to the Thanksgiving turkey and have cause to rejoice with the rest of the people.

The Bert Martin company gave an entertainment last evening to a fair-sized crowd, and greatly pleased those who were there. Every feature of his entertainment is first-class and the company is pronounced the best that has been here for some time. They will show again tonight (Thursday) and deserve a full house.

J. C. Wilkinson, A. L. Reichert, S. A. Swanson and M. R. Hall left the first of the week for the timber country out east in quest of deer, moose or any other species of big game to be found. These gentlemen have never failed to secure several specimens of the antlered beauties when they went after them and it is expected that they will meet with the usual success this year.

Gilbert D. Westphal, a former Red Lake Falls boy, visited friends here a couple of days the latter part of last week. Gilbert has given up his work at the University of Minnesota for the present and is now employed by the Schurmeier Wagon company, of Minneapolis, and was on his way to the coast states in the interest of his company. He has many friends here who will be pleased to hear of his success in his chosen work.

Kelliher Journal: Jos. Bergeron, of Lambert township, Red Lake county, passed through here Monday en route home from the "Point" where he disposed of a large number of cattle to the lumber camps. Mr. Bergeron is one of Lambert's prosperous farmers, and each winter he supplies the camps in this county with provisions and feed from his large farm. He intends to make ergular trips throughout the winter.

The candidates at the recent election are slow to file their expense accounts, and so far John E. King, candidate for Secretary of State, is the only one who has given Auditor Ford his affidavit of expenses incurred. He states that he spent $160. Fifty dollars went to the Secretary of State for filing fees, $38 was spent for printing, $12 for hall rent, $10 for livery hire, $25 for traveling and hotel expenses and $25 went to the Democratic committee.

Today is Thanksgiving day, and the stores, banks, postoffice and business places generally are closed in observance of the day—and in order that ample justice may be done to the many fat turkeys awaiting dissection by the hungry. There are many things to be thankful for, chief among them being the beautiful November weather at present being enjoyed, and it is safe to predict the Red Lake Falls citizens are doing ample justice to the day.

John Lagassy and Tom Green drove overland from Forest River, North Dakota, this week arriving here Tuesday, and will spend a week attending to business matters and shaking hands with friends here. Both report themselves as prospering. Mr. Lagassy has spent the fall in the Northwest Canadian country, and speaks favorably of that coming country. Tom is still at Forest River and has done a good business the past summer and fall.

Reports brought in by travelling men last evening were to the effect that the Soo line, in honor of the running of its first trains over the Glenwood-Winnipeg extension, is selling round trip tickets from St. Paul to Winnipeg for the low sum of four dollars. The first train going up was crowded with excursionists and people along the line of road who desire cheap tickets are sending into St. Paul for the $4 pasteboards, thus saving considerable of their travelling expenses.

A special train was run over the Great Northern Sunday, bringing a number of Great Northern officials here to inspect the construction work being done on the connection between the Great Northern and N. P. railroads at this place. On the train were General Superintendent George T. Slade, Assistant General Superintendent E. L. Brown, Division Superintendent C. H. Jerks, and A. C. Eddy, engineer in charge of the work here and north of Thief River Falls. The officials looked over the work done here so far, and expressed themselves as satisfied with the outlook for an early completion of the line.

The first meeting of the Red Lake and Polk county teachers' association was held at the school house in this city last Saturday, and a large number of teachers were here to attend the session, Talks were made by Superintendent Jeffers and Prof. E. W. Chamberlain and papers read by the Misses Bertha LaFreniere, Almeda Gonigam, Katie Berthiaume and Mr. William Harlow, A question box was conducted, which proved quite interesting and instructive. The session was very successful and gave indication that the association would prove of great benefit to the teachers of this neighborhood. The next meeting will be held at Thief River Falls the last Saturday in January of next year, and it is likely that it will be well attended.

Frank Violet, a Gentilly farmer, came near being killed in a runaway a mile from this city last Thursday evening, and as a result is confined to his bed at his mother's home here and it will be some time before he is able to be out. Mr. Violet was returning to Gentilly with a load of flour and when about a mile out of town his team became unmanageable and run away, throwing Mr. Violet out, the wagon passing over his right leg and breaking several bones. Jule Lasha, who was on his way home witnessed the accident and picked up Mr. Violet, who was unconscious, and brought him to town as fast as possible, where medical aid was summoned. The fractures were set and the young man taken to his mother's home, where he is now resting. The accident was a serious one, but Mr. Violet considers himself fortunate in escaping as luckily as he did.

A CUTTING AFFAIR.

George Johnson Attempts to Carve F. E. Sullivan, of Garnes.

Plummer Pioneer: On Wednesday afternoon a stabbing affair occurred a short distance east of town which might easily have proved fatal to the victim, F. E. Sullivan. George Johnson, the man who wielded the knife, succeeded in making his escape before the stabbing became known.

Mr. Sullivan has been engaged on an extensive ditch contract in North Dakota and was moving his outfit to his home in Equality township. Johnson has been in his employ since early last July, and they have never had any trouble before. They arrived in Plummer at noon on Wednesday and stopped for dinner and to allow the stock to feed and rest. Along in the afternoon they started for home and after they had gone a mile or so they quarrelled. Johnson drew the knife and stabbed Sullivan in the back inflicting an ugley wound over the shoulder blade, the bone preventing the weapon from penetrating to a vital spot. Sullivan grappled with his assilant and after a struggle of some duration, took the knife from him and sent him on his way with a badly battered countenance and bruised anatomy generally. Johnson returned to town and went south on a freight train. Sullivan, not thinking himself badly hurt pursued his homeward journey, but soon began to weaken for loss of blood and turned back.

Dr. Grundy of Thief River Falls was wired for and responded promptly. He dressed the wound and no serious results are anticipated.

BIG FLOUR SHIPMENT.

Red Lake Falls Milling Company Make New Record.

A new record for flour shipment was made at the Red Lake Falls Milling company's plant yesterday, when twelve cars were loaded with their famous products and sent on their way to help feed the hungry.

The flour was all consigned to points in the United States, a greater share of it being sent east, and the shipment was the largest ever made in a day by this big concern.

The fame of "Mascot" flour extends over the world; thousands of barrels are consumed in the eastern states and foreign countries every year.

NORTH FROM KEYSTONE.

N. P. Will Build Line to Rosean Next Year.

Crookston Times: C. A. Scott, of the engineering department of the Northern Pacific, has returned to St. Paul from a trip over a proposed new line to be built from Keystone, a few miles east of Grand Forks, to the Warroad country. Mr. Scott, in speaking of his trip said:

"There is no secrecy with reference to my trip. I am looking over the country in advance of the survey crew. The Northern Pacific is seeking a suitable route for a line which will be built within a year."

Mr. Scott took a team at Warren, on the Great Northern, and drove to Roseau in the northern part of the state. His trip was then continued to Warroad. Survey crews are following the route over which he made a careful inspection and are now working northeast from Keystone to Warren, along the line marked out. Surveys have been completed to a point from the Northern Pacific main line twenty miles northeast of Warren.

It is expected that the surveys will be completed from the present main line to Warroad before the end of November. Actual construction will begin in the spring and the line, it is expected, will be in operation before snow flies next year.

The line will take the same general course as the projected Great Northern tier of counties, but will tap territory lying farther west. Roseau and Warroad, and the tributary country, in which there has been considerable settlement during the past year or two, have no direct connections with the Twin Cities. Freight and passenger traffic comes south only after moving north to Winnipeg and being transferred to the Great Northern or Northern Pacific.

BIG BOAT FOR RED LAKE.

One Being Built at Thief River to Take Care of Log Towing.

In anticipation of an immense amount of log towing across Red Lake to the head waters of Red Lake river the Crookston, Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks lumber companies have contracted for the erection of the largest steam vessel ever manipulated upon the inland waters of northern Minnesota. The boat is to be built at Thief River Falls, will be equipped in the best possible manner for heavy towing and will be used when completed in the hauling of huge log rafts across Red Lake from the virgin waters of the upper shores to the head waters of the Red Lake river.

The logging from the headwaters of the Clearwater will not last many years and the upper shores of Red lake will form the basis of timber supply for the mills in Crookston, East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls during the years to come. Hardly any perceptable cut has been made in the heavy pine forests which line the shores of the big lake and by means of towing and driving down the river the mills can be supplied for countless numbers of years to come. It is understood that negotiations for the purchase of a great deal of pine have been going on for some time and that the amount now controlled by the three companies interested, is enormous and such as to warrant the expense of building the large steamboat for towing purposes.

Peter Eberhart, of Thief River Falls has secured the contract for building the boat, presumably for Beltrami County Lumber company, an organization that is controlled by the Thief River Falls, Crookston and East Grand Forks lumber companies, and has commenced work of building. The boat will be 116 feet long and 42 feet wide. It will be the largest boat on the lake or in northern Minnesota and a crew of about fifteen men will be employed in building it this winter. The boat is being built on the banks of the Red Lake river about four miles east of Thief River and a camp is being erected at which the men employed on the work will board.

LEAVENED BREAD

Has Been Man's Constant Mainstay From Time Immemorial.

Some writer has said that "The first miller emerging from his savage state, with no thought save hunger, plucked the wheat from the stock, and, using his teeth for millstones, ground the first grist for a customer who would not be denied—his stomach." Thus gaining experience by test in the food line, it would be only natural for this miller to lay up a quantity of grain against an hour of need. Just when he commenced grinding his wheat in the rude stone mortar and moistening the flour preparatory to baking it in the ashes of his camp fire, and just when it was found that an old piece of dough in a fresh batch made it better or "leavened" it, is beyond the reach of historians. Certain it is that though the principle was the same thousands of years ago as it is to-day, it has remained for the makers of Yeast Foam to supply a yeast with all the true leavening powers minus the properties that produce sour, "runny" or soggy bread. This is the yeast that took the first grand prize at the St. Louis Exposition, and revolutionizes the bread making in every home where it is used because much better bread can be made with it from any flour.

Yeast Foam is purely vegetable, being made of the best malt, corn, hops and other healthful ingredients. The factory is also the cleanest and best equipped in the world. This yeast is the only kind that preserves in the bread all the delicious flavor and nutritive value of the wheat. The bread made with it is always sweet and wholesome and stays moist until used. Forty loaves of bread can be made from one 5c package. The makers of Yeast Foam are giving out a new book called "Good Bread; How to Make It." This little book, invaluable in its way, has twenty-six illustrations in colors, and tells how to make all kinds of bread, biscuits, buns and rolls, as well as containing other recipes which will be found invaluable in the home. The way of preparing the different recipes is very clear and comprehensive. The book will be sent free to any one sending their name and address, with a request for same, to the Northwestern Yeast Company, Chicago, Ill. Every woman who bakes should secure a copy.

DISTRICT ESTABLISHED

Appesl From Action of Board of Commissioners Dismissed and District No. 21 Ordered Established.

The case of Paul Schoenaner, Elie Perrault and others vs. the Board of County Commissioners of Red Lake county, an appeal from the order of the board establisbing school district No. 23, wss heard before Jndge Watts tbe latter part of last week, and after hearing the evidence the judge ordered that the appeal be dismissed, sustaining the action of the commissioners and ordering the district established.

At the time of the petition for the new district, which is situated in Lake Pleasant, a number of the residents of the old districts affected hy the formation of the new one, appeared before the board and made a stuhhorn fight against the formation of the new district. The Board listened to the testimony, bnt upon tbe recommendation of Snperintendent Jeffers voted to establish the new district.

Tbe contestants immediately appealed to the District Conrt, and the Judge, after hesriug both sides of tbe case, decided as stated above.

The grounds of tbe appeal were hased on the fact that the new district was so formed ss to take away from one of the ones affected a large per cent. of its scholars, but the evidence showed that the benefits wonld be greater tban the damages and proved that the new district should be estahlished.

HANSON'S COMPLAINT

Alleges All Kinds of Irregularities in Counting of Ballots in Several Precinots in the Sonth End.

Karl M. Hanson, of Thief River Falls, who is contesting the election of Ovide Morean as treasnrer of Red Lake connty, hss filed his complaint with Clerk Perrault, and as soon as the defendant gets his snswer filed the case will likely be bronght np for trial.

Hauson's complaint is long, and in it all kinds of irregularities in condncting the recent election are alleged, all of the precincts questioned being in this end of the county.

He first demands a recount of the ballots of tbe first ward of the city of Red Lake Falls, stating that he is informed and beleives that tbere were seven more votes cast for him than were found by the canvassing board, that ten more were counted for Moreau tban he actually received, that ten hallots marked for both Moresu and Finke were conuted for Moreau, and that two spoiled bsllots were counted for Moreau.

He is informed aud beleives that in the second ward of said city there were six votes cast for Hauson that were uot counted for him, that twelve votes more than were cast were counted for Moreau and that eight ballots tbat were cast for hoth Moreau and Finke were counted for Moreau.

Contestant states that he is informed and beleives that tbe irregularities in these wards caused the result to be changed, and that a reconnt would show that Hanson received more votes than Moreau and that if snch irregularites were corrected Hanson would be declared the regularly elected treasurer.

He is informed and beleives that irregularities existed in the town of Terrebonne, slso. He is informed that Ovide Moreau, a regular nominee of a party and a resident of Terrehonne, went into the booth and assisted in marking ballots and used nndue infleunce upon voters whom he sssisted. He also is informed that Joseph Beaudin and others not judges assisted in marking as high as fifteen ballots, and that they were all supporters of said Moreau and seen to it that all ballots so marked were marked for Moreau.

In Lambert contestant is iuformed that Peter Hance, Joseph Bergeron, Conrad Lsjambe and others not jndges marked as high as eighteen hallots aud used influence in hehalf of Moreau while in the hooth.

Contestsut further beleives that a recount of the ballots cast in the first and second wards of the city of Red Lake Falls and a deduction of the illegal votes in Terrebonne and Lambert would change the result, and states that he belcives that he can by witnesses establish the fact that a majority of the legal votes in the couuty were cast for Hansou.

The charges are certainly sweeping, hut where the facts are known they are not taken seriously. It is figured out here that Hanson hopes that a recount of the ballots of several precincts might possibly give him votes enougb to overcome Moreau's lead, add that he bas trumped up these charges to make it appear that he has sufficient gronnds for asking a recount.

F. A. Grady is Hanson's attorney, while Mr. Moreau has engaged Jndge Montague, of Crookston to snstain his side of the case.

BENEFIT SUPPER.

Football Treasury to Be Enriched By Benefit Entertainment.

An elaborate snpper is to be served to the people of Red Lake Falls at the Blake building Tuesday evening, the proceeds of which will be donated to the high school foot ball team. The heavy expenses in getting teams to play here this fall put several of the supporters of the team to the had, financially, and it is hoped that euough will be realized from the supper Tuesday evening to make up this deficiency. The menn will be very elaborate, and tbe pnblic is cordially invited to come and enjoy a first-class meal.

BOY ACCIDENTLY SHOT

Keough Patnode, of This City, Has Narrow Escape from Being Instantly Killed Last Friday.

Keongh Patnode, the sixteen-yesr old son of Simon Patnode, of this city, met with what might essily have proven a fatal accident while on a hnnting expedition lsst Friday, and while he escaped with his life he will nevertheless always hear tbe marks of the wounds received.

In company with Sidney Belair and Johny Keifenheim, young Patnode started ont to hunt jack rahbits and partridges, and took with him a shot-gun, which the three intended to nse. Tbey crossed the river in a boat near the old saw mill, and after getting out of the boat, young Patnode attempted to jerk his gun out after him, when in some manner it was discharged tbe charge entering his leg, arm and side, breaking his wrist and tearing the flesh nearly all off the entire side of his body. His companions assissed him hsck across the river and one hurried up town for aid while the other helped the wounded boy along as best he could. Aid was secnred hurriedly and he was taken to his home where medicsl assistance was rendered, and he was made as comfortable as possible.

It was at first thought that his arm would have to be ampntated, but at the present he is getting along nicely and it is now thonght that he will recover without losing his arm, and that he will not be permanently crippled.

The accident was a serions one and might easily have resulted in his instant death, and should be a lesson to all the hoys of the city who are in the habit of hunting that too much care cannot be exercised in the use of fire-arms.

The msuy friends of the young man deplored the serious injury, and will trust that a speedy and complete recovery will occur.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

Ole J. Johnson spent Thanksgiving day at Thief River Falls and transacted some business as well as eating a good share of the turkey.

The builders are hurrying the work on the new Pioneer building and expect to have it in shape for a rousing dance on next Wednesday evening. The room will be all that could be desired, first-class music will be furnished and a large attendance is expected.

Dan Patterson was out from St. Hilaire yesterday and transacted some real estate business with Julius Pleth.

Hon. L. C. Simons was a business visitor here on Tuesday night looking over the business done at the First State Bank.

E. Bray, the painter, returned on Thursday evening after a few days spent visiting friends at St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls.

Mine host Iverson, of Hotel Scotland, has decided to keep the hotel open night and day in future for to accomodate transient patrons who may come or go on the early morning train.

The fast passenger trains on the Soo line commenced on Monday last but contrary to expectations, do not carry mail. That they will carry mail in the near future is a certainty, but just when is not known.

Through the courtesy of P. K. Olson proprietor of the "Welcome" restaurant the grass-widowers of town, several in number, enjoyed an excellent Thanksgiving turkey dinner and all did full justice to the repast.

Robert R. Swenson arrived on Monday last from St. Hilaire and has been busy getting a place prepared for himself in Lanager's hardware store and is now about ready for business in the watchmaking and jewelry line.

Rufus Poirer, who has been engaged in the lumber business at Red Lake Falls for several years, has acceptew the position of agent for the Bovey-Shute Lumber Co. at Brooks.

Dr. Christian Jalstrup arrived here on Tuesday morning from St. James and will remain here permanently for the practice of his profession. He has established his office temporarily in the Hotel Scotland. Pending the arrival of a drug store he carries a stock of drugs and will put up his own medicines. A good physician has been very much wanted here and as Dr. Jalstrup comes highly recommended his advent is most welcome and he will doubtless enjoy an excellent practice from the start.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints —a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads Trial bottles 25c; regu o ale by A. L. Reichert.

Wisconsin's Primary Law.

The primary election law, which was adopted by the people of Wisconsin at the election last week, contains quite a number of features that will be of interest in Minnesota, as it differs quite materially from the Minnesota law. It provides for the nomination of both state and county officers by direct vote, and candidates for party nominations must circulate petitions in order to have their names placed on the primary ballots; futhermore, the voters signing there petitions must pledge themselves to vote for the candidate whose petition they sign. At the primary election the names of the candidates running for the party nominations are placed on separate tickets, and the voter instead of declaring his party affiliation and calling for his party ballot, is given as many separate ballots as there are parties in the field, When he goes into the voting booth he chooses his ballot, marks the names of those whom he wishes to nominate and returns it to the election judges, depositing the blank ballot or ballots in a box provided for this purpose. Candidates for the United States senate are nominated by the voters, and it is expected that the legislators will elect the men whom the people name.

BATTLE IN PROGRESS

JAPANESE TROOPS ENGAGED IN A GENERAL ASSAULT ON PORT ARTHUR.

Fighting Began on Nov. 26, but Owing to the Stubborn Resistance of the Russians the Attack Continues—Bad Weather Prevails at Mukden and a Big Battle in That Vicinity Seems as Remote as Ever.

Tokio, Nov. 28.—Imperial headquarters has just issued the following announcement:

"The works for our attack having been nearly completed against Sungshu mountain (Port Arthur) and the forts lying eastward therefrom, a general assault was made on the afternoon of Nov. 26, but owing to the enemy's stubborn resistance our object has not yet been accomplished. The fighting still continues."

Tokio, Nov. 29.—It is reported that the attack against 203-Metre hill by Japanese light artillery is succeeding. It is estimated that 90 per cent of the work of the complete occupation of Port Arthur will be finished with this height in the possession of the Japanese. No part of the harbor of Port Arthur will then be concealed from the Japanese.

HEAVY SNOW AT MUKDEN.

Big Battle Below That Place Seems as Remote as Ever.

Mukden, Nov. 28.—A terrific storm was experienced here on Saturday and residents expect a repetition of such weather, coincident with typhoons off the coast, until March. The temperature now is below freezing. The inhabitants of leaky huts are in a pitiable condition.

The war has reached such a phase that the interest in small skirmishes is very slight. Everyone has been looking for a big battle, but though reinforcements continue to arrive, and both sides continue to entrench, a general engagement apparently is as far off as ever. No one now discusses the subject.

A number of commanders are drilling their men as in time of peace.

More interest is expressed here in the fate of Port Arthur and its ability to hold out against the Japanese than in what is happening at close quarters.

There have been the usual small skirmishes. Vilimanstrnski's sharpshooters took a Japanese advanced position Saturday, driving out the Japanese at the point of the bayonet. The latter left twenty dead, and the Russian loss was three. The Japanese attacked the Russian lines at several places, taking advantage of a snow storm on one occasion, but in all cases were repulsed.

The village of Erdago continues to be the scene of frequent small fights. The Japanese made a tentative attack there on Nov. 25, but did not attempt to push home the attack in the face of Russian artillery fire.

SAYS FIGHTING WAS FIERCE.

General Kuropatkin Describes a Japanese Attack.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—General Kuropatkin telegraphs a description of a Japanese attack on Nov. 24 against a Russian detachment near Esinkhetchen (Yensienten?) on the front of the left flank. "The fighting," General Kuropatkin says, "was fierce, almost amounting to a bayonet engagement; but the enemy were everywhere repulsed and suffered severely. The attack was renewed the following morning, the Japanese having been reinforced, but again was repulsed, and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon a blizzard and fog greatly hindered artillery fire. The Japanest continued to advance under cover of the fog, but our forces held their positions, and the firing subsequently slackened. The Russian losses were nine killed and fifty-seven wounded.

"On Nov. 26, the Japanese resumed the offensive and endeavored to envelope our left flank whilst advancing against our center.

"I have received no later reports."

General Kuropatkin also describes the bayonetting of twenty Japanese belonging to a patrol during a reconnoissance the night of Nov. 25.

CHECKED BY ARTILLERY FIRE.

Jap Attack Upon Tsinkhetchen Ends in Failure.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 29.—General Sakharoff telegraphs as follows:

"The Japanese attack on Tsinkhetchen was checked by our artillery fire, and the fighting ceased at 6 o'clock in the evening of Nov. 27. At no point did the enemy advance nearer than within 600 paces of our positions. In the midst of the battle a blinding snow storm caused a suspension of hostilities, and when the weather cleared at 3 o'clock in the afternoon a turning movement against our right flank was observed."

COVERED WITH ICE.

Hun and Taitse Rivers Are Now Frozen Over.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—A dispatch from Mukden states that the Hun and Taitse rivers have been frozen over. The low stage of water in the Liao river, the dispatch adds, impedes the transport of Japanese stores from Yinkow and the forwarding of ammunition is delayed by the scarcity of wagons. The removal of the wounded from Liaoyang to Dainy is being executed with difficulty for the same reason.

PERISH WHILE TRAPPING.

Breaking Ice Causes Death of Two Minnesota Boys.

Anoka, Minn., Nov. 29.—Two sons of D. G. Emmons of St. Francis, aged fourteen and fifteen years, were drowned in a small pond a mile east of St. Francis, where they had gone to trap muskrats.

SECRETARY TAFT AT PANAMA.

Received by President Amador and the Panama Cabinet.

Panama, Nov. 28.—Secretary of War Taft and party arrived at Colon Sunday on board the United States cruiser Columbia. Mr. Taft was received on shore by Vice President Arosemena and other Panama officials, General Davis, commander of the canal zone, and Minister Barrett. After a conference with the American congressional delegation, Mr. Taft went by a special train to Panama, where he was officially received by a committee and quartered at the residence of Mr. Wallace. He was received by President Amador and the Panama cabinet at 4 p. m. Mr. Taft assured President Amador that the only object of the United States was to build the canal for the benefit of Panama, the United States and mankind, and he hoped for an honorable solution of the matters to be discussed.

President Amador later in the day returned Secretary Taft's official call.

GOMPERS AGAIN CHOSEN.

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—Samuel Gompers was unanimously re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor, except that Victor Berger of Milwaukee, a leader of the Socialistic element in the convention, voted in the negative. Secretary Frank Morrison and Treasurer John B. Lennon were unanimously chosen to serve another term.

The following eight vice presidents were re-elected: James Duncan, John Mitchell, James O'Connell, Max Morris, Thomas I. Kidd, D. A. Hayes, Daniel J. Keefe and William J. Spencer.

The convention voted to meet next year in Pittsburg.

GREAT WESTERN SOLD

PERSISTENTLY REPORTED THAT UNION PACIFIC HAS BOUGHT THE MAPLE LEAF.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—The Post says: The report that the Union Pacific has purchased the Chicago Great Western road was reiterated during the afternoon with such positiveness and circumstantial evidence in its favor that it received general acceptance. The deal, which has been pending for some time, was said to have been closed and the Chicago Great Western will shortly lose its identity as an independent road and either be wholly absorbed by the Union Pacific itself or distributed piecemeal among the Eastern connections of that system.

One report has it that the Chicago Great Western will be divided between the Chicago and Northwestern and the Milwaukee and St. Paul systems, both of which have for several years been close connections of the Union Pacific. The Northwestern, it is said, will take that portion of the Maple Leaf which runs from Marshalltown, Ia., to Kansas City, and the Milwaukee and St. Paul will take the St. Paul end of the line.

There is another view of the case, however, which is that the Union Pacific will keep the Maple Leaf and operate it as the Eastern end of its own system. It will, it is declared, give the Union Pacific a very good outlet from Omaha to Chicago and the short line from Omaha to St. Paul.

THIRTY-FIVE INJURED.

Passenger Train on the Mobile and Ohio Derailed.

Memphis, Nov. 28.—Passenger train No. 4 on the Mobile and Ohio railway was derailed a mile east of Columbus, Miss., and thirty-five passengers were injured.

Most of the injured are residents of Alabama and Mississippi. None will die.

The place where the wreck occurred is on a perfectly straight track on an embankment thirty feet high on both sides. No definite explanation has yet been given as to the cause of the accident. The combination baggage and express car rolled down the embankment and the other two coaches, both passenger coaches, were torn loose and fell over the embankment.

FAILURE OF POTATO CROP.

Great Distress and Suffering Among Connemara Peasantry.

London, Nov. 26.—The failure of the potato crop is causing great distress and suffering among the peasantry of Connemara. The Galway county council has adopted resolutions urging the government, in view of the pressing need, to afford assistance by providing relief works, especially in the congested districts, and by supplying cheap potatoes for the coming season. The council suggested, among other things, the development of mineral resources.

Reports from various districts of Ireland state that the pinch of hunger is already severely felt, especially on the Mayo seaboard.

TRAIN HITS CHEMICAL WAGON.

One Fireman Killed and Four Others Injured.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Nov. 26.—The Lake Shore limited train, Nov. 22, eastbound, running at a high speed, crashed into the chemical wagon of the Dunkirk fire department at the Central avenue crossing, killing Frank Miller, aged thirty-one years, a fireman, and injuring John F. Kraiger, the driver, Charles F. Link, Fred Centner and Albert Steumm. All of the injured will recover. Driver Kraiger did not see the train approaching.

FOOTBALL CASUALTY LIST.

Thirteen Players Killed and Nearly Three Hundred Injured.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The Record-Herald says thirteen deaths have resulted from football this season. The casualty list is the same as last year, but the number of serious injuries during the season just closed will exceed that of any year since the introduction of the modern college sport. The players injured number 296.

TWO ITALIANS SLAIN

RESULT OF A BRIEF BATTLE ON THE STREETS OF A PENNSYLVANIA TOWN.

Conflict is the Outcome of an Attempt to Rid the Place of a Gang of Toughs Responsible for Numerous Outrages. Comrades Attempt to Rescue One of Their Number Who Had Been Placed Under Arrest.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 29.—As a result of the efforts of the better class of Italians in and around Carbondale to rid their colonies of the members of a lawless gang who have been committing many outrages, a street battle occurred at that place Monday night which was attended with the loss of two lives.

At 8 o'clock Santo Carressi, one of the gang, was caught by a constable in the act of holding up and levying tribute on one of the Italians of the colony. The constable and three of the law and order men started to take Carressi to jail. Word was quickly passed to the gang's headquarters in a nearby saloon and four of them rushed out and opened fire on the constable and his posse. The latter returned the fire. When the attacking party emptied their revolvers they fled, leaving all three of the constable's escort lying in the road with bullets in their bodies. The constable protected himself by holding his prisoner in front of him.

Joseph Tolerico was shot through the head and heart and died in a few minutes. Frank Ferresi died at the emergency hospital from a bullet in his breast near the heart and another in the abdomen. The third victim received a bullet in the arm and after recovering from the shock was able to walk home.

No trace has been found of the fugitive assailants.

It is believed the gang is affiliated with the Mafia or some other like organization, as part of the tribute money is sent to headquarters in New York, according to the statements made by members of the gang when levying tribute.

Among the outrages recently perpetrated was the knifing of four men who refused to pay tribute. In each instance the victim was called out of his house late at night and slashed across the face.

SUSPECTS IDENTIFIED

CHAIN OF EVIDENCE AGAINST THREE MINNEAPOLIS MEN GROWS STRONGER.

Minneapolis, Nov. 29.—The chain of evidence against Orlin Kalderwit, John Kolb and Charles Hammond, suspected of the murder of little Freddie King at Columbia Heights Nov. 22, is growing stronger.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorn have positively identified Kalderwit and Hammond as two of the three men seen in front of the saloon a few moments before the murder. Both were certain that Kalderwit and Hammond were there. There was a short man in the trio and this description tallies with Kolb.

In addition, there were others who saw the men and identified them as persons seen in the locality.

Three days' confinement in cells in the central police station is telling on the men and there seems to be a disposition on the part of Kalderwit and Kolb to tell what they know about the affair, and Hammond, who has been surly, is inclined to be tractable.

GUARDED BY DEPUTIES.

Mining Property at Chisholm, Minn., Protected by Armed Men.

Duluth, Nov. 29.—Thirty deputy sheriffs armed with Winchester rifles are standing guard at the stripping contracts of the Drake & Stratton and Killorin-Philbin works at Chisholm, having been summoned there from Duluth by reason of threats made by the strikers, who went out a few days ago because their demands for an increase in pay from $1.75 to $2 was not granted. All day Monday wild rumors had been floating over the mining town to the effect that the strikers have five kegs of dynamite in their possession and that they propose to use it in destroying the works if the companies do not come to their terms

NEW TRIAL IS ORDERED.

Jury Discharged in the Nan Patterson Murder Trial.

New York, Nov. 29.—The jury in the Patterson murder trial was discharged during the day and at the same time District Attorney Jerome served notice on Miss Patterson's counsel that a new jury would be selected and a retrial begun at the term of court which opens next Monday.

The illness of Edward Dressler, a juror, who was stricken with apoplexy last week, was the cause of the action

Miss Patterson appeared very much dejected as she was led back to the Tombs to await the beginning of the new trial.

ROBBER FATALLY WOUNDED.

Citizens of Fonda, Ia., Battle With Bandits.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 29.—In a battle between a posse of citizens and three robbers at Fonda, Ia., one of the robbers, whose name is not known, was shot and fatally wounded. The other two escaped, but a posse is in pursuit.

The small amount of booty secured was found on the wounded cracksman.

Mrs. Edward C. Wall Dead.

Milwaukee, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Edward C. Wall died suddenly Monday night after a short illness. Mrs. Wall was the wife of Edward C. Wall, well known in business and political circles throughout the country.

The Gully Sunbeam serves notice on the Red Lake county Democrat's that they will soon retire permanently, as follows: The Democratic party in Red Lake county are liable to get a set-back in the next campaign, when the eleven towns on the Red Lake Reservatioh get a turn at the bat."

Says the Wadena Pioneer-Journal: "Ed Young, our newly elected attorney general, is out in an interview which sounds well. He says that under his administration of the department of justice no guilty man will escape. If he makes good the people of Minnesota will give him a hearty encore two years from now."

There is a rumor to the effect that Gov. Johnson will not nisturb Supt. J. W. Olson, but will take that positian entirely out of politics and reappoint him for another term. If the rumor proves true, it will be hailed with satisfaction all over the state. Nr. Olson is the best state superintendent Minnesota ever had, and school men in particular and others in general would like to see him remain, remarks the Wadena Pioneer-Journal.

CANADA AND RECIPROCITY.

The Dominion parliament will assemble in January, and it is understood that the government will at once institute a searching inquiry into the alleged need of more adequate protection. Premier Laurier is bound to consult all interests and classes, however, and in doing that he cannot fail to run up against the demand of large classes of producers for reciprocity with the United States.

It appears from a letter in the Boston Transcript, based on an interview with Sir Wilfrid, that the Canadian government would gladly entertain a suggestion toward reassembling the "joint high commission" and making another attempt at evolving a reciprocity arrangement with the United States. It is not true, we are assured, that the people and government of the Dominion are utterly different. Rather are they perfectly willing to discuss reciprocity with us, though not on the old basis still favored by men like Senatar Lodge.

Canada could not be induced to lower duties on New England manufactures in return for lower duties on her "naturals," but she would view with favor a scheme involving reciprocity in coal, ores, fish, lumber, fruit and raw materials generally. The liberal organs are now reviving the discussion along these lines and warning us that continued inaction will expose us to the operation of the treble tariff, which will contain maximum duties against countries levying high duties on Canadian products and "standing pat" on them.

It is to be hoped that the signs from Ottawa are not lost on our legislators. Canada is an excellent customer and ought to receive considerate treatment. It does not pay to drive such customers to retaliate.

NOW THE SOUTH SHORE

Rumor That They Will Run Trains To Red River Valley Country Before First of Year.

Crookston Times: The most important railroad news published in the northwest during the past year, and of vital interest to the entire northwest, is a well defined rumor which bears the earmarks of authenticity to the effect that the South Shore secured rights from the defunct Duluth and Winnipeg road which rights still hold good with the Great Northern, to run trains over the present Great Northern lines from Duluth to Fosston, and will assert their rights at once, build an extension from Fosston to Erskine at once and will have trains in operation within 90 days from the present time.

According to one of the most prominent railroad men in the northwest, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road claims an original contract with the old Duluth & Winnipeg road, which contract is a part of the bond mortgage, giving the South Shore the right to operate trains over the Duluth & Winnipeg branch from Duluth to Fosston at any time during the life of the Winnipeg road and that now the South Shore proposes to exercise its right under that contract and commence operating trains over the road connecting with the new line of the Soo at Erskine.

It is claimed that the rental provided for in this contract is forty cents per train mile which is considered very moderate.

The South Shore will have to build a connection from Fosston to Erskine and it is expected that the road will be operating trains over the new route in about three months.

The connection with the Soo at Erskine however, is but a small portion of the plan of the South Shore. From Erskine it is understood the line would be pushed into Crookston early next spring, thus giving both the Soo and South Shore, embracing the same system, a foothold in the key to the Red River Valley. It is rumored there that the intention is later to build a line which would be a great feeder northwest from that city towards East Grand Forks and then push north parallel with the St. Vincent line of the Great Northern and about half way between that line and the Red River. This would reach the richest farming territory in Polk, Marshall and Kittson counties and accomodate farmers who now are compelled to haul their grain from ten to thirty miles or ship it on barges up the Red River to Grand Forks which is not satisfactory and is only available while navigation is open.

Wisconsin's Primary Law.

The primary election law, which was adopted by the people of Wisconsin at the election last week, contains quite a number of features that will be of interest in Minnesota, as it differs quite materially from the Minnesota law. It provides for the nomination of both state and county officers by direct vote, and candidates for party nominations must circulate petitions in order to have their names placed on the primary ballots; futhermore, the voters signing there petitions must pledge themselves to vote for the candidate whose petition they sign. At the primary election the names of the candidates running for the party nominations are placed on separate tickets, and the voter instead of declaring his party affiliation and calling for his party ballot, is given as many separate ballots as there are parties in the field, When he goes into the voting booth he chooses his ballot, marks the names of those whom he wishes to nominate and returns it to the election judges, depositing the blank ballot or ballots in a box provided for this purpose. Candidates for the United States senate are nominated by the voters, and it is expected that the legislators will elect the men whom the people name.

A BENEFICIAL MEASURE

Congressman Halvor Steenerson Will Push Measure Favoring Settlers on Minnesota Government Lands.

Congressman Steenerson's new bill which he is at present at work upon will be of immense benefit to Minnesota homesteaders who have taken their claims since the passage of the Nelson act May 17th, 1900, and some 5,000 home builders who are now residing with their families upon their claims will be relieved of the burden of further residence. Mr. Steenerson's new bill applying as it will if passed to some 1,050,000 acres of land, will be the most important land bill considered by congress in a number of years and the homesteaders throughout the state who are patiently making their home upon their claims with the expectation of securing their patents after five years of steady residence will be greatly favored.

According to Congressman Steenerson the new bill will make every homestead taken since the passage of the Nelson act on ceded Indian land commutable, and a patent obtainable upon the proof of an established residence of fourteen months and the payment of $1.25 per acre to the government. Under existing regulations homesteaders are required to live upon their holdings for the full five years and in a great many cases this works hardship with poor and needy families who eke out a bare existence upon their claims when they might very handily if the government allowed them sell after the expiration of fourteen months and the payment of $1.25 to the government.

The number of acres of public land opened to the public at the three land offices, Duluth, Crookston and Cass Lake, since the passage of the Nelson act in 1900 is 1,050,000 and of this large tract probably thirty per cent has already been filed upon. Seventy thousand acres of the above amount is included in the northwest angle and all of the lands opened already, as well as the twelve townships additional of the original Red Lake reservation which remain to be opened will be affected by the provisions of the proposed new bill. Officials of the local land office at Crookston state that in their opinion the new bill would be a great benefit to all homesteaders present and future who settle on lands in northern Minnesota.

"Upwards of 700,000 acres of homestead land are now available in the northern portion of the state for settlement," says Receiver George, "and the passage of the new bill will undoubtedly make the homestead lands much more inviting to the settlers of the entire country. The present five year regulations bar many from taking homes who would ordinarily under the provisions of a fourteen month commutable homestead law improve and settle on farms."

DRESSMAKING—I am prepared to do all kinds of dressmaking and sewing in a first-class manner. Call at Delage house, near St. Joseph's church. Miss Eliza Peterson. 2w

Tom Green and Jack Lagassy left yesterday for Forest River, North Dakota, after spending a week visiting friends and attending to business matters. Mr. Green expects to return again in a month or so to purchase some horses.

Rabbits are very numerous in the woods this winter, and the sportsmen about the city have been bagging large numbers of them this past week. Harry Healy, Clem and Butch Brunelle took a four mile jaunt through the woods last Sunday and succeeded in bagging eighteen, and other parties report equally as good luck.

Prof. A. Onstad has been asked to play a clarinet solo at the next band concert of the Crookston band, which will be held about the middle of December. The Prof's fame as the finest clarnet and violin solist in the Northwest is widespread, and the Crookstonites can be assured of hearing something way up when he plays for them.

A young man giving his name as Andrew Olson was found wandering over the prairies of Terrebonne township the latter part of last week, apparently not knowing where he was or what he wanted. He was brought to this city and after being examined was committed to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls. The authorities at that institution examined him, however, and decided that he was not insane, but that he was not mentally sound. He was sent back here Monday by the hospital authorities, who recommended that his relatives be looked up and the young man taken care of, and he is being held here until such time as his folks can be found.

The city department stores have flooded the country with the annual batch of catalogues. These houses have formed a "trust" and now refuse to prepay the express charges on goods. This was predicted some time ago by many country papers. It is only a matter of time until the department store mail order business will be a closed chapter. The country people are waking up to the fact that they can get better goods at a lower price of their home merchants. Besides, if the goods are not as represented, you are sure the home merchant will make it right, and it won't take a month to do it either.

Elick Halvorson, of Garnes township, has been in the city this week arranging to commence the sale of raffle tickets on his farm, the northeast quarter of section 10, Garnes, and expects to make a tour of the county to dispose of the chances. He will sell the tickets at $1 each, the holder of the lucky number to be given a clear title to the quarter section of land above mentioned. A couple of years ago Mr. Halvorson had the misfortune to lose an arm, and since then has found it impractical to farm, hence his decision to dispose of his land in this novel way. The farm is one of the best in Garnes township, and the winner will indeed be fortunote. The tickets will be placed on sale at several different places in the county, as well as being offered by Mr. Halvorson personally, and Red Lake county people should take a chance on this excellent farm.

The appointment of Leonard A. Rosing of Cannon Falls to a position on the board of control has been announced by Governor-elect Johnson.

Dr. F. J. Brabec, a well known physician of Perham, has been indicted by the grand jury at Fergus Falls on the charge of desecrating an Indian grave.

George Elmquist was accidentally shot by his brother, Reuben, at Marine, while they, with several other boys, were at target practice. The wound is serious.

While the office of the Omaha station at St. James was left unguarded for a moment at night a thief entered, pried off the money drawer and carried it away. It contained about $70.

Mrs. Anna Johnson of Duluth leaped into Lake Superior. Her husband, O. H. Johnson, rescued her, and she later was adjudged insane and was committed to the Fergus Falls insane hospital.

May Mead, a nineteen-year-old girl known in St. Paul resorts as Grace Livingstone, died in the police ambulance on the way to the city hospital from an overdose of morphine. She had quarrelled with her lover.

Bemidji was visited by the most disastrous fire in its history last week. It broke out in the Swedeback block and entailed a loss of $50,000. The fire started in the basement from boilers and spread rapidly through the structure.

Miners in the employ of the Killorin-Philbin stripping operations at Chisholm to the number of 125 laid down their shovels and refused to work longer unless they were granted increase in pay from $1.75 to $2. The advance was denied.

Because his sweetheart, Mrs. J. E. Gordon, was paying more attention to his friend, William Daley, than he thought to be absolutely necessary, Harry W. Kavanaugh, twenty-six years old, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid at Minneapolis.

William J. Carver, a laboring man forty-nine years of age, was found dead in the rear of a saloon at St. Paul. Death from apoplexy was the verdict given by the deputy coroner. The man had been drunk for two days and when found he had been dead for hours.

The large barn belonging to P. O. Haugen, town of Stony Run, was burned to the ground and nineteen head of horses and eleven head of cattle perished in the flames. He also lost 1,000 bushels of oats and a lot of other property. He estimates his loss at $3,500.

The two men who held up a freight train at Minneopo Falls last July and robbed a traveling man named E. P. Lenz, were convicted of robbery in the first degree at Mankato. Charles Sanders goes to Stillwater for fourteen years and eleven months and Thomas Murray for twelve years and eleven months.

The Starch Land and Live Stock company of Des Moines, Ia., has purchased 5,000 acres of land in the northwestern part of Hubbard county. The company immediately will fence 2,500 acres of the tract, will build large farm buildings and will stock it with fancy cattle, blooded sheep and Angora goats.

Miss Ella A. Foote is dead at St. Barnabas' hospital in Minneapolis after an illness of several weeks. Miss Foote was one of the leading kindergartners of Minneapolis and opened the first kindergarten under the auspices of the public school in the Sherman school, where she taught until her strength failed her.

Lester, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sheratt of Lake Itasca, met with a peculiar accident while driving on the road between the schoolhouse and his home. He was thrown from the wagon by the dashboard's collapse, and the front wheel of the vehicle passed over his body, causing almost instant death.

Fire at Minneapolis destroyed the old Hill building, owned by President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad, and occupied by three firms, incurring a total loss of $90,000. The Kellogg, McKay, Cameron company lose $45,000; Wyman-Partridge, wholesale dry goods, $15,000; National Novelty company, $15,000; building, $20,000.

Daniel and Alvin Hall, brothers, of Manchester township, near Albert Lea, became victims of the deadly shredder within a short space of time. Daniel got his right hand into the shredder and lost his index finger. His brother Alvin then took his place and in a few minutes his right hand was in the cogs and his middle finger and part of another were torn away.

Seventy-five prominent business men of Minneapolis met with the members of the Hennepin county house and senate delegations at a dinner given at the Nicollet hotel Saturday night and enthusiastically indorsed the candidacy of J. B. Gilfillan for the seat in the United States senate which will be vacated by Moses E. Clapp on March 4 of next year.

A destructive fire visited South Stillwater last week. It started in the kitchen of the South Stillwater hotel, owned by Henry Hammerstron, containing thirty rooms, destroying that building, the barn, the icehouse and the R. J. Porter saloon, the dwellings of August Bocrgeron and Mrs. Hans Clemeoson, together with two barns. The loss is about $25,000, partly covered by insurance.

Health Commissioner Ohage of St. Paul has secured a warrant, directed against the Northern Pacific, for violating the smoke ordinance and President Howard Elliott of that system will probably be obliged to appear in the St. Paul municipal court to answer to the charge. One of the Northern Pacific engineers was recently acquitted of the charge and the health commissioner stated at the time that he would go after the road's officials next.

AMERICAN VESSELS SEIZED.

Canadian Cruiser Captures Eight Fishing Boats.

Eastport, Me., Nov. 29.—Ten American fishing craft, including eight sailing vessels, and two steamboats, have been seized by the Canadian fisheries protective cruiser Curlew and fined for illegal fishing in the Canadian waters of a tributary of Passamaquoddy bay near St. George, N. B. The fishing craft were seized near St. George Sunday night, though an announcement of this procedure was not made until Monday. Three specific charges were preferred against the vessels—that they had fished on Sunday; that they had illegally caught fish in their possession, and that they had seined illegally in Canadian waters. For the first two offenses each boat was fined $100 and for the last $200. In addition to this all seines and fish were confiscated.

It is understood that the fines will be paid and that the entire matter will be disposed of without involving any international question. The aggregate value of the craft is about $20,000. The seizure is the most extensive that has been made by a Canadian cruiser for many years.

MORE TROOPS FOR ZEIGLER.

Another Company Ordered to Illinois Mining Town.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28.—Adjutant General Scott has telegraphed Captain John T. Galbraith, commanding Company C, Fourth infantry, Illinois national guard, of Carbondale, to proceed on the first train to Benton and report to Sheriff Stein of Franklin county for duty, thus reinforcing Company F of Mount Vernon, which was sent to Benton Saturday. This action of General Scott's was the result of the receipt of the following dispatch from Sheriff Stein:

"More shooting at Zeigler during the night and I cannot protect life and property unless more troops are sent."

Always Found Her So.

A story is told of a lady who complained to a shopkeeper that, in sending parcels to her, he would address her as "Tha Honorable."

"Don't mention it, ma'am. It doesn't signify at all."

"But it does signify. My parcels may go to the wrong person. I am not 'Honorable.'"

"Wa, madam, have always found you so."—Smith's Weekly.

An Attraction.

Mistress—Goodness, Mary! What's that you've got on?

Maid (with becoming pride)—That's a picshurs 'at, mum.

Mistress—But, Mary, it isn't suitable. Why, I wouldn't think of wearing such a thing.

Maid (simpering)—I dessay not, mum. You've got to be parsable good-lookin' to carry it off, as it were.—Ally Sloper.

Carelessness.

"Don't you think it will look a little carsless if we put the price of coal any higher?" said one baron.

"What do you mean?" asked the other.

"It will make some of the members of the combine suspect that we haven't been realizing the top-notch possibilities of profit heretofore."—Washington Star.

Sad Disappointment.

"Now," said the visitor, "will you show me your racing stables and your prize heifers?"

"I haven't any of either," replied the prominent politician.

"Is it possible," exclaimed the other, "that you are running this farm to make money out of it!"—Chicago Tribune.

Dissatisfied.

"Dere's a lot o' people kickin'," said Meandering Mike, "'cause some of de railroads won't hire a man after he's 35 years old."

"Yes," answered Plodding Pete, "I'm only 32. I've got to take chances on havin' work shoved at me fur t'ree more years."—Washington Star.

A Long Meal.

Mrs. Farmer—After you finish eatin' I shall expect you to do some work araoun' th' farm.

Tramp—Wot time is it now?

Mrs. Farmer—Three o'clock.

Tramp—All right. If dere's a moon ter-night I will.—Judge.

Ups and Downs.

"Hello!" came an excited voice over the wire. "Give me the football grounds. I want to find out about the line-up."

"Well, you can't do it!" replied the telephone girl, sharply. "The line's down."—Chicago News.

Just Like a Woman.

"It is bitter cold," remarked the shivering husband. "Why don't you button up your jacket?"

"The idea!" exclaimed the wife. "Why, if I did that no one would know it is lined with fur."—Chicago News.

Not Catching.

Rosie—I wonder if it is true that one is likely to catch something from being kissed?

Maud—Of course not. You've been kissed enough, but you haven't caught anything yet, have you?—Chicago Journal.

An Osculatory Pose.

"I hear Jack Nervay was seen kissing you out on the golf links."

"Yes, he took a mean advantage of me, when I couldn't defend myself. He did it just as I was posed to hit the ball."—Kansas City Star.

Higher Climb.

Pat—Begorra, they have increased thar hod-carriers' scale!

Bridget—Yez don't mane it?

Pat—Yis, they have to climb up twinty stories now instead of three an' four.—Chicago Journal.

A Great Loss.

The New Cook—What time do you have breakfast?

Mrs. Highblower—At 7:30.

"Well, O'im sorry O'i can't be wid ye."—Smart Set.

Nerve Fag.

If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes.

The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or druggist returns your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well, in fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarcana, Ark.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and favers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

National Thanksgiving Days in History

By D. L. AMBROSE,

Author of "Lights and Shadows of a State Capital."

THERE are those who believe that Thanksgiving festivities are of modern conception and origin. In this belief they are in error. All along the intricate course of time every nation has celebrated the end of the harvest. In remotest antiquity we read of the Hebrews observing the day of "First Fruits." The high priest was on that occasion presented with a sheaf of barley, publicly reaped, with oil and frankincense subsequently in evidence.

Five weeks later came the day of Pentecost, one purpose of which was to celebrate the end of harvesting. Associated therewith were three burnt offerings and a peace offering. They also observed the "Feast of Trumpets" and Ingathering at the end of the vintage.

This latter festival wa not much unlike our modern Thanksgiving day, save in the fact that it continued eight days, from the fifteenth to the twenty-second day of the Jewish month of October, Tisri. During that time no labor was performed; the people drank and feasted and sent portions to the poor and indulged in great hilarity. Hosannas were sung, and the silver trumpets led the stately processions of choruses said to be the grandest the world has ever heard. The magnificence of the great Hebrew festival with the march of time has passed away. What is observed now is only a part of its past glory. In Disraeli's "Tancred" is given a word painting of its modern observance by the dispersed children of Israel.

The Greeks were in the habit of paying tribute to Demeter, the goddess of corn. The Romans were equally enthusiastic in their celebration of the finished harvest. Their festival was called the Cerealia which was contemporaneous with the reign of Romulus. It took its name from Ceres. The celebration was just after the ingathering of the harvests. Imposing processions were formed, composed of worshipers regaled with corn leaves and poppies. The best fruits and the sweetest wines were put upon the sacrificial altar. The Aztecs honored the Mexican Ceres with the best of the fruit dedicated to her, and then had a harvest feast. In France and Italy the vintage season at the present day is one of the many delights, one of the important features being the singing of the "Harvest Home."

History tells of the numerous special Thanksgivings. In 1608 the Pilgrim church, exiled from England, went to Holland, where it remained until 1620, when it sent the Mayflower colony to New England. After the first harvest of the colonists at Plymouth, in 1621, Gov. Bradford sent four men fowling that they might have a feast and rejoice with Thanksgiving.

In July, 1623, when rain came following a drought, the governor appointed a day of Thanksgiving, which was observed with religious services.

In June, 1632, Gov. Winthrop, of the Massachusetts Bay colony, recommended a day of Thanksgiving on account of the action of the British privy council favorable to the colonies. Such was the germ and origin of our National Thanksgiving.

A thankful people suggests a people of the truest worhip, of the highest civilization. Favors received without returnin gthanks, reveals an ill-conditioned life. A thankless people are anti-Christ.

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow," is the voice of a soul that lives more in light than in darkness.

D. L. Ambrose

Ebb Tide of Unionism

By FRANK K. FOSTER,

Union Labor Leader of Boston.

We in the labor movement have much to learn, though this fact is often disregarded. When I saw the tremendous wave of organization a few years ago, especially in Chicago, I feared that history would repeat itself, that the movement would be subjected to the universal law and that the tide surely would ebb. It would appear that this is exactly what has happened to the movement in Chicago.

In the scientific organization of crafts much good will be accomplished for the working people, but the inspiration and sentiment which lead men to organize must be crystallized into practical form. The organization movement must be directed by judgment and the principles of common sense must be applied or the inspiration alone will not carry the movement to ultimate triumph.

The happy optimism of the people who join labor unions, with dreams of accomplishing great things in a hurry, soon spends itself and a reaction results. Because results are not accomplished men think the organizations are worthless and are dissatisfied because the dollars invested did not bring them fortunes.

I have watched the ebb and flow of the tide of organization for many years and, notwithstanding the many times that unionism has had to retreat, there comes to me an assurance that no power on earth, not even the gathering force of Parryism or the weaknesses of our own movement, that we all know exist, can prevent the slow and certain improvement of the working people through craft organization. Don't draw any lesson of discouragement because there is an ebb in the tide. The labor movement is an evolutionary one. Great gains have been made in the past and will be made in the future.

Love Is Not All

By DR. GEORGE F. RHEINHARDT,

Professor of Hygiene, University of California.

As a class we Americans are not well bred. We give more attention to the production of a fine breed of horses and cows than we do to the production of strong, healthy men. Our presence on this earth is a matter of sentiment largely, and it is no wonder, then, that some of us are unfortunate in appearance; that we have eyes, ears and noses and heads out of shape and disproportioned. If we could only select the fittest among us for the producers of our future citizens what a fine race of citizens we could have!

These are serious matters. You men may be sending sons and daughter of your own to college some day. Then bear in mind that sentiment is not the only thing to think about when you get ready to enter into wedlock. Do not let love, playing on your heart strings, get the better of your common sense. Some men marry women they know are not fit to make good wives because they have entered into a courtship blindly and do not realize until too late that they have made a mistake. It is all right to think that there is only one girl in this world for you, but you should be very careful in selecting this one person. When a man selects a sickly girl or one in whose family there is some hereditary disorder he is either a fool or has no regard for his posterity.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough Any child will take it It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. They spent several hours looking over the road and expressed themselves as being highly satisfied with what has been done so far.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year at the regular meeting of the K. P. lodge last Monday evening: C. C.—Sam Hunt; V. C.—S. L. Lewis; M. W.—H. W. Anderson; Prelate—H. W. Knox; M. A.—Geo. Hennings; K. R. S.—Tom Grimo; I. G.—P. B. Gaass; O. G.—W. A. McIntyre; Trustee—W. A. McIntyre, one year; M. F.—F. F. Fletcher; M. E.—J. B. Armstrong.

The Bert Martin company gave a moving-picture and illustrated song entertainment at the opera house Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week, and while the crowds that attended were small, nevertheless Mr. Martin gave excellent satisfaction. He stated that he was on his way to Chicago to purchase an entire new outfit, and promised to come here again early in the new year. Mr. Martin puts up a first-class entertainment and will do a good business when he re-visits us.

Arthur Patnode, a prominent young man of Brooks, was a caller here today. Mr. Patnode informs The Gazette that he has purchased Hotel Lambert at Brooks and took possession yesterday. The hotel property is a good one and has been doing a first-class business, and under Mr. Patnode's guidance will undoubtedly become a popular place with the travelling public. Mr. Patnode is also interested in a saloon at Brooks, and looks for a rapid growth of that promising new town.

The Irrepressible Wiley Tindolph came down from Thief River Falls Monday for a few hours' business visit. Wiley has got his affairs in shape and leaves this week for a few weeks sojourn at Minneapolis, after which he will go to Cuba to spend a greater portion of the winter. Wiley promised to write The Gazette occasionally to keep the Red Lake county people informed as to his movements among the palms and roses, and the people can expect some interesting letters from this popular writer during the winter.

No town will become a good business place so long as the majority of its business men rely upon a few merchants to bring trade into town. Too often the men in a few lines of trade are about the only ones who reach out after the trade, says the Northfield News. Other merchants wait until these business men induce the people to come to town and content themselves with trade that naturally drifts to their place. A public spirited man should do his part to attract people to come to town to trade, thereby helping the entire business community, and no town is a success unless all lines are working to extend the trade as far as possible.

VIEWERS ARE UPHELD

Jury Decides That No Changes Should Be Made In Assessments For Ditch No. 21.

The case of Andrew Soderberg, Kund H. Finstad, and others vs. the Board of County Commissioners of Red Lake county was tried before Judge Watts last Thursday and Friday, and after being out several hours the jury returned a verdict that the report of the viewers said on ditches should be sustained and no re-adjustment of the assessment made.

This is the famous case of Ditch No. 21, with which nearly every resident of the county is familair. The petition of the residents of the fraction east of Rocksbury for a county ditch, was opposed by the people of Rocksbury through whose land the ditch must pass, and as a result the board refused to grant the petition. The citizens of the fraction appealed the case, and after hearing the evidence Judge Watts ordered that the decision of the board be reversed, and the ditch constructed as prayed for.

From this order the citizens of Rocksbury appealed to have their assessments re-adjusted and lowered, and a jury was empaneled and sent out to look over the proposed ditch line. The evidence was then taken and after deliberation a verdict was returned sustaining the report of the viewers and recommending no change in the assessments.

The case has attracted considerable attention and was stubbornly contested on both sides.

A Poor Excuse.

The Red Lake Falls Courier says: "The football boys intended to play Crookston on Thanksgiving, but word was sent that Crookston had disbanded and that they would play us next year, early in the season. We hope that they will live up to this, as they have refused three or four challenges we gave them this year." Crookston has not disbanded and will yet play ball. The boys do not intend, however, to play games on 30-minute notices, such as was given by the Falls team.—Crookston Journal.

The Journal should investigate a little before it offered up such a flimsy excuse for the refusal of the Crookston foot ball boys to meet Red Lake Falls this year, and if it did it would honestly acknowledge that a large quantity of that "shaky feeling" was possessed by the Crookston Highs; and they simply avoided a contest with a team they knew would eat them up, figutively speaking. A couple of weeks prior to the opening of school, Prof. Thoreson, coach of the Crookston team, answered a request for a game by stating that Crookston would play us late in the season. Again in the middle of the season they were asked to play but still put us off. About the first of November, S. E. Hunt and W. A. McIntyre visited Crookston and while there, on behalf of the foot ball team here endeavored to arrange a game for one of two Saturdays, but the captain of the Crookston eleven put them off, stating they had arranged for games, which later proved untrue. Three days before Thanksgiving Prof. Thoreson was again sought but could not be found until the day before, when he refused to play stating that the team had DISBANDED for the year, and that they would arrange to play us next season, and it seems that the high school note from the Courier, copied by the Journal, was precisely the truth. Crookston's players knew that they would get a good beating if they played us this fall, and instead of tackling the inevitable played "return games" with two schools they knew they could defeat, which leaves the Red Lake Falls team the undisputed championship of northwestern Minnesota.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED IN THE FIRST STAGES.

A Beautiful Girl Saved From Dread Consumption —Other Wonderful Cures.

Miss Amelia Weymer, Appleton, Wis., writes: "Early last summer I contracted a cold which seemed to hang on to me and could not be shaken off. From the head it went to the throat, and then affected my lungs. My mother felt very anxious and as we had used Peruna in the family before, she advised me to try it. I was somehow very opposed but was persuaded to try Peruna. Using it one day convinced me that it was no ordinary medicine, within a week I was much better and in two weeks I was well, and I felt much stronger and in much better health generally. I was perfectly satisfied with the results from the use of Peruna."—Miss Amelia Weymer.

Miss Amelia Weymer.

Hundreds of Women Cured of the First Stages of Consumption by Pe-ru-na.

The Following Letter From a Thankful Woman Tells Its Own Story.

Mrs. Mary E. Hoblit, 2501 Clinton avenue, Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

"My son suffered for three months with catarrh of the bronchial tubes which threatened to become very serious. The doctors advised that he seek a more favorable climate, but as he had heard of Peruna as a specific for lung trouble he decided to give it a trial before he left his family for an expensive journey among strangers. For six months he used it faithfully and found that the trouble gradually disappeared and blessed health took its place. In two months he was perfectly well and able to perform his duties. You have indeed a grateful mother's thanks."—Mrs. Mary Hoblit.

It is the praise of those who have been cured by Peruna that makes this remedy so popular and so extensively used. No advertisement could have accomplished this result.

Peruna cures the first stages of consumption by removing the cause, which is chronic catarrh. The catarrh having been cured the cough and other disagreeable symptoms cease.

CATARRH CAUSES CONSUMPTION

Pe-ru-na Never Fails to Cure Catarrh Wherever Located.

THE medical profession has so thoroughly prejudiced the minds of the people against patent medicines that it is with great reluctance that anyone can be persuaded to try such a remedy at first.

In nearly every one of the thousands of remarkable cures that Peruna has made the patients had to be persuaded by friends very strongly before they could lay aside their prejudice against it.

A large multitude, of course, hold out against the persuasions of friends and die simply because they have allowed their minds to be poisoned against this very excellent remedy.

But fortunately there is another large multitude of people who are able to shake off their prejudice and try Peruna before it is too late. These people are rarely disappointed. They generally try other remedies at the beginning of their troubles. They allow a cold to develop into catarrh of the head. They allow catarrh of the head to gradually become catarrh of the throat. They still keep using the doctor's medicine, or some other ineffectual remedy. The catarrh stealthily spreads down the bronchial tubes and reaches the lungs. Everybody then becomes alarmed. Faith in the doctor begins to disappear. The patient reaches a state of mind in which he is willing to try almost anything. A bottle of Peruna is sent for.

The first week it produces a decided change for the better. A few weeks' continued treatment cures the patient. Then another happy man or woman is added to the long list of people who are praising Peruna.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

EXPENSES ARE FILED

Candidates Comply With Law And Tell How Much They Spent To Get Office.

The various candidates for county office have filed with County Auditor Ford their affidavits of expenses at the recent election, and some interesting statements can be found in the bunch. This is what they spent:

K. M. Hanson, $108.90; in this Mr. Hanson puts in "wear and tear on personal apparel" $15.

N. W. Tarrant spent $82.64, and got out cheap at that.

Paul I. D. Ostby was set back $125.-55 for wanting to break into county office.

Joseph Belair had to put up $35, which he will get back if he has good luck during the next two years.

Mrs. Doe spent $164.65 in her campaign.

L. C. Simons put up $246.65 to be re-elected to the legislature.

J. B. O'Brien spent $19.16 in his primary campaign.

Sam Luxemburger, $22.00.

John Deforge, $10.

W. W. Prichard put up $40.80 in the scramble for the commissionership nomination in the Fourth district.

Ernest Buse, $169.65.

H. T. McAnulty, $207.30.

Ovide Moreau, $125.27.

John L. Finke, $74.77; included in this was 55 cents for incidental expenses and 20 cents put down as being donated to "church beggars."

Dan Shaw, $61.

Frank Jeffers, $158.80; no accounting being made for his large volume of talk.

W. C. L. Demann, $37.50.

James E. Ford, $79.60.

Thomas Germo, $224.70.

Samuel Gibeau, primary expenses, $234.50.

K. J. Weeks, $205.00.

Dan Linnihan—$197.75.

Ole J. Tweet—$24.00.

Ernest L. Quist—$91.50.

Grand Jury's Report.

The District Court for the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota.

Fourteenth Judicial District.

October Term A. D. 1904.

We the Grand Jury in and for the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, hereby report to the Hon. William Watts, one of the District Judges in and for said county, that among other things that we have examined the offices of the several county officers of said county.

We further report after having examined the jail of said county that the same is lighted with common kerosene lamps, and that said jail so lighted is unsafe to not only the jailor but also to prisoners who may be confined therein, and we urge the board of county commissioners to cause said jail to be lighted with proper and suitable electric lights.

We have also been advised by the county attorney that one Helding Olson was murdered in the month of July A. D. 1904 in the vicinity of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, in said county, and that there is no evidence of any nature in his possession or in the possession of the officers as to who committed said murder, we urge the commissioners of said county to offer the sum of five hundred dollars for evidence sufficient to convict said murderer of said crime.

Respectfully submitted by the grand jury of said county. Dated Oct. 27th., 1904.

C. A. LINDQUIST,
Foreman of the Grand Jury,
SIMON PAUL,
Clerk of the Grand Jury.

WOODMEN ELECT.

Choose Officers For Ensuing Year at Last Night's Meeting.

The local camp of Modern Woodmen of America held their annual election of officers at their hall last evening, the following being chosen:

Venerable Counsel—Wm. Schwalen.
Worthy Advisor—Frank Brouillet.
Banker—Joseph Tschirhart.
Clerk—Dan J. Doran.
Manager—T. A. Crompe.
Escort—Fred Burgdorf.
Watchman—Alex Rose.
Sentry—M. Pincinault.
Physicians—Drs. Watson and Lemieux.

The installation will occur early in the year, and the new set of officers will commence their terms at that time. The officers chosen are good men and will undoubtedly inject vim into the order.

Rebekahs Choose Officers.

The annual election of the Rebekah lodge was held at their last meeting, the following being chosen:

N. G.—Mrs. Wm. Schwalen.
V. G.—Mrs. M. A. Hatten.
R. S.—Mrs. J. J. Doe.
F. S.—Mrs. H. C. Hanson.
Treas.—Mrs. Wm. Findelsen.

OLSON'S PARENTS FOUND.

Father Comes From Erskine To Get His Son.

Edwin Olson, the 19-year-old boy who was found wandering around in Terrebonne, has been restored to his family after having sent to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls from this city without the knowledge of his parents who reside at Erskine, but who had lost track of the boy and did not know that he was in trouble.

Young Olson was sent down last week to Fergus Falls but was returned as they claimed he was not insane, but simply feeble minded. He was kept here a few days and his father, John Olson of Erskine by chance heard of the case, investigated and took him home last Friday.

The Athenian Play.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that the Athenians are to give a play at the opera house on Friday evening, December 16.

We would remind you that the presentation of the play is wholly unselfish on the part of the Athenians and solely for the benefit of the high school library. For that reason if for no other they ought to have your hearty support. But we do not intend to ask you to support us on that ground. We have a better reason to offer why you should come and see the play. It is one of the best seriocomic plays presented today and sells readily to professionals at a royalty of $25 per night. It is especially adapted to amateur players: therefore the play is worthy of your attendance. Then, too, the players are all suited to their parts and have worked until they appreciate the thought of the author and are able largely to express it. Hence the play will be excellently rendered. For all of these reasons we ask you to give us a crowded house and enable us to buy a large number of good books for you and your children to read.—The Athenians.

MOREAU ANSWERS.

Claims Hanson's Charges Not Truthful And Sets Up Counter Charges.

Ovide Moreau through his attorney, R. J. Montague, of Crookston, has filed his answer to the complaint of Karl M. Hansen, who is contesting the election of Moreau as county treasurer.

Mr. Moreau's answer denies all the charges of irregularities in Hanson's complaint, and several counter charges are set up.

He alleges illegal voting in the towns of Garnes and Emardville, setting forth that several more votes were counted in each of these towns than were cast for Hanson, and demands that a recount of these two towns would give him a largely increased majority.

The case has not yet been set for trial, but it is likely that it will be tried sometime the latter part of next week.

Johnson Makes Appointments.

Several appointments to state office at the hands of Governor-elect Johnson, have been announced this week, and several Republicans come in for recognition at the hands of Minnesota's Democratic governor-elect. The following have been named so far: Frank Day, of Fairmont, private secretary; L. A. Rosing, of Cannon Falls, member of state board of control; T. D. O'Brien of St. Paul, state insurance commissioner; Edwin K. Slater, of St. Anthony Park, (rep.) dairy and food commissioner; John W. Olson, of Albert Lea, (re-appointed) superintendent of public instruction; Cleve W. VanDyke, of Alexandria, governor's executive clerk. The balance of Governor Johnson's selections will be made in a few days. It is stated that Public Examiner Johnson will be re-appointed in recognition of the mugwump Minneapolis Journal's support.

TO MOVE THE 28th.

Plan To Have Governor Van Sant First Occupant of New Capitol.

Governor Van Sant will probably move into the new capitol building Dec. 28. Representatives of the contracting firm which installed the heating and mechanical plant informed the state capitol commission this morning that the leakage in the boilers could not be repaired in less than three weeks.

The commission, therefore, adjourned after arrangements had been made for a special meeting Dec. 27. If the boilers are in shape so that the building can be heated at that time, Governor Van Sant will be permitted to take immediate occupancy. He will move into his new offices Dec. 28, to have control of the new marble building for five days.

The commission is making every effort to get the executive and legislative branches of the government into the new building before the administration changes. If Governor Van Sant is permitted to occupy the new building he will have the privilege of appointing engineers, firemen, janitors and other employees.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

If you haven't time to prepare Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, it is now made in tablet form also. Get a package already to use. Makes you well; keeps you well. 35 cents, W A. Schreiter.

Some pusilanimous cuss swiped a sweat-pad and some straps from Seiff's livery barn on Tuesday night. The loss of the sweat-pad made Jo Morisette hot under the collar.

Louis Alberts, state boiler inspector, was here last Saturday looking over the steam powers of Plummer's two feed mills which he found to be in excellent condition.

N. A. Nelson, the blacksmith, was taken with hemorhages of the lungs and is lying in a precarious condition at Hotel Scotland. Dr. Jelstrup is taking care of him and has good hope of his recovery.

Nels G. Otternes, the St. Hilaire land man, was here on Thursday. He was on his way home after a visit to the St. Louis Exposition and came this way to transact some business with Julius Pleth.

Nels Hakenson was in from Garnes on Thursday attending to some business. He made his little son happy by purchasing him a small rifle to hunt rabbits with. Little acts of kindness are appreciated by the children as well as the grown up folks.

The dance in the Pioneer building on Wednesday evening was a most enjoyable affair, but owing to the intense cold the attendance from the country was rather small. What was lacking in numbers was made up by the sociability of the crowd and all had a jolly time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rubertson went to Thief River Falls on Monday evening and on Tuesday Mrs. Rebertson underwent a surgical operation for throat trouble. The operation was performed by Drs. Pleth, of Crookston, and Gamble, of Thief River Falls, and was entirely successful. Mrs. Robinbon will remain at Thief River Falls for a while pending her complete recovery.

J. H. Paradis and Thos. Crompe were out from Red Lake Falls on Tuesday looking the town over and attending to some business matters. Mr. Paradis was surprised to find such a lively town as Plummer existing so close to him, and which he has never seen before.

John Hagberg, of Fertile, who has been working here during the fall, lost a valuable watch on Monday night. Some sneaking thief stole it from under his pillow in Hotel Scotland and up to the present time no clue has been found as to the identity of the thief.

Worst of all Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Nowson, Decatur, Ala. Mrs. Jinks—This is a good time to get one, dear. They're much lower than they were months ago.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Not Courting Comment.

"The voters here say you have done absolutely nothing during your present term."

"Good," answered Senator Sorghum, "that is much better than to have them discussing what I really did."—Washington Star.

An Impossibility.

Worth It.

She (on the honeymoon)—I suppose, George, it must have cost a lot of money to build a railway like this?

He—Oh, yes. The tunnels alone cost a million or so—but they're worth every penny of it.—Smith's Weekly.

What He Won.

"Did your husband ever win anything at the races?"

"No," answered young Mrs. Torkins, "nothing except the esteem of the bookmakers and the sympathy of his friends."—Washington Star.

Tommy's Idea.

"Yes," groaned the artist, "painters should all be bachelors."

"Why so?" asked the friend.

"Why, I painted a picture of an African jungle with the trees full of monkeys."

"Yes."

"And my little son went in and sketched organ grinders all over it. Said monkeys and organ grinders always went together."—Chicago News.

The Problem.

"Do you think the automobile will ever take the place of the horse?" asked the man who was standing around watching the tourist trying to repair a breakdown.

"My friend," was the response, "that is an unimportant question. The problem now is to get a horse to take the place of the automobile."—Washington Star.

His Brilliant Idea.

Wife—John, don't you think that our house is altogether too small for our present needs?

Husband—Yes; I've been thinking seriously of putting an addition to it.

Wife—Something in the shape of a wing?

Husband—No; something in the shape of a mortgage.—Chicago News.

Question?

Mrs. Quiverful (discussing a neighbor with a visitor)—The way she goes out gadding about and leaves her poor little child at home is simply disgraceful. Nothing to my mind becomes a woman so much as a baby.

Little Daughter—It doesn't become a woman unless it's a girl baby, does it, mamma?—Ally Sloper.

The Old, Old Story.

Old Gentleman—How old are you, my dear?

Little Girl—I was eight years old yesterday.

Old Gentleman—Indeed! You don't look to be that old.

Little Girl—Ah, how you naughty men do flatter us poor, weak women.—Chicago News.

Verified.

The Polite Beggar.

"Want some money, do ye?" said the kind old lady. "Now I wonder ef ye deserve it. What would you do with a penny ef I give it to ye?"

"Lady," replied the polite beggar, "yer kindness would touch me so dat I'd buy a postal card wid de money an' write yer a note o' thanks."—Catholic Standard.

Son of His Father.

Popleigh—My wife has a book in which she records all the bright things our baby gets off.

Smithkins—Why, I had no idea the little fellow was old enough for that sort of thing.

Popleigh—Oh, yes. He repeats everything he hears me say.—Chicago News.

And He Rapped for Order.

"Oh," sneered the self-important lawyer who was cross-examining. "You think you know it all, don't you?"

"Not quite," replied the witness. "For instance, I don't know how you manage to secure an occasional client."—Kansas City Star.

An Autumn Chant.

The leaves are turning yellow,
The porch's charm has died,
And Gladys and her fellow
Are courting now inside.

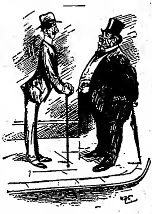
THEN THE STORM BROKE.



Uncle (to Fred, who has expectations, but is very absent-minded)—And so you don't fancy the looks of your new clerk?

Fred—No. Funny thing, I never could take to a man with a hooked nose!

And then Fred wondered why his uncle was mad.—Ally Sloper.

JAPS ARE DEFEATED

SUFFER CRUSHING REPULSE IN ATTACK ON GENERAL RENNENKAMPFF'S MEN.

Report From Mukden Places the Japanese Loss in Killed at Fifteen Hundred, While the Russian Casualties Are Placed at Only Forty—Rumored at Tokio That Jap Shells Have Destroyed Several Russian Warships at Port Arthur.

Mukden, Dec. 6.—There is a persistent rumor that the force of Japanese sent to turn General Rennenkampff's flank has been repulsed with great loss. The story is not yet officially confirmed, but details are given with great circumstantiality. It is stated that General Rennenkampff, who knew the movement was maturing, awaited the Japanese at the mouth of one of the passes and that the Japanese turning force threw themselves unsuspectingly into the ambuscade, where after the fight, the Russians collected 500 Japanese corpses. It is added that there are 1,000 more Japanese corpses which it had been impossible to collect, owing to the fire of the Japanese. This does not include the Japanese loss in wounded. The Russian loss, according to this account, was only 30 or 40 men.

A four-day artillery duel on the Russian right and center has failed to alter the situation. There is much sickness among the Russian troops caused by the close confinement to the trenches and the bomb proofs and the continuous nervous strain.

FIGHTING WAS FIERCE

RUSSIANS AND JAPS FOUGHT DESPERATELY FOR POSSESSION OF 203-METER HILL.

Tokio, Dec. 5.—The diary of the fighting around 203-Meter hill, which is published in the Japanese papers, describes the terrible losses involved in the storming of the Russian position from dawn of Nov. 28 till 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day. A Russian counter attack began at dawn on Nov. 29, and was so furiously pushed that the Japanese were compelled to retire from both sides of the hill into the valley. The attack was renewed the morning of Nov. 30, "when all the Japanese reserves came up" from the southwestern corner; but these assailants only advanced thirty meters by 5 o'clock, so stubborn was the resistance and the Japanese suffered severe losses. Then, being reinforced, the Japanese maintained the struggle with terrible earnestness. Furious charges were repeatedly made and the Russians were compelled gradually to retire. The southwestern summit of the hill was not occupied until 7 o'clock in the evening and the northwestern summit not until 8 o'clock. During the night six Russian counter attacks were repulsed One, which was launched at 4 o'clock in the morning, was characterized by several bayonet attacks, and was persisted in until noon of Dec. 1, when, the hopelessness of the attempts becoming evident, the Russians retired.

BURN RUSSIAN SHIPS

JAPANESE SHELLS SET FIRE TO REMNANT OF THE PORT ARTHUR FLEET.

Tokio, Dec. 6.—It is reported that the Japanese bombardment against the fleet at Port Arthur is proceeding to the satisfaction of the attacking forces. On the evening of the fourth instant (Sunday) two or three Russian ships were fired and burned in a half hour. Their names and the extent of the damage done are not known. It is generally believed that tha Russian fleet must either make an early sortie or suffer irreparable damage.

HEAVY FIRING CONTINUES.

Japs Making Determined Efforts to Take Port Arthur Forts.

London, Dec. 6.—A dispatch from Chefoo on Dec. 5 to the Daily Telegraph says:

"Heavy firing continues at Port Arthur today. Tha Japanese are making most determined and persistent efforta to capture the northern forts."

EXPRESS CAR ROBBED.

Messenger Roberts Mortally Wounded by the Bandit.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—Tha Wells-Fargo express car on Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe overland passenger train No. 1, westbound, was entered Monday between Needlea and Daggett, Evan C. Roberts, the express messenger, shot and fatally wounded, and the safe rifled.

The express company was expecting a large shipment of United States pension money, totaling $200,000, it is said, and it is posible that this shipment may have been on the train.

Father on Street Unable to Rescue Wife and Children.

Pittsburg, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Rock Parry of 4 Chatham street and two of her children were burned to death in their home. The husband and a son and daughter were forced to stand in the street and see the tragedy.

DYNAMITE FOUND AT ZIEGLER.

Unsuccessful Attempt Made to Cut Off Water Supply.

Benton, Ill., Dec. 5.—Sheriff Stein spent Sunday in Zeigler investigating the situation. Saturday night was comparatively quiet, only about fifteen shots having been fired. Deputy United States Marshal Skaggs created a real sensation in Zeigler at noon by bringing in thirty-eight sticks of dynamite he had found between the office building and the pump station. The dynamite was tied in two bundles with a fuse on each that had been lighted, but which it is supposed the damp, cold night prevented exploding. The dynamite was placed on tha ground just above the principal water main, which supplies Zeigler with water. Had it exploded the water main would have been demolished and possibly the pump station.

Captain W. E. Satterfield, commander of the Third battalion, Sunday requested Sheriff Stein to urge Adjutant General Scott to send two more companies of militia, saying that he has not enough men to cover the ground properly, and that things are developing that will require at least four companies.

PACT WITH PANAMA

SECRETARY TAFT AND ISTHMIAN PRESIDENT AMADOR REACH AN AGREEMENT.

Panama, Dec. 5.—The differences between the United States and Panama, which made necessary the visit of Secretary of War Taft to the isthmus, have been settled by the issuance of an executive order signed by Secretary Taft for President Roosevelt and assented to in a letter by President Amador of Panama.

The order provides that no trade for the canal zone or the republic of Panama can enter the ports established by the United States at either end of the canal, supplies for the construction of the canal and articles in transit being excepted. This turns the customs receipts of these ports over to tha government of Panama.

Panama agrees to reduce her tariff from 15 per cent ad valorem to 10 per cent.

Panama also agrees to reduce her consular fees and port charges to 60 per cent of the rates at present charged.

Absolute free trade is to apply between the canal zone and the republic of Panama.

Complete jurisdiction is granted the United States in the harbors of Colon and Panama as to sanitation and quarantine regulations.

Panama reduces her rate of postage to 2 cents and is to furnish all stamps in the republic and in the canal zone.

The order of Secretary Taft is to be ineffective unless Panama shall put into effect the gold standard, according to the currency agreement of June 20, 1904.

CONGRESS IN SESSION

LAST MEETING OF THE PRESENT BODY ASSEMBLES AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Washington, Dec. 6.—With the senate in session only three minutes and the house fifty-three, the last session of the Fifty-eighth congress was assembled Monday. The time of both bodies was devoted entirely to the usual formalities of opening day. There were the greetings between members, the great floral display and the hundreds of visitors with beautifully gowned women predominating. Coridors, committee rooms and cloak rooms were thronged. The hustle extended even to the floors of the chambers.

The gavels of Senator Frye, president pro tem of the senate, and Speakar Cannon of the house, fell exactly at 12 o'clock. The opening prayers were made by the chaplains, Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D. D., in the senate, and Rev. H. N. Couden in the house.

In both the senate and the housa committees were appointed to wait upon the president and inform him that congress was prepared to receive any message he had to send to it.

Resolutions of respect were passed to the memories of the late Senators Quay (Pa.) and Hoar (Mass.) in the senate and house, and adjournment taken in further tribute to their memory.

The only business outside of the usual first day routine was the adoption of a resolution in the house extending until Jan. 5, 1905, the time within which the merchant marine committee may make its report.

The boom of Judge Gilfillan, of Minneapolis, as a candidate to succeed United States Senator Moses E. Clapp has been formerly launched, and from now on until the legislature convenes the Minneapolis grafters will work night and day attempting to pull the wool over the eyes of the people in the interests of her candidate. Every big toad of Hennepin county is back of Judge Gilfillan and neither time nor money will be spared to carry their point. Hennepin county aspires to being the dictator of the state's affairs, and to one at a distance it looks as if the fellows who are working to that end scored a big point on November 8, and stand a fair chance of landing the senatorship for their tool.

The Red River Valley representatives in the legislature will this year ask for an appropriation of $100,000 for the drainage of state swamp lands in that district. A bill will be introduced to this effect and the Red River Valley members of both house and senate have agreed to stand shoulder to shoulder in support of the measure. At the session of the legislature two years ago, the appropriation for state drainage, most of which was used to benefit the Red river valley district, was $50,000. This money has been expended $25,000 each year, under direction of the state drainage commission, of which Governor S. R. Van Sant is chairman. Thousands of acres of land, which previous to the building of the drains was but worthless bog, have been drained and are now tillable. This swamp land when once drained, is always found to be very rich soil, and from a worthless condition, has at once jumped to a value of $8 and $10 an acre. With millions of acres of swamp land still left belonging to the state in the Red River region, the legislators from that portion of the state assert it is an easy thing to see the tremendous financial gain the proper drainage of this land will mean in the value of the state's holdings, and eventually in the amount of money which will enter the school fund, for a great part of these swamp regions are school lands.

In the early convention fight last summer the Minneapolis Journal and a few more of the striped politicians of Hennepin county were shouting their heads off because Robert C. Dunn was opposed to Senator Clapp for re-election, and used all kinds of schemes to influence the delegates to the convention to support Collins because of his friendliness to Clapp. But now it appears that their reasons were precisely the opposite of what they contended, and instead of being friendly to Clapp, Collins and his entire bunch of Hennepin county followers had a knife up their sleeves a foot long for the junior senator, and were opposing Dunn because of his friendliness to Clapp instead of his unfriendliness, as they would make people believe. Hennepin county wants the senatorship, and they realized that with Bob Dunn in the highest office their chances would be mighty slim, so they worked over time with all sorts of misrepresentations to beat Dunn, and no sooner had this been accomplished than they trotted out a candidate for the United States senate, and began a campaign to elect him. Senator Clapp has been a [illegible] congressman and is practically the nominee of the Republican state convention, which means that the legislature is really bound to re-elect him, and it seems to be the general opinion that they will do so, regardless of the crafty Hennepin political schemers. The people of the state will realize more and more every day that they committed a serious error in allowing the Republican party to be hoodwinked and defeated by the Hennepin grafters, and they will be able to realize better after while that they have merely been made the dupes of Hennepin county and the city of Minneapolis.

Salient Points in the President's Message

Congress is cautioned against extravagance.

**

Labor organizations in the exercise of their legitmate functions are commended but violence, brutality or corruption in connection therewith are strongly denounced.

**

The government cannot discriminate between union and non-union men.

**

Government employes must not organize to further their own interests by threatening members of congress with defeat—especial reference being made to recent action by the rural route letter carriers.

**

The federal government alone can deal adequately with the great corporations. It is absurd to expect to eliminate their abuses of power by state action.

**

The policy of the bureau of corporations is to be made constructive, not destructive.

**

The law against railroad rebates, rate discriminations and special privileges to shippers must be strictly enforced and if necessary strengthened.

**

Recommendations for the government of the District of Columbia urge strong laws against child labor and the employment ot married women in factories, in the interest of the preservation of the human family.

**

Agriculture, irrigation and forestry are made the subject of especial suggestion. The people of the west are urged to support heartily the forest reserve policy.

**

The conduct of the pension bureau is heartily commended; need of closer relationship between the Indian bureau and the Indian agencies is set forth.

**

The currency question should be finally settled by the retirement of the greenbacks, by making every silver dollar redeemable in gold, and at the same time preserving a safe degree of elasticity in the volume of circulating medium.

**

The question of being a good American has nothing whatever to do with a man's birthplace. There is no danger of having too many immigrants of the right sort, but the naturalization laws should be thoroughly revised.

**

The enactment of a law against bribery and corruption in federal elections is a necessity.

**

Delays in criminal prosecutions are strongly deplored and no subject better warrants the attention of congress than legislation to insure the prompt action of the federal courts.

**

Alaska should have a new code of laws, a delegate in congress and increased pay for its judicial officers.

**

Interstate transactions in insurance should be brought under the operations of the bureau of corporations.

**

The need of improvement in the consular service is urged, with the substitution of salaries for fees and a test of fitness if not a civil service examination for candidates for these positions.

**

Prevention of railroad accidents should receive closer federal attention, and the extension of the use of safety devices should be provided for.

**

Legislation for the benefit of Hawaii should receive early attention.

**

In its foreign relations this country should ever strive to promote the peace of justice throughout the world.

**

In its relations to other nations of the western hemisphere this government will adhere to the Monroe Doctrine.

**

The rights of all American citizens abroad must be protected; especial reference being made to recent occurrences in both Russia and Turkey.

**

The strong arm of the government in enforcing respect for its citizens is the navy. There should be no halt in its upbuilding.

**

The army, while reduced to its minimum, should be kept up to the highest degree of efficiency.

**

The satisfactory status of affairs in the Philippines is clearly set forth, with an outline of the proposed experiments in self government to be made in the next two years.

Good Health to the Children

Children especially are fond of dainties, and the housekeeper must look carefully to their food.

As good cake can be made only with good eggs, so also a cake that is healthful as well as dainty must be raised with a pure and perfect baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable in the preparation of the highest quality of food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., and what is more important, renders the food wholesome and agreeable to young and old.

The Knights of Pythias will enjoy a smoke social at their hall Monday evening, to be given by the retiring officers to the members. Refreshments will be served and a good time is promised.

The foot-ball benefit supper given at the K. of P. hall Tuesday evening, by a dozen of the lady and girl friends of the team, was a grand success from every point of view, and a large number of people partook of the most excellent menu provided for them. The receipts were in the neighborhood of $31, which puts the team out of debt and leaves a small balance to start next year's work with. The foot-ball boys are very grateful to the ladies for their interest in their behalf and also to the public for their liberal support.

Considerable wood has been brought to town during the last ten days and a ready market has been found for all that could be hauled. From $2.75 and $3.00 for soft wood to $4.00 and $4 50 for hard wood have been the prevailing prices.

Miss Alida Peterson, who recently located here to do sewing of all kinds, comes recommended as a first-class seamstress, and people who have sewing to do will find her work satisfactory. Call on her at the Delage residence near St. Joseph's church.

Peter K. Olson came in from Plummer Monday and remained over a day with his family and many friends. Peter reports business as rushing at the new town, and says that it is growing rapidly. He thinks the new train service on the Soo is O. K., and say many transients come to their town every day now.

A Swede who was one of a gang of men employed in a large planing mill in a northwestern town, went one day to the manager of the mill and remarked that he thought Johnson, the foreman, had quit. "What?" said the manager, "Johnson quit? Why man, he has been in our employ for twenty years." "Well, I tank he quit," said the Swede. "He has never complained," said the manager, "and besides he was the best paid man in the mill. Why should he quit? Has he a better job?" "I tank he quit." repeated the Swede, doggedly. Then motioning to the manager to follow him, he led the way to a place in the boom from which the logs had been removed. The water was clear and deep, and on the bottom of the river lay the body of Johnson, the foreman. "There," said the Swede, triumphantly, pointing to the drowned form, "you tank Johnson quit?"—Ex.

Bad Fire in an Auto Garage in New York City.

New York, Dec. 6.—Ten persons were injured and $250,000 worth of property was destroyed as the result of explosions caused by a spark leaping from a gasoline machine on which a chauffeur was working in an automobile garage on West Thirty-ninth street Monday.

Forty automobiles were destroyed or badly damaged and so rapid was the progress of the fire that men working in the second story of the building had no opportunity to escape by way of the stairways and were forced to leap from the windows.

JAMES N. TYNER DEAD

FORMER POSTAL OFFICIAL EXPIRES OF PARALYSIS AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Dec. 6.—James Noble Tyner of Indiana, once postmaster general under President Grant and at various times secretary of the Indiana senate, representative in congress, first and second assistant postmaster general and assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, died of paralysis at his home in this city Monday. He was seventy-eight years of age. Mr. Tyner was stricken with paralysis in July, 1902, and was never after that able to actively discharge his official duties. He was in a very enfeebled condition throughout the postal investigation, during which his name conspicuously figured, and which finally resulted in his removal from office as assistant attorney general, and subsequent indictment by the grand jury. His trial last May, at which he was acquitted, was a heavy strain on his weakened vitality.

Mr. Tyner was born in Brookville, Ind., Jan. 17, 1826. He had been identified with the postal service most of the time since March, 1861.

BIG AMOUNT MISSING.

Officials of Wells Fargo Express Company Trying to Locate $15,000.

San Francisco, Dec. 2.—Since Tuesday of this week the officials of the Wells Fargo Express company and a force of special detectives have been seeking to trace $15,000 in gold which has disappeared from the company's office in this city. The money was in double eagles and was delivered to the company's agents for shipment to San Jose. It has been found that the money was properly waybilled, but from that point all trace of the gold is lost. Employes of the company have been questioned and searching investigations have been made, but with no success. Whether it was lost or stolen no one knows.

ON CARNEGIE'S NAME

OBERLIN (O.) BANK LOANS IMMENSE SUM TO MRS. CASSIE L. CHADWICK.

One of the Notes Bearing the Alleged Signature of the Steel Magnate Is for $500,000 and the Other for $250,000—Carnegie's Private Secretary Issues a Statement Declaring His Employer Never Signed Any Such Papers.

Cleveland, Dec. 5.—Government officials practically admitted during the day that two notes bearing the signature of Andrew Carnegie were found among the assets of the Citizens' National bank at Oberlin. According to the best obtainable information these notes are for $250,000 and $500,000, respectively. The note for $250,000, it is said, bears the date of Jan. 7, 1904, and reads as follows:

"One year after date I promise to pay to C. L. Chadwick or order $250,000, with interest at 5 per cent.
(Signed) "Andrew Carnegie."

This note is endorsed on the back by C. L. Chadwick and is now understood to be in the possession of the government officials here. The note for $500,000 is said to be in the safety deposit box of Mr. Beckwith at Oberlin and the key is in his possession.

MRS. CASSIE CHADWICK.

It is pointed out by prominent federal officials that the control of the Chadwick case is now in the hands of the government and that nothing can prevent the entire affair from being aired to the fullest extent in court. Indeed, District Attorney Sullivan intimated during the day that no influence, however great, will deter the government officials from following the case in court to the end.

President C. T. Beckwith of the defunct bank at Oberlin has made a confession regarding the bank's connection with Mrs. Chadwick. He declares that notes aggregating $1,250,000, bearing the alleged signature of Andrew Carnegie, are in existence. He declares that he had no suspicion that the signatures were not genuine.

NEVER SIGNED THE NOTES.

Andrew Carnegie's Secretary Gives Out Statement.

New York, Dec. 5.—Andrew Carnegie's secretary gave out the following statement during the day:

"Mr. Carnegie wants me to say that he does not want to be bothered any more about this Chadwick woman. He is quite angry over this persistent use of his name and wishes it to cease at once. Once for all he never knew Mrs. Chadwick or any such woman and he never signed any such paper as the reports credit him with. That is all."

The deputy sheriff who served the attachment papers on Mrs. Chadwick at the Holland House was at the hotel again during the day and asked for an inventory of Mrs. Chadwick's effects. He was referred to the hotel's lawyers.

A United States secret service agent was at the Holland House all day and had a room on the same floor as Mrs. Chadwick's apartments. He would not explain for what purpose be was stationed there.

BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY.

Oberlin (O.) Bank Officials Waive Preliminary Hearing.

Cleveland, Dec. 5.—President C. T. Beckwith and Cashier A. B. Spear of the closed Citizens' National bank of Oberlin appeared here during the day before United States Commissioner Stark for a preliminary hearing on the warrant sworn out charging them with misappropriating the funds of the bank. Both men waived preliminary trial and were bound over to the grand jury which meets in February.

Immediately after the hearing President Beckwith declared that he would not be able to provide bond. Cashier Spear sent out a message in quest of bondsmen.

The bank officials, having waived a preliminary trial, no witnesses were put on the stand. Hence Receiver Lyons of the Citizens' bank, who it was expected would be called upon to state the nature and value of the collaterals found by him, did not testify.

VETERANS DYING RAPIDLY.

Highest Mortality Rate in History of Pension Bureau.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Old soldiers are dying at the rate of 150 a day, according to Pension Commissioner Ware. This is a higher rate than ever before in the history of the pension bureau.

Black for United States Senator.

New York, Dec. 3.—Former Governor Frank S. Black's law partner, Abraham Gouber, in the Fifth Avenue hotel during the day, made the announcement that Governor Odell and the members of the legislature had decided to elect Mr. Black as United States senator.

Not Fatal.

No Matter What Doctors Say—We Know That Heart Trouble in Many Cases Can Be Cured.

There are seven main features of heart disease, viz.: (1) Weakness or Debility; (2) Rheumatism or Neuralgia; (3) Valvular Disorder; (4) Dilation; (5) Enlargement; (6) Fatty Degeneration; (7) Dropsy.

Documentary evidence will prove thousands of so-called "incurables" have been absolutely cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

Patients often have no idea their disease is heart trouble, but ascribe it to Indigestion, Liver Complaint, etc.

Here are some of the symptoms: Shortness of breath after exercise. Smothering Spells. Pain in Chest, left Shoulder and arm. Discomfort in Lying on one side. Fainting Spells. Nervous Cough. Swelling of Feet and Ankles. Paleness of Face and Lips. Palpitation. Nightmare. Irregular Pulse.

"I have great faith in Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and speak of its merits whenever opportunity presents. I can now go up and down stairs with ease, where three weeks ago I could hardly walk one block." One year later.—"I am still in good health; the Heart Cure did so much for me, that I find it a far greater medicine than you claimed it to be."—S. D. YOUNG, D. TOO LATE FOR PUDDING.

Ambassador Choate Tells of Amusing Incident at an Aristocratic English Dinner.

Ambassador Choate tells of a woman in London society well known by reason of her penchant for dining distinguished persons in literary and artistic circles. This woman long ago made it an ironclad rule that no guest of hers, whether at table or not, should for any reason whatever be interrupted in any discourse he chose to deliver. Upon one such occasion, says Mr. Choate, toward the end of one of the lady's dinners, and while a certain litterateur was holding forth at some length with respect to the latest novel, a guest to the right of the hostess was about to violate the known rule of the head of the mansion in that he began to address her while another guest was speaking. The guilty man was promptly admonished by a swift glance from the hostess, whereupon the guest so reproved relapsed into silence. After the dinner the hostess said to him: "Now, Mr. Blank, I'm quite ready to hear what you had to say. I'm sure it was something of much importance." "Quite true," responded the recipient of the lady's rebuke, "but I fear that it is now too late." "Too late!" echoed the hostess. "Why, what do you mean?" "Oh, I was going to ask that I might have a little more of the iced pudding."

MEANING IN KOREAN FLAG.

Writer of Three Thousand Years Ago Explains It, But His Work Is Unintelligible.

The Korean ensign and merchant flag is a white flag bearing the great monad in blue and red. This is a symbol of great antiquity. It is to the Mongolians what the cross is to the Christian. To them it is the sign of deity and eternity, while the two parts into which the circle is divided are called the Yin and the Yan—the male and female forces of nature. Some 3,000 years ago one of the writers, speaking in reference to it, said: "The illimitable produces the extreme. The great extreme produces the two principles. The two principles produce the four quarters, and from the four quarters we develop the quadrature of the eight diagrams of Feuh-hi." This means little to us, though the writer may have explained the matter to his entire satisfaction. But so much we know—that the symbol had a mathematical as well as an occult meaning. There is a little puzzle connected with the Korean flag which may or may not be perplexing to the novice. Divide the great monad by a straight cut into two pieces so that each half of the circle shall contain an exactly equal share of the Yin and the Yan.

DECEIT WAS HER THEME.

New York Woman "Says Things" About Fiancee of Popular Young Man.

"It literally takes my breath away," exclaimed a woman known for her blunt directness of speech, according to the New York Tribune, "to hear the way certain people change suddenly around, and say the sweetest things to some one whom only the moment before they had been sharply criticising, while their poor victim smiles all unsuspectingly, quite believing every kind word that is said to him or her. The other day," she continued, "Sofie Soft was telling me about the girl the popular Jack Z. is engaged to be married to. 'So common, my dear,' she said, 'and so unattractive! I cannot understand his infatuation, there is really nothing to praise about her.' 'Oh, dear Mr. Z.,' she exclaimed suddenly, for who should come up just at that minute but Jack himself. 'I want to congratulate you. I have known Minnie all my life, and I want you to give her my love and best wishes. Of course there is no need to tell you what an awfully nice girl she is.' 'Hardly,' said Jack, beamingly taking it all in, then, raising his hat he passed on. 'I do not think I lied much,' Sophie added complacently, 'I really feel quite virtuous!'"

CLEAN CLOTHES IN BATTLE.

Science Suggests Cleanliness of Wearing Apparel Before Beginning a Conflict.

Socrates took a bath before drinking the hemlock, and many brave men have insisted on dressing carefully on the eve of execution. Science now suggests that in the case of man-o'-war crews it is distinctly "advisable that clean clothes should be put on just before going into action." The reason is, of course, that pieces of soiled clothing carried into wounds make them more dangerous. The Japanese surgeon-in-chief of Togo's fleet, whom we are quoting, goes on to say that "there are many examples to show that a pocket notebook, knife, etc., have saved men's lives from shell fragments. We have had a few examples in the present war. I dare say that in time every combatant on board warships in action will wear some kind of protecting mask and jackets." Another hint given by Dr. Susuki is that the wounded should be laid on the firing, not the non-firing side of the vessel, for it is not the side exposed to the enemy which is the most dangerous, but the other, "the fragments of bursting shells dispersing in a radiating manner."

Car Turns Complete Somersault.

A motor car speeding on a road near Huntingdon, England, turned a complete somersault, landing upon its wheels, which were smashed. The driver received fatal injuries.

FIND MARKET FOR DOGFISH

Although Formerly Considered a Pest, They Are Now Sold as Species of Whitefish.

What will mean a source of large income to the fishermen here, if successful, is the shipping to the New York markets of dogfish, to be cut into steaks and sold as a species of whitefish. Heretofore these fish have been considered a pest, unsuitable for food, driving off into deep water any smaller fish that may be approaching the shoals. Several years ago dogfish were caught with hooks and lines and sold for their livers, from which a high grade of oil was secured, and the carcasses were turned over to farmers for fertilizers. At present dogfish are hovering around the Atlantic island shores in large numbers, and schools have come into the Nantucket, Mass., harbor. They have been captured in large quantities in the bluefish nets. In one instance there were more than 1,000 in the steamer Petrel's traps near Great Point. There were scarcely any other fish to be found, so Capt. Manter of the steamer communicated with the New York market with the result that the following day he shipped to New York several hundred of the fish packed just as mackerel, scup or bluefish would be. The captain says that only fish of more than two feet long are salable.

IMITATIONS OF CORAL MANY.

Jewel Enthusiast Declares That Even Celluloid May Be Made to Resemble It.

"If you wish to buy coral heads," remarked the jewel enthusiast to a Philadelphia Record reporter, "you must go to a reliable dealer. Why, even celluloid may be so shaped and tinted that the average person would not know the difference. There's one way to tell, however, if the chain be cheap. In this case the very perfection of the beads will convince the would be purchaser of their spuriousness. A string of small beads at, say $8 or $10, will be full of little imperfections, if they be real. The larger the bead of real coral the more expensive. The old carved coral jewelry of long ago went out because it was imitated in celluloid till you couldn't tell the difference between pieces that cost $3 and $50. Just because the pretty beads in delicate pink are so expensive most persons fancy the branch coral chains, five feet in length, that sell at $1 and less, are not real. But they are, and they are cheap because they are made of the tip ends of the coral branches, which are too small to be carved into anything at all. All along the Italian coast these chains are sold for a lira and a half (30 cents), Sorrento being the favored purchasing place."

TALKS HOURS; NOT WINDED

Whirlwind Spellbinder Winds Up Long Oration with Scarcely a Sign of Fatigue.

One of the whirlwind spellbinders who has been doing the state of Indiana is getting it rubbed in pretty hard by some of his friends. The aforesaid spellbinder is long on both words and wind, and knocks out a couple of hours' oration without the least signs of fatigue. It appears in the Washington Times that at one of the smaller places where he held forth in an effort to tell the voters how to save the country, the crowd got tired of his flow of words and gradually dropped out of the courthouse. One of the older citizens held out and turned a deaf ear to several of his sons, who attempted to get him to leave. At the close of the speechmaking one of the sons asked of the old voter: "Pap, why in the name of Bill Jones and his gray mule did you want to sit there and listen to that feller spurt?" "My son," answered the father, "it was curiosity." "Curiosity? How's that?" asked the son. "Well, son, I've attended political meetings for nigh on to 60 years, and this is the first time I ever saw one of them—spellbinders who could talk two hours, say as little as he did, and without the least signs of mental or physical exertion."

Russian Has Assistance.

Viceroy Alexieff, the Russian soldier, visited America in 1878. A Washington official said of him the other day:

"Alexieff came here on the Cimbria with a number of Russians of high rank, and the quantity of wine these men could consume without being affected by it was the talk of the day. There were even editorials in the newspapers on this matter.

"I remember entering the Russian's suite in Washington one day with Alexieff, and coming upon a young colonel who sat at a table smoking, with four empty champagne bottles before him.

"Alexieff looked at the empty bottles and laughed.

"'Did you drink all that without assistance?' he asked.

"'No,' said the young officer languidly, 'I had the assistance of a bottle of Burgundy.'"

Mistake of Country-Bred Boy.

Young men from the country stand a better chance of success in a city than do the young women, but they exchange a life of health and freedom among the fields for a hard and exacting employment in the city. Once inoculated with the virus of metropolitan experience, they are driven on by habit and necessity until finally, as the years accumulate, the majority sink to the level of mediocrity, and finally into dull apathy. It is then that the country-bred boy wishes with all his heart that he had returned long ago to the farm of his youth and taken up again the yoke which then seemed so heavy, but which he now knows was light.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough. Any child will take it. It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequaled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland Bentorville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by W. A. W. A. McIntyre was a Crookston visitor Tuesday.

Joseph Paradis is a caller at Thief River Falls today.

Mankato Commercial College will put you in a good position or refund your money.

Leo Steinert went up to Thief River Falls yesterday to look after some business matters for a day or two.

Arthur LaPlante is visiting at Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire today, in the interests of his cigar company.

Don't forget that the next monthly concert by the Red Lake Falls band will be given two weeks from tonight, the 22nd inst.

Prof. A. Oustad will go to Crookston a week from Monday to play a clarinet solo at the concert to be given by the Crookston band on that evening.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. John Savard, Wednesday evening of this week, a fine baby girl. The mother and child are doing finely and "Jack" is so happy that he hasn't been able to speak yet.

The retiring officers will tender a smoker and banquet to the members of the order next Monday evening. The K. of P.'s are all requested to turn out, and a good time is looked forward to.

A stereoptican lecture on "Korea" will be given at the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening, December 15, by Rev. James H. Nicol, of Thief River Falls, and Rev. Ralph T. Fulton, of Warren. Admission will be free. A collection will be taken to defray the expenses of the speakers.

Mrs. W. A. Wright, of Thief River Falls, well known to Red Lake Falls people, will appear at the next band concert here, on the evening of the 22nd inst., and help out with the program by rendering two vocal solos. Mrs. Wright is one of the finest vocalists in the valley, and the people here will be pleased to learn that she is to again appear before a Red Lake Falls audience.

St. Hilaire Spectator: A bowling league was organized last Thursday night which will be called the Red Lake County Bowling League. It is composed of teams from here and Thief River Falls and it is the intention of playing eighteen games, one each week on Thursday night, alternately between the two towns. The game last Thursday evening was the first of the series and a purse of twenty-five dollars will go to the winners.

The J. B. Cigar company have a half page of Gazette space today, calling the attention of the people to the handsome line of articles suitable for Christmas gifts that can be found there. It is not generally known that many of the most beautiful and useful articles to be found can be seen at an up-to-date cigar store, but this fact remains and the public should not fail to inspect this most excellent assortment before making holiday purchases.

Crookston Journal: Drew Marshal of Red Lake Falls, is in the city making repairs on some of the complicated machinery of the Crookston Milling company's plant which recently went out of business. Drew is an electrician of considerable competency and attends to considerable mill work in that line for both the Crookston and Red Lake Falls Milling companies. He will be in the city several days or until he has completed his work at the plant of the Crookston Milling company.

Northern Minnesota has been favored in the matter of weather during the present winter season and even the "oldest inhabitant" has nothing to offer that beats it. At present there is no snow on the ground, and Tuesday and yesterday what little there was piled up in the corners was melted by the warm sun. The weather-man is certainly making repentence for the horrible dose he dished up to us last year, and even with an average January and February our winter cannot possibly now contain the terrors of a usual Northern Minnesota winter.

Crookston Journal: In the case of Hokan Johnson vs. the Crookston Lumber company, which was decided at the recent session of Red Lake county court in favor of the plaintiff and damages awarded, it is quite likely that a new trial will be asked for by the defendant company. The attorneys of the mill company in Duluth are now at work, it is understood, upon a set of papers demanding judgement for the defendant notwithstanding the judgement rendered or else a new trial. Attorney W. E. Rowe, of this city, represents Johnson in the action, which grew out of personal injuries received while he was employed in the St. Hilaire plant of the company.

Joseph Benoit, the son of J. D. Benoit, had a narrow escape form drowning last Friday night. He was crossing the river near the Klondyke bridge when he walked into a hold where ice had been cut out. He went under the ice, the water being about ten feet deep, but had the presence of mind to work his way back to the open water, where he was rescued by a passer. It was a narrow escape, and the lad doesn't care to repeat his experience. When parties cut ice they should see that branches are placed around the edge of the hole, as it is the easiest thing in the world to accidently walk or skate into one of these open places, and everyone might not escape as easily as young Benoit did.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve an oyster supper at the church parlors Wednesday evening of next week, supper to be served from 6 o'clock until all are served. Commencing at 8 o'clock an informal social will be held in the auditorium room of the church, where the ladies will give their experiences in earning a dollar. The program will be interspersed with musical numbers. The proceeds of this social will go towards paying for the furnace, which has recently been installed in the church. The sum of twenty-five cents will be charged for the supper, and the following menu will be served: Oysters, bread and butter sandwiches, pickles, doughnuts, coffee. Everyone cordially invited.

S. M. Sivertson, of the Red Lake Falls Milling Co., made one of his frequent business trips last week up on the Great Northern extension where the milling company have this fall built four new elevators, namely, at Holt Middle River, Strathcona and Greenbush—the latter being the terminus of the new line. Farmers in Roseau and eastern Marshall have anxiously been awaiting the arrival of the railroad to market their grain, as they previously have had to haul it forty to fifty miles. For their convenience awaiting the completion of their elevator at Greenbush, the milling company have bought wheat in ears, and since the track reached there, Nov. 15th, have received a surprisingly large amount of grain. "The appearance of Greenbush these days," remarked Mr. Sivertson, "reminds one of some of the older towns back in the seventies when railroads were far between. Some days a line of forty to fifty teams are continually in waiting and they keep coming as fast as our three men can unload them, some coming from distance of twenty-five to thirty miles."

To The Readers.

The Gazette is this week sending out over a thousand notices to subscribers from 1 to 5 years behind in their subscription, and would respectfully ask all who can possibly do so to settle up their accounts before January 1st. The expenses of running a newspaper are heavy, and The Gazette contemplates improvement that requires cash to make, and where a thousand accounts in amounts of one and two dollars are scattered around the country, it can readily be seen that if all would pay the small amount due it wouldn't be such a small amount to the publishers. Try and see, reader, if you can't start the new year by paying up arrearages on the Gazette and also a year in ahead.

The Owner (after perusing bill for auto repairs)—Whew! I didn't think for a moment it cost me that much. Can't you shave it a bit?

The Repair Man (grudgingly)—Well, us poor devils have to live, you know, but I'll tell you what I'll do—I'll risk taking the car and call things square. —The Chauffeur.

A Long Respite.

"Mabel's singing teacher is a wonder. We all think so much of him."

"Why?"

"Well, Mabel seems to have something wrong with her voice, and he told her that she must not attempt to sing for 32 years at least, and perhaps not then." —Kansas City Star.

Kept Them Busy.

"I hope, your honor," said the bad man, "that you will be lenient with me. I have a number of people depending on me for their daily bread."

"Relations?" queried the judge.

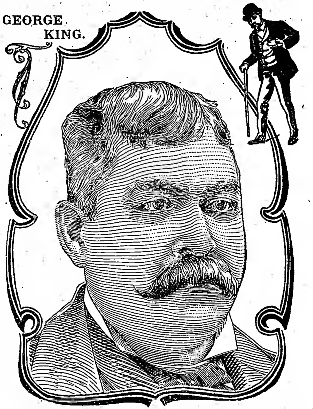
"No," answered the prisoner. "Policemen and detectives." — Chicago News.

Was Quite Willing.

"I want you to understand, however," said her father, "that I consent to your marriage only under protest."

"Oh, that's all right," the young man replied, "if you will let none of the demands I may make on you afterward go to protest."—Chicago Journal.

CATARRH DESTROYS THE KIDNEYS.



GEORGE KING.

MR. GEORGE KING, Deputy Sheriff of Rensellaer Co., N. Y., for years was a well known merchant of Troy. In a letter from No. 45 King St., Troy, N. Y., he writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's Disease, after I had suffered with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me a well man and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since."—George King.

A Prominent Member of I. O. O. F. Threatened With Bright's Disease.—Pe-ru-na Restored Him to Health.

O. Fred Lindstrom, Past Grand Master Independent Order of Odd Fellows, writes from 1923 University Ave., St. Paul, Minn.:

"I contracted a severe cold several years ago, which from neglect developed into urinary trouble, and threatened Bright's disease. I used Peruna faithfully for three and one-half months, when my health was perfect once more. I have never had any trouble since."—O. Fred Lindstrom.

Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous lining of the kidneys, also called "Bright's disease," may be either acute or chronic. The acute form produces symptoms of such prominence that the serious nature of the disease is at once suspected, but the chronic variety may come on so gradually and insidiously that its presence is not suspected until after it has fastened itself thoroughly upon its victim.

At the appearance of the first symptom Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once at the very root of the disease.

HALVOR'S NEW BILL

Congressman Steenerson Introduces a Measure in Congress That Bumps the Trusts.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12—Represenative Steenerson (Minnesota) introduced a bill today to amend the inter-state commerce act. It provides that on the complaint of any shipper that any fares, charges or classification made by a common carrier are unreasonable the commission shall forward such complaint to the carrier, who shall be called on to satisfy the complaint or answer in writing.

A provision is made for a hearing and authority is given to the commission to require the attendance of witnesses and the produce of books and papers relating to the matter under investigation. If the commission finds rates, fares, charges or classifications complained of unequal or unreasonable, the commission shall state wherein, they are unequal or unreasonable and shall make a tariff which shall be taken in all of the courts of the courts of the United States as prima facie evidence that the tariff of rates, fares, charges and classification so made is equal and reasonable and such so made shall be in full force and effect during the pendency of any appeal that may be taken to the courts. Should a common carrier neglect or refuse after the appeal has expired to adopt such tariff so made by the commission, the latter shall publish such tariff as they have declared to be equal and thereafter it shall be unlawful for such common carrier to charge a higher or lower rate, bharge or classification.

The bill provides for an appeal from the finding of the commission as to the reasonableness of any rate to circuit courts of the United State which made serve for modify the order appealed from, the modified order to stand as a substitute for the original order of the commission when the court is of the opinion that manifest justice requires it a stay of enforcement of the commission's order made be made, pending papea.

RED LAKE PAYS POLK

Sends Big Checks to Polk County To Help Pay Her Bonded Indebtedness.

Crookston Journal: The first payment to be made by Red Lake county to Polk county to apply on the bonded indebtedness of Polk county at the time Red Lake county was set off as an independent county was sent from Red Lake Falls yesterday to County Auditor Hoffard, amounting to $6,985.92. This is a few hundred dollars less than was claimed by Polk county, the full amount to date being $7,368.28, and it is expected that the balance will be adjusted satisfactorily in a short time.

At the time that Red Lake county was set off Polk county had a bonded indebtedness of $88,500 and a suit was soon after started against Red Lake county by Polk county officials to compel the county to pay a pro ruta share of the bonds as they fell due. A judgment was secured in the district court, but Red Lake county appealed to the supreme court.

In December, 1901, the supreme court affirmed the decision of the lower court and fixed the amount of the bonds to be paid by Red Lake county at $11,245.08 together with the interest on that amount as it fell due from time to time.

Later Judge Watts issued a mandamus compelling the officials of Red Lake county to make a levy to raise the amount awarded to Polk county. County Auditor Hoffard sent a statement later as to the amount due but before anything was paid the county auditor of Red Lake county insisted on a detailed statement of the bonds in connection with the deal, the date and amount of all the interest coupons paid and a great deal more data which covered 5 closely typewritten pages, and the warrant was finally issued as stated above and forwarded here yesterday.

The balance due Polk county from time to time as the bonds fall due will be paid by Red Lake county. Polk county makes all the bond and interest payments direct, and is later to be reimbursed by Red Lake county.

The payment received is for Red Lake county's share of $15,000 bonds paid by Polk county, Jan., 1902, and interest on it and other bonds which haven't yet fallen due.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

Roy V. Shute, of the Bovey-Shute Lumber Co., and W. S. Day, auditor for the same concern, spent yesterday looking over the business done at this yard. They say they have done a much larger business here than at any other point on the line.

During the past week Julius Pleth sold three farms in this vicinity. He is making necessary arrangements for handling farm lands on a large scale and will soon be in shape to do a larger and better business than he use to in St. Hilaire when he sold more Red Lake county lands than all other dealers put together.

Peter Wood came up from Fertile last Sunday and is assisting J. A. Rothsten in his meat market. Mr. Wood has been engaged in running a meat market at Fertile for several years and understands the business thoroughly. He and Mr. Rothsten are figuring on going into partnership about January 1, and having their premises enlarged and put in first class shape so as to be able to handle the large business which they know will be done here next year.

Emil J. Holmes, formerly of St. Hilaire but now of Cannon Falls, was here last night exchanging greetings with old friends and looking the town over. He is well pleased with Plummer and says it has a great future in store for it.

A. J. Robinson and J. L. Hisbel, of Alexandria, were here on Wednesday and made a trip over the reservation with Mike Maddeo, Julius Pleth's reliable locator.

Julius Pleth transacted some real estate business at St. Hilaire the first of the week.

M. Hammer was over from St. Hilaire on Thursday and sold a quantity of hay to Louis Sieff.

A. O. Letvig drove over from St. Hilaire on Thursday to look after some artesian well contracts in this vicinity.

Mrs. J. H. Williams was in from Garnes on Wednesday and purchased some town property by way of a gilt-edged investment.

Dan Patterson and Andrew Finberg were here from St. Hilaire on Thursday with a couple of loads of coal for Julius Pleth.

M. E. Harbin and Bert Bivins, two of Crookston's life insurance men, were here on Wednesday and spent part of the time tramping in woods in search of rabbits. They had a guide along who could shoot some so they got rabbit for supper. They enjoyed the meal as well as if they had killed the rabbits themselves and ate so much that they could not leave town until noon next day.

FLEET IS DESTROYED

RUSSIAN SQUADRON AT PORT ARTHUR PRACTICALLY ANNIHILATED BY JAPS.

With the Exception of the Sevastopol All the Battleships in the Harbor Are Bombarded and Put Out of Action—Continual Fighting Said to Be Proceeding Between the Opposing Forces South of Mukden.

Tokio, Dec. 10.—The commander of the Japanese naval guns at Port Arthur reported at 9 o'clock Friday night as follows:

"Our bombardment today resulted in five hits on the Pobieda and seven on the Bayan, setting her on fire and causing a 25-degree list to port. She threatens to keel over at high tide. The upper decks of the Retvizan and Poltava are submerged to the foot of the conning towers.

"The Pallada is listing considerably to port and the Pobieda to starboard, both exposing their hulls below the water line. At high tide a portion of their upper decks seems to be submerged.

"The Peresviet at high tide has her stern walk and fore torpedo tubes submerged.

"The Giliak is lying close to land near the southern base of Peiyu mountain. She has listed 20 degrees, is evidently damaged and is resting on the bottom.

"The Sevastopol left the harbor at dawn and anchored, evidently for the purpose of escaping our bombardment."

Tokio, Dec. 12.—The Japanese continue to batter the Port Arthur fleet and there is little ground for expecting that it will ever again engage the Japanese. The battleship Sevastopol continues at anchor outside, but possibly returns to the harbor at night and anchors inside the outer boom, which protects her from torpedo boats.

JAPS LOSE A VESSEL

CRUISER SAIYEN STRIKES A MINE WHILE BOMBARDING PORT ARTHUR NOV. 30.

Tokio, Dec. 10.—The Japanese cruiser Saiyen struck a mine and sank Nov. 30. Fifteen officers and 175 men were rescued. Captain Tajima and thirty-eight others went down with the ship.

The navy department announces that the detached squadron with the Saiyen commanding, while co-operating with the army in bombarding Port Arthur Nov. 30, struck a Russian mine and was seen to be enveloped in smoke. The gunboat Akagi, which was also engaged in shelling Port Arthur, immediately ceased firing and went to the rescue of the Saiyen. Finding that the latter was making water rapidly the Akagi anchored near the sinking ship and, co-operating with the other Japanese ships, launches succeeded in rescuing 15 officers and 175 men, but Captain Tajima and 38 others went down with the ship.

SHELL PORT ARTHUR

JAPS INFLICT CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE UPON GOLDEN HILL AND FIRE ARSENAL.

Tokio, Dec. 13.—The commander of the Japanese naval land battery, reporting during the day, says:

"Four Russian battleships, two cruisers, one gunboat and one torpedo storeship lying in Port Arthur harbor are completely disabled. There is no further necessity for bombarding the Russian naval force.

"Are now engaged shelling the town of Port Arthur, which is being heavily damaged."

Washington, Dec. 13.—The Japanese legation has received the following telegram from Tokio:

"The Port Arthur army reports that its bombardment has inflicted considerable damage upon Golden hill and also set the arsenal on fire."

SITUATION IS UNCHANGED.

Russians Have No News of Reported Jap Advance.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 13.—The general staff has no information confirmatory of the foreign report of a Japanese advance below Mukden. According to the official reports no fighting on a large scale is in progress or imminent. On the contrary the situation is practically unchanged.

The authorities have no late news from Port Arthur and are compelled to depend on information furnished by the Japanese. There is an inclination to accept those reports

Judge Greenleaf Clark, president of the board of regents of Minnesota university, died last week at Lamanda Park, Cal. Judge Clark was sixty-nine years old and was born in Plaistow, N. H.

The iron ore deposits in St. Louis county, owned by Minnesota, produced 190,324 tons of ore during the past year. The state gets a royalty of 25 cents per ton and the revenue this year amounted to $48,969.91.

The Cleveland Cliffs Iron company has brought suit against the East Itasca Mining company to recover $92,000 that it claims to have overpaid that corporation in advance royalties on iron lands in the Western Mesaba.

A westbound passenger train on the Great Northern was wrecked at Howard Lake. All the cars left the track except the mail car. Several passengers were injured, but none seriously. The wreck was caused by an open switch.

Thomas Biondo, a switchman employed by the Northern Pacific road, was killed in the Minneapolis yards. He was on top of a car which was being shunted to a sidetrack. He slipped from the frosty roof and was caught by the trucks and badly mangled.

Otto M. Davies, the Minnesota football player, will bring a $10,000 damage suit against the Illinois Central railroad because, after the Northwestern game in Chicago, he was arrested in the depot and fined $5. The papers are now being drawn up by his attorneys.

One of the members of the junior class at the state university has been suspended from the institution for the remainder of the year because there recently appeared in one of the Minneapolis daily papers for which he is correspondent certain statements that proved objectionable to the authorities.

The Ramsey county district court has decided that the St. Paul City Railway company must pay the full tax for 1903, delinquent, with the penalty of 10 per cent. The tax is $91,946 and the penalty $9,104.60. The city railway company objected to the increase ordered by the state board of equalization.

Five Minneapolis boys who had pleaded guilty to criminal assault of a deaf and dumb girl have been sentenced to the reformatory and Jacob Kotechi was recently sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary in connection with the same offense. He is twenty-six years old, while the rest are all under age.

The prices of prison made twine for the year 1905 have been fixed as follows: Sisal, standard and standard mixed, running 500 feet to the pound, at 8¾ cents per pound; standard manila, 550 feet to the pound, 9¾ cents; manila, 600 feet to the pound, 10¾ cents; pure manila, 650 feet to the pound, 12 cents a pound.

While going to the assistance of his brother, who was injured, W. G. Ellis of Minneapolis slid down the cable which supports one of the derricks on the Duluth canal ferry bridge to his death. He was injured in exactly the same manner that caused slight injuries to his brother, who had gone down the cable ahead of him.

Governor-elect Johnson has announced the following appointments: Superintendent of public instruction, John W. Olson, Albert Lea, reappointed; assistant superintendent of public instruction, C. G. Schulz, St. Peter, reappointed; dairy and food commissioner, Edwin K. Slater, St. Paul; governor's executive clerk, Cleve W. Van Dyke, Alexandria.

Championship Conceded.

Crookston Journal: Red Lake Falls claims the championship of northern Minnesota on the gridiron this fall and the boys from that place who vanquished about everything they went up against undoubtedly deserve the honor. The list of victories won by the Red Lake Falls team is large and their record during the season has been an enviable one. Considerable regret is expressed by members of the team that they were not able to get a game with Crookston High of this city. The lateness of their challenge, however, would not permit of one being arranged.

Concerning Rural Free Delivery.

Patrons of rural routes should always buy stamps in advance of their actual needs, and keep on hand an ample supply for use when they have mail to dispatch. It is both inconvenient and annoying for the carrier to pick up loose change in the mail boxes. The carrier always has a supply of stamps, stamp books, stamped envelopes and postal cards on hand.

The crrrier is authorized to register letters and receive applications for postal money orders and will give you receipt for the amount you hand him. Don't be afraid he will pocket the money; he is under sufficient bond to be responsible.

The postage on drop letters on rural routes is 2 cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce, whether sealed or open.

Stay by Your Town.

The following from a bright exchange is good healthy sentiment and should be carefully read and reflected upon by every citizen of our village:

Next to a man's family and his business nothing should be nearer to his heart than the town in which he lives It is the place where he wins his confidence and educates his children. If he wants to make it as popular as possible he cannot afford to be indifferent to anything which furthers these ends.

It can be said that a town that is worthy the devotion of its citizens in making it wholly known and greatly prosperous is a town in which it is worth the full measure of our devotion to merely take a share of the common benefits accorded to the community. We may yet add, if persons cannot identify themselves with the interest of their own town and be in sympathy and touch with the people with whom they live, it would be better for them and the town if they would "move out." There are people who live off a community and contribute nothing to it. They oppose the church, state and school and everything done in which they cannot lead or make profit out of; tearing down without ability or disposition to build up. In their fault finding, opposition and indifference they discourage and crush out what could be made more prosperous if they expanded half the effort in trying to build it up, that they do in discouraging improvements.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads Trial bottles 25c; regu o als by A. A JOINT SESSION.

Dentists and Doctors Will Meet at Crookston In January.

There will be a meeting of the Red River Valley Dental Association and the Red River Valley Medical Association the latter part of January which promises to be one of the most prominent social events of the winter. It will be held the last Tuesday in January and there will be several prominent speakers there.

Programs and banquets with smoke socials and all of the pleasures possible thrown in on the side will make the event a memorable one. There is a little good natured rivalry between the two associations and they claim that by holding their meeting together they will not only be of mutual benefit but will be able to determine whether the "Medics" or the "Dents" are the best fellows.

The meeting will be held in Crookston and already plans are being worked on which will make this prominent in the scientific circles through the northwest.

A State Ditch.

Thief River Review: Ole J. Tweet was at Red Lake Falls last week in conference with Geo. A. Ralph in regard to a state ditch through a number of townships of northern Red Lake county. Mr. Ralph was very much interested and assisted Mr. Tweet in drawing a petition which will be signed by those interested and presented to the drainage board in a few weeks. In Red Lake county there are about 7560 acres of state lands and enough more in Marshall county to make 15,000 acres of state lands that will be benefitted by the ditch. The petition is now being circulated by Mr. Tweet and it asks that a survey be made for the proposed ditch which will undoubtedly be ordered.

The ditch if built will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000, and would be a big thing for Red Lake and Marshall counties as it would increase farm values to the extent of hundreds of dollars.

Cost Johnson $1,400.

Gov.-elect John A. Johnson filed his statement of expenses during the campaign. It cost him $1,400 to be elected governor. His statement follows:

Railway transportation	$175
Certificate of nomination	50
Hotel expenses	125
Contribution to committee	500
Postage	50
Newspapers	270
Public donations	55
Livery	60
Circulars	20
Stenographer	40
Typewriter rent	17
Pullman sleeper	38
Total	$1,400

O. M. Hall, of Red Wing, democratic candidate for justice of the supreme court, filed an affidavit with the secretary of state yesterday declaring that he spent nothing in his campaign for the office.

Judge Charles L. Lewis spent $387 to be elected justice of the supreme bench, of which $300 was contributed to the state committee.

C. R. Davis, who ran for congress from the Third district, spent $691.

New Cars on the St. Paul Road.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul road has just received from the car shops of Barney & Smith at Dayton, Ohio, two fine observation cars of an entirely new design. They have been built with a view to increasing the comfort of women Their novelty feature consists of the isolation of smokers in a compartment occupying one-half the car. The cars have all the latest improvements in the way of toilet rooms, electric lamps, electric fans, writing desks, etc. The observation platforms are much more extensive than in the old time observation cars, and the cars themselves are of a much stronger type, being furnished with a series of steel arches from side to side so that it will be next to impossible to crush in the sides. The new cars are for use on the road's Overland Limited trains between Chicago and Omaha They will be put into commission immediately.—Chicago Evening Post, November 19, 1904.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequaled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland Bentonville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, Druggist. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c, and $1.00.

We are Prepared for CHRISTMAS

And take pleasure in asking you to come here and inspect our new and novel lines for the Holiday trade. In the past we have always carried what was the most desirable in Christmas lines, but this year we trust that we have surpassed our former efforts in selecting our Holiday assortment.

Kodak Supplies

It has been our aim to carry everything in this line, and we have anticipated every want of the public by getting a complete assortment of these popular supplies. We cannot give you an inkling of the good things we have in the Kodak line. Come in and let us show you the new goods from Rochester, the home of the Kodak. The Kodak system has abolished most of the opportunities for making mistakes.

The Latest Fiction

Every late novel can be found here. Popular stories in elegant bindings at $1.50. Among the very late ones are

Eastman Kodaks

In home portraiture lies the most potent charm of picture taking. No matter how delighted one may have been with his views of Niagara, of the Flat Iron building and of the Grand Canal in Venice, they can never have for him the same fascination that attaches to the Kodak of Baby taking his first steps of Sister tucking Dolly into her tiny bed with motherly solicitude, or of Grandmother sitting at the window—her tender thoughts resting on days long gone by. Then there are pictures of the holiday season—the tree, the house party. And all of these are easy to make now. New methods and new apparatus have removed the old time difficulties. New methods have been found which make it easy for anyone to secure beautiful lighted and correctly timed portraits by the light of an ordinary window. Indeed, the perfecting of the Kodak system in its application to home picture taking has given photography a new use which touches closely the human interest—is helping the art make its way into the home life. And out of doors the Kodak has its sphere in Winter. To those with an eye for the beautiful there is quite as much worth picturing in the bleak days of Winter as in the softest summer scenes. The ice bound stream, the snow covered trees and weeds, the avenue on a frosty morning, are quite as full of interest for the true photographic devotee as are the green fields and blue lakes of August. The Kodak is as much at home among the Christmas Holly as hanging from the shoulder of the tourist. We have a complete assortment of these greatest of all Kodaks. You can find one to suit you and you can pay from $1.00 to $20.00 and be sure of getting your money's worth.

A Visit to the New Towns.

The writer, in company with Arthur LaPlante and H. L. Vergel, visited the two new towns out east last Saturday, and to say that we were surprised at the prosperity apparent at these hustling new burgs is not half expressing it. Brooks, the Poplar River metropolis, was the first one visited, and an hour was spent in looking over the entreprises recently established there. Brooks now has three general stores, a hotel, a bank, two saloons, blacksmith shop, livery barn and lumber yard, and all are doing a good business. Arthur Laniel, the popular town clerk of Poplar River, is the postmaster there and has a nice little general store. Messrs. Simons, Bourdon and Cheshire own the new bank, which is located in a pretty little building on the east side of the street, and is furnished with all the latest modern banking conveniences. Their business has increased rapidly, and Cashier Cheshire is well pleased with the outlook. Z Bray, of this city, has the leading saloon and also a boarding home and in both is very successful. R. Lefaive conducts a successful saloon, also. Arthur Patnode, who recently purchased Hotel Lambert there is doing a nice business and is well satisfied with his trade. Rufus Poirier, formerly with the Thief River Lumber company here is local manager for the Bovey-Shute Lumber company and has a handsome little yard to preside over. The Soo buildings are very neat, and two large elevators occupy prominent places along the right-of-way.

Plummer, the Emardville town, is buried deep in the heart of the woods but for a lively aspirant for honors cannot be excelled. Plummer is considerable larger than Brooks, and now nearly every line of business is represented. H. H. Finrow, the pioneer store-keeper of Emardville, is postmaster, has the largest general store, and reports a first-class trade. There are a couple of other general stores, also that are up-to-date and enjoying a good trade. Plummer now has a hotel, furniture store, meat market, hardware store, livery barn, two saloons, newspaper, bank, land-office and several other lines of business. The bank is owned by Messrs. Simons and Bourdon and is presided over by Henry Enderle, formerly of St. Hilaire, who is cashier. Henry is a first-class hustler and is popular out there. Julius Pieth, the former St. Hilaire real estate man, has a land office in the bank building, and is making things hum. He is the townsite agent at the new town, and is doing a whole lot to boom Plummer. In the rear of the bank building is the Pioneer office presided over by Chas. T. Latta, a well-known Red Lake county journalist. Charley has a nice office and has been doing a first-class business. He has a new building with living rooms in the rear just completed, and was getting ready to move his office that day. His family will occupy part of the building, and Charley will be as happy as anybody when he gets located. P. K. Olson, the irrepressible Peter, owns the "Welcome" refreshment parlor and lunch room, and Pete's success has been remarkable. Wyandotte's popular commissioner, Ole J. Johnson, has charge of the Thief River Falls Milling Company's elevator, and has proven a popular buyer. The Prairie elevator is presided over by Ole T. Tande. Louis Seiff's livery and feed stable is a good paying proposition. On the whole, the new towns are bustlers, and give promise of forging rapidly to the front.

DOES FAST WORK.

Fred Zeh, Well Known Here, Breaks Type-Setting Record.

Fred Zeh, a young man well-known here, and a brother of Mrs. Chas. E. Boughton and Adam Zeh, of this city, broke the record for fast composition on a linotype machine at Missoula, Montana, a few days ago. The following from the Missoulian, of that city, explains his remarkable work:

"Working on the ordinary run of copy, Fred Zeh, day operator on one of the linotype machines in the Missoulian office, broke the record of the northwest, if not the United States, yesterday. In seven hours and fifty minutes he set 3,050 lines brevier. There were no dash lines or other "phat" matter in the work. All of it was solid type, and the record was made without any apparent hard work on the part of Mr. Zeh. Included in the type set were a number of patent medicine ads., and a piece of job work. The rest of his copy was straight matter.

For the first three hours Mr. Zeh averaged 355 lines per hour. After dinner he ran his average up to 400 lines, and, during one hour, between 4 and 5 o'clock, he set over 450 lines.

Ordinarily a day's work for a linotype operator is from 1,500 to 1,800 lines. All of the Missoulian's operators set more than the highest figure mentioned."

Mrs. Lew Adams and son came over from Grand Forks Tuesday for an over Christmas visit with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Zaiser.

Miss Carrie Pirath, who has been employed as telephone operator at Hallock, is expected home next week to spend her Christmas vacation.

Henry Westphal came in from a trip through the western country Friday last, and will spend a few weeks with his father and brother here.

Mrs. Ole Mikkelson left last Friday for Blue Earth for a visit of several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Odett. She will also visit relatives at other points in southern Minnesota before returning.

Mike McNamara arrived here Tuesday for a few days' visit with friends after which he expects to go out to Dakota to look after some business matters during the winter. Mike has been railroad building during the past summer, and reports a prosperous season's work.

Mrs. S. C. Nauman expects to leave Tuesday of next week for Freeport, Illinois, where she will spend a month with her parents. The genial Sam has never had a session of bachelorhood since joining the ranks of the Benedicts, and his friends are already offering him their sympathy.

Joseph Pouliot and his mother, Mrs. N. Pouliot, who have spent the past two months visiting with relatives in Oregon and Washington, returned home last Friday. Mrs. Pouliot spent the time with her daughter, Mrs. Gervais, at Olympia, while Joe visited every point of interest in that section. He was at Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, North Yakima and many other places, and visited with lots of the Red Lake Falls people now in that territory. Their visit was a highly enjoyable one, but they were pleased to get back home again however.

The Misses Dollie Pettingill and Catherine Pirath, two of St. Hilaire's popular school teachers, visited here between trains last Saturday.

Note the change in the ad of the J. B. Cigar company, this week. The fine line of suitable goods for holiday gifts are attracting large crowds of buyers, and they are finding excellent values.

Not an experiment but a fact, that a high top shoe, by protecting the ankles, will keep the feet dryer and warmer. The "Commando" is a neat high cut, boxcalf shoe, with 8-inch top and medium heavy sole, price $3.50 at Garecau & Zaiser's.

The Big Store's Christmas announcement appears in their regular space this week, and the readers should make it a point to carefully read this ad before commencing their holiday buying. The lines shown are new and completa and the prices at which they are offered will prove inviting.

Riverside, Iowa, Leader: L. A. Dautremont came in from Red Lake Falls. Minn., Tuesday morning to spend a week with his brother, C. J., and sisters, Mrs. Margaret Schnoebelen and Mary Dautremont. Mr. Dautremont owns the Red Lake Falls Gazette. He spent a little time at this office and speaks well of the country in which he resides.

Druggist A. L. Reichert has a large holiday announcement elsewhere in this issue, conveying to the buying public that his line of holiday goods is ready for your inspection. Mr. Reichert is making a specialty of Eastman Kodaks for holiday gifts, and has a complete line of this most excellent of all picture-machines and supplies. He has his usual pretty line of other goods, and Red Lake county people will make a mistake if they don't call there before they make their holiday selections.

J. I. Wyer expects to leave the last of this week or first of next for his home at Excelsior, after having spent the last month attending to business matters here. He will leave there early in January for a trip south, and will probably spend the greater portion of the winter in Georgia. Although hale and hearty, Mr. Wyer thinks that it is a trifle pleasanter to get away from the stiff Minnesota winters occassionally, and nearly every year takes a trip away.

The oyster supper and social given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church last evening was exceptionally well attended. The menu was excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by all. The social feature proved very interesting, and the experiences related by the ladies who had taken it upon themselves to earn a dollar apiece for the furnace fund, furnished much amusement and showed that the old familiar "where there's a will there's a way" could be demonstrated by practical application. The ladies netted about $100 as a result of their efforts.

Miss Iza Tibbetts entertained the "Klub" Tuesday evening.

Don't fail to see "Your Neighbors' Wife" at the Metropolitan Saturday night.

Miss Ida Lemieux has been spending the week with the family of her uncle near Brooks.

The Northern Minnesota Milling company desires to purchase 100 cords of dry wood. Call and see them.

Free, absolutely free, a patent leather school bag with every pair of shoes, any size, bought at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Mrs. B. Zaiser will leave early next week for St. Paul to spend a couple of months with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Lutz.

Ladies will appreciate a pair of Goodyear rubbers. They give easily, thereby not binding the foot, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

For Rent—Three good rooms, suitable for small family, or will rent furnished rooms to roomers. Second house south of Paul's hotel. Inquire of Dan Champoux. 2w

George H. Tibbetts arrived home last Thursday from Flandreau, to spend a month with his family. Mr. Tibbetts still holds his position in the Indian school at Flandreau, and reports himself as prospering.

COAL—Joseph Sally has a complete assortment of all grades of hard and soft coal on hand and is prepared to deliver it in ton lots, more or less on short notice. Hunt up Mr. Sally when you want that next supply of coal.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will hold a business meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Hennemuth next Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. This will be an important meeting and a full attendance is desired.

Miss Rose Cyr came home from Buena Vesta, Beltrami county, yesterday to spend Christmas at home. Miss Cyr has been teaching at Buena Vesta for the past several months, and has met with excellent success in her school work.

Dan Guerin sold his pretty black Percheron stallion Tuesday, to John Stewart, of Warren, for a goodly consideration. Mr. Stewart shipped the horse to Thief River Falls and from there to Winnipeg, where he will dispose of him. Dan's black was a noted horse in this section, and a finer animal never existed.

Frank E. Hunt will leave early in January for Georgia, where he anticipates spending the greater portion of the winter. Mr. Hunt has not been as well as his friends would like to have him this fall, and it is thought that a winter in the warmer climate will fully restore him to his usual robust health. His many friends here will trust that such will be the case, at least.

The Pope Bicycle Daily Memorandum Calendar for 1905 contains a memorandum leaf for every day in the year, and 365 original sayings in favor of good roads, good health, outdoor exercise, and that great vehicle of health-giving, the modern bicycle, by our most eminent living men of marked accomplishment. The calendar is free at Pope Mfg. Co.'s stores or any of our readers can obtain it by sending five 2 cent stamps to Pope Mfg. Co., Hartford, Conn., or 143 Sigel St., Chicago, Ill.

Only Eight Assessments for 1904.

The above is what we predicted last year for the Modern Woodmen of America, and it has come true.

The M. W. of A. is the largest fraternal insurance society in the world, and also the most reliable and cheapest. Examining a list of 100 fraternal insurance societies, we find that the Woodmen cost of management per capita is the lowest, being only 83 cents a year.

Gov. Van Sant says: "I am proud of the fact that I am one of the great army of over 50,000 Woodmen of Minnesota. I joined the Woodmen early in its history, taking out a $2,000 benefit certificate, and as it is the cheapest insurance I have today, I have always been particular to keep myself in good standing, by prompt payment of dues and assessment."

The following from Hon. William J. Bryan: "There are good reasons for my faith in societies such as the Modern Woodmen. The make men better citizens, better husbands and better fathers. It was the Woodman society that first led me to take insurance on my life."

The local camp has recently opened its charter, and will join hands to full-fill the Head Consuls' war cry: "A million men for Milwaukee." Our deputy has announced the war cry: "200 members for Red Lake Falls Camp 3436 M. W. of A." Join in neighbors and help him, he has several valuable prizes to offer, and expects to have a class of 10 in a short time.

MORTGAGE FORECLOURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of sixteen dollars which became due April 21, 1904, and is due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Meone Hammer, a single man, mortgagor, to Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, mortgagee, bearing date the 9th day of April, 1903, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of April A. D. 1903, at 3 o'clock p. m. in Book 26 of Mortgages on pages 429 and 430, and whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of said default, the whole principal sum of said mortgage, towit $96.00, did on the 22nd day of April 1904, become at once due and payable and was so declared by Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls; and whereas, there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of ninety-six dollars with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, and the further sum of forty-eight dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, the latter amount being for interest paid by said Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, under the terms of said mortgage upon a prior first mortgage of eight hundred dollars, to H. A. Poritz, default having been made in the payment of same and said amount, by said mortgagor, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof:

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage first described will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Southwest quarter of section one [1] in township one hundred fifty one 151 north of range forty three 43 west in Red Lake County Minnesota which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Red Lake County, Minnesota at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county and state on the 28th day of January A. D. 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $96 and interest as aforesaid and $48, and interest as aforesaid, and taxes, if any, on said premises, and a reasonable attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage, the same being hereby stated to be twenty-five dollars and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough Any child will take it It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. Not Fatal.

No Matter What Doctors Say—We Know That Heart Trouble in Many Cases Can Be Cured.

There are seven main features of heart disease, viz.: (1) Weakness or Debility; (2) Rheumatism or Neuralgia; (3) Valvular Disorder; (4) Dilation; (5) Enlargement; (6) Fatty Degeneration; (7) Dropsy.

Documentary evidence will prove thousands of so-called "incurables" have been absolutely cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

Patients often have no idea their disease is heart trouble, but ascribe it to Indigestion, Liver Complaint, etc.

Here are some of the symptoms: Shortness of breath after exercise. Smothering Spells. Pain in Chest, left Shoulder and arm. Discomfort in Lying on one side. Fainting Spells. Nervous Cough. Swelling of Feet and Ankles. Paleness of Face and Lips. Palpitation. Nightmare. Irregular Pulse.

"I have great faith in Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and speak of its merits whenever opportunity presents. I can now go up and down stairs with ease, where three weeks ago I could hardly walk one block." One year later.—"I am still in good health; the Heart Cure did so much for me, that I find it a far greater medicine than you claimed it to be."—S. D. YOUNG, D. D., 697 North Pine St., Natches, Miss.

MRS. CHADWICK TWICE INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY AT CLEVELAND, O.

Each Indictment Contains Two Counts, One Charging Forgery and the Other Uttering of Forged Papers—Iri Reynolds, Secretary of the Wade Park Bank, the Principal Witness for the Prosecution.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 13.—Trouble for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick increased at a rapid rate Monday. She was twice indicted by the grand jury of Cuyahoga county, and her old-time friend, Iri Reynolds, took the stand in court and made evident his intention to shield and protect her no longer. The aged secretary of the Wade Park bank presented a pathetic picture as he answered question after question, which brought out his own implicit faith in the woman whose financial transactions have well nigh ruined him in fortune, and caused him such infinite trouble. He gave evidence that he still believed his trust was justified. Only one query he attempted to evade. This was when he was asked how much of his personal estate had passed into the possession of Mrs. Chadwick. His eyes filled, and he requested that he be excused from answering. The question was not pushed.

The formal indictments voted against Mrs. Chadwick are based one upon the Carnegie note for $250,000 which was made payable at the office of Andrew Carnegie in New York city, and the other upon the Carnegie note for $500,000 which was payable at the National Bank of Commerce in New York. Under each indictment are two counts, one charging forgery, the other uttering of forged papers.

SAID TO BE WORTHLESS.

Chadwick "Securities" Afloat Aggregate $13,750,000.

Cleveland, Dec. 10.—The Plaindealer says:

When the contents of the mysterious "securities" held for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick by Iri Reynolds of the Wade Park bank are revealed to the outside it will be found that the signature of Andrew Carnegie has apparently been forged on notes and other papers to the total amount of $13,750,000. The securities held by Reynolds, together with those that were held by the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin and have already been made public, aggregate this amount.

The mysterious "securities" held in trust by Reynolds, concerning which there has been so much futile speculation during the past two weeks, consist of the following items:

First—A note for the sum of $5,000,000, signed "Andrew Carnegie."

Second—A certificate of trusteeship which states that Andrew Carnegie has in his possession stocks and bonds to the amount of $7,500,000 held by him in trust for Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick. This paper also is signed with Mr. Carnegie's name.

These securities, supposed to represent the vast amount of $12,500,000, have been for the past three years the principal basis on which Mrs. Chadwick has conducted her financial system and on which she has borrowed sums which, it is conceded, run up into the millions and are positively known to exceed $1,000,000.

And these same "securities" are the rock which has wrecked the Oberlin bank and caused the ruin of hundreds of families and losses to business men almost without number. For it is the frankly expressed opinion of reputable lawyers who have examined these papers that they are not worth 1 cent.

STORY OF REYNOLDS.

Cleveland Banker Tells of His Dealings With Mrs. Chadwick.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 12.—Secretary Iri Reynolds of the Wade Park bank, declared Sunday night that his implicit belief in the statements made to him by Mrs. Chadwick, in which she declared herself to be the daughter of Andrew Carnegie, was the impelling cause of his financial dealing with her

"She told me," said Mr. Reynolds, "that she was the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie and I believed her. I never doubted her story until on the occasion of my last visit to New York, Mr. Squire came to me and declared that all the securities she had given me, also the notes of Andrew Carnegie were worthless. It was only then that I doubted her. Before that I had refused to say anything against her or her affairs, because I deemed it my duty to protect her in the story of her birth, as she had given it to me. I never once doubted her until it was shown that the securities she gave me were worthless. After that, of course, I could not believe her any more. When she told me the story of being the daughter of Andrew Carnegie, her husband, Dr. Chadwick, was present and he believed the story as I did. The stories of her giving large sums of money to her husband are false. He is now in Europe and is penniless."

Mr. Reynolds said that about a year ago Mrs. Chadwick, in gratitude for his services to her, offered him a present of $100,000 in four notes of $25,000 each, which he declined, as he felt that he must resign his position in the bank if he accepted the present.

REPLIES TO OFFICIAL INQUIRY.

Carnegie Says He Has Not Issued a Note for Many Years.

Cleveland, Dec. 8.—County Prosecutor Keeler has received the following telegram from Andrew Carnegie at New York in reply to an inquiry as to the genuineness of the Chadwick notes:

"Never signed such notes; have no notes out now; have not issued a note for many years. Hope you can arrange to have any necessary affidavits executed here."

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Dec. 6.

Senate—In addition to listening to the reading of the president's message the senate received a preliminary report from the merchant marine commission, witnessed the induction of Senators Knox and Crane into office and in executive session referred the preliminary nominations to the proper committees.

House—After listening to the reading of the president's annual message the house adjourned until Wednesday.

Wednesday, Dec. 7.

Senate—Decision reached to vote on the Philippine civil government bill providing for the construction of railroads in the islands on Dec. 16. Mr. Platt (N. Y.) introduced a bill providing for a reduction of the congressional representation of the Southern states.

House—Legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill reported. President's message referred to committees.

Thursday, Dec. 8

House—Annual fight on civil service commission begun during consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. Little progress was made on the measure.

Senate—Only a short session held. Crum appointment as customs collector at Charleston, S. C., discussed in executive session.

Friday, Dec. 9.

House—Legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill passed practically as it came from the committee. The policy of retrenchment held full sway and all attempts to increase salaries foiled.

Senate—Not in session.

Monday, Dec. 12.

Senate—Pure food and Philippine government bills under discussion. The debate on the former was confined to calling attention to the inadequacy of the protection accorded the people of the United States against impure food and drugs. The discussion of the Philippine bill related solely to the question of the guarantee by the Philippine government of the income or interest on bonds of railroads in those islands.

House—Quite a large amount of miscellaneous business transacted, starting with pension bills and considering the Hill financial bill later in the day.

TO CONSIDER TARIFF

PRESIDENT ABANDONS IDEA OF CALLING EXTRA SESSION IN THE SPRING.

Washington, Dec. 8. — President Roosevelt is conferring daily with members of both the senate and the house of representatives on the subject of tariff revision and how the work shall be accomplished. He has found that strong opposition exists to consideration of the subject by congress at an extraordinary session to be held next spring and it can be said that the idea of calling an extraordinary session for next spring practically has been abandoned.

While no decision yet has been reached regarding the revision of the tariff it is pretty well understood now that if revision should be decided upon an extraordinary session of congress will be called to meet next fall. The subject will be taken up at that session and its consideration will probably be taken up and concluded at the regular session next December. This arrangement, it is believed, will enable congress to dispose of the tariff question at a comparatively early date in the regular session.

WILL COUNT NOSES.

Secretary of State Will Have Charge of Work in 1905.

A state census is to be taken in 1905. This will be in accordance with section 3, article 24, of the state constitution, which provided for a census in 1865 "and every tenth year thereafter," and under provisions of the state census law of 1895.

The secretary of state is in charge of the work. The enumeration in 1895 commenced June 1, and was completed by July 31. The appointment of clerks, stenographers, enumerators, etc., under the law of 1895, was all placed in the hands of the secretary of state.

The old law makes the boundaries of enumeration districts along township or ward lines, and provides that no district shall contain more than two townships or wards, except in unorganized districts where the superintendent of census abitrarily fixes the lines.

The appropriation for the last state census (1895) was $45,000. It seems certain that at the coming session of the legislature some special legislation will be enacted in regard to the 1905 census, considerably increasing the appropriation over what it was in 1895, but in the main following the 1895 law provisions.

HOLIDAY GREETING TO THE PUBLIC

NEARLY three years ago we established a very important institution here, and our steady gains in the volume of trade we're getting are good evidences of our success. We cater to the people of Red Lake County by selling them clothes they can afford to buy and are proud to wear; isn't this an argument of weight? Our line is the most complete ever shown before in this part of the Northwest, containing nearly 200 different patterns and embracing the world's choicest productions of high-class Men's and Boys' Outfittings. We make quotations to suit every purse, and we positively claim to give better values at each respective price than obtainable from any other quarter. We guarantee perfection of style, fit and serviceability of all garments. . . . .

THAT you have other places of trade at your command in no wise affects our prospects for trade at your hands, since our line, due to inherent merit resulting from superiority of values, will command recognition anywhere . . . . . .

WE cheerfully refund money to customers on the asking. It is on the many points of difference, the numerous features entirely personal wherein we diverge radically from the beaten paths that we place our reliance in soliciting your valuable patronage.

A FORWARD LOOK

You've been reading our advertising for nearly three years. Have you ever been misled? What we say today does not have to be unsaid tomorrow. Our past means much to us and to you. It is inspiration for the present, the hope of the future. We have made mistakes of course, but the heart of the business has been sound. Perfection has not been attained; human endeavor may never reach that point, but our past is our bond to the public. There's no shadow on it, no period of its growth that we would obscure or discount by excuses or apologies. Improvement is following improvement. The same sterling principles that have held and will keep on holding our old standbys should appeal to and we hope will attract many new customers to our store.

This is, with the compliments of the season for 1905, the best wishes of . . . . . .

JIM & PAUL.

RED LAKE FALLS---The Gem of the Valley.

NESTLING snugly among the beautiful wooded banks of the picturesque Clearwater river, and stretching back on the broad plateaus of prairie, is the city of Red Lake Falls—justly termed "The Gem of the Valley," the county seat and metropolis of Red Lake county, and while yet a city in its swaddling clothes it is not difficult to glance ahead and see the great future that is in store for it.

To many not familiar with the history of the city, it appears that many years have elapsed since the foundation of what is today Red Lake Falls, and while this is true in one sense, yet it can be truthfully said that until the decree of His Excellency, Governor Clough, declaring Red Lake a county separate and independent of old Polk, thereby injecting vim, vigor and life before unthough of by the residents of the village, the progress of the town had not been fraught with any great success. Dating its birth then, from January 1, 1897, the growth and prosperity of this pretty little city of a few years back has been remarkable, and today she stands as a represenitive of the most progressive type of Red River Valley cities. With the new lease of life created by the establishment of Red Lake Falls as the county seat of Red Lake county came the rush of new business enterprises, the erection of many new and handsome business blocks and residences, the branching out of those already on the ground floor, and with the settlement of the surrounding country to a corresponding degree until from a mere country trading place the transformation was complete to an active up-to-date city, offer- great advantages to the investor, homeseeker and business man.

The population of Red Lake Falls is about 2,800, and its families are of all nationalities, good hospitable people, ready to welcome the stranger and extend him the right hand of fellowship. The resources of Red Lake Falls are many. In the city and within three miles of it are twelve distinct water powers, each one good for from a ten to fifteen foot head of water and sufficient to run many mills and factories. Three of these are already developed, two being utilized by two great flour mills, whose output aggregates fifteen hundred barrels per day, the year around. This flour is shipped all over the world, and its excellence is attested by numerous customers in Liverpool and London. Two railroads the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, run into the city and carry away the products of the mills and farms. Besides the mills the railroads employ large crews of men the year around. Day labor commands $1.75 to $2.00 per day; carpenters, $3.00 per day; masons, $4.00; threshing hands $1.75 to $2.00 with board.

Among the business enterprises of the city, and the city is yet in its infancy, may be mentioned two flour mills, one of 500 and one of 1,000 barrels capacity, run entirely by water power, one electric light plant run by water power, two brick factories, three banks, two drug stores, three elevators, ten general stores, two hardware stores, two harness shops, one shoe shop, one clothing store, two furniture stores, one jewelry store, four blacksmith shops, four agricultural implement houses, two lumber yards, two opera houses, two newspapers, two barber shops, two meat markets, three livery barns, one second hand store, two millinery stores, one cigar factory, one creamery, two paint shops, one woolen mill, two hog and cattle buyers, two horse buyers, three hotels, six attorneys, three physicians and two dentists.

Surrounding the city are miles upon miles of rich farming country. People come from ten, twenty and thirty miles to do their trading at Red Lake Falls. Especially is this the case from the east, where lies the great Red Lake reservation. Part of this was open to settlement in 1896; the balance, eleven townships, was trhown open in June of the present year. To all this new country Red Lake Falls is the key. Prospective settlers would do well to make their headquarters here. The prosperity of the city is attested by the substantial brick blocks in the business portion. We have electric lights, local telephone system, and are connected with the balance of the world by long distance telephone.

Red Lake Falls incorporated as a city in 1897, and its present city officials are a careful and conservative set of men. They are: Mayor John A. Duffy; aldermen, Fred Borchers, president; Thomas Crompe, H. Hennemuth, James Brady, M. A. Hatteu; city clerk, A. P. Toupin; city attorney, Chas. E. Boughton; city treasurer, Ovide Emard; assessor, E. A. Moran; Chief of Police, George Brunelle; night watch, Arthur Lizee. We have a good and efficient volunteer fire department, equipped with steam fire engine and all modern appliances; a city hall, and well laid out streets and good drainage.

The city has a state High School with twelve departments, employing fourteen instructors. Prof. E. W. Chamberlain is now at the head of the school, and is considered one of the best instructors in the state. Eight hundred children attend the various departments. St. Joseph's Catholic school is conducted by the sisters of St. Benedict. This school which was opened in October 1902 has an attendance of some three hundred pupils.

Red Lake Falls is also well equipped in the way of church homes. Two Catholic, St. Joseph's and St. Mary's, Presbyterian, German Lutheran—and all have substantial buildings and large congregations. In secret societies there is no dearth, and you can find nearly any one you care to attend: The Odd Fellows, Modern Woodmen, Catholic Order of Foresters, Knights of Pythias, Modern Brotherhood, Red Men, Knights of the Maccabees. Rebekahs, Royal Neighbors, Ladies of the Maccabees, Woman Catholic Foresters and several other societies have good lodges here.

A first-class band of twenty-eight pieces, under the directorship of Prof. Andrew Onstad, is another of the institutions of which Red Lake Falls boasts, and connected with the band is an orchestra of fifteen pieces, which fills engagements in the surrounding towns and is popular with the people. The Metropolitan Opera House, owned by Messrs. Anderson & Healy, is used by the band for their monthly concerts. This hall has a seating capacity of 800 and is one of the most finely appointed opera houses in the Northwest. The best travelling show companies fill engagements at this house, and the people here are assured of seeing the best of entertainments.

Red Lake Falls enjoys the distinction of having two of the largest flour mills in the state, barring those in the metropolitan cities. The Red Lake Falls Milling company plant has a capacity of 1000 barrels of flour per day, having a water power of 3,000 power under a 14 foot head, and utililizing 450 to 500 horse power at the mill and electic light plant it will be seen that some 2,500 horse power is available for other enterprises. The plant is up-to-date in all its equipments, including a passenger elevator, speaking tubes and call bells on each floor, and is lighted throughout will electricity.

The Northern Minnesota Milling company's flour mill is located below the junction of the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers and this water power having the advantage of the combined flow of both rivers, is one of the finest in the state, estimated at 3,000 horse power. Naturally only a small fraction of the great water power is used in turning the wheels of the flour mill. The Northern Minnesota Milling company's mill has a capacity of 500 barrels per day and the flour that is manufactured by this large institution is first class and meets with ready sale, not only in the local markets, but vast quantities of it are shipped to eastern points.

Red Lake Falls has several other manufacturing plants, as well as two large retail lumber yards. The Red Lake Falls Brick yards turns out about 2,000,000 brick a year, and furnishes a large amount of this product to neighboring towns. Schmitz Bros. are the proprietors. Joseph Benoit owns and conducts a carding mill, which he runs with a large gasoline engine. Thousands of pounds of fleece are annually carded, and a specialty is made of wool for comforters, which is especially treated for the purpose. The J. B. Cigar company manufactures and sells a large number of cigars every year, and employ several hands the year around. Two fine newspaper plants, The Gazette and The Courier, are constantly busy turning out work for the people of the city and surrounding country, and the newspapers are conceded to be two of the best and most up-to-date in the west. Both of the plants are strictly up to date, being equipped with the most modern and latest improved machinery, and employing first-class workmen.

A great deal more might be said about Red Lake Falls without any effort, but where space is limited much that could be said with good grace is necessarily crowded out. But in ending it can be said with emphasis that the business men are all good "rustlers" quick to see and appreciate a "good thing," and ready to help and welcome all infant industries looking for a location. With our facilities for shipping and handling grain, our mills, our rivers, our water powers, our immense tributary farming country, we are now and always will be the leading Red Lake county city, one of the best in the Northwest, and bound to remain so and grow greater. Whoever you are and whatever may be your business, Red Lake Falls—still "The Gem of the Valley"—is a good town to come to and to "tie to."

Red Lake Falls Concert Band.....

Perhaps the one institution above all others that the people of Red Lake Falls are proud of, it is the Red Lake Falls Concert Band—and well may they have reason to be.

Very few towns in Minnesota outside the larger cities with their professional organizations can boast of an amateur band of the size, excellence and stability of the Red Lake Falls organization. The history of bands in Red Lake Falls is a long one, and many ups and downs have been the result of the efforts of the pushers to keep the good work going. Until the fall of 1901, however, the success of the organization had not been brilliant, and for several months prior to that the city had not boasted a band organization.

In the fall of that year, however, L. P. Berthon, always the foremost pusher for band success, conceived the idea of organizing a band that would be a permanent fixture, and to this end went before the city council and secured an appropriation of $40 per month to pay a leader. Prof. John Frick, of St. Paul, was secured, and the band was started with about a dozen members. Prof. Frick remained until early in April, and the band made good progress under him. Other interests, however, demanded his attention and he resigned and left. The band held together during the summer without a leader, until the first of September, when L. P. Berthon again got into the game, and this time secured a list of sixty odd business men and others who pledged themselves to pay $1 per month for the term of one year, the band in return to hire a competent instructor and give public concerts. Prof. Clint O. Smith, of Reynolds, North Dakota, was then hired and the band was re-organized with him in charge. Prof. Smith was an excellent organizer and soon had the organization running smoothly and the concerts of that fall and winter were a great success both financially and otherwise. The membership increased rapidly and the band came to be recognized as a permanent fixture. Early the following summer Prof. Smith, who had not resided here but who made regular weekly trips from Reynolds, was asked to move here and become a permanent resident. This he refused to do and as a result his resignation was asked. Prof. Andrew Onstad, who had been music instructor at St. Olaf's college, at Northfield, was induced to come here at once to take charge of the organization for a few months, and he liked the town so well and was so pleased with the way the band showed up, that he agreed to remain, and today he is leading an organization of twenty-eight pieces, which is one of the best in the northwest or the whole state. Prof. Onstad is a clarinet soloist of great ability, and his band boasts of a reed section never excelled outside of professional organizations. He is a thorough musician, and the programs he has given the people of Red Lake Falls have been equal to those of the largest travelling organizations. The band practices twice a week, gives an open air concert every week in the summer and an indoor concert once each month during the winter season. Included in the repertoire of music are the best of the heavy standard overtures and selections from the old masters, as well as all of the lighter popular music and up-to-date marches. The band is fully uniformed, with a neat plain black uniform, with black caps and gold braid, and their appearance has been pronounced creditable by the best critics. They are progressing all the time, and it is the hope of the management to make it a band or thirty-five pieces before another year rolls around.

In connection herewith, The Gazette believes it no more than proper to extend thanks on behalf of the people of Red Lake Falls to L. P. Berthon, who to more than any other three persons connected with band business, does the organization owe its success. Not only often neglecting his own personal affairs to look after band business, Mr. Berthon has paid out a great deal of money in the last three years toward keeping things moving, besides buying for himself the finest made instruments. He has labored incessantly for the success of the band and it can truly be said that the splendid organization we have today stands as a representative of his "sticktoitiveness" and enterprise.

The present officers of the band are:

Director—Prof. Andrew Onstad.

President—Harry B. Healy.

Corresponding Secretary—Frank Brouillet.

Financial Secretary—J. L. Tracy.

Treasurer—J. B. Armstrong.

Business Manager—Sam S. Haislet.

Board of Directors—J. L. Tracy, Theo. LaBissoniere, and J. B. Armstrong.

The membership and instrumentation is as follows:

Solo Bb Cornets—Adelard Lemieux, Ralph Healy, Arthur LaPlante.

First Bb Cornet—Joseph Harren.

Second Bb Cornet—Harry Garcean.

Solo Bb Clarinets—Andrew Onstad, J. L. Tracy.

First Clarinets—Theo. LaBissoniere, Clem. LaBissoniere.

Second Clarinets—H. W. Anderson, Albert Lizee, Theo. Garceau, jr.

Soprano Saxophone—Leland Healy.

Alto Saxophone—Sam C. Nanman.

Flute and Piccolo—L. P. Berthon.

Baritone—J. B. Armstrong.

Trombone—Harry B. Healy.

Tenors—T. G. Brunelle, Drew Marshall.

Solo Alto—Clement Brunelle.

First, Second and Third Altos—Frank Brouillet, Verne Healy, Ewald Zaiser.

Bb Bass—J. P. Harren.

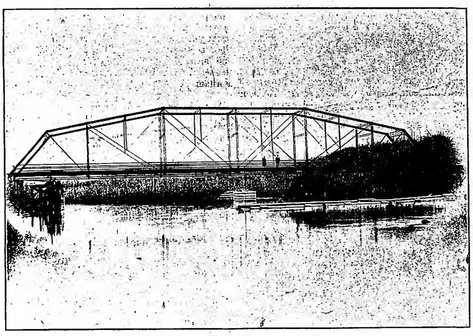
Eb Bass—Sam. S. Haislet.

Snare drum and traps—Albert Brunelle (better known as "Butch").

Bass drum—Paul Brunelle.

The band, besides handling the heaviest grades of band music, boasts several excellent soloists, which makes a great variety in the programs. Prof. A. Onstad, clarinet and violin; J. L. Tracy, violin and clarinet; J. B. Armstrong, baritone (and the finest in the state); Harry B. Healy, trombone; Clement Brunelle, alto, and L. P. Berthon, piccolo and cello, have all appeared in solos during the last year, and their work has been very good and highly appreciated by the people. A male quartette composed of Messrs. Nanman, Marshall, Healy and Onstad is another feature that has furnished much towards the success of the concerts.

The band is thriving, and its members are proud of the excellent support accorded by the citizens, and realize that without their co-operation and assistance such an institution could not long exist. Today, however, it enjoys the confidence of the people, and it is not difficult to see wherein the organization is destined to make a name for itself and the city.



New Steel Bridge Over the Red Lake River in Red Lake Falls.

Red Lake Falls Fire Department

One of the most important institutions of Red Lake Falls, and one which the citizens take great pride in speaking of is the Red Lake Falls volunteer fire department, which has been organized several years and has done great work for the city.

There is probably not a town in Minnesota that can boast of so good a volunteer department, and in every instance where they have been called upon to tackle the fire fiend they have responded with haste, and to their efforts on more than one occasion does the city owe its preservation from being entirely wiped out.

One notable fire within the last year was that which destroyed the Palace hotel block and one other building last March. The alarm was turned in in the dead of night and although the fire had gained considerable headway before the department arrived on the scene, the efforts of the boys were very effective. The Palace was a three story frame structure and was adjoined by a full row of frame buildings, but in the face of these difficulties the boys stopped the fire after it had only parly destroyed one adjoining building.

The department is conducted along careful business lines and is a solid institution. The present officers are: Henry Hennemuth, chief; Milton A. Converse, assistant chief; Fred Borchers, secretary; S. A. Swanson, treasurer; Ed. Bray, foreman Hose Co. No. 1; Joseph Salley, foreman Hose Co. No. 2: Frank Brouillet, foreman hook and ladder: Sam Allard, head engineer.

The apparatus consists of a Waterous steam engine, hook and ladder truck, 2 hose carts carrying 2,000 feet of hose, 500 of which was recently purchased. The water is secured from a large 1,500 barrel cistern which was built by the city near the fire hall. The department is the pride of the city, and is composed of thirty of our energetic young men. The monthly meetings are held on the first Saturday of each month.

In connection with the department is a branch of the State Firemen's Relief association, which was organized about a year and incorporated under the state laws. The officers are: President, H. Hennemuth; vice-president, James E. Ford; secretany, Fred Borchers; treasurer, Ralph E. Wyer; trustees, Sam E. Hunt, Sam Allard, John Drier.

The annual meeting occurs the second Monday in February, the trustees meeting monthly. Two per cent of all insurance premiums are paid into the treasury and can be used only for aiding firemen disabled at a fire, during the period of their disablement. The association is in a flourishing condition, and makes an excellent auxillary to our excellent department.

A Prosperous Company.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Elsewhere in this issue will be found the notice for the annual meeting of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company. This company has been very successful lately and the farmers are providing their own insurance at an exceedingly low rate, only one loss being reported this year. They now have over $300,000 insurance in force and they are growing rapidly. So far the company has been confined to the following townships in Red Lake county: Numedal, Norden North, Bray, Sanders, Rocksbury, Polk Center, Black River, River Falls, Wyandotte, Louisville, Red Lake Falls and Gervais. The townships of Emardville, Garnes and Equality have applied and will undoubtedly be admitted at the annual meeting.

Over two hundred and fifty policies are now issued by the company and it is in a very prosperous condition. The officers are: Nels K. Anderson, president; C. P. Swanson, secretary, and Ole Opperud, treasurer.

Red Lake Falls' Leading Manufacturing Industry

The greatest business institution of Red Lake Falls, and undouhtedly one of the most important in the Red River Valley country, is the Red Lake Falls Milling company of this city, which each year furnishes many trainloads of the finest quality of flour to supply the demand of foreign countries and the Eastern states besides taking care of a larger share of the trade of Northern Minnesota.

Situated in the very heart of the greatest wheat producing section of the world, owning its own mammoth water power, which turns the wheels of the mill constantly, and equipped with the finest and most modern mill machinery, this mammoth institution conducted along the most up-to-date methods, occupies an enviable reputation as a bidder for the trade of the world, which policies account for their great success, and the well-earned popularity of "Mascot" flour in all markets throughont the world.

The mill has a daily capacity of 1,000 barrels, and it never stops night or day, except for the Sahbath and for necessary repairs, and even then it has been impossible to keep up with the orders received from all parts of the world. The business is growing constantly, especially as regards the foreign trade, and the company is comtemplating an increase of capacity in the near future.

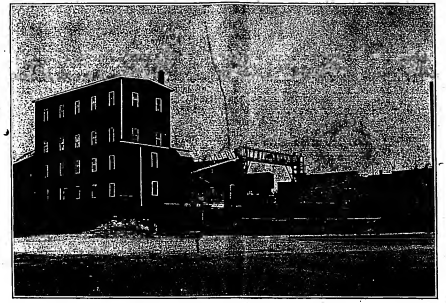
The power for the mill is furnished by a 1000-horse power dam on the Red Lake river. This dam was constructed at a cost of $30,000, and is considered one of the best in the northern part of the state. Water is the ideal power for flouring mills, and probably no river in the state furnishes a steadier flow, since the difference between the high and low stages is not of enough consequence to effect the power of the dams. This is accounted for by the fact that the Red Lake river is the sole outlet of Red Lake—the largest fresh water lake in the United States, save only the chain of Great Lakes.

The officers of the Red Lake Falls Milling company (incorporated) are: Hon. Marcus Johnson, president; S. M. Sivertson, secretary and treasurer, and L. E. Metzgar, manager. The president, Mr. Johnson, is interested in mill and elevator enterprises in various parts of the state and has met with uniform success. Mr. Sivertson was for many years associated in the milling and mercantile business with Mr. Johnson at Atwater, coming to Red Lake Falls several years ago to assume his present position. L. E. Metzgar, the manager, is a practical miller and an experienced business man. Previously he was in charge of some of the best inland mills of the state. He comes from Mankato and has proven a popular and obliging official. Arthur Zaiser is head miller, J. J. Padden, chief stenographer and assistant book-keeper, G. G. Kindseth, head bookkeeper.

The offices of the company are located in a two-story brick building adjoining the mill. This building is steam-heated and electric-lighted and furnishes ample space for the facilitation of business. The book-keepers are comfortably quartered on the lower floor, while upstairs are the rooms of the manager and the secretary and treasurer. Local and long distance telephones bring the outside world in close touch.

The mill is equipped throughont with up-to-date machinery and modern conveniences for every process in the transforming of the wheat into flour. The company has always believed in the wisdom of providing the best equipment obtainable, and like other successful business houses, has found this policy conduces to a maximum output at a minimum expenditure of labor.

The products of the Red Lake Falls mill are sold in competition with the largest mills in Minnesota (which is synonomous with the largest mills in the world) in all the leading foreign and state markets.



The Red Lake Falls Milling Company's Plant.

The new elevator and several other-buildings are behind the mill and are not shown in the picture.

Resident agents represent the mill at Amsterdam, Glascow, London and Liverpool—two of whom made trips here this summer to acqnaint themselves more thoroughly with this far-famons wheat region, and see where and how the flour is manufactured that has become snch a favorite with their trade.

A large bnsiness is also enjoyed by this company throughont the eastern states, through agencies established at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore. Throughout Michigan, Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota travelling salesmen constantly represent this leadiug industry of the Red River Valley, and keep "Mascot" prominent before the trade. In this manner a very large trade has been built up, which is evidenced by the fact that recently twelve carloads of the famous "Mascot" flour were sent out in one day, destined to points within the above-named territory.

At the London flour exhibition in 1900 the products of this mill were awarded several prizes, and from a photograph of the section occupied by the Red Lake Falls Milling company, sent by the London agent one would judge it was one of the best and most conspicuous displays at the exhibition. Since then this agent has made an exhibit of the goods at the annual flour show in London, and in this way the goods have been quite extensively advertised throughont the British Isles.

For the foreign trade flour is packed in sacks of different weights in accordance with the standards of the different countries. For instance in England and Scotland a sack of flour is 280 pounds, and a half sack 140 ponnds. In Hollsnd the weights are 220½ and 110¼ pounds, respectlivey.

The famous "Mascot" brand is sold in all the Eastern markets, and sales have increased so rapidly that the capacity of the mill has been constantly increased in order to keep up with the orders. The flour is fully guaranteed equal to the highest standard of best Minnesota pateut.

Besides the milling business the company owns and controls thirteen country elevators located in the hard wheat district, where the very best wheat is selected for use in the mill. Any wheat that is the least damaged is shipped. This no doubt accounts for the high standard of flour produced. The company last spring constructed a 100,000-bushel storage elevator at the mill. This gives them a total wheat storage capacity of a quarter million bushels. H. C. Hansen is the wheat inspector and superintendent of warehouses, and is considered one of the best judges of grain in the northwest. The company also buys all kinds of grains such ss oats, barley, flax, etc., and is acknowledgedly one of the best local markets in this section.

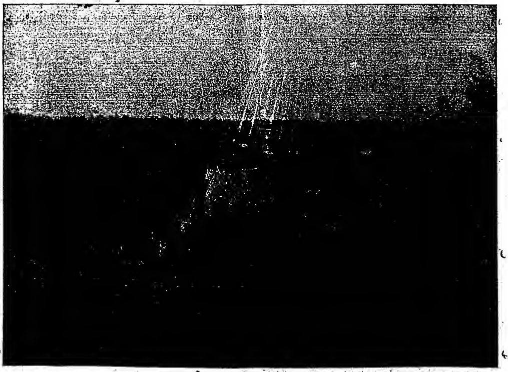
The Red Lake Falls Milling company also owns and controls the electric light plant, which has a capacity of 2,400 16-candle incandescents and thirty arcs. It is fitted for both water and steam drive, is equipped with two dynamos, and operated with complete satisfaction to the patrons. Of this branch of the business S. M. Sivertson is general manager. Samuel Allard is the electrician and Fred Burgdorf assistant.

As a side line the mill company is engaged quite extensively in the feeding of sheep. The first year 1,000 head were fatteued from the screeniugs of the mill, and the innovation was found so profitable that nearly donble that number are domiciled at the sheep ranch on the mill reserve. This exhibition of enterprise on the part of the mill company will likely indnce many of the farmers in this locality to attempt a like experiment.

Hon. Marcus Johnson, head of the Red Lake Falls Milling company, is a man of great personal popularity, and of wide influence. Perhaps no man in the state is more intimate and has greater influence with the leading men in all walks of life, be it politics, busiuess or educational affairs, nud to his active work in the interests of this city, Red Lake Falls owes a large share of the prosperity of today. It was he who gave the final impetus to the connty division contest, which culminated in Red Lake conntv's establishment. His influence with Gov. Clongh is what turned the tide in our favor. Mr. Johnson is a man of determination, and when he is with a movement he camps on the trail and never sleeps. His personality is as pleasing as his influence is extended, and to this all who know him will testify. Mr. Johnson is always looking ont for Red Lake Falls' interests, at home or abroad, and he has the moral backing of the entire commnnity.

Mrs. E. F. Marshall, vice-president of the Red Lake Falls Milling company, the Electric Light company, and the Johnson-Marshall Land company, is also postmistress of Red Lake Falls. She hrings to all her duties the same good jndgment and her administration is characterized by strict personal snpervision and active participation. There is no better condncted postoffice in the state than the Red Lake Falls office, and the general pnblic is more than satisfied with the administration.

S. M. Sivertson, secretary and treasurer of the Red Lake Falls Milling company, has been a resident of Red Lake Falls three years and a half, coming here from Atwater. Mr. Sivertson is a hustler from the gronnd up, bnt he is also socially inclined, and both he and Mrs. Sivertson are prime favorites in Red Lake Falls' social circles. Mr. Sivertson is permanently identified with the bnsiness here, and in this onr people are fortunate, for it insures his continnous residence in this city.



A Glimpse of the Red Lake River and the Red Lake Falls Milling Company's Plant.

L. E. Metzgar, the manager of the mill, is a yonng man who has made a great sncess of mill work, and since coming here has done a great deal for the plant in the way of securing new bnsiness, etc. He is a popular fellow, and has hosts of friends wherever he is known.

First-Class Point for Trading ....

Red Lake Falls enjoys the distinction of being one of the best business towns of the state, and for that matter of the country, for the business done here in a general way, in proportion to the population, is equalled by few cities in America. This is due in a large messure to the enterprise and "push" of onr business men. In none of the metropolitan cities can be found more complete stocks of goods than are carried by Red Lake Falls merchants.

Red Lake Falls citizens have no occasion to go to St. Paul or Chicago to buy merchandise of any description for while the taste and requirements of Red Lake Falls citizens are doubtless as fastidious and exacting as any, yet the merchants appreciate this fact, and the best there is in the different lines of goods can be found in the mercantile establishments of Red Lake Falls. The splendid tributary country of prosperous communities and thriving farming population enables our business men to carry large and well aelected stocks, and it is no wonder that our business men draw a large share of trade from a distance. Especial attention is called to the advertisements of the business concerns that appear in this issue. It is the enterprise of these business men which not only makes the publication of this issue possible, but which makes Red Lake Falls one of the best towns in the Northwest.

L. A. Kaufer.

L. A. Kaufer was horn Feb. 17, 1858, in Dubois county, Indiana. He received a high school education at Mankato, and later entered the harness and saddlery establishment of Gottlieb Schmidt, of Mankato, as an apprentice, remaining three years, and learning the harness and saddlery business thoroughly in all its branches. At the age of 21 he opened up a harness and saddlery establishment in company with his father under the firm name of H. B. Kaufer & Son at Fergus Falls. He came to Red Lake Falls in 1881. In 1884 he went to Colorsdo, remaining there two years when he came back to Red Lske Falls and established the harness and saddlery business which he is now carrying on. He has held the offices of council-man and justice of the peace. Mr. Kaufer is one of Red Lake Falls' leading business men and his patronage extends over a broad territory.

Henry W. Anderson.

Henry W. Anderson, watch msker and jeweler, has been in business here for nearly fonr years. Mr. Anderson is a gradnate of the Peoria Optical School. He carrries a nice stock of of watches, clocks, silverware and jewelry, and does repairing of all kinds with diapatch and skill. He was born at Parkers Prairie, Otter Tail county in 1880. He was edncated in the public schools at St. Paul, afterwards attending the Bradley Polytechnic Institute at Peoria, Ill., and also the Peoria Optical College. After leaving school he engaged in his trade at Grantsbnrg, Wis., where he remained nntil he came here. He is meeting with an excellent business here.

... The Work of Our Splendid Public Schools ...

Prof. E. W. Chamberlain

Our First Graduating Class

Go north, go south, go east, go west, go in, go out, of every town or hamlet in this great land of ours and you will find that the public schools are the pride of our hearts, the apple of our eyes, the center of our thought and the very 'aeme of all our praise.

Is this idolatry; is it blind worshiping of the blind? Or is it but well earned praise? The most thotful and the most thotless, the most vicious and the most kindly will all unite in saying that it is most certainly well earned praise.

Why then this praise? Simply because the people as a whole see in the public schools the most potent influences in increasing and perpetuating the public welfare. Nor do we wish to cast any reflection upon the church or upon the home. Both of these institutions have inherent in themselves the ability to wield an influence for good citizenship that would put to shame the fondest hopes of the most ardent admirers of our public schools. Nor are they wholly lacking in the disposition to wield this influence. In many places, and Red Lake Falls among them, the churches and the homes are active in their work for good citizenship. But not all the churches nor all of the homes in all of these places are as active as they might be. What is left then to supply this training for good citizenship in the other places and the other homes? Only the schools.

In every community, in every hamlet, in every town and city in all our land, from the little log school house to the stately college edifice, the one aim is to rear up good citizens, to make of our youth law-abiding, law-making and law enforcing citizens, loyal to the traditions and customs of our Revolutionary Fathers—in fact to train up true Americans, citizens who are American in ambitions, American in desires, and American in character. With such an aim in view is it any wonder that the heart of all the people warms toward the public schools? What are the basic elements of a good citizen? A good mind, a good heart, a good will and a good hand. He must have a good mind so that he may rightly decide the many civic and social questions that arise in his daily life. He must have a good heart that he may temper his decisions with the "milk of human kindness." He must have a strong will power that he may be able to stand by the dictates of his own conscience and against the temptations of life. He must have a good hand to do well whatever falls to his lot in this closely competitive country of ours.

That our public schools do much towards this no one will deny. That there are many things that they would like to do but cannot, all will admit.

How does the equipment of the Red Lake Falls school compare with that of others? Favorably.

We have an assessed valuation of $315,000 on which we raise $8,500 for school purposes. We have two school houses whose pictures you see on this page. They are so situated that all small children have easy access to them, pupils up to the sixth grade being accomodated in both buildings. Thirteen teachers are employed all of whom are well fitted for their special line of work. We have six hundred pupils in all departments and the per centage of attendance will average about 95 per cent.

Red Lake Falls high school is comparatively a new high school. Yet it ranks well with many of the older schools in the state as to equipment and ability to accomplish results

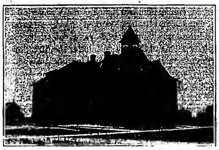
The state inspector is authority for the statement that we have one of the best arranged and one of the best equipped labratories in the state outside of the large cities. The chemical labratory is splendidly equipped. So also is the physics labratory as regards pieces for class use. But we need new apparatus for individual pupil's work.

The botanical and geological labratories are yet to be equipped.

We furnish free text books and while the Board of Education are conservative in the expenditure of the peoples' money, they have furnished us with an excellent supply of text books and supplementary reading along all general lines. Tuition is free to outside pupils in all grades and high school.

We have a circulating library of about six hundred volumes which has just been classified and numbered according to the methods employed in the larger city libraries. We have a good start towards a reference library but like all good things its comes slow and needs some additions.

Our first and second primary grades are furnished with material for busy work, which is elementary manual training.



High School Building.

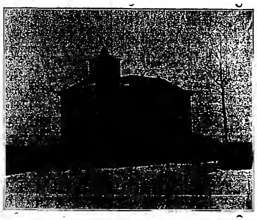
In the lower grades much time is spent on the three R's and spelling. While music and drawing are not neglected the fundamentals are largely dwelt upon.

In the high school we offer two courses—the Latin course and the Civics course. The Latin course is a good hard course and is the one best suited to prepare pupils for their struggle for life. The Civics course needs revision and Physiology should be offered in the eighth grade so that pupils who wish to try for a teacher's certificate may get that subject.

Along the lines of physical development we are beginning a course systematic instruction. Dumbbell classes have been formed for all the high school classes who can take the work and we see our way clear to a good gymnasium room to be occupied the first of the year. In interscholastic atheletics we have met foot ball teams from five different high schools this fall and only one school has succeded in scoring on us. That was Grand Forks who sent us to defeat by a score of 12 to 0. But that was the most creditable game the team played as the Grand Forks team outweighed our team 15 pounds to a man. Our other games were as follows: Ada 0, Red Lake Falls 17; Warren 0, Red Lake Falls 51; Fosston 0, Red Lake Falls 58; Thief River Falls 0, Red Lake Falls 29. We hope to have a good field and track team this year.

Such is our school as I see it. Such it should not remain. Great has been the improvement in the past, let us not cease at this point, but should we have the schools raised to a much higher state of efficiency we must have thoro co-operation on the part of the parents. First you must visit our schools. Nothing you can do will so stimulate your child's interest as to have him think that you are liable to drop in on him at any time and listen to his recitation. Some of you need to send your children more regulary. You who do send your children punctally, should interest yourself in your neighbors and urge upon them the neccessity of sending their children. Then too, more efficient and systematic home study should be insisted upon by the parents. There is no pupil above the fourth grade who should not have a regular home study period.

Our lot is a strenuous one, full of responsibility. Parents, we ask you to help us in carrying the work forward to its highest attainment. It cannot be done without your support. Surely you are not going to fail us.



North Side School.

Some of the Causes of Crime Among the Young

By MISS S. E. WALKER,

A Prominent Chicago Educator.

NEVER before has youth in America been exposed to such dangers of moral perversion as to-day.

Modern life is hard and increasingly so for youth. The home, the school and the church fail to recognize its nature, its needs and most of its perils. The problems of adolescence are not understood by parents, teachers, preachers or physicians.

Juvenile crime is not decreasing with the march of civilization. In some countries its increase is slight, in others rapid, and in America it is a special menace. Many causes are given for the increase of crime, and among these is the lack of moral training. I do not believe the exclusion of the Bible from the schools can be considered final. Prison wardens have frequently said that children should be taught in the schools that "honor is better than riches."

There is a growing conviction among modern students of criminology that the child is not by nature a criminal. Waywardness in a child is the result of conditions over which he has no control. Puntive measures administered in a spirit of vindictiveness are not only unjust but fail of their purpose.

The most prevalent cause of crime is the loss of home influences in the physical and moral foulness of tenement and slum dwellings. Children of the ghetto naturally possess all the qualities that make for noble manhood, but their early surroundings destroy these qualities.

Another enemy of the home is divorce, which fills our industrial schools and reformatories.

America has the largest number of murders in any given time of any civilized nation on the globe.

As an instance of the good effects of moral teaching in the schools we may cite the experience of France, which is the only nation to show a decrease of juvenile crime between 1886 and 1896. Investigators have attributed that decrease largely to moral teaching in the schools, especially the elementary schools.

Thus far we have largely devoted our attention to the criminal and neglected the causes that made him such. The drunkard, the pauper and the law breaker are the creatures of circumstance. We spend annually $59,000,000 on courts, police, prisons and reformatories, and yet save but one in four or five who come within the clutches of the law from degradation. The number of habitual criminals is increasing.

Preventive measures rather than puntive ones are those on which we must rely. We are forgetting that youth needs repose, leisure, art, legend and romance.

THE brilliant success of the Red Lake Falls high school foot ball team on the gridiron the past fall, demonstrated forcibly what the right spirit among eleven youths may accomplish. Although only fifteen available boys in the high school this fall to work with Ralph E. Wyer and Prof. Chamberlain went into the spirit of the thing with their whole hearts, and with Wyer as coach and Chamberlain as trainer and conditioner, the boys made rapid progress. Outside of two or three of the members, the boys had never been in a game of football, and a great many of them were considered two light to make any kind of showing against a heavier and more experienced team. Both the coach and trainer worked hard, however, and in credit to the members let it be said that a better behaved or more willing set of boys never tried for honors. They paid strict attention to the admonitions of their coach and trainer, and under the direction of Capt. Marshall, who had had some previous experience, they were out every evening working like beavers to accomplish the end they sought. Their work soon resulted in good results, as at the time of the Ada game they were in excellent condition. They beat Ada 17 to 0 in a pretty exhibition. Their next game was with Warren, and they won by a score of 51 to 0. Next they played Fosston and beat them 58 to 0. After this came Grand Forks, which was the prettiest exhibition of the fall. Grand Forks had the advantage in weight, in experience and in age, and had not been held successfully by any school in the Northwest. Our boys played them to a standstill, and although Grand Forks won it was a well-earned victory. The score was 12 to 0. Thief River Falls was next and last, and went down to defeat to the tune of 29 to 0—which gave Red Lake Falls the undisputed championship of the valley. The team loses three members this year, but other young men will enter school and it is thought that we will have a winning team again next season. The town people were proud of the eleven and gave them good support.

Excellent School System....

Probably no city in Minnesota has better managed or more successful public schools than Red Lake Falls, and in the reports of the state inspectors and others who have had reason to take notice of the work done by them, have reported Red Lake Falls as among the foremost cities in the state in regard to her high schools.

The school board for Independent District No. 15, is composed of a careful and capable set of men, and they have given the district such excellent service that their reelection year has attested year after year the approval of the public. The board is composed of the following gentlemen, all representative business men of the city: Frank E. Hunt, president; A. P. Toupin, clerk; Thomas Crompe, treasurer. Sam Allard, Theo. Garceau and H. Hennemuth.

Independent District No. 15 owns two school houses, the Washington school on the north side and the Lafeyette school on the south. The buildings are well furnished, and while not the finest structures, serve the purpose until such time as the district is financially able to build brick buildings.

Prof. E. W. Chamberlain, until this year in charge of the Pine City schools, is now superintendent, and his work has given the best of satisfaction since taking charge of the school here. He is energetic and wide awake, and is introducing many new and up-to-date methods in the schools. Prof. Chamberlain has already proven to be the right man for the place, and his work here will result in great benefit to the Red Lake Falls schools. The instructors of the two schools are all competent and doing good work in their respective capacities. They are as follows:

LAFEYETTE SCHOOL.

E. W. Chamberlain, superintendent—instructor of Latin and Chemistry.

Francis Tobin, principal—English and History.

Grace Iddings, assistant principal—Mathematics and Sciences.

Eliza Trudo—eight grade.

Alice Coughlin—sixth and seventh grades.

Ellen Brady—fourth and fifth grades.

Mrs. J. J. Doe—third and fourth grades.

Rose Frankovitz—second grade.

Daisy Veitz—primary.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL.

Leland Healy, principal—fifth and sixth grades.

Bertha Norby—third and fourth.

Pauline Neiland—second grade.

Henrietta Hennemuth—primary.

Like all other Red Lake Falls institutions, the schools are first-class and up-to-date, and prospective locators will find school opportunities here not excelled anywhere in state.

Plummer

A Lively Aspirant For Honors In Red Lake County

In the past year Red Lake county has secured three new towns by the advent of the Winnipeg line of the Minneapolis and Soo St. Marie railroad, and today the most important of these is Plummer, the new town on Section 9 in Emardville township, about fourteen miles from Red Lake Falls. Plummer was platted late in the past summer, but its growth has been very rapid and today nearly every line of business is represented there. The town is surrounded by a good farming country, and promises to become an important point in the county within a few years.

The following is a brief resume of the business institutions there.

First State Bank started business November 7, 1904. Its officers are, L. C. Simons, president; C. N. Bourdon, vice president and Henry J. Enderle, cashier. The bank has had a good business from the start, and is a solid institution.

Julius Pieth, formerly the St. Hilaire boomer, is townsite agent and has a real estate office there. Pieth is one of the greatest hustlers of the north country and Plummer will make rapid strides as a result of his booming.

H. H. Finrow, general merchandise Mr. Finrow is postmaster and was the pioneer merchant of Emardville. He is chairman of the town board, justice of the peace and an up-to-date business man who will figure conspicuously in Plummer development.

Robinson & Co,, general merchants, were the first to start a general store at the new townsite. They are enjoying a good business, and have a first-class establishment.

P. K. Olson ownes and conducts the "Welcome" saloon and restaurant, and there are few residents of any town who are more wide awake or active in their efforts for the welfare of his town than the same Pete. He has had a remarkabley successful business since opening up there, due to his pleasing personality and good business ability, and deserves all he gets. George Benson is in charge of his restaurant, and is a popular chef.

W. G. Brown and J. E. Buskirk are the pioneer contractors and builders and have put up every building at the new town except the railroad buildings. They also conduct a saloon which does a good business.

Hotel Scotland is owned and conducted by Erick Iverson, and is a popular hostlery.

Louis Seiff owns a large livery and feed stable, with Joseph Morisette in charge. Joe is a great rustler and is popular with the people there, and the barn is a money-maker for Mr. Seiff.

The Bovey-Schute Lumber company of Minneapolis have a yard there, with A. Airich in charge, and do a good business. It is stated that the Plummer yard has had the most business of any yard on the new Soo line.

E. Peterson conducts an up-to-date black smith shop.

Nels A. Nelson also owns and conducts a large blacksmith shop, and has one of the finest shops in the country.

J. A. Rothstien runs a first-class meat market, and also buys a great deal of stock for the city markets.

E. B. Lanager runs a hardware store. He has a complete new stock and is meeting with excellent success.

J M Reed is the furniture dealer, and also handles confectionery and cigars. Mr. Reed was formerly a conductor on the Great Northern between Crookston and Grand Forks and was one of the best know and liked men on the road. He retired last year and located at Plummer and has a very complete stock of goods, equal in every way to the stores in the larger towns. Mr. Reed is very popular at the new town, and enjoys a good business.

The Plummer Pioneer is conducted by Chas. T. Latta, a well-known newspaper boy, and it is making its influence felt in the good work of Plummer's development. Charley has recently erected a new building and has one of the prettiest country offices in the state. He is a good fellow, a thorough newspaper man, and will undoubtedly live to run an up-to-date daily newspaper in the city of Plummer. His friends hope, so at least.

The Thief River Falls Milling company have a large elevator at this point with Ole J. Johnson, of Wyandotte, in charge. Mr. Johnson is one of the most popular residents of that part of the county, and his success as manager of the new elevator has been phenomenal.

Olof Tande, a well-known Garnes resident, has charge of the Prairie elevator, and is doing a large amount of business.

The Emardville Creamery association are moving their creamery to Plummer and will enlarge it and make it one of the most modern in the Northwest. H. H. Finrow is president and Wm. Lauritzson buttermaker. They have purchased an acre of land on the river bank and will erect modern buildings.

Plummer expects to incorporate as a village within a few weeks, and as it has the right men behind it will take a new spurt and soon become a prominent factor in the valley.

THE HOLIDAY GAZETTE.

In presenting this number of the Gazette, the management takes pride in being able to issue an edition of this sort at this time and feels that it owes a great deal to the people of Red Lake Falls who have so loyally supported us in our effort to give them an up-to-date newspaper.

There are many features that could have been added to this adition, but from the fact that not a line of advertising was solicited until two weeks ago and nothing done on the paper prior to that time it has kept the force constantly on the jump night and day since to complete as much of the paper as we have. The people whom we approached responded liberally with advertisements and to them The Gazette is deeply indebted. An issue of this kind is not only an excellent advertisement for a newspaper but speaks well for a town—and we believe with due respect to the modesty features that a better advertisement or handsomer paper has never been sent out from any city.

The people of Red Lake Falls are loyal to their papers, and it is a pleasure to labor among them. Few towns have better advertisers or ones who patronize their home papers to a greater degree, and as a result the newspapers of Red Lake Falls compare favorably with those of towns ten times our size.

The Gazette desires to thank its patrons and readers for the support accorded during the last year, and trusts that it may be favored with a continuance of thesame, and promises to spare no effort to make this office and the paper credits to the city and her people.

A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year is the wish of the Gazette for its happy family of readers.

We often hear the remark that Christmas isn't what it was years ago, and at the same time hear the same person wonder why it is that the great change has come over a day that is held dear to the memory of every man and woman who ever enjoyed the blessing of a good home and fond parents on a Christmas day in years gone by. How often we hear the remark, "Christmas ain't what it used to be when I was a boy," and yet how often do those same people stop to reason why this has come to pass? In the first place did it ever occur to you that the present generation is rapidly losing sight of what the commemoration of the day we call Christmas is really intended for? With the characteristic rush of the business man of the present rapid times it is but a momentarily pause from worldly cares in which to eat, drink and make merry and at the same time to present gifts, often of little or no importance, to a hundred and one friends, more from a sense of duty than from a kindliness of heart which prompts us to endeavor to make the world brighter for our fellow men and at the same time remind them of the loving Christ in whose memory the day is kept. And then again how often we celebrate the event in our homes with much feasting and in many cases indulging in things which we would not even think of doing upon the Sabbath day, without even thinking of Him whom God gave to us "that whosoever believed in him would not perish but have everlasting life." And then there are the little children. If you ask the average child of today what the day means to him, he will almost invariably reply that "it is the day when Santa Claus brings him lots of presents;" and in very few cases will you find that the child is taught to connect the gift-giving of Santa with love of Him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." It is not because "Christmas isn't what it used to be," but because we of the present generation have allowed its real meaning to be submerged beneath the pagean festival features of the day rather than keeping uppermost in our minds and hearts the love and kindness of Him whose birth we commemorate. It is good that we are merry and make glad upon this day, but if we keep the spirit of the day with us you will find that Christmas is jus, what it used to be when you were a boy or girl.

Some Christmas Thoughts

✱✱✱✱

By "Nemo."

To you whose hearts are crushed with dumb sorrows that you cannot tell; to you whose burdens are heavy and chafing; to you whose way is narrow and dark; to you who are puzzled as to the meaning of life and your own existence; to you I write.

* * *

Be patient at this season of rest and diversion to ponder the words of a humble soul gazing upward to interpet to himself the lightning flash of unanimous thought that leaps from country to country at Christmas tide.

* * *

The Great and the wise-head are often wrong; while the humble and obscure serve to make and transmit the public opinion that gradually overthrows error. Note that the wise men were turned aside to Jerusalem while the simple shepards, patiently doing their wearisome duties by night, untroubled by the puzzling questions of the Magi, learned more than these about "peace and good-will."

* * *

Since their day each age has through its wisest tried to recreate and interpet anew the fragmentary career of the lowly man. They have darkened his counsel with words, they have smothered the breath of his purpose, they have tried to wall around the sea of his goodness, they have attempted to seal up and confine the sunshine of truth. But over against the limiters of light, must be set the heart of the common people, who, like the man born blind, cannot argue down sophristries and puzzle out intricate faiths, but can simply fall back upon the unanswerable demonstration of peace and good-will, "whereas I was blind now I see." Because he was so real a man, tempted like themselves, the great common heart has held fast to him through centuries. Have miracles escaped? It is a miracle that any of his plain teachings should still live; yet steadily the light has climed the mountain sides of perversion and now shines full strongly down into the valley of the shadow of death that we traverse.

* * *

Because then his friends were the lowly, his mourners the tainted and the bereft, his most faithful servants through all ages the outcasts and the obscure; because also this is the Peoples' Age, the age of democracy when the right to think and to learn is no longer denied to us by the lofty ones, may it not have come to pass that this time of all times most remote from the customs, the ideas that surrounded Jesus, is the best fitted after all to measure the length and breadth of the announcement of "peace and good-will" that has no longer remained echoless.

* * *

And what is he to us, we anxious burdened workers? Whatever else sectaries may discover in him, to this soul he seems to be "just one of us." We believe that his temptations were not theatric displays, that his sufferings were not feigned. We know what agony is, not less did he, in our case we can too often trace it back to a breach of law, but not so could he, and thus the greater poignancy in his sufferings. We do not lower him by thus thinking of him, but we raise ourselves to a higher, nobler humanity. Surely that was the work he came to do! Because he was a man, manhood is glorious; because he triumphed over evil, manhood is helped to trample temptation under foot, because he remained pure and undefiled, there is ever just before us an examplar to copy.

* * *

Through him we see that those who never understand that grandeur whose hearts never throb with noble purpose, whose power never rejoice to run the race of life, are those who look outward from within perpetually, as though the universe circuled for them alone. To such rapped up in self, whose soul needs much be saved though all others perish, willing to take but unwilling to give, dead though appearing to live; to all such his life gives rebuke. From him we learn a truth that the great world around is fast grasping; that he who gives most gets most; he is filled with good things and crowned with glory and honor imperishable, who scattereth all of good that he has. To breath such an atmosphere of spirit after groveling in agony as some of us do, afraid to live and yet more afraid to die, is to move from the air of the dungeon into the ecstacy of the mountain tops. Life lived in this way has infinite width to it; it is its own great reward, yet other rewards there be. It hushes the clamoring passions, it gives a man world citizenship; it enables him to see a kinsman in every fellow; it thills him even in obscurity with a sence of brotherhood to all the great souls of all the ages; it guides the hand upward into the Divine, and the narrow, darkened way broadens into a golden, shimmering spread of light up which to travel to the real center of things.

* * *

Whether avowed or not matters little, it is his spirit that thrills the years of the present century. Against the fatalism and materialism of Mahommed, against the selfishness, against the slavish worship of the past by the Confucians, we see a virile, agressive, hopeful force at work in every nation that has fallen under the influence of Jesus. Hide bound Judaism never emancipated the human mind, as his influence has done. The growing thoughfulness of man for man in his work; the spirit of Jesus is abroad to bring us all together in one as human beings with mutual obligations. He it is who makes us feel a kinship to the fallen woman and the fallen man; to the agonized and the children, for are they not all bearing the image of humanity, which he the great unselfish one, the friend of sinners, also bore?

* * *

Yet some of us are groping onward as if in a night-black passage. We glance bewildered at the events the danger, the pleasures of life, and then pass away forever without understanding our relation to it and our fellows. I can imagine the All-Father mourning over such wasted force, such profitless existance, when the key of life is already within the world and within our reach:—

"Emmanuel; God with us!"

Red Lake County---The Homeseekers' Mecca

John Howard Payne struck one of the deepest cords in the human heart when he wrote "Home Sweet Home" and awoke to find himself famons as the result of his simple, sweet lines penned in an hour of supreme loneliness.

The world over, where men think of independence and comfort they think of the land. The nearer a man gets to mother earth the surer he is of a life that has in it the elements of stability and peace. The writer once asked a man who had traveled widely on both continents how the general conditions of the middle class of people compared in Europe and America. His reply was that while the people in our cities appeared to prosper more highly than those of the same relative class in Earope and had an enjoyable freedom of action, nevertheless to those who knew the real status of matters, the truth is that both in Europe and the United States among the small merchants, the citizens and professional men—life is a constant and intense struggle with the larger share of energy devoted to maintaining a foothold or to use a Yankee expression, "keeping up appearances." Then he added, "I'll tell you where the marked difference comes in. You have a great territory here of cheap lands and it is the men who get on the lands and hold them—your farmers and homesteaders—who are the real kings of America. These men get not only a home, but with it the tremendous rise in valnes which is iaevitable in a new country."

If there is one desire more universally common to humanity than another, it is the wish to have a place that can be called home—a place that shall be their very own, set apart for their own special use and purpose, where they shall be sovereign and have acknowledged and undisputed ownership.

Nevertheless even in this land favored beyond all others in its privileges and possibilities there are many thousands—yes, millions—who do not even own the roof that shelters them. Nor is this their own fault.

To these multitudes of earnest workers and intelligent home seekers the question presses home daily: how can the laborer, the mechanic, the man who works for a small salary, who spends his energy in renting farms in older communities at high figures, or the small tradesman, ever hope to own that which they most desire unless they move to a more favored locality, where opportunities are greater and competition in their respective lines is less?

In all the older communities of the east as well as the central west all trades are overcrowded and existing avenues filled. The resources of those sections are fully developed and to the head of a growing family who has no "pull"—and it is only a few out of the many who have—the prospect of a pleasant home, independence in his declining years and a prosperous outlook for his children are so improbable, meagre and discouraging as to give rise in his mind to reflections as gloomy as they are unhealthy.

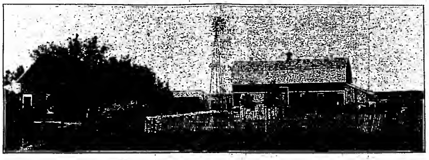
Recognizing that he lives in a land of freedom and of privilege, if he is made of the right kind of stuff he takes as a final resort counsel with hope and undaunted by the past, undismayed by the present he asks, "Is there yet left a place, a country where the development of a new empire, a uew region, will give to a coming generation a field for successful effort and where can be made for himself a home in his old age where life may find its sunset days full of a mellow glory, a benigaant peace and positive plenty; where the children—the boys and girls for whom he toils and in whose fntnre he lives—may, as they come to mature life with its activities, secure a footing that shall insure to them independence and comfort."

For such men the answer comes ringing back with promptuess and dispatch, "Yes there is such a place."

Minnesota as a state long since proved its splendid capacity for nourishing, sustaining and making happy the thousands which have during the past half century sought and found homes and business within its borders.

Think of its growth within that time! How eloquent are the figures! In 1850 the census reports show that there were 6,077 people and since that time there has been a steady onward flow, coming faster and faster, of people both from the older states of the union as well as from the countries of northern Europe, until the last census revealed the fact that within the limits of the North Star state there were 1,751,384 inhabitants. In 50 years the population has increased nearly 300 times. This army of home seekers have every reason to be satisfied, for nowhere on the face of the earth does a more genuine or more general prosperity prevail. No state in the union has attracted more attention by the practical value of its exhibit at the St. Louis exposition than Minnesota. The appellation there gained of "The Bread and Butter State" tells the whole story. It is in her magnificent grain fields and great herds of dairy cattle that the state finds increasing and immense wealth and its farmer's substantial incomes and growing bank acconnts. These, added to its vast forests of pine and hardwood, illimitable supplies of purest iron ore and other minerals combine to make it rich in not only acqnired present wealth bnt richer yet in latent and unknown resonrces which the coming years are sure to realize on.

But great as has beea the growth of the state during the last half century both in wealth and population, that growth has been most largely in the rich prairie districts of the state. It is there as yet that the heft of the people are.



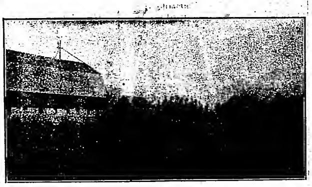
Home of Fred Behn, One Mile Southwest of Red Lake Falls.

Northern Minnesota.

But it is of Northern Minnesota we wish to speak. This section of the state is still thiuly populated, but now that the railroads are traversing it in every direction it offers unquestionably the best opportunities for the man who wants a home, health and happiness, of any portion of the United States today. This is said soberly and without fear of successful contradiction, that to the man without a "pull" but plenty of push—the man who wants to carve out a fortune of his own and has energy, courage and backbone (without these qualities a man isn't worth a fig to himself or anybody else in any country) can find here golden opportunities awaiting him. They will not wait long, for time and tide wait for no maa. But today they are here. They are for men who,

"Act in the living present,
Heart within and God o'er head."

They are for no one else. It is that men may know of them that this special issne is published at this time.



A Polk Center Farm.

The Red River Valley.

While all Northern Minnesota is teeming with life and prosperity and promise it is in the Red River Valley that the greatest possibilities both for the homeseeker and the investor exist—for it is here that vast stretches of agricultural lands still remain nndisturbed, only awaitiag the brawn and the brain, the will and muscle of the actual settler, to make them give forth wealth and comfort. These lands can be bought at low figures on easy terms.

This region is one of the most picturesqne and delightful in its natural characteristics, its variety of possibilities as well as substantial and sure in its every-day resources and opportunities to the every-day man, that can be found anywhere. Few counties can offer so many and varied resources. Men of all tastes and different trainings can here find somethiug to do—something which will give them practical returns—of both profit and pleasnre. As the Crookston Journal says, "the raw material for mannfacturers and the water power, primaeval forests, farming lands, fishing advantages, etc., with all that these include, taken together with the unusually favorable climatic conditions of a clear dry atmosphere and pure fresh air blowing from off the prairie through the woods and across the lakes, makes this region a veritible El Dorado."

This beautiful region has characteristics and resources which are common to it as a whole. In picturing it the writer has no desire whatever to make of it anything else than a part of old Mother Earth. Like every other conntry it has its limitations, but nevertheless, for the plain, common sense, resolnte American citizen who is willing to face life with nerve, industry and persistence, and who seeks a conntry where he may have a good fighting chance for the development of his own resources in helping to develop the resonrces of the country he seeks, it cannot be excelled. Nor is this a careless observation of our own. A gentleman from Iowa who has traveled widely and is a close observor, recently said in the Bemidji Pioneer: "We have travelled in every state in the union, as well as in many of the foreign conntries, and we have made the matter of opportnnities and desirable places for home making together with the productions of the country onr study. With all regard for the good qualities of "Mother Earth" as well as for the adversities of the same we beleive that this northwestern Minnesota affords the most rare opportunities for all classes of people than in any other new country in the civilized world." Such testimony as the above is coroborated by scores of experienced observers, who have within the past few years expressed themselves regarding this section to the writer.

Red Lake County.

Lyiag nearly in the center of Minnesota's Red River Valley is Red Lake conuty.

This is one of the newest, but richest counties in the Valley, and stands as one of the foremost in the matter of fertility of soil and raising of crops. The land is of the finest, and a great deal of beautiful unbrokon prairie yet remains.

Timber is found here and one finds a heavy forest, only to be introduced the next moment to a prairie opening, with splendid possibilities for the farmer, or some meadow on which many tons of hay may be raised.

The Soil.

The soil of Red Lake conuty varies from a light productive loam to a heavy clay. In many places it is deep and rich. It differs in different localities, but its productiveness whether mixed with much or little of the clay is simply a marvel to all who are acquainted with it. Farms this year on which wheat has been raised steadily for the past 20 years in the sonthern part of the county have yielded this year 15 bnshels to the acre and npwards. Those who have known the country longest are the ones who have an abiding faith in Red Lake conuty soil. Its peculiar location makes it particularly adapted to this northern climate. The laud in this region as a whole is a fertile, quick soil. The sub-soil is of a porns nature and loamy and the hard-pan found further sonth is missing. Situated in this Valley of which Red Lake county is a part is npon a high table land npon which are innnmerable streams, the soil is affected by the moisture and is thus enabled to stand a surprisingly long period of summer dronth withont any serious loss to growing crops. Parties coming here from the heavy clay soils in other sections speak of this fact with gladness and relief.

What Can Be Raised?

One has only to attend a Red Lake county fair to reverse the qnestion and ask, "What cannot be raised?" All kinds of small grains flourish here. Wheat and oats are staple crops. Bnt if anyoue thinks that our ability ends here they should have seen the splendid specimens of corn displayed at the conuty fair a few months ago. It is snrprising how rapidly and how largely farmers are going into corn raising. Timothy and clover can be successfully raised here and the amonnt sown increases each year.

Vegetables of all kinds thrive here surpassingly. They not only grow and matnre under the influence of sunlight and rain, soil and cultivation during the very long summer days, but they grow sweeter and better than they do in the heavier aad more soggy soils further south. There is no more comparison between a Red Lake county potato and an Iowa tuber—when it comes to taste and quality—than there is between a wooden nutmeg and the real article. This soil is pecnliarly adapted to potato raising and the day is not far distant when with the introduction of starch factories, Red Lake county farmers will reap great profits from the thousands of bushels of potatos they will harvest. Other vegetables grow and mature here finely.

There are many meadows of wild hay here and these are a great help to the settlers in the new parts of the county.

Red Lake conuty is the natural home of small fruits. Bushels of raspberries, blue berries and strawberries grew wild here this season and anyone who had the time at their command could get what they needed for their own nse within a few miles of their home.

The Climate.

If there is one thing that people are in error about concerning this section, it is in regard to the climate. Many folks further south and east

Eastman Kodaks

In home portraiture lies the most potent charm of picture taking. No matter how delighted one may have been with his views of Niagara, of the Flat Iron building and of the Grand Canal in Venice, they can never have for him the same fascination that attaches to the Kodak of Baby taking his first steps of Sister tucking Dolly into her tiny bed with motherly solicitude, or of Grandmother sitting at the window—her tender thoughts resting on days long gone by. Then there are pictures of the holiday season—the tree, the house party. And all of these are easy to make now. New methods and new apparatus have removed the old time difficulties. New methods have been found which make it easy for anyone to secure beautiful lighted and correctly timed portraits by the light of an ordinary window. Indeed, the perfecting of the Kodak system in its application to home picture taking has given photography a new use which touches closely the human interest—is helping the art make its way into the home life. And out of doors the Kodak has its sphere in Winter. To those with an eye for the beautiful there is quite as much worth picturing in the bleak days of Winter as in the softest summer scenes. The ice bound stream, the snow covered trees and weeds, the evening on a frosty morning, are quite as full of interest for the true photographic devotee as are the green fields and blue lakes of August. The Kodak is as much at home among the Christmas Holly as hanging from the shoulder of the tourist. We have a complete assortment of these greatest of all Kodaks. You can find one to suit you and you can pay from $1.00 to $20.00 and be sure of getting your money's worth.

Merchants State Bank

The Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls is a strictly home institution, capitalized at $15,000, with a surplus of $5,000. The officers are as follows: President, A. P. Toupin; vice president, Theo. LaBissoniere; cashier, J. A. Duffy; assistant cashier, P. F. Pouliot. The directors are A. P. Toupin, Theo. LaBissoniere, J. A. Duffy, P. F. Pouliot, Samuel Gilcan, Joseph Perrault and L. A. Kanfer. The bank was organized in 1899, and has enjoyed a rapid and healthy growth from the start. The last report shows total resources of nearly $100,000, an increase of about $18,000 during the year. The bank is rapidly forging to the front, and is destined to become one of the leading financial institutions in this section of the state.

Among the stockholders, besides the officers and directors, are Chas. N. Bourdon, president of the Bank of Wylie; Hon. Marcus Johnson, president Red Lake Falls Milling company; James E. Ford, county auditor, and R. H. Bourdon. All of these men are identified with the business interests of Red Lake Falls.

This bank transacts a general banking business, makes a specialty of loans on real estate, and writes fire insurance in old line companies. The gentlemen in charge of its affairs are careful and conservative business men and successful bankers, enjoying the confidence of the general public to a high degree. Some of the most substantial and enterprising business men of the city are stockholders and directors.

The bank owns its banking house, a two-story brick structure, conveniently arranged and well furnished. They have a fine double time-lock Diebold safe and a well-built fireproof vault to protect the money, books and papers from danger. They aim to extend to their customers every favor consistent with safe banking and invite your patronage.

The Big Store.

Red Lake Falls takes great pride in her general stores, and especially in the mammoth stocks contained in all of them. The most striking evidence of prosperity and increasing business is found at the Big Store, owned and personally superintended by Theo. LaBissoniere, a young man who has grown up in Red Lake Falls, and forged his way to the fore-front of the mercantile world by sheer industry and perseverance, since he started in business ten years ago with only a few hundred dollars of capital. Today he owns a magnificent double store building and a stock of goods that is not excelled anywhere in the Red River valley.

There is always a reason for success in merchandising. The so-called element of "luck" enters not at all. A merchant must, above all, be versed in every detail of his business, and know what the people want and how to sell the goods. Mr. LaBissoniere is considered a shrewd buyer and an affable, reliable salesman. He also possesses that valuable instinct for selecting capable clerks.

The Big Store is just now replete with holiday bargains, and it will pay our readers to call and investigate.

J. B. Cigar Co.

During the past year the J. B. Cigar company has enjoyed a most satisfactory business. Four cigarmakers are constantly employed and the splendid reputation of Red Lake Falls cigars is justly earned.

The owner of the company is Arthur LaPlante, who has had long experience in the business, and by close application to business and up-to-date methods he has won the confidence of the people of this section.

The J. B. Cigar company has a fine line of cigars for the Christmas trade. Many of their brands are put up in boxes of 25, which make most appropriate presents for your gentlemen friends.

The Crookston College secures good positions for all its graduates. Send for catalog.

Dairying In Red Lake County....

Located within the confines of Red Lake county are no less than ten up-to-date creameries and cheese factories. The development of the dairy and creamery interests has been rapid during the last few years and to day no product is making a better showing than the dairy cow, as represented in the creamery interest.

The making of butter and cheese has stimulated the trade and raised the price, while the co-operative means employed have lessened the cost of manufacture, increasing the profits to the producer. There is no limit to the demand for good butter and cheese and as a consequence, the price has averaged high which in turn encouraged the farmer to increase his dairy herd, advancing the value of dairy cows to a higher figure.

The advance in value of the cow and her product have necessitated better care and better feed. The old straw sheds have given way to commodious barns and a study has been made of what foods are best adapted for stimulating the flow of milk and what foods are productive of the greatest amount of butter fat.

The milk as brought in by the farmers is tested for its fatty substance, and the credit is according. The richest milk scores the best credit and the greatest profit. Naturally this leads to a weeding out of the scrub thin-milk cows. The increase in stock in the vicinity of Red Lake Falls has been marked since the advent of the creamery. Having a profitable market for the milk, there has been a move to secure more cows, and stock raising has been encouraged as a result. One good thing always leads to another and it is so with the Red Lake Falls creamery. If it is the means of encouraging stock-raising, this one item alone is one of great ultimate benefit to the farmers of this vicinity.

The success of the Red Lake Falls concern is another pointer as to how easily good things can be accomplished if the right spirit but enters into the effort. Someone to push was all that was needed here and the rest came easily. It has been so in other precincts in Red Lake county. There ought to be at least one cheese factory or creamery in every township of Red Lake county. There are today six cheese factories and five creameries in the county, all but one having been established during the past three years. These are located as follows:

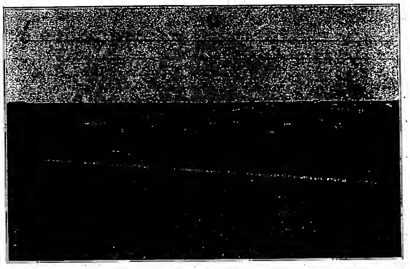
CREAMERIES

Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire, Huot, Emardvlle.

CHEESE FACTORIES

Lambert, Poplar River, Terrebonne, Garnes, Equality Wylle.

Red Lake county leads every other county in Northern Minnesota in extent of her dairy interests. No more significant fact or one of greater importance to homeseekers could be cited. The towering prosperity of Red Lake county is due largely to the diversity of resources. Lumber, wheat, flour, dairying and stock-raising all combine to make this a wealth producing section equaled by few other counties in the country.



A Familiar Scene In Red Lake County.

For Christmas Shoppers

The merchants of Red Lake Falls have good reason to pride themselves on the stocks of goods always carried, but it is at such times as these when the attention of the holiday shopper is attracted by a display of seasonable merchandise artistically set forth in the local stores.

A merely superficial inspection will explain why Red Lake Falls will become the shopping headquarters for the entire county, but especially for the Holiday Trade.

The buying of Christmas presents has been reduced by many to a science. But it is a hard enough task at the best, even where the dazzling array of goods of all descriptions and prices as seen in the Red Lake Falls stores, comes to one's aid. Few cities in Northern Minnesota have finer stores than Red Lake Falls. On the other hand, in point of complete stocks and elegantly appointed places of business, we lead, except in a few instances, in cities of perhaps four or five times our population.

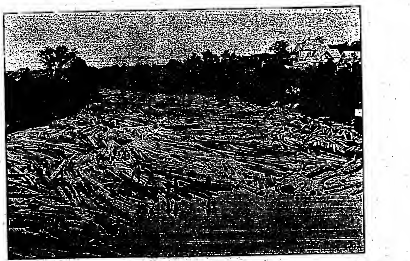
And when it comes to holiday goods—it will pay the shopper to travel many miles to see the dazzling array presented here.

The individuality of the merchant manifests itself in the selections he offers his customers. At one store it is this novelty, at another that. In fact anything and everything the buyer wants seems to be here.

Come to Red Lake Falls for your holiday goods, and you make no mistake.

Frank E. Hunt.

Frank E. Hunt's business career in Red Lake Falls is intricately connected with the history of the city from its very birth, Mr. Hunt coming here in 1878 and opening one of the first business enterprises. Fortune has favored him. He has from the first been one of the leaders in public affairs, and has been eminently successful in a financial way, owning the magnificent brick, steam heated, electric lighted block in which his hardware store is located, and conducting one of the most extensive hardware businesses north of the Twin Cities. He is ably assisted in the business by his son, Sam, who takes an active part in the management. Besides his hardware interests, Mr. Hunt is extensively interested in real estate, owning much city property and many valuable farms. His residence on Bottineau Ave is one of the largest and most modern in the city.



A 1904 Log Driving Scene On The Clearwater

Terrebonne.

One of the interesting Red Lake county points is Terrebonne, a pretty village nestling on the banks of the Clearwater River, located ten miles southeast of Red Lake Falls. Terrebonne has one of the best water powers in the county, and Kankel & Zeigler run a fine 100 barrel flour mill there, and all lines of business are well represented. St. Anthony's church edifice with Rev. Father Tapin presiding is one of the finest in the county. Terrebonne is one of the prettiest little places one would care to visit and the inhabitants are a hospitable and social lot of people.

O'Brien Bros.

O'Brien Bros., general hardware, stoves, ranges, tinware, bicycles, sporting-goods, sewing machines, also a complete tinshop, doing all kinds of repair work. This firm also conducts a large hardware store at Crookston. The firm is composed of W. P. O'Brien, J. E. O'Brien, and J. W. O'Brien. W. P. O'Brien is the local manager. The firm has one of the best arranged stores in Northern Minnesota, which is well stocked with the best quality of goods. They bear a high reputation for correct business methods and honorable dealings, and have by this means established a large trade. W. P. O'Brien is a shrewd, careful and popular business man ready to put his shoulder to the wheel in all public enterprises.

entertain the idea that northern Minnesota is a severely cold country—judged by the fall in the temperature it is—but do you know that is a very poor way to judge a climate? Now, nobody—at least not one who has spent more than a dozen winters in Red Lake county—is going to deny that the Minnesota winters are long and cold, for they are. But compared with the zero weather on the coast of Maine with the prevailing damp winds from the Atlantic or the changeable winter weather in Illinois or Iowa, where the damp winds chill you cruelly, the winter weather is delightful. It is cold, clear, still and dry and there is scarcely a day when one doesn't drink in Minnesota ozone with pleasure and keep right about his outdoor work. If the winter season is long, people get ready for it. Their houses are warm, their clothing ample, and so there is not nearly as much suffering from cold, as in warmer countries where cold, bleak days are unexpected. Spring opens here usually in April and the ground seldom freezes up until the latter part of November—so that ample time is found to plant, mature and harvest the crops. For health, this region is one of the favored spots of earth. Such diseases as malarial fevers, hay fever, consumption and asthma are not known here

No place in the world affords better facilities or greater natural opportunitie for a delightful outing than this very county of Red Lake. The weak, the tired, the invalid, those who for any cause have found life too strenuous and wish to hie themselves away to a land where they can recuperate, make tired nerves strong, pale cheeks rosy, flabby muscles hard, and find that invigoration again which makes life worth living, should locate here.

A Day's Hunt in the Red Lake Country.

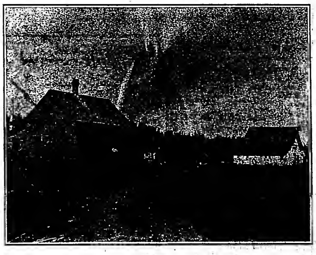
It is in this lake and forest country that out-door life gives the greatest zest and pleasure. It is here that delightful rest can be taken, that the choicest kind of fish can be obtained from the rivers, that hunting in season is quite sure to be rewarded in bringing down a deer, bear or other wild game.

Other Advantages.

Red Lake county has several advantages which count for a great deal to the man who wants to make a home for himself and his family. In addition to the healthfulness of the climate, the pure water, productive soil, high grade of intelligence and morals amongst its people, good school and church privileges, and all those accessions of a civilized community, it offers first of all

Cheap Lands.

This is the most important and conspicuous factor in the local situation. The men living in southern Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin, as well as further east, who are accustomed to farm lands ranging in price from $50 to $200 an acre, are surprised when they reach this county—and they are coming on every train—to find wild lands that can be obtained at prices ranging from $6 to $15 an acre, while improved farms adjacent to thriving villages can be bought at from $15 to $35 per acre. These wild lands can be bought on easy payments and only need industry and persistence to convert them into beautiful country homes, where, under the shelter of his own grove and as a result of the crops planted on his own acres and the herds and flocks raised thereon, any man can possess with the passing years an independence and solid comfort which will stamp him as one of the kings of the earth. What man cannot rejoice at such an opportunity to lead a strenuous life, knowing as a moral certainty that amid such environments his fireside may be secure from the perplexities which confront the thousands who live in the crowded centers without homes and without hope—his abiding place, one of earth's paradises. No man can have the right relation to life—to the things and the people about him—who isn't in some very definite way tied down to some particular piece of ground. Ownership in land is one of the first conditions to sure and lasting success. The thousands are everywhere recognizing this. They are looking for land—land at prices which they can meet. It is to these men that Red Lake county gives cordial welcome and reaches out inviting hands toward. The Gazette is so sanguine of the results of careful investigation of Red Lake county's opportunities in cheap lands that it importunes every intending settler, who is seeking a home in the newer west, to come to Red Lake Falls or any point in the county and look over the situation for himself. It has no fear of any comparison that may be made with any other region. The investigator will find what he wants and become a settler and in the years to come his children will rise up and call him blessed as they comment on his sagacity and contemplate the steady rise in farm values sure to appreciate. There are both wild and improved farms for sale, and either can be had at prices so low and terms so easy that in five years time they will seem strangely cheap. That has been true in every new country; this is no exception to the rule.



But cheap lands are not the only advantage. They multiply as one dwells on them.

Cheap Fuel.

One has only to live in the prairie districts south to realize the value of fuel. In such sections the cost of keeping a family comfortably warm during the cold season is by no means small. In fact it taxes many a man's ingenuity to pay the coal bill. It is quite a contrast with conditions as they exist in Red Lake county. Here, any man who is able to handle an axe and has the time to do it, can get plenty of wood to burn for the cutting of it, and every settler has wood enough on his place—or else has a wood lot—so that his fuel bill is all summed up in labor. If he has much wood he can sell it in the towns at prices that will pay him for his work.

Stock Raising.

Now here is where many have a misconception. They have been accustomed to consider this merely a wheat-raising section. No greater misapprehension of the real resources of this county was conceived. True it is that grain is a success here. But it will be proved by the rapidly maturing logic of events that this country—these thousands of unimproved acres in Red Lake county—are peculiarly adapted to stock raising and that the very best thing that the farmer can pay his attention to if he wants to make money, and build up his land values, is the dairy. In order to accept this statement as within the bounds of truth and reason one has only to look at the facts in the case. If there are long winters it is equally true that stock here finds ample and safe protection. There is plenty of timber with which to build barns and sheds and in the groves the cattle find shelter from the cold and winds. These are not unimportant features. To be able to build stabling at a very small cost means a good deal to the new settler. When you couple with this water in abundance everywhere and that of as pure and fine quality as can be found anywhere, the chance for keeping cattle comfortably from day to day can readily be seen. Last, but by no means least, is the factor of grasses. In a large section of the county wild grasses grow abundantly and the last half dozen years have demonstrated beyond cavil that tame grasses thrive here. Add to this the raising of corn fodder—both of which do well—and plenty of food at low cost is obtained. The grasses of this section are specially nutritious and nowhere do butter makers produce a finer quality of butter. Few countries are better adapted to sheep raising. During the past few years quite a number of farmers here have gone into sheep raising and they all tell the same story: "We are doing well and propose to continue on this line as we are sure we've got a good thing." There is room for many more on these same lines.

A RAMBLE IN CHRISTMAS PASTURES

My Dear Brother:

Your letter of some days ago, requesting something for your holiday number, was duly received. I note that you say you intend to give an anxiously awaiting world "something good" in the holiday edition line, or words to that effect, and when I consider where you are searching for material to fill its columns, I shudder to think of the infliction your readers are to receive along in the outposts of the gladsome Yuletide.

Realizing that the primary object of all "special editions," great and small, is the garnering of a little extra harvest of the open sesame to "society," or, per contra to peace, happiness and contentment—I wish you well; for, speaking from the harrowing experience of a past not too far distant to sometimes haunt me like a nightmare, I may say that the desert of the average country newspaper man's life is sprinkled with none too many oases like these. And so I hope your patrons may respond handsomely, and while largely benefiting themselves, assisting to bring before the public elsewhere the advantages of their northern country, they may perhaps add something to the "Merry Christmas" of the fellow who works diligently three hundred and sixty-five days of the year (Sundays and holidays not excepted) to assist in the material growth and prosperity of his town and country—the humble newspaper man. And it is a fact indisputable that a large, carefully prepared and well printed special edition—such as I know the holiday Gazette will be—is a wonderfully effective advertisement and productive of immense good to the community as a whole.

But in assigning one a place on honorary editorial staff, he should at least be given a subject. This I am denied, and like it was betimes in the "little old red school house"—in this instance a purely imaginative structure as you know—on composition days, am left to pick mine own subject and forthwith produce an essay as a space-filler merely. So let us consider: The essayists and newspaper writers have been following the illustrious example of our strenuous president in the themeing of his themes, and perhaps I could not do better—modest, eh!—than to follow also. We had "Race Suicide" ad nauseam; this topic was well enough for a man with a fifty-thousand-a-year salary—but I have sometimes wondered what his wife thinks about it! Too many of we lords of creation dispose of such momentous subjects off-hand and to our own satisfaction, without consulting the silent (sic!) partner of our joys and sorrows—the frailer one who must bear the labors and travails of it all—forgetting in the music of our own profound logic as it ripples from our lips, the fact that

> "* * * There's not a blessing or a woe,
> There's not a whispered yes or no,
> There's not a life or death or birth
> That has a feather's weight of worth
> Without a woman in it"— and in this particular instance the woman is entitled to first consideration. If the rich man or the Sultan of Turkey wishes a large and ever-increasing family—well, let him arrange the matter as, or if, he may; but for the poor cuss with rent to pay and fuel to buy and clothes to provide and the gas man to interview, and all on $16.75 per week (union scale), the visits of the stork will be preferably like those of angels, "few and far between." I render all due respect to our honoured president and his opinions—"but as for me" (to quote Patrick Henry) I feel that it is well to "let well enough alone" (to quote Marcus Hanna) and let posterity look out for itself. Perhaps the race would be a deal sight better off if much of it were allowed to "suicide" on the front side of eternity. Another thing our president discussed was an excellent White House dinner in company with Booker Washington—and the conceited bigots who are still making such a howl about it—many of them—every day partake of grub prepared by black hands and consider it eminently "pro-pah," of course. There may be a question of "ethics" in this, but there is a higher one of damphoolishness.

But the question of "Good Citizenship," which has received so much public consideration at the hands of President Roosevelt, is one that vitally concerns every loyal American citizen, and at Christmas time, when the heart is mellow and the spirit of good will to man is—supposedly—universal, the subject might well be considered with a search, each into his own life, to see if the elements of good citizenship are there—or being there, are allowed to govern his conduct in every day life. Most of us, alas! might read upon our soul in letters of fire the dread handwriting of old, "Mene, mene, tekel upharsen."

The man who blindly follows partisan bell-wethers for the sake of the ding-dong of a party name is not a good citizen. In this connection, I might cast a bouquet homeward by confessing to my stalwart republican brother that I proved my good citizenship in this one respect at the late election by casting, for the first time in my life, a straight democratic state ballot—were I not afraid it would shock some of his supersensitive constituents. Where rottenness exists, it is the duty of the good citizen, regardless of party affiliations, to cast aside the collar and vote the rascals out—and I may say in extenuation that such a condition does undoubtedly exist in this municipality, and as I believe, more generally, in "shelter to monoply." The man who allows religious bigotry to interfere with absolute fairness to his fellow man is no more a good citizen than the political bigot. The man who dwarfs sentiment, compassion, and all the finer sensibilities—and he who does so in even the smallest measure—in the scramble for the almighty dollar, is not a good citizen. With such an one the question is not, "What is his character?" or "What his mental or moral attainments?" but, "What's he got?" I would sooner be defrauded by a whole-souled, good natured rascal with a cheery smile and a roll of creditors as long as the muster of the saints, than to have a minor business transaction with a hard-featured, calculating-minded, cold-blooded two-legged snake with no thought save that of money—money—money. Perhaps neither is the ideal of a good citizen, but the first is nearer to it than the last. The man who plays the tyrant with his wife and babies is not a good citizen—though he may be a pillar of the church; watch him. The man who robs the public under the beneficent patronage of our governmental laws and is enabled thereby to endow universities or build libraries is not a good citizen—and neither is the man who allows him to do it, be he ever so honest and well meaning. The man who uses his individual or united power to compel others to submit to unreasonable demands, and where this fails resorts to violence, is not a good citizen. There is a good citizen, however—an ideal one—and it is doubtless true that the average American endeavors to be such according to his lights. The trouble is that too many of us do not seem to realize that the day of the tallow dip is past, and our light is not what it should be or what we might easily make it.

Happily we have for our chief executive a man who not only preaches the doctrine of good citizenship, but seems determined to teach it by practical example both in private and public life. In the cause of everyday existence, perhaps the rule of good conduct and right living—the two things which make most for good citizenship—might best be followed if in our dealings with our fellows we choose for our counsellor and guide the greatest of the three graces. It is not a bad Christmas thought at any rate—charity. Charity and mercy are closely akin, and of the last Shakespear's Portia tells us, in the beautiful speech which has been called "one of the finest specimens of sweet, flowing and rhythmic eloquence in all literature"—

> "The quality of mercy is not strain'd;
> It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
> Upon the place beneath; it is twice blessed;
> It blesses him that gives, and him that takes;
> 'Tis mightiest in the mightiest; it becomes
> The throned monarch better than his crown;
> His scepter shows the force of temporal power,
> The attribute to awe and majesty,
> Wherein doth sit the dread and fear of kings;
> But mercy is above this sceptered sway,
> It is enthroned in the hearts of kings,
> It is an attribute to God himself;
> And earthly power doth then show likest God's
> When mercy seasons justice. * * *
> In the course of justice none of us
> Should see salvation; we do pray for mercy;
> And that same prayer doth teach us all to render
> The deeds of mercy. * * *

A merry Christmas to you, and likewise to be original, a happy New Year! Hackneyed phrases, these, but what good-cheer they do contain!

Your little brother,
O. McC. Haislet.

Red Lake Falls' Water Power

The natural water power furnished by the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers at this point has been well described as second largest in the Northwest. The famous falls of St. Anthony can scarcely eclipse the power capable of being furnished by the natural combined woter power on the two rivers within a total distance of two miles. Experts have estimated the total possibilities of these water powers, when developed to their highest, at 30,000 horse power.

Now, what of it?

Every day that posses demonstrates the growing importance of water power. Eoch stoge of the world's development produced its varied conditions upon which depended the growth of lorge cities. There was an age of religious imimport, when the religious capitals of the Jews, the Romans and the Vandals, attracted to themselves the wealth of immense districts and enormous populotion; there wos the age of military import, when these cities furnishing the hest odvantages for defense and assault assumed growth, population and prestige; the age before steam hod revolutionized means of transportation, when the water courses alone were dotted with growing ond important cities; then came the age of steam, when the city thot could reach out its iron arms the farthest and in most varid directions, gathered to itself the wealth of its territory—and now we have the age of electricity, and water power is its natural adjunct and prime factor of production. Water power, under favorable conditions, is the cheapest generative power, nature's own offering to man—and today the utility of a water power can be multiplied indefinately by applying it to the generation of electricity, which can be transmitted for miles with but small loss. The value of a water power is dependant largely upon whether the supply of water is uniform and permanent. This point must always be looked iato, and here is where Red Lake Falls has an immense advantage.

Red Lake, one of the largest bodies of fresh water wholly within the United States, with an area of 400 square miles, stands as a guarantee and guardian of the permanence of our water power. Into Red Lake is drained the immense volume of water from a rodius of territory of over 5,000 square miles, and while Red Lake lasts our water power losts. Where is there a clearer exposition of permanance and stability? How does the supply of Minneapolis, St. Anthony's compare with this? A mere pigmy heside a giant. Irrefutably, grandly, nohly, the greot Red Lokes will continue to stand os sponsors for Red Lake Falls' water power. W. G. Ferris, shortly after his name had hecome world famed, expressed the helief thot the great cities of the future were those that could furnish the best water power. It seems his forecast is fast heing verified. The wonderful achievement in the harnessing of the power of Niagara has turned the attention of the engineers of the world to the consideration of water power as never before, and not unreasonahly, in the light of these facts, does Red Lake Falls point to the avenues of greatness opened hy the possession of the finest water power in the northwest. To enumerate—there are within a radius of one mile from the center of the city twelve separate and distinct water powers that can he cheaply and easily utilized, three of these already developed, furnishing upwards of 7,000 horse-power, and turning the wheels of flour mills that produce 1,500 harrels of flour daily, and much of the power thus generated going to waste, waiting to turn the wheels of varied allied industries. Too much stress cannot he laid on the subject, since the trend of modern events has, like an upward spiral movement, forced the advantages of water power into conspicuous notice. In referring to the influence of water power in building up cities, among other things W. G. Ferris, the famous electrician said:

"Undouhtedly the greatest practical progress of the near future will he comprised within the expansion of the use of electricity and compressed air. Indeed I am persuaded that modern life will he ahsolutely revolutionized, so far as its practical, every day, work is concerned, within the coming ten years and electricity will largely accomplish it. So far as practical use is concerned I should say that we had merely hegun to use electrical power.

"The condition which will determine the relative expansion of towns and cities within the next decade is the presence of water power. The whole problem of electricity is one of cheop generation. Now, any city or town of this country which hos got a water foll within an availoble distance, and that fall is a large one, hos a gold mine. Water power means the minimum of cheapness in the generation of electric power. You can easily see, therefore, that any city which possesses this must take the lead over any city that does not.

"Buffalo, for exomple, will absolutely douhle its population within five or ten years, because there the capacity of the water power is, to all extents and purposes, limitless. The same thing to a greater or less extent will take place in St. Paul, Minneapolis; in Rochester, Great Falls, Mont., Red Lake Falls, Minn., and other points where great water power exists. Even ahout New York there are numerous waterfalls within working distance which I look to see made availahle for that city."

St. Joseph's Church...

One of the largest Catholic congregations in the northern part of the state, is that which attends St. Joseph's church in Red Lake Falls, and no where can be found a congregation in better shape financially or prouder of their church and property.

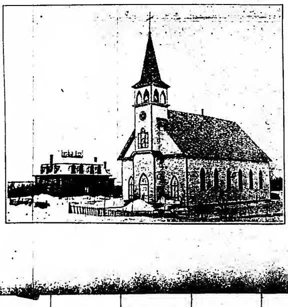
Rev. Father E. Fayolle, one of the finest of nature's nobleman, has had charge of the church here for the past several years, and more to his efforts than anything else can be attributed the great success that has been made of the work here.

St. Joseph's people have a large block in the heart of the city and own their own church edifice, a well-built and excellent improved structure, the parsonage, a pretty home near the church, and St Joseph's parochial school, a handsome $8000 hrick building erected nearly two years ago. All the furnishings of the church are very nice, and people take pride in claiming St. Joseph's as their church home.

The congregation is composed of a a great many farmers and their families, as well as numerous town people, and they have all heen liberal in the support of their church. Several needed improvements have been made within the last year or two, amoog them being the installation of a furnace and the addition of a vestry, which makes the edifice modern in all respects.

The people of the city are proud of St. Joseph's church and its popular pastor, and realize that it has done much to attract prospective settlers to this community.

The richer a man gets the more careful he should be to keep his head level.



As We See Ourselves

By MARIE CORELLI.

It has recently been said that we are continually arraigning ourselves at our own bar to answer charges which we make against ourselves.

There seems never to be an end to our introspection, to our self-questioning as to our mode of life and methods of treating our bodies.

When we are not worrying as to whether we sleep too much or too little, we are fidgetting over the amount of food we take, or the quantity of exercise really required to keep us in good health.

Then we speculate about our allowance of fresh air, our holidays, our recreations, the quality and quantity of our literary pabulum, in short, we never give ourselves a moment's peace, and now, very appropriately, the latest questions we are asking are, "Do we worry too much?" and "Is our sense of humor declining?"

There can he but one reply to both these questions. It must emphatically be answered in the affirmative.

In the good old days people cared for none of these problems. They accepted themselves and others for what they were. They ate, drank, slept, as nature prompted them; sought such recreation as pleased them, and never gave a thought to their internal economy, or their mental halance, or were morbidly inquisitive about their degeneracy. Undoubtedly they were healthier in mind and body for their sublime indifference, and if we asked ourselves fewer questions and discussed ourselves less, we should have more time and inclination to cultivate a sense of humor, and less time to analyze or imagine ailments.

One really longs to shout aloud that one cares naught whether it is best to go breakfastless or hatless, to take a holiday or to sleep eight hours. A wild desire to be let alone and to be allowed to take one's chance is gaining possession of us, and as most things right themselves in good time, one finds consolation in the hope that ere long we shall snap our fingers at all these problems, and go hack to the delightfully quiet and comfortable indifference of our forbears.

When you lie, let it be down to pleasant dreams; when you steal, let it he away from immortal associates; when you drink, let it he pure water; when you swear, let it he that you will patronize your home paper, pay your subscription and not send your jobwork away from home.

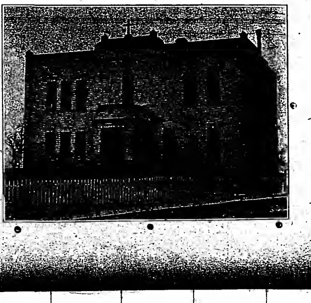
St. Joseph's School...

One of the newest, yet most successful of the Red Lake Falls enterprises is St. Joseph's Parochial school, a beautiful brick structure huilt by the congregation of St. Joseph's church two years ago at a cost of nearly $8000. Since its establishment the school has heen very successful, and today nearly 300 scholars are enrolled there. The work given there is exactly the same as in the public schools, and as a tribute to the enterprise of its teachers and the Rev. Father Fayolle it can he said that it was the only sectarian school in the great state of Minnesota to write the regular state examinations last year. The work at St. Joseph's has been of great henefit to the school system of Red Lake Falls, as when the scholars finish the grade work there they are fitted to enter the high school and complete the work of the higher branches, and the establishment of the parochial school along such liberol lines eased the school situation perceptibly.

Besides the regular grade work, French, German and other languages are taught, and a most excellent music instructor has charge of the music work at the school.

The scholars attending are found to he from families of all denominations and their studies at the new school have proved very profitable.

This is another of the institutions Red Lake Falls people have reason to feel proud of, and by a few moments conversation with any of the citizens one can easily satisfy himself that they are.



CHINESE LADY'S VIEW

DR. YAMEI KIN SPEAKS ON PRESENT WAR IN THE EAST.

Says Japan Has Much to Learn from Her People—First Chinese Woman to Graduate from American School of Medicine.

Quite as oriental as her costume was the speech given before the League of Political Education in the Berkeley Lyceum in New York city the other morning by Dr. Yamei Kin, the first Chinese woman graduated from a school of medicine in this country.

Her subject was "A Chinese Woman's View of the Present War in the East," which she delivered in pure English without a trace of accent. Though she declared that her sympathies were with Japan, her loyalty to the mother country appeared in her judgment of the Japs. Her gentle manner, assisted by the soft yet decisive tones of her voice, created a Chinese atmosphere that her audience seemed pleased to acknowledge and honor by the warmth of their applause. Speaking of the motives of the present war, Dr. Yamei Kin said:

"The Japanese will tell you that they entered this war from purely altruistic motives, and I honestly believe some of them think it. They say it is for the good of Asia to keep out the western peoples, for Japan resents any western spirit. But I know their faults, and I can see back of this fighting the same selfish motives that brought on the war with China. Japan has a large fighting class, the Samurai, who depend upon warfare for their living, and to keep them from rebellion in their own land, as well as to strengthen their loyalty to their country and make the nation more of a unit the government is glad to see them fighting with Russia.

"But I doubt when the war is over, when Japan has weakened her military strength and expended her energy, whether the European nations will allow her to keep what she has gained through bloodshed and by glorious victories.

"Then will be the time when her old friend China will come to her assistance, and after having taught her higher ethics and the better principles of religion, she will have yet another lesson to instruct her in, and that is honorable commercialism.

"China is the backbone of the Asiatic countries. And her strength lies in her great middle class, from which her aristocrats are taken. She is superior to European countries in that she is not burdened with a degenerate body of aristocracy. The strength of the English and with you Americans lies in your large middle class, with the artisans. You Americans have no aristocrats, but within the last few years you have developed a body of plutocrats.

"You great western people, what are you trying to do? Because you are so successful do you think that by your great strength you can cast us all in your mould. Where you have started you have only given us your vices. Can't you give us something better?"

WORKED ON ROAD 41 YEARS

Maryland Man Began Railroading Before Locomotives Were Introduced in His State.

Christian Smith, whose death at his home in Washington county, Md., is reported, had the distinction of having been connected with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad continuously for 41 years. Back in 1832, at the age of 20 years, he engaged service with the Baltimore & Ohio as teamster to drive its trains, then propelled by horse power, between Plane No. 4 and Frederick, Md., a distance of 15 miles. The team consisted of three horses, driven tandem. As the burden cars become heavier he was given four horses, arranged in pairs, and later six horses were required. By a series of inclined planes the grades were overcome. From driver Mr. Smith became a brakeman, and when the railroad adopted the steam engine to supplant horses he was promoted to fireman on the Andrew Jackson, and later was placed in charge as engineman of John Quincy Adams. He was division supervisor of engines when he quit the service of the Baltimore & Ohio in 1873 and returned to the peaceful occupation of his boyhood days on a farm.

Discover Ancient Globe.

In the attic of a farmhouse at Ruedlingen, Switzerland, a globe has been found which was constructed by the celebrated astronomer, William Janszon Blien, a collaborator of Tycho Brake. This globe, which is about 9½ inches in diameter, was made in 1602, as is proved by its date and the inscription on it. Geographers and those who study the history of geography must regard the relic reverently.

Condition vs. Theory.

That woman who declared she did not want a conditional divorce from a man who beat her once a week may serve to show the attitude of a person when it is a condition rather than a theory that confronts him or her.

Cooks Are Necessary.

The Pittsburg educator tells us cooks are paid more than teachers. Oh, well, says the New York Telegram, one must eat, while, on the other hand, at a pinch a man can make his mark to a contract involving millions.

BAD TEETH, BAD SOLDIERS

British Recruits Must Hereafter Deposit at Least $15 for Dental Work.

Deficient teeth are not in the future to prevent enlistment in the British army of other wise suitable recruits. Would-be soldiers found suffering from decayed teeth must, however, be prepared to put down a sum not to exceed $16 towards the expense of fitting them with artificial teeth.

These facts are set forth in a circular by the secretary of the army council. Similarly afflicted men who would be otherwise discharged from the army as unfit for further service, owing to the state of their teeth, are to be retained on the equivalent condition that the sum to be paid the dentist is to be taken out of their pay.

The British Medical Journal, in commenting on this order, says it is a step in the right direction. The Napoleonic dictum that an army marches on its stomach has been so long admitted as a military axiom that it seems strange than only now has effect been given to it.

It is the South African war which has largely contributed to make the reform acceptable, a glaring light having then been thrown upon the losses which the army suffered through the defective mastication of a large number of troops. These troops were kept at the base of supplies or sent home because of the bad state of their teeth, which made it impossible for them to digest the rough food necessarily served out to men at the front.

RUSH OF IRISH TO AMERICA

Consul Stephens at Plymouth, Eng., Says They Are Leaving at Rate of 2,000 a Week.

United States Consul Stephens, at Plymouth, England, says in a recent report:

"The British press has called special attention to the continued, and what they term alarming, flight of the Irish and Cornish to America. Over 22,000 have gone from Ireland alone during the present year, and the exodus, which has received an impetus from the cheap fares, goes on without interruption.

"There is, it is asserted, no greater menace to Ireland's future than this appalling drain by immigration. It is drawing out of the country the best of its peasant class for America, and leaving the undesirables behind.

"Never before have the Irish people manifested such a determination to leave their country. At present they are leaving at the rate of 2,000 per week, and no argument advanced to keep them in their island has the slightest effect.

"The same conditions, though in a modified form, apply to Cornwall. The mining industry at home is dead. In the British colonies conditions are not at all favorable, hence the weekly exodus to America. Those already in the United States send home money as rapidly as possible to assist their relatives and companions in Cornwall to follow."

CHARACTER TOLD BY RAYS

Are Emitted by the Human Body and Differ According to Temperament, Says This Physician.

Experiments conducted over a term of three years form the subject matter of a communication from a physician to a well-known London medical journal, to the effect that the rays emitted by the human body differ in color according to the character and temperament of the person.

The following particulars are given by the writer:

"The rays emanating from a very passionate man have a deep red hue; one whose keynote in life is to be good and do good throws off pink rays. The ambitious man emits orange rays; the deep thinker deep blue; the lover of art and refined surroundings, yellow; an anxious, depressed person, gray.

"One who leads a low, debased life throws off muddy brown rays; a devotional, good-meaning person, light blue; a progressive-minded one, light green, and a physically or mentally ill one, dark green."

The doctor admits his theory is apt to be received with incredulity and amusement, but he asserts it is strengthened by the fact that the color sense of the human race was many thousands of years in reaching its present stage of development.

Give Up Mansion for Slums.

Robert Hunter, formerly of Chicago, and his wife, the daughter of Anson Phelps Stokes, have taken up their residence in Grove street, in the heart of the lower west side of New York city. They have given up their mansion in Madison avenue and their country home in Norton, Conn., for a two-fold object, to continue the settlement to which both husband and wife have devoted themselves, and because, as Mr. Hunter declares, a home there costs no more than an apartment in a more prosperous district.

OUR FIGHTING MEN.

GEN. AINSWORTH REPORTS ON CONDITION OF THE ARMY.

Total Strength of Regular Force Given as 72,817 Men and Officers—Discipline of West Point Cadets Very Good.

The annual report of Gen. F. C. Ainsworth, military secretary of the army, the first issued from his office since its creation by congress at its last session, gives the total strength of the army at the close of the last fiscal year at 3,871 officers and 68,946 enlisted men.

The loss of officers from death, dismissal, retirement and other causes was 155. The number of enlisted men lost by death was 456.

A reduction in the number of malarial fever cases at West Point is attributed to an attack made on the mosquitoes.

Speaking of the discipline of the cadets, the report says it is believed the close observance of the regulations governing the treatment of fourth-class men is due as much to an increasing disposition to yield ready obedience to authority as to the fear of the results of disobedience.

The average cost of maintaining cadets was stated to be 64.3 cents, as against 53.9 cents the previous year.

"This increase in cost," the report recites, "was partly due to the unusually high prices of all food supplies, and partly to the maintenance of an extra table during the active athletic season, and to the visits of instruction made by the classes during the year."

Of the 27,380 recruits enlisted during the last fiscal year, 3,662 were foreign born. Complaints as to the number of unsatisfactory recruits are said to have been unusually numerous.

Speaking of the militia, it is said satisfactory progress has been made toward bringing the organized militia respecting armament, equipment and discipline, up to the standard of the regular amry.

A total of 6,906 officers and 83,102 enlisted men of the militia organizations were present at the inspections.

Referring to the act of congress providing for a roster of officers and enlisted men of the union and confederate armies, the report says the responses of the governors addressed inviting their cooperation have been such as to assure the department that they fully appreciate the importance of the work and will cooperate heartily with the department in its efforts to give to the confederate soldier the place due him in the proposed compilation.

MISSION GIFTS FALL OFF.

American Board's Receipts for Year Were $22,737 Less Than Its Expenditures.

The fiscal year of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions has closed, and the treasurer's statement shows that receipts have fallen $22,737 behind expenditures, the sum named being the debt of the board for August 31, 1904.

The total receipts of the board for the year just closed were $725,315, as against $739,316 in the previous year. From only two sources of income do the year's figures show an advance over last year.

Receipts from women's boards are $14,571 ahead and the interest account shows a gain of $1,552.

From churches and individuals receipts were $1,483 behind last year's.

Sunday schools and young people's societies showed a falling off of $1,601. Special gifts were $6,973 behind the figures for last year, and receipts from legacies were $21,065 behind.

It is but fair to note that gifts from the living, taking all sources together, were several thousand dollars ahead of last year, and if the legacies had been equal in amount to last year the board would be practically out of debt.

OFFERS $5 FOR EACH BABY

Unique Prize to Be Given by British Mayor with View to Halting Infant Mortality.

Among the hundreds of mayors who have been elected in England recently, there is one who has attracted considerable attention by a singular offer. The mayor of Huddersfield, in returning thanks for his election, said his desire was especially to have babies in his community.

He declared he would give the parents of every baby born in his native place, Longwood, during his year in office, a promissory note for five dollars, to be paid when the baby reached the age of one year, together with a card bearing simple, homely directions for the welfare of the child. He hoped that the offer would arouse in a certain measure attention to the question of infant mortality, upon which the public conscience now is well-nigh dead.

The mayor added that he was not a plutocrat, or he might make the offer apply to the whole borough. But as about 2,000 children are born in the borough each year it would be "rather a large order for him."

Sends Dollar Bill by Mail.

While sorting mail in the New York post office the other day, a clerk came across a new $1 bill, stamped and addressed to Miss Althea Briggs, of Kingston, N. Y. If the sender wanted to test the honesty of the post office clerks and letter carriers, he has his answer, because Miss Briggs now has the bill.

Christmas and New Year

Greetings

from....

GARCEAU & ZAISER

IN THE LOCAL FIELD.

Band Concert tonight

Don't forget the M. W. A. ball Friday evening, Dec. 31.

Wait a minute! Get into the game and go to the concert tonight. A treat is in store for you.

A Christmas dance will be held in the north side opera house on Monday evening. Froend's orchestra will furnish the music.

Mrs. B. Zaiser left Saturday evening for Minneapolis where she will spend the holidays visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Lutz.

Anton E. Schusser, editor of the Kellīher Journal, will let the "devil" run the paper next week while he spends Christmas here with the home folks.

Mrs. W. A. Wright of Thief River Falls, one of the best known vocolists in the Red River valley, arrived on the noon train and will appear in several selections at the Band Concert given by the Red Lake Falls band tonight.

Prof. Onstad went down to Crookston Monday evening, and played with the Crookston band at the concert given. Prof. Onstad was down for several solos, and the papers report that he greatly pleased the audience that attended.

Arthur Ittner, foreman of the St. Hilaire Spectator, came down from St. Hilaire the latter part of last week, a very sick young man and was immediately taken to his home here, where he has since been confined to his bed. It was at first feared that Art would have to suffer a long seige of typhoid fever, but it is now announced that the disease has been broken up, and that he will be out in a few weeks.

The public schools will close Friday for the usual two weeks vacation.

Millinery—From now till Jan 1st everything at cost at Mrs. I. Lemieux's.

Editor John E. King went down to St. Paul Monday evening and remained until today attending to some business matters.

If you want a short course (usually 3 mos.) in bookkeeping the Crookston College will give you the same including books for $25.

"Yoor Neighbor's Wife" played to a small house here Saturday evening. The play as a whole was good and deserved a larger audience.

E. Normanueau leaves next week on a months' trip to eastern Canadian points. While there he will visit with his parents whom he has not seen for a number of years.

Stephen Quesnelle, one of Terrebonne's most popular and oldest residents, was a caller here yesterday, and paid his respects at the Gazette office. Mr. Quesnelle reports that things are prosperous out his way.

COAL—Joseph Sally has a complete assortment of all grades of hard and soft coal on hand and is prepared to deliver it in ton lots, more or less on short notice. Hunt up Mr. Sally when you want that next supply of coal.

The Presbyterian Sabbath School will give a Christmas Concert Sunday evening, Christmas night, at 7:30 o'clock. The subject of the program will be "The Prince of Peace". There will be an offering for Foreign missions at that service. The church will be decorated with Christmas greens, and there will be special music by the choir, as well as by the Sabbath school. The Christmas candy will be given out to the children in the morning at Sabbath school.

The second band concert of the season promises to be the best ever.

Millinery—From now till Jan. 1st everything at cost at Mrs. I. Lemieux's.

A. O. Davison drove in from Wylie and spent Sunday at the home of G. H. Tibbetts.

There's going to be a crowd at the band concert tonight. If you don't go you'll wish you had.

Mankato Commercial College, Mankato, is the school for you to attend. Send for their free catalogue.

Hugo Zaiser, who is attending the state "U", arrived home Tuesday to spend his Christmas vacation.

Mrs. S. C. Nauman left Thursday evening for Freeport, Ill., where she will spend the holidays with her parents.

Free, absolutely free, a patent leather school bag with every pair of shoes, any size, bought at Garceau & Zaiser's.

L. A. Dautremont arrived home today after a three weeks' visit with relatives at Rock Rapids and Riverside, Ia.

Ladies will appreciate a pair of Goodyear rubbers. They give easily, thereby not binding the foot, at Garceau & Zaiser's.

Hon. L. C. Simons went down to Minneapolis on the "Soo" Saturday evening, where he spent Sunday with his family and a day or two attending to business matters.

Mrs. Wm. Murphy came down from Thief River Saturday to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kaufer. Will is expected down Saturday to join in the festivites.

Miss Carrie Pirath is expected home the last of the week from Hallock, where she is employed in the telephone exchange, to spend the holidays with the home folks.

If a broader smile than usual is discernable on the face of James Blake this week, it can be attributed to a happy cause. A bright little girl baby arrived at the Blake home Tuesday, and naturally the parents are proud over her advent. The Gazette trusts that she may live long to bring joy to their hearts.

Crookston Journal: Mr. and Mrs. Pat Martin of this city intend to have a genuine old-fashioned family reunion at their home on South Ash street during the Christmas holidays and the good times which will result will doubtless be very pleasurable to the members of the family who will assemble for the "Yuletide." Mr. and Mrs. Henry Theilen, of Minneapolis, will arrive in the city the latter portion of the week to spend the holidays here as the guests of the home folks, and Mr. and Mrs. Theo. LaBissoniere, of Red Lake Falls, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Erin, are expected Friday or Saturday to join the family circle. Ed. Martin is busy with the Christmas tree decorations and proposes to help the little folks enjoy the Christmas season to the limit.

Your girl likes to hear good music. Take her to the band concert tonight.

Ed. L. Healy drove to Plummer Tuesday to transact some land business.

Miss Maude Findeisen is spending her two weeks' Christmas vacation at home.

The Junior class of the high school will serve supper at the K. of P. hall next Wednesday evening.

Enjoy yourself at the New Years' Ball. The M. W. A. is behind it which assures a good time.

James I. Wyer went to Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon from which place he took the "Soo" for Minneapolis.

John Rheinschmidt, one of Mentor's popular farmers, was a caller here yesterday, and paid The Gazette office a call.

Mankato Commercial College, Mankato, Minn., last year enrolled 520 students. It pays to attend a successful school.

Mrs. Turdy, of Bathgate, N. D., is expected next week to spend New Years with her brothers, Ed. and Frank Brouillet.

P. K. Olson was in from Plummer Wednesday seeking legal advice regarding the pending incoporation of that village.

Mrs Theo. LaBissoniere and daughter Erin go to Crookston Saturday to spend Xmas with her parents Mr. and Mrs. P. Martin. Theo. will drive over Sunday to join them.

Misses Tillie and Doretta Matthies, who have been teaching school near Fodvang, Marshall county, are expected home the first of the year to spend their vacation.

When looking for a place to quench your thirst, satisfy your hunger or while away a few spare moments playing a sociable game of whist drop into the "Welcome" saloon and restaurant. —P. K. Olson, Plummer.

"I never expect the time to come when I shall regret my connection with the Modern Woodmen".—Hon. Richard Yates, Gov. of Ill. Modern Woodcraft makes better citizens.

The M. W. A. will give a New Year ball at their hall Friday evening, Dec 31. Music will be furnished by the band orchestra and committees have been appointed to see that nothing essential to a good time is ommitted.

William Ittner, one of the 17 players who won their "M's" representing Minnesota on the gridiron this fall, is home for the holidays. He represents himself as being well pleased with university life and getting along nicely. He visited Chicago and Cedar Rapids with the foot ball team and says that he enjoyed the trips immensely. There is no young man in the city who enjoys the esteem of the people to a greater extent than this same young man, and the people of the city will be more than pleased to learn of his success.

A CHRISTMAS ROSE

By Lizzie A. Casserly

It is evening in New York, and such and evening! The air is clear and frosty with just enough of the latter element to make heavy cloaks and furs very desirable, to redden the noses and quiken the steps of luckless pedestrians who have left their Christmas shopping until the last moment. A luminous moon rides in the heavens and seems to be putting forth her best efforts in an attempt to out-rival the brilliant lights of the city. The streets are as bright as daylight, in consequence, and crowds surge to and fro unceasingly. Street cars are well patronized tho some prefer the bracing air and the solitude of the side streets to the stuffy, over-crowded cars, while still others who live at long distances gaze after the fleeting cars, feel their scanty purses and sigh deeply. Only a nickel, but every cent counts when there are many to feed and very little with which to feed them.

But on this night all the world should be at peace, every heart overflowing with happiness and good cheer, sorrow and misery should be forgotten while rich and poor, old age and youth with one accord should join in the grandest celebration of the year, Christmas.

But do all feel this spirit and exercise it? Alas, No! Many there are in all our large cities who, seemingly, have nothing for which to be thankful. New York, tho, at its best tonight has within its precincts many, many poor creatures too cold, hungry or wretched to indulge in these thots as they would under other circumstances. With one of these my story deals chiefly.

Down town at the intersection of Third and Main streets is the florist's and tonight his building is a veritable paradise. All the flowers of the season are there at their best and among them the Christmas roses stand out prominently, a fitting symbol of this night. Gazing on them in speechless delight is the heroine of my tale. It is a small elfin-like child who stands with blue hands clasped tightly together, before the florist's window. The poor little pinched face showed hunger and want of warm clothing, but she never alters her position. A casual observer might have noticed the lips tremble and tears fill the bright dark eyes as the florist passed before the window. The child's eyes were riveted on the large Christmas rose which surpassed all others in beauty and size stood proudly among its companions.

Presently the florist a portly looking gentleman, whose red face was his chief characteristic, came to the door and harshly ordered her to "begone". The child's eyes dilated with fear and she was running down the street almost before the sentence had died away. Down main street she went and then turning down a side street plunged into a dark alley, until at last she came to a long row of tenement houses looking especially gloomy and forbidding after the glare of the place she had left. At intervals could be heard the sound of drunken revelry and the crying of neglected children.

Poor little Nell walked up to a large box and stepped inside. Here she was greeted by a large black dog, her only friend on earth. Curling herself up with her head against his soft fur and the remnant of an old comforter for a covering, she went to sleep

Hardly had she fallen asleep when she was awakened by the rough shaking of her bed. The dog was not to be seen. She sprang to her feet and jumped out of the box, Here she was confronted by a big burly man with bleared eyes and hard cruel face. That he was intoxicated she knew at once and her heart stood still. He seemed to be beside himself, and addressing her, punctuating his speech with oaths and vile epithets, asked her what she was doing there.

She was too frightened to speak and he lifted his hand to strike, but the blow was stayed, for a minute later he was measuring his length on the ground. He rose, as quickly as possible, and slunk away. Nell lifted eyes full of gratitude to her preserver.

He was a youth of perhaps eighteen years of age, his eyes were flashing with indignation, and when the coward was out of sight he came forward to explain all. He had been standing near the florists, had seen all and had followed her to find her homeless and friendless as he had expected. He concluded by asking her to go home with him to his uncle, with whom he lived. She consented, and hailing a passing cab, they got in and were swiftly taken home. Nell's rescurer gave his name as Edwin Maynerd, and she, in turn, related whatever she could remember of her past life. Since her parents death she had earned her own living by selling flowers, and was often hungry and cold.

When his uncle's eye fell on Nell he started and changed color, "Who—who is that" he gasped. Edwin hurridly explained all but he was not satisfied. He called her to him and asked her name, "Nell Ray," she replied. He turned white. "Your mother's name?" "Elsie Fleming," she replied and he clasped her in his arms, "Darling, your mother was my idolized child, but see ran away with your father and I disowned her and I swore I would never forgive. The trouble broke her mother's heart, and I have known nothing but bitter remorse since she was laid in her grave. You are like your mother, the same eyes and hair and sweet sad face. But I am happy now and tomorrow we shall purchase that beautiful rose which was the means of restoring my darling. I shall never forget that I owe the greatest happiness of my life to a Christmas rose.

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

POLITICAL REMINISCENCES OF RED LAKE COUNTY

BY CHAS. E. BOUGHTON

Politics in Red Lake county are a hit and miss affair, and a large majority of the would-be politicians miss. Several political parties are represented—Republicans, Democrats, Populists—and Jeffers. Jeffers usually makes the most noise—and the most votes.

In the beginning Red Lake was Populistic. Long whiskers were the pride of every countenance, and he whose face was not festooned with strings of Louisiana moss was not in the swim.

The band wagon was filled to overflowing with enthusiastic Pops whose main ambition was to hold office, and whose only sorrow, that there were not offices enough to go around.

The early county conventions of the party were warm members, where men cut the political throats of their friends with cheerful alacrity, and the voting resembled a foot ball scrimmage. Nomination meant almost sure election. On the other hand the conventions of other parties in those days were lacking in interest. The Democrats usually hung on the skirts of the Populists and with weak voice begged for a place at the pie-counter. Republican meetings resembled the last rose of summer, withered and dead, ready to blow away at one puff of the wind that gently waved the triumphant populistic wiskers to and fro. The only strife arose from dodging the nomination to office which led to sure defeat.

He who accepted Republican nomination became a martyr and his friends mournfully wrote his epitaph as they cast their ballots for him.

Yet the very strength of the Populist party proved its undoing. The percentage of those who wanted office was so much greater than the percentage of those who got it, that the disappointed ones fell away and with their supporters betook themselves to pastures new in other parties. As a result the Republican and Democratic organizations soon showed surprising strength, and the time came when the Pops had to call their conventions on circus day to insure a crowd. Even then the attractions of the parade and old familiar shell game proved too much for the faithful few who attended. At the first strains of the steam calliope they fled. The candidates nominated each other and adjourned. Here and there a Republican or Democrat crept into office. At the last election there were not enough Pops left to fill the offices. One or two wandered about the the court house looking for a party. But alas, some evil spirit had shorn their whiskers as they slept and like Samson with a hair cut, their strength had departed. What the future may bring forth no man knoweth, but at the present time Red Lake county is Republican-Democratic, or Democratic-Republican, which ever suits your ear. Both parties carried the county and each has something to boast of. True, there is Jeffers yet to consider. For several years Jeffers was the voice of the Populist party and if there is anything he has left unsaid, his friends don't know it. At present he affiliates himself with the Democrats and it is safe to say he can out-talk any four men the Republicans may put against him. But, really, Jeffers is a whole political party, a campaign, and a brass band in himself, and men will vote for Jeffers and swear by Jeffers, who wouldn't give two whoops in Halifax for the best old party ever organized.

Campaigning in Red Lake is strenuous. A great drouth seems to exist just before election. It is pitiful to hear the cry that goes up from many throats for something to assuage the thirst. If a candidate were but a Moses who could tap the rock and cause plenty to gush forth, he could be reasonably sure of election. But water wouldn't do. Grafting prevails to some extent. Not much. Only about every other man the candidate meets wants a jug, a box of cigars, and ten dollars. The grafter's influence is something wonderful—to hear about. He can control more votes than there are in the county and to proceed without his help means more than defeat. He is impartial, too; works all the candidates of all the parties for a jug, a box, and a bill apeice. Then he stays home election day and drinks their whiskey and smokes their cigars. Two years ago one of the "willing workers" collected one hundred eighty dollars cash and whiskey and cigars to last him till now.

It usually takes until the next election for the poor candidate to get down to normal height after having gone through the prevailing Red Lake leg pulling process.

Then there's the speech making in country school houses and hired halls. It hurts to have the crowds fade silently away while you are speaking, but it is adding insult to injury, when the last man, who proves to be the junitor, breaks into your speech to tell you to leave the key of the hall in his office as you go by. It ruffles the temper, too, to have the audience start up a steam whistle in front of the door.

Still there's some satisfaction in being able to out-talk a steam whistle. They do say that one of our local candidates has accomplished that feat, and the whistle has never been any good since.

Such are some of the characteristics of the game of politics in Red Lake.

Running for office is fascinating, disappointing, pleasant, disagreeable, exciting, intoxicating and sobering, and he who has done it once has a longing to get into the game again, yet dreads it.

If you want to experience all the thrills that enliven human experience, mix in local politics next election.

Inhabitants of Red Lake County River

Prof. A. Onstad, whose picture appears above is one of the finest musicians in the state, and there are very few in the west that are his equal. Prof. Onstad is the leader of the Red Lake Falls 28-piece band and the 15-piece band orchestra, and has made excellent organizations out of each. Prof. Onstad is also a finished performer on the violin and does a great amount of solo work on this instrument. He is but a young man, yet, and undoubtedly has a great future before him.

Healy Land Company

The Ed. L. Healy Land company has been one of the prime factors in keeping real estate moving. The handsome advance in farm vaines in Red Lake county since Mr. Healy came here five years ago may not be altogether due to the efforts put forth by this agency, but there can be no doubt that Mr. Healy's enthusiastic waek in promoting the interests and exploiting the good points of this county have from the first counted heavily in its advancement. One thing is certain that Mr. Healy's advent here and the up-ward movement in Red Lake county's farm land values came simultaneously.

There is no better known land company in Northern Minnesota than the Ed. L. Hesly Land Compsny, snd no Northern Minnesota real estate business is on a more solid foundation or doing a larger business. There are no dull periods with this land compsny. They are selling and buying land oll the time, regardless of time or season, and one thing greatly in their favor, no patron is ever known to go away dissatified.

Ed. L. Healy, tha manager, is one of the best known men in the state. His home on Bottineau avenue is one of the best in the city.

He is also owner of the Healy Flour Mill; capacity 500 barrels of flour daily and a water power of 2,000 horse-power capacity. This power is located on eighty acres of choice high land, furnishing ample room for the erection of different manufactorera thst may locote bere. There is a large surplusage of power over what is necessary to run the mill. Manufacturers looking for a location where power is cheap and ample, where shipping facilities are excellent, should investigate this location. Railroad trackage is laid to the place. Besides his locsl interests he hss extensiva outside connections.

Since February, 1899, Ed. L. Healy has been identified with Red Lske Falls interests snd enjoyes the respect and confidence of every man, woman and child in the city. There are no more energetic workers for the success of tbeir home towns than Mr. Healy, and Red Lake Falls has alwaya considered herself fortnnate in securing him as a resident.

A Great Store....

Two years ago last fall Messrs. L. P. Berthon and J. B. Armstrong established an exclusive clothing and gents' furnishings store in Red Lake Falls, and their success has been so remarkable that today thay are recognized as the leading clothiers in the Red River Valley, and the stock carried by them compares favorably with stocks in much larger cities.

The rapid rise to the pinnacle of success has been merited to a most certain degree. Not only two of the most popular fellows in the world, personally, "Jim and Paul" are both strictly up-to-the-minute business men, and it has been by tha most aggressive of straight business policies that they have gained the enviable place they now hold. Since starting their atore they have been heavy and consistent advertisers, and worked along the lines of "keeping constantly at it brings success." No schame has been too great, no advertising matter was too costly when it showed merit, and they have spent a great deal of money in letting the public know that they wanted and catered to their trade. The results of this judicious advertising speak for themselves, and at the beginning of their third year they are found to be advertising heavier than ever.

They have always carried a most excellently selected atock of goods in their line, and have pleased the trade immensely by selling the best goods at the most reasonable prices. Their heavy fall snd winter stock was the finest ever brought here, and there are yet many things contained in it that Red Lake county people will do well to investigate.

Berthon and Armstrong, and their populor store, are permanent fixtures in Red Lake Falls, and there is not a man, woman or child in this neighborhood who isn't glad of the fact.

Riechel, Photographer

W. A. Riechel, the photographer, who took the photograhs for this edition has been engaged in the profession for over 15 years, and being naturally an artist, he from the first excelled in this work. His exhibitions at the state conventions always attract attention and his photographs are not excelled by the work of the best artists of the Northwest.

Mr. Riechel was born on a farm in Rice county, Minn., and came to Red Lake Falls in 1882. He is married and is the father of three handsome little daughters. Mr. Riechel besides being a first class artist is a successful business man and owns some of the choicest business and residence property in the city.

The Leader Store.

This is another of the great Red Lake Falls business houses, and many times in a year exclamations of wonder and surprise are heard expressed over the greatness of the stock of furniture carried at this popular place. They own their own building, a mammoth structure, of which the lower floor is entirely occupied with the furniture and undertaking business. Upstairs is the Metropolitan opera house, capable of seating nearly 1000 people, and one of the most handsomely appointed amusement places in the Northwest.

Tha store and opera house are owned and conducted by A. M. Anderson and Harry B. Healy, under the firm name of Anderson & Healy, and are both conducted along excellent business lines.

A Handsome Shop.

Henry Kaufer's up to-date barber shop and bath parlors are handsomely furnished, and few tonsorial parlors in tha valley are patronized to a greater extent. Mr. Kaufer has put in a great deal of money in the last two years in fitting his place up with tha prettiest fixtures ever seen in a country town, and as a result his shop presents a strictly modern appearance Henry and his popular assistant, Arthur Mercier, are very well liked by the people, who appreciate Mr. Kaufer'a efforts to give them a modern establishment.

The Busy Store.

This institution is as its name implies, the "Busy Store," and ia owned and conducted by Messrs Garceau & Zaiser, Mr. Zaiser attending to the active management of the business. The Busy Store has a complete up-to-date stock of goods and enjoyes one of the largest trade of any store in the valley. Thay cater to the public and by offering first-class goods at low prices supply a large territory with seasonable merchandise.

Falls Meat Market.

Falls Meat Market, Groshong & Blake, proprietors. This shop was established in 1899. It has a reputation of handling the best meats, game and fish, and is using its patrons properly. They have established a fine trade, numbering among their patrons the best families of the city. Both members of the firm are practical butchers of long experience, and also well qualified to supply the needs and appetites of their customers.

J. M. Bray.

J. M. Bray has a line of fancy bottled goods for the Christmas trade, and invites your inspection. Mr. Bray has recently installed handsome new fixtures and has one of the most up-to-dats places in the city.

Grand View Hotel

Grand View Hotel, W. H. Krueger proprietor. Free 'bus to and from all trains. Sample room in connection. This is the pioneer hotel of Red Lake Falls. The preaent owner took charge in March, 1901. He is a good hotel man and guests at his place are always made to feel at home. It has lately been thoroughly overhanled and placed in first-class condition. It is electric lighted and centrally located and is an excellent hotel in every respect.

First State Bank

The Oldest Bank In The City

The largest institution financially in Red Lake Falls is the first State Bank, organized in 1884, and conducted for twenty years along the ssfest and most careful methods. yet being at all times strictly up-to-date and popular with tha people.

The officers of the bank are: James I. Wyer, the founder, president; Theo. Garceau, cashier; Ralph E. Wyer, assistant cashier; George F. Hennings, book-keeper and stenographer.

An exclusive banking business is conducted, and the volume of business done compares favorably with banks of much larger cities, their total deposits at the last call being $200,000. Interest is paid on time deposits and a specialty is made of collections, and in this line their business also exceeds that of any other institution in this vicinity. They own their own bank building, a handsome two-story corner brick well built and conveniently and commodiously arranged inside. A large fire-proof vault is maintained, in which steel safety deposit boxes are reserved for customers. The money and papers are protected by a Diebold time-lock burglar proof safe of the the latest design. Besides these precautions, the bank recently went to the large expense of installing an electric burglar alarm system, patented by the American Bank Protection company, and with this modern appliance, burglary is absolutely impossible.

The bank numbers among its stockholders some of the most substantial and enterprising business men of the city, and is rated as one of the moss solid and best managed banks in the atate. For tha past fifteen years Theo. Garceau has been manager and cashier. He was born at South Bend, Ind., August 13, 1857, educated at the University of Notre Dame, and in 1882 came to Red Lake Falls. He was engaged in a store until 1888, when he entered the bank as assistant cashier, soon after being promoted to cashier. He is also a member of the large mercantile firm of Garceau & Zaiser, which was established in 1896. Mr. Garceau is a most successful banker and business man and is public spirited to a high degree. He is part owner of two additions to the city.

Ralph E. Wyer, the assistant cashier, is a young man well schooled in banking, and today is considered one of the city's most active business men. He was educated at Carleton college, Northfield, and his life since graduating has been devoted to the banking business.

The bank has some excellent home business men behind it, is up-to-date and awake to the interests of the city, and enjoys the confidence of the people to a marked degree.

Christmas Week 1887

Happenings Chronicled by The Gazette of That Date

The children of the Presbyterian Sabbath School were given a Christmas Supper at Opera Hall Christmas night. It was children's night and they sat at the first table. After the children had eaten to their heart's content a second table was spread for the older ones.

A couple of women who came, presumably from Grand Forks, engaged in painting the town on Wednesday and while making the circuit entered Harren's shoe store, and demolished several handy articles and on leaving deliberately knocked a pane of glass out of the door. Harren swore out a warrant against the active offender who was fined $6 and costs after a star chamber trial by Judge Holston.

Ernest Buse will not arrive here as soon as was expected, but will leave Germany about March 1st.

Our fancy goods merchants report a good holiday trade.

Mr. Thompson, the genial book-keeper of Roller Mill A, spent Christmas at Fisher, a guest of his uncle, Hon. Hugh Thompson.

The Episcopalians celebrated with a Christmas tree and young folks entertainment at Opera Hall, which was enjoyed by many.

Christmas a beautiful autumn day—so far as the weather was concerned.

We have a toboggan club—but no snow.

Carl Kretzchmar came down from Thief River Falls today; returning in the evening. He reports his mill nearly completed and thinks it will be running in ten days.

F. X. Callier.

F. X. Caillier conducts a first-class meat market, and enjoys a good business. He has been here several years and by careful business methods has gained the confidence of the people. Mr. Caillier's market is always well supplied with the choicest meats, and is well patronized by the people of this section.

Romsos Bros.

Wylie, a lively little hamlet in Polk Center township, is fortunate in having a business firm of the enterprise of Romsos Bros. This store is one of the most up-to-date in the county and enjoys a big trade in and around Wylie. They have an excellent line of goods for Christmas, and the people should read their ad.

J. E. KING IS LIBRARIAN

Courier Editor Receives Important Appointment At Hands of New Governor.

Governor John A. Johnson, yesterday announced the appointment of Editor John E. King, of this city, to the office of state librarian, in place of E. A. Nelson, of Hallock, who has held the office for the past four years.

Mr. King will take up the work the first of the year, and will move his family to St. Paul a little later in the winter. His newspaper here will be in charge of a competent man, and Mr. King expects to visit here often to see that things run right.

Editor King has been a consistent Democratic worker and his friends are pleased that he has been honored by the appointment to the high position. He is ably qualified, and will without doubt make a careful and competent official.

A CREDITABLE PERFORMANCE.

Athenian Society Does Well In "Diamonds and Hearts."

The Athenian Society of the Red Lake Falls high school presented the pretty comedy-drama, "Diamonds and Hearts" at the opera house last Friday evening, to a good-sized crowd, and the work of the young people who handled the various parts was excellent and elicited the praise of the public. The play was directed by Prof. Chamberlain, who has proven that he is o. k. wherever you put him, and his work in drilling the young folks in their parts was thorough and creditable.

The play was a three-act comedy drama, full of much pathos as well as the comic side, and every one of the participants acquitted themselves in a manner that would do credit to experienced heads. Lack of time prevents a detailed write-up but it can be said truthfully that the play was a success in all the name implies. The pyramid building by the boys of the high school was a new feature, and created much amusement.

The society netted abput $35, which was donated the library fund of the public school.

WOODMEN GET DAMAGES.

Great Northern Pays Liberally For Damages Done.

The local camp of Modern Woodmen of America made a settlement with Righ-of-way Agent Clay, of the Great Northern, Tuesday, for the damage caused to their lot by the slide of the Great Northern cut.

The Woodmen appointed Messrs. J. A. Duffy, Thomas Germo and Dan Doran a committee to confer with the company, and after considerable argument, secured the sum of $287.50 for the back 25 feet of the lot owned by the lodge. The Woodmen reserved ten feet east of the building. The contract does not sign away any rights of the Woodmen, as the company agreed to prevent further loss from the slide.

The settlement is considered a very good one, and the Woodmen are well satisfied. This contract will practically clear the indebtedness on the building, and leave Camp 3436 in excellent shape financially.

CONTEST CASE IS ON

Judge Grindeland Listening to Hanson-Moreau Election Contest Evidence At the Court House.

The special term of court called to decide the election contest case of Karl M. Hanson vs Ovide Moreau, convened at the court house today, with Judge Andrew Grindeland on the bench.

Hanson is contesting Moreau's right to the treasurership, and a recount of a large number of ballots will likely be ordered. A large number of witnesses will be examined and the case will likely occupy several days.

Frank A. Grady is attorney for Hanson and Judge Montague, of Crookston, represents Moreau.

BIG DANCE NEXT FRIDAY.

M. W. A. Lodge Will Entertain the Public.

The Modern Woodmen of America will give a dance at their hall in this city next Friday evening, December 30, and plans are made for a first-class time.

The Red Lake Falls band orchestra will furnish the music and a good time is promised the public. A good crowd will no doubt attend.

Mail Service on Soo.

Plummer Pioneer: Uunder date of Dec. 12, Congressman Steenerson has written a letter to Julius Pleth stating that he expects a contract with the Soo for carrying mail on this line would be closed in about a week and the establishing of routes out of Plummer taken up.

This letter would seem to indicate that we may expect mail service on the trains by January 1, and that after that date Plummer will be made the distributing point from which the mail will be supplied to the various country offices, instead of Red Lake Falls, as at present. This will prove a decided help to Plummer.

Plummer To Incorporate.

Plummer Pioneer: A series of meetings was held by the business men of Plummer during the week to discuss and arrange for the incorporation of the town as a village at the earliest possible date.

At a meeting held on Thursday evening a committee was appointed to take a census of the town. This was done yesterday morning and the result showed that we have more than the requisite number—140.

At a meeting held last night in the Pioneer building the matter was gone into more fully and a committee appointed with power to act and instructions to push the incorporation as quickly as possible. The members of this committee are: Julius Pleth, W. G. Brown and P. K. Olson. Their well-known hustling qualities are a sufficient guarantee that no time will be lost.

Taken Up.

Pretty Drug Store.

A. L. Reichert, the popular druggist, tells the people of his excellent holiday line elsewhere in this paper, and it should be the aim of the reader to invesigate what he offers. Mr. Reichert has been here nearly five years, and has built up a very successful business. He is enterprising and full of life and always carries a fine stock of everything usually found in a first-class drug store. Mr. Reichert's business has been increasing rapidly, and few drug stores enjoy a nicer trade. He is the sole agent here for the great Eastman line of kodaks and supplies, and has put out a great many of these popular machines during the past year. Mr. Reichert deseves the success he is meeting with, and the people are assured of being treated in a courteous manner when they visit his store.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

The Woonsocket Evening Reporter of Woonsocket, Rhode Island, of which place Joseph Guillemette, charged with the murder of Joseph Mongeon is a resident has the following to say editorially in last Tuesday's issue:

"The interest in Woonsocket in the fate of one of its citizens, who before Christmas will either be a free man or convicted of murder and possibly sentenced to the gallows, is natural and creditable. While the officers of the law of the state of Minnesota maintain there is curcumstantial evidence warranting the trail of Joseph Guillemette, and will maintain in court that he is guilty of murder, it should be also be remembercd that there has so far appeared to be nothing positively inconsistent with his entire innocence; and at this distance from the scene of the trial it will not be an objectionable instance of "trial by newspaper" if it be said here that there appear to the people of this city to be rather more facts consistent with the theory of his innocence than with his guilt. At any rate people here who would not interpose a featherweight to save a guilty man from the consequences of his crime, have by their contributions to the defense fund signified their earnest desire for fair opportunity for the accused and for an entirely just disposition of the case.

Circumstantial evidence is at best an uncertain ally of justice. Hundreds of men have had circumstantial evidence accumulate against them to an extent far more overwhelming than anything yet heard of in this case, and yet they have been innocent. Almost anyone who has been interested in the record of courts and of criminal affairs can recall such appalling array of circumstances which were later shown to have been utterly misleading, simply serving too, to draw attention from pursuit of the real criminal, and in many of the cases the discovery of the misleading nature of the circumstantial evidence came too late to save the accused from an ignominious fate. It is a fault with detective and police work everywhere that the pursuit for the criminal is narrowed to one path when the pursurers have once formed a theory. The real criminal might then be at the detective's side and be undiscovered, so intent is the officer on building the structure of evidence he has planned in his mind."

High Landing.

A merry Xmas to all.

Henry Arnt was out the other day wanting to buy hay. Mr. Arnt had the misfortune to get his hay burnt last fall.

G. Swenson has nearly got his buildings ready to move into, he expects to move in by Xmas.

Contractors Guuder Skreland, Gunder Anderson and Bjou Kviste have all been very busy putting up dwelling houses etc., now days.

Tobias Olson, Den Reisow and Ben Kviste took another look at their lately purchased homesteads here, the other day.

Sam Swenson has been assisting his father here for the past week or ten days.

Land seekers are still to be seen. Several parties have been looking over the land here the last few days.

A few choice homesteads are still to be got here.

There has been some talk of getting a bridge across the Clearwater south of here, some place, which will be badly needed in the spring.

The Gully Sunbeam (Hunt) was up here some time ago and cast a glance over his homestead. Mr. Hunt was highly pleased with it.

Deer were scarce and hunters plenty here this fall. Only a few deer were killed.

Winter is with us, but the snow lies low, and sleighing is poor indeed.

S. A. Swenson was hunting deer without "coffee" this fall. Dr. Wilkinson also had the honor of doing the same.

New houses are going up fast, and settlers are moving in right along.

Soo surveyors are said to be in this neighborhood looking over the grounds for a line eastward from Thief River Falls.

New Cars on the St. Paul Road.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul road has just received from the car shops of Barney & Smith at Dayton, Ohio, two fine observation cars of an entirely new design. They have been built with a view to increasing the comfort of women Their novelty feature consists of the isolation of smokers in a compartment occupying one-half the car. The cars have all the latest improvements in the way of toilet rooms, electric lamps, electric fans, writing desks, etc. The observation platforms are much more extensive than in the old time observation cars, and the cars themselves are of a much stronger type, being furnished with a series of steel arches from side to side so that it will be next to impossible to crush in the sides. The new cars are for use on the road's Overland Limited trains between Chicago and Omaha They will be put into commission immediately.—Chicago Evening Post, November 19, 1904.

CURES STOMACH TROUBLES

THE body gets its life from food properly digested. Healthy digestion means pure blood for the body, but stomach troubles arise from carelessness in eating and stomach disorders upset the entire system. Improperly masticated food sours on the stomach, causing distressing pains, belching and nausea. When over-eating is persisted in the stomach becomes weakened and worn out and dyspepsia claims the victim.

Thedford's Black-Draught cures dyspepsia. It frees the stomach and bowels of congested matter and gives the stomach new life. The stomach is quickly invigorated and the natural stimulation results in a good appetite, with the power to thoroughly digest food.

You can build up your stomach with this mild and natural remedy. Try Thedford's Black-Draught today. You can buy a package from your dealer for 25c. If he does not keep it, send the money to, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed you.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong.

Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the best [illegible] treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, [illegible], Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for [illegible] nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful."—REV. RAY A. WA[illegible], D. D., Iowa City, Ia.

DRIVE OUT RUSSIANS

JAPS BLOW UP PORT ARTHUR FORT AND OCCUPY IT WITH HEAVY FORCE.

Northern Position on East Keekwan Mountain Falls Into the Hands of the Besiegers After Desperate Fighting—Reported That the Japanese Are Pushing Their Advance on Port Arthur in Other Directions.

Tokio, Dec. 20.—The Japanese fired an immense mine under portions of the north fort of East Keekwan mountain at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The infantry immediately afterward charged and occupied the fort with a heavy force.

The following report of the capture was telegraphed from General Nogi's headquarters Monday:

"At 2:15 o'clock on the afternoon of Dec. 18 part of our army blew up the parapets of the fort of East Keekwan mountain and then charged.

"A fierce battle with hand grenades ensued.

"Owing to the stubborn resistance of the enemy with his machine guns, our operations were temporarily suspended.

"Subsequently, at 7 o'clock in the evening, General Semeamiam, commanding the supports, advanced into the casements and, encouraging his men, threw his supports into the fighting line in a last brave charge.

"At 11:50 o'clock at night we completely occupied the fort and immediately engaged in the construction of defensive works. Our occupation became firmly assured today.

"Before retiring the enemy exploded four mines in the neighborhood of the neck of the fort.

"We captured five nine-centimeter field guns and two machine guns, as well as plenty of ammunition.

"The enemy left forty or fifty dead. Our casualties have not been investigated, but they are not heavy."

It is reported that the Japanese have seized a strong position about a thousand yards southeast of 203-Metre hill preparatory to assaulting the new town and pushing between Liaotie mountain and the Russian headquarters at Port Arthur.

SHIPS ALL WRECKED

ADMIRAL TOGO REPORTS ON CONDITION OF RUSSIAN VESSELS AT PORT ARTHUR.

Tokio, Dec. 20.—Telegraphing under date of Dec. 18, Vice Admiral Togo says:

"There is no room left to doubt that the enemy's ships in the harbor of Port Arthur are totally unfit for service. I have reason to believe that the battleship Sevastopol has been disabled by our attacks, but no definite data on which to pass final judgment has yet been obtained and investigations are being conducted in all available quarters.

"It is certain that at least seven Russian torpedo boat destroyers remain intact in the harbor.

"A staff officer in front of Port Arthur reports as follows:

"The battleship Perseveit is lying 200 meters off the Tiger's Tail peninsula and at high tide the water reaches to the torpedo tubes in her bow. She is submerged to her stern walk and lies aground without listing. Her central funnel is severely damaged.

"The battleship Poltnva lies 200 meters north of the point of Tiger's Tail. Her bow at high tide is submerged to her after deck. She is doubtless aground and does not list.

The Retvizan's Deck Submerged.

"The battleship Retvizan lies 100 meters east of the Poltava. Her condition is worse than that of the Poltava. She is listing five degrees to starboard and her after deck is constantly submerged.

"The battleship Pobieda lies 200 meters northeast of the point of Tiger's Tail. Her after deck on the starboard side must be submerged at high tide. Everything seems to show that she is aground.

"The protected cruiser Pallada lies 100 meters east by north of the Pobieda. She is listed five degrees to port. At high tide the condition of her deck is about the same as the decks of the Perseveit. She is doubtlessly aground.

"The armored cruiser Bayan lies 300 meters from the harbor entrance. She has listed 15 degrees and appears to be aground.

"The above mentioned four battleships and two cruisers have been abandoned and no boats are seen near them."

TWO JAP BOATS LOST

TORPEDO CRAFT SUNK IN MAKING ATTACKS ON BATTLESHIP SEVASTOPOL.

Tokio, Dec. 19.—The Japanese have lost two torpedo boats during all the operations against the battleship Sevastopol, which was reported Sunday in advices from Port Arthur to be completely disabled.

Official reports state that the Russians at Port Arthur have abandoned the battleships Peresvlet, Poltava, Pobieda and Retvizan and the cruisers Pallada and Bayan.

MINNEAPOLIS HORROR

NUMBER OF PEOPLE CRUSHED TO DEATH IN HOTEL CROCKER AT MILL CITY.

Walls of Structure Recently Destroyed by Fire Fall Onto Adjoining Building, Almost Completely Wrecking It. At Least Four Persons Are Dead and the List of Fatalities May Aggregate a Much Larger Number.

Minneapolis, Dec. 20.—At least four and possibly eleven people lost their lives early Tuesday morning in the Crocker hotel on Fifth street through the falling of the high east wall of the O. H. Peck building, which was gutted by fire last Tuesday night.

The high wind of Monday night loosened the bricks in the wall and tons of brick and stone crashed down upon the roof of the three-story hotel next door. The roof was carried through to the basement, carrying death and injury before it.

Several people are missing and presumably are dead, as follows:

William Crocker, landlord; Mrs. Maggie Le Claire, Jennie Morris, William Immerman, William Bray, Charles Kenyon, William Lillyblade and seven other men and one woman, unaccounted for.

The injured are Mrs. Jennie Murray, hip badly bruised; Mrs. Evelyn Williams, badly cut; Mrs. William Crocker, Willie Crocker, Hannah Crocker, Mrs. Frank Boyce and Charles Smith.

Inmates of the Hotel Asleep.

The crash came shortly after 1 o'clock. Almost everyone in the hotel was asleep. Within one moment the entire hotel building was a wreck with injured and dying people calling for help.

A number of people who were asleep at the time of the accident and who were not immediately in the path of the falling bricks, escaped with their lives, though badly injured.

The fire department responded quickly as did also a large share of the police department who set to work rescuing the injured.

Mrs. Jennie Murray, a cook, was the first to be taken out by the rescuers. She was taken to the city hospital.

William Crocker, the proprietor, is probably dead. He was in the front of the hotel when the accident occurred and has not been since seen.

William Immerman was sick in bed and unable to help himself.

Mrs. Williams, daughter of William Crocker, was asleep on the top floor when the crash came and was hurled beneath the debris but was rescued.

VESSEL BURNS AT SEA

NINE LIVES LOST BY DESTRUCTION OF THE GLEN ISLAND OFF ATLANTIC COAST.

New York, Dec. 19.—By the burning of the Starin line steamer Glen Island in Long Island sound nine lives were lost and property roughly estimated at $250,000 was destroyed. That more lives were not sacrificed undoubtedly was due to the personal courage of the officers and crew and the excellent discipline maintained when a horrible death for all seemed almost a certainty. When the steamer was abandoned she was flame swept from stem to stern and yet the only persons who lost their lives were those whose escape had been entirely cut off by the fire before the alarm reached them.

Of the thirty-one persons, including ten passengers, who sailed away on the Glen Island twenty-two, including eight passengers, were brought back safely. The dead are: Unknown Hebrew woman, passenger; unknown man, passenger; W. E. Hendrickson, assistant engineer; Luman Miller, fireman; Frank Bush, fireman; John Burke, fireman; Otto L. Aloifran, fireman; O. Berg, deckhand; Peter Benson, deckhand.

OLD BRIDGE COLLAPSES.

Three Dead and Five Injured at Charleston, W. Va.

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Three persons are known to have been killed and five others seriously injured by the collapse of the suspension bridge across the Elk river which connects East and West Charleston. There were six teams, six children on their way to school, and a number of other pedestrians on the structure when it went down. The bridge collapsed without warning. Those who went down with the wreckage fell a distance of forty feet into the ice-covered waters of the river. The depth of the river at this point is estimated at twenty feet and when the iron and lumber wreckage struck the ice, it broke into fragments and a number of those killed and several of the injured were thrown into the water or swept under the ice further down the stream.

DISASTER ON BATTLESHIP.

Three Men Killed and Four Others Terribly Scalded.

Philadelphia, Dec. 16.—Caught in a trap and helpless to save themselves, three men lost their lives and four others, including Lieutenant William C. Cole, assistant chief engineer, were terribly scalded Thursday by a rush of steam and boiling water in the fireroom of the battleship Massachusetts, lying at the League Island navy yard.

With the exception of Lieutenant Cole all the killed and injured were residents of Philadelphia. Lieutenant Cole received his injuries in an heroic effort to rescue the others.

The accident was caused by the giving way of a gasket or rubber washer on a boiler on the starboard side of the ship.

I hereby certify that the within Instrument was filed in this office for record on the 1st day of December, 1904, at 11 o'clock a. m., and was duly recorded in Book 14, of Mortgages at page 508

SAMUEL GIBEAU,
Register of Deeds.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Default having been made in the payment of sixteen dollars which became due April 21, 1904; and is due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Manne Hammor, a single man, mortgagor, to Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, mortgagee, bearing date the 9th day of April, 1903, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of April A. D. 1903, at 3 o'clock p. m. in Book 26 of Mortgages on pages 429 and 430, and whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of said default, the whole principal sum of said mortgage, to wit $96.00, did on the 22nd day of April 1904, become at once due and payable and was so declared by Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls; and whereas, there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of ninety-six dollars with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, and the further sum of forty-eight dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, the latter amount being for interest paid by said Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, under the terms of said mortgage upon a prior first mortgage of eight hundred dollars, to H. A. Poritz, default having been made in the payment of same and said amount, by said mortgagor, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof:

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage first described will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Southwest quarter of section one [1] in township one hundred fifty-one 151 north of range forty three 43 west in Red Lake County, Minnesota which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Red Lake County, Minnesota at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county and state on the 28th day of January A. D. 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $96 and interest as aforesaid and $48, and interest as aforesaid, and taxes, if any, on said premises, and a reasonable attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage, the same being hereby stated to be twenty-five dollars and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough Any child will take it It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. Character Will Always Make Happiness

By REV. W. A. SPOONER,
Warden of New College, Oxford.

WHAT is it we all have in common, no matter what our environments? Life, that glorious opportunity to be, to do, and to grow, is ours. Life, with all its possibilities, the greatness of which we have not dreamed, is actually slipping by without our cognizance, because we are so occupied with the things which we think make us unhappy, and which have grown to tremendous proportions, magnified by our vision.

One can cover up the glorious sun with a penny by holding it close enough to the eye. We can also cover up all our opportunities with the little things which annoy us, if we will.

What matter it if others are rich or famous, so long as we have the one great chance in life which overshadows all these things, and is the only thing which will stand the test of time?

In a few years death will claim the rich, and they must depart, leaving that for which they have labored all behind. But the character goes on for ever.

Happiness being a condition of the mind, yours is the power to place happiness there by creating this condition, which you can do solely by your thoughts.

Thoughts which cause unrest or worry, you must cast out. This is not easy for those who have been accustomed to allow themselves to be constantly annoyed by these things.

Remember, first, to place character above all else, for there is nothing to be compared to it. And determine that, no matter what else you have in life, this you will acquire. This determination will alter your frame of mind, and, when firmly fixed, will change the appearance of conditions and surroundings.

All thoughts which are not character builders you must cast out, and you must view everything in this light. This cannot be done at once, and is only achieved after many trials.

Always see what you have to be thankful for when depressed or unhappy. This mental inventory will make lighter any load. Don't worry about anything, for it does no good, and only obliterates your opportunity for helping yourself.

If you are character building there is nothing that can come to you which cannot be used as a step onward, if looked at in the right light, and anything which will place you a step forward cannot bring harm.

Always look on the bright side of everything, for there is always a bright side to everything if we will but see it.

Cast out all thoughts of anger or rage, and never allow yourself to lose your temper.

School yourself in conquering fear of all descriptions. To him who builds character there is nothing to fear. And just in proportion as you obtain this mental balance you will find happiness everywhere, and life will become a glorious thing, instead of a drudgery, for what doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?

On January 30, 1905, it will have been 5 years since we came to Red Lake Falls and we have never regretted coming for a moment, and are pleased to say that through our efforts many families have come from other states, and from the south and central part of this state, and settled in this the coming BANNER COUNTY of this state.

We have a list of lands now for sale that contains some excellent bargains that should be looked over by any one wanting a home or who wishes to buy as an investment. Our list is very complete and we are continually adding to it both improved and unimproved farms.

Though we confine our business mostly to Red Lake county, we have lands for sale in Polk, Marshall, Roseau, Clearwater and Beltrami counties.

We can get you reduced rates when you want to come to look over our lands. We look after rents and will procure you loans.

If you want to sell your farm let us SELL IT for you. Write us for prices and tickets.

GUILLMETTE IS GUILTY

Woonsocket Man Accused of the Murder of Joseph Mongeon at Mentor on October 17 Found Guilty of Murder in the First Degree, After Brief Deliberation By Jury.

Sentence Will Be Passed By Judge Watts This Week, Probably Life Imprisonment.—Accused Shows No Sign Of Emotion at All Save a Slight Pallor of His Face as the Verdict Was Read to Him.---Guillmette Declares That He Is Innocent.

Joseph Gnillmette will either "hang by the neck until dead," or will spend the remainder of his natural life in the states prison at Stillwater. With Judge Watts lies the choosing. After being out three hours the jury in the case last evening brought in a verdict of "Guilty as charged in the indictment" or murder in the first degree. The verdict as returned by Foreman John G. Tenney, foreman of the grand jury is as follows:

In the matter of the State of Minnesota vs. Joseph Guillmette, accused of the crime of murder in the first degree, we, the jury empaneled and sworn to try the guilt or innocence of the above named defendant find him guilty as charged in the indictment.

At seven thirty o'clock last night the jury reported through Bailiff Jefferson that a verdict had been arrived at and the prisoner was brought over from the cell house to hear the result of their deliberations, the end of one of the most celebrated murder trials on record in northern Minnesota. Gnillmette after entering the court room occupied his customary seat and during the reading of the verdict showed no sign whatever of emotion. He evidently did not understand the meaning of the words "guilty as charged in the indictment," when uttered by Clerk of Court Lanctot, and asked the latter in French "what it meant." As Clerk Lanctot told him in French that he had been found "guilty" of the crime charged against him a visible pallor overspread his face, Otherwise, however, he was as calm and imperturbed as he has always been during the progress of the trial. One of the jurymen stated after being dismissed that the jury mighe have brought in a verdict in ten minutes.

Judge Watts will undoubtedly sentence the accused and convicted man some time this week. His honor was apparently more excited over the verdict when it was delivered last evening than the accused himself, and it is apparent that he is deliberating a great deal about the case. According to his charge to the jury yesterday afternoon "hanging is the only alternative for the convicted man" unless extennating circumstances have to be reckoned with, in which case the presiding judge has authority to commute the death sentence to that of life imprisonment, and it is thought that the Judge will give him the latter sentence.

Gnillmette refused to talk to the newspapers after being taken back to his cell, but to Jailor LaLonde he made the following statement:

"Tell them that I am innocent of the crime for which I have been tried and convicted, despite the volume of evidence arrayed against me and the roasting of Prosecuting Attorney Rowe."

He appeared in excellent spirits and paced up and down the corridor of the jail in a manner which betokened unusual peace of mind almost within the sound of the death knell.

The crime was committed in a most brutal manner. The first charge from a shot gun was emptied in the side of Mongeon's head while he was standing on the Great Northern railroad track a mile east of Mentor. The body was then dragged, face downward, cutting the face and lips of the dying man horribly and scratching his body terribly on the sharp gravel, sticks and rails over which it was hauled, to a grove but a few yards from the track. After it had been hauled there, to make a sure job of it the shot gun was placed so close to the head of the victim that powder marks were left in his face, and the wads from the gun buried an inch deep in the dirt on either side of his head, a second charge was fired. When the remains were found the brains were oozing out and the blood was still flowing from the wounds which were gaping in both sides and the back of his head.

The exact amount of money Mongeon had on his person probably will never be known. He had earned something less than $75 while he was Guilmette's partner, but in addition to this there was a story which has never been confirmed, to the effect that he had recently sold a farm in Canada and had the money on his person.

But little is known of the deceased here. It is known that he has been a widower for the past two years and that he has two children somewhere in Canada, and a telegram was received from Lacheres, Province of Quebec, signed by Matthias Mongeon who is supposed to be the father of the dead man, but no letter of explanation has been received yet regarding the history of the dead man.

Guilmette yesterday when on the stand, stated that he was born in St. Dnva, Canada, but came to the United States when a boy and resided near Red Lake Falls with his uncle, Delorme, and a distant relative named Octavienne Raonl who resides east of Red Lake Falls and with whom he resided till he was 21, when he returned to Canada, marrying after he had been there a year, remaining there two years afterward, then removing to Rhode Island where he remained till he came to northern Minnesota to hunt spruce gum, leaving his family at Woonsocket, R. I. where he had resided for several years past.

CONTEST CASE CLOSED

Evidence Taken By Judge Grindeland and Decision Reserved Until Monday of Next Week.

The election contest case of Karl M. Hausen vs. Ovide Moreau, for the office of treasurer of Red Lake county, was finished late yesterday, both sides having presented all the evidence at hand.

A recount of the ballots of the first and second wards of this city resulted in a change of votes enough to give Hansen a majority of nine over Moreau. Moreau's attorneys allege that the ballot box of the first ward was tampered with after it had been closed, while Hanson contends that the judges tried to count him out—although as they were all Hansen men prior to election day it does not look as though his contention is well founded. Morean has asked that the first ward of Red Lake Falls be thrown out, while Hansen wants parts of some other precincts thrown out, and the whole affair presents a complicated tangle that the public fails to comprehend, and nothing will be known until Judge Grindeland hands in his decision.

It is thought that he will decide the case Monday, so that whoever wins may be sworn by the Commissioners Tuesday and at once take up the duties of the office.

In case it is not decided before Monday, The Gazette understands that Moreau will be sworn in, and hold the office, in case of an appeal being taken, until such time as the Supreme Court shall decide who has the right to it.

The opinion seems to be here that he deserves what he won, but we will all known more about it after Judge Grindeland renders his decision.

FIRST POULTRY SHOW.

Red River Valley Association to Hold One In February.

Crookston Journal: The annual meeting of the Red River Valley Poultrymen's association will be held in this city upon February 2-3-4 and promises to be one of the most successful "poultry shows" ever given in this section of the country. President Lockman, of the association, is at the present time at work upon the prize lists which will be offered for pens and individual showings. Poultrymen from all over the northern section of this state, North and South Dakota are interested in the show and will have exhibits here. Arrangements are being made to lease the McKinnon block storerooms upon Main street for the show and the doors of the poultry hall will be open day and evening.

The Red River Poultrymen's association, while a new organization in the northwest from a bird fanciers viewpoint, has a very large membership throughout the valley and all of the members will undoubtedly send in birds from their flocks to compete for the prizes.

The poultry show in February will be the first enterprise of its kind ever held in Crookston and will doubtless attract a large attendance.

"MINNESOTA."

The New Twin-Screw Steamship the Finest Ever Built in United States.

The "Minnesota" which sails from Seattle on Saturday, January 21, her initial trip in the trans-Pacific trade with the Orient, typifies the highest achievements in American shipbuilding. She is the heaviest cargo-carrying vessel in the world, and her passenger accommodations are unequaled on the Pacific and takes first rank with the great Atlantic liners. Broad decks and large cabins, superior service and every convenience known to modern shipbuilding, ensures the full enjoyment of a Pacific voyage. 2000 people, including 250 cabin passengers may be accommodated on this great vessel, which is 630 feet in length; 73 feet 6 inches beam and 56 feet in depth from keel to upper deck amidship, the total depth from the upper navigating bridge to the keel being 88 feet 4 inches. All first-cabin passenger are berthed amidships, the intermediate are on the main deck foward, and the steerage are berthed on the same deck aft. Nine decks serve to meet the requirements of passengers, crew and cargo. The ship has 32 water-tight compartments and is fitted with bilge keels to insure steadiness from the motion of the sea. The public rooms, cabins and hallways are all mechanically ventilated with filtered hot and cold air. The appointments of this vessel throughout are such as to fully provide for the comfort, safety and health of passengers under all conditions.

The Great Northern Steamship Company, with its direct railroad connection in the great northern railways of the United States of America, has and unrivalled geographical position, which fact, taken in connection with the splendidly equipped and palatially appointed steamers, should decide the route of trans-Pacific travelers. The track followed by the company's vessels is the shortest to the Orient. As will be seen by reference to the track chart, the distance from Puget Sound to Yokohama being 4,260 miles.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequaled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland Bentorville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, Druggist. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c, and $1.00.

New Cars on the St. Paul Road.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul road has just received from the car shops of Barney & Smith at Dayton, Ohio, two lines of observation cars of an entirely new design. They have been built with a view to increasing the comfort of women. Their novelty feature consists of the isolation of smokers in a compartment occupying one-half the car. The cars have all the latest improvements in the way of toilet rooms, electric lamps, electric fans, writing desks, etc. The observation platforms are much more extensive than in the old time observation cars, and the cars themselves are of a much stronger type, being furnished with a series of steel arches from side to side so that it will be next to impossible to crash in the sides. The new cars are for use on the road's Overland Limited trains between Chicago and Omaha. They will be put into commission immediately.—Chicago Evening Post, ovember 19, 1904.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads Trial bottles 25c; regu o ale by A. OUR NAVY SHORT OF MEN.

Many Vessels Soon to Go Out of Commission to Furnish Force to Man New Ships.

A large increase of officers and men in the navy is absolutely necessary if the new ships rapidly coming into commission are to be adequately manned. Counting the ships now in use, and adding those already under construction and provided for, the navy requires about twice as many officers and men as are allowed by law.

The navy authorities are at their wits' end in devising ways and means to do the work with the force available. They have been somewhat reticent about the matter, however, fearing that a howl for a large increase in the personnel of the navy would result in a decision on the part of congress to cut down the programme for new ships until those already provided for are manned. The shortage has reached such a stage, however, that relief must be had, even at the risk of endangering the programme for the increase of the navy.

The only available method of providing officers and men for the new ships is by putting old vessels out of commission. Five vessels—the Atlanta, Castine, Marietta, Newport and Bancroft—are now under consideration for retirement to navy yards, and at least three of them will go out of commission soon. But their crews will furnish only a small proportion of the men needed for the big battleships and cruisers that are coming into commission, and nothing short of the retirement of large vessels will furnish the required force.

Several vessels that are popularly understood to be among the crack ships of the navy will be ordered to navy yards within a few months, ostensibly for repairs, but in fact because they are obsolete as compared with the vessels about to be added to the navy register. Their crews will be transferred to the newer vessels and the ships themselves will be repaired and brought up to date wherever possible and practicable without too great expense.

STEAM RAILWAY STATISTICS

Over 200,000 Miles of Tracks in the United States at Beginning of 1904—Increase During Year.

The total steam railway mileage of the United States at the end of 1903 was 207,604 miles, an increase of 4,595 miles during the year, according to Poor's Manual, recently issued. In the southwestern states 1,804 miles were built, 683 miles in the northwestern states, 602 miles in the gulf and Mississippi valley states, 562 miles in the Pacific coast states, 486 miles in the central northern states, 348 miles in the middle states, and only 12 miles in New England.

The total assets of the railroads are given as $14,862,111,544, and the liabilities $14,289,529,959. The total earnings were $1,908,857,826 in 1903, and $1,720,814,900 in 1902. The operating expenses and taxes in 1903 were $1,316,349,314, and in 1902 were $1,160,788,623. Net earnings in 1903 were $592,508,512 and in 1902 were $560,026,277. The interest paid on bonds in 1903 was $239,426,707, and in 1902 was $222,614,909. In 1903 the stock dividends amounted to $164,549,147, and in 1902 to $151,019,537. The surplus of all roads in 1903 was $121,880,088, and in 1902 it was $109,166,434.

The number of tons of freight transported in 1903 was 1,306,628,858, and in 1902 was 1,192,136,510. In 1903 the railroads carried 696,949,925 passengers, and in 1902 the number was 655,130,236.

IMPOSES NOVEL SENTENCE.

New Jersey Judge Orders Professional Woman Beggar to Pay Fine of Ten Cents Daily for Two Years.

Judge Algeron T. Sweeney, in the criminal court at Newark, N. J., the other day, imposed upon Mrs. Beula McCarton, convicted before him of professional begging, a sentence that is said to have no parallel in the annals of Jersey justice.

"The sentence of this court," announced Judge Sweeney, "is that you shall pay a fine of ten cents daily for a period of two years, and that you shall appear in this court each day to make the payment the court has directed. The total will be $73."

Mrs. McCarton is 35 years old. The police say she is a member of the notorious McCarton family, several of the members of which were arrested in New York recently, charged with being professional "beats." Their record extends over many cities in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

On imposing the novel penalty, payable on the installment plan, Judge Sweeney paroled Mrs. McCarton, with the instructions that if she should not be able to raise the ten cents on any day, she must come and report, leaving to him the option of changing the penalty from the fine to imprisonment.

FOOD OF RICH AND POOR.

Speaking of Values of Nourishment Scientist Declares People of Poverty Are Underfed.

The everyday man, says the Chicago Tribune, on an everyday diet digests and uses about 96 per cent. of the material and about 91 per cent. of the energy of his food. So Prof. Atwater says to the British association. He also says the idea of the need of large amounts of meat all the way through is often greatly exaggerated, and that muscular laborers need more food than sedentary workers. Mental labor differs from muscular labor in requiring much less material and energy for its support. In general, people with sedentary occupations have the larger and those whose labor is manual the smaller incomes. Thus it comes about that the well to do are often overfed and the poor underfed. In many cases the food of the poor is inadequate for normal nourishment and must remain so until they have larger incomes or cheaper food. Half the poor man's money is spent on food and it is worst spent in the market. Little attention is given to the relation between the real nutritive value of food and its cost. His is the worst cooked food and the worst served food and illustrates the old writings that "To him that hath shall be given, and from him that hath not shall he taken away even that which he hath."

PIGEONS IN GREAT CLOUDS

On Pacific Coast the Birds Fly in Immense Hordes, Darkening the Sky.

Traveling in immense hordes which resemble huge black clouds sweeping over the water, millions of sea pigeons come in from the Pacific ocean, close in the wake of mammoth schools of sardines, which they were intently pursuing. Flying three or four deep and a score or more abreast, millions upon millions of the small birds were seen floating over Baker's bay and the lower Columbia, forming a solid but ever changing mass, almost impenetrable to the human gaze. The speed at which they flew was largely a matter of conjecture, but probably was not less than 50 miles an hour. One flock of pigeons was more than two hours passing over the bar. Thousands of the birds became entangled in the mesh of the fish trap leads at high tide, and the weight of their bodies is a serious menace to the gearing. At sea the pigeons can generally be found where the sardines exist, but they come to the river every summer. Their usual custom is to follow schools of whale which also feed upon the sardines. Waiting till the sardines are surrounded, and the whales are about to rush upon their victims, the pigeons slip in and gorge themselves upon the fish.

WANTS LOAN; REMITS FINE

When Asked to Lend Money to Man Guilty of Contempt, Judge Scratches Ruling.

The famous Thomas F. Marshall, of Kentucky, was trying a case before Judge Bush, a noted jurist of that commonwealth, and became guilty of contempt of court. The judge promptly fined Mr. Marshall $10, which the orator as promptly paid. Continuing his speech Marshall again became guilty of contempt, and was fined $20. He had not that much money about him, but had to pay at once, else go to jail. Marshall coolly looked over the audience with the complacency that was peculiarly his, and then addressed the judge:

"May it please the court," he said, "In looking over this assemblage of my fellow citizens I see no one whom I would so readily ask for a favor as your honor. Would this court kindly lend me $20 wherewith to pay this fine? I have not so much currency with me, and I am much disinclined to go to jail." The judge turned to the clerk of the court and in his old man's voice that was changing "to childish treble" piped out:

"Mr. Clerk, scratch out that fine against Mr. Marshall! This commonwealth is better able to lose $20 than I am."

Tests for Deafness.

A new application of the phonograph has been found in the psychological laboratory of Cornell university. Hitherto, in testing degrees of deafness, the human voice has generally been regarded as furnishing the most useful standard, but a great source of irregularity in the results is the difficulty of standardizing the tests. Owing to the natural variety among voices, it has been impossible to obtain a common unit of measurement. Recent improvements in phonograph construction, however, offer a solution of this difficulty. A permanent record on a hard cylinder furnishes a test which can be reproduced at will in any place, the same voice being always heard. The pitch and the intensity can be easily controlled, and it is possible by means of duplicate ear-tubes to examine several persons simultaneously.

AFTER BALTIC FLEET

JAPANESE WARSHIPS PASS SINGAPORE STEAMING IN WESTERLY DIRECTION.

Second Squadron of Powerful Cruisers Under Admiral Kamimura Moving Southward in the China Sea—Japanese Drive the Russians From Two Important Positions on Pigeon Bay at Port Arthur.

Singapore, Straits Settlement, Dec. 23.—Two Japanese cruisers called here during the morning and left at noon. They reported that two Japanese battleships, two first class cruisers, two second class cruisers and twelve torpedo boat destroyers were nearby, steaming west.

Shanghai, Dec. 23.—A squadron of powerful cruisers under Admiral Kamimura has gone south to the China sea to meet the Russian second Pacific squadron.

RUSSIANS SURPRISED

PORT ARTHUR BESIEGERS DRIVE THE SLAVS OUT OF THEIR ADVANCED POSITIONS.

Tokio, Dec. 26.—The Port Arthur besiegers occupied Telluchlatun on Saturday. It is officially announced that the whole of the Russian advanced positions in front of the Japanese right have fallen.

The following report was received from the besiegers at Port Arthur Sunday morning:

"A body of our right wing surprised the enemy at Housanytantun (Housanytsnyentao?) and Slafantun, the latter about six and a half miles northeast of Port Arthur, at 10 o'clock Saturday night and occupied the villages, subsequently dislodging the enemy. Occupied the whole of Taliuchlatun, about five miles northwest of Port Arthur, at 2:55 o'clock this morning.

"Our repeated attacks during the past few days were uniformly successful and now the whole of the enemy's advanced positions fronting our right wing are in our hands."

TAKEN BY JAPANESE

RUSSIANS DRIVEN FROM TWO IMPORTANT POSITIONS ON PIGEON BAY.

Tokio, Dec. 22.—A dispatch received by telegraph from the Japanese army before Port Arthur says:

"The right column of the army at 5 a. m., taking advantage of the enemy's excitement, drove them off the eminence north of Housanyentao, on Pigeon bay, and occupied the position and at 7 o'clock dislodged the enemy from a height on the peninsula west of Housanyentao which we occupied, capturing one small gun.

"After the Japanese occupation of the positions the enemy made a counter attack, but was immediately repulsed. At present our occupation of the positions is practically secure."

NORTH SEA COMMISSION MEETS.

Austrian Admiral Selected as the Fifth Member.

Paris, Dec. 22.—The international commission appointed to inquire into the North sea incident met at the foreign office at 10 a. m. Rear Admiral Davis, U. S. N., was present.

The commission unanimously elected Admiral Baron von Spaun of the Austro-Hungarian navy to be the fifth member, completed the preliminary organization and adjourned until the 9th of January.

AMERICAN OFFICER AND THIRTY-SEVEN FILIPINO SCOUTS SLAIN IN SAMAR.

Manila, Dec. 24.—The Pulajanes have ambushed and killed at Dolores, on the island of Samar, a lieutenant and thirty-seven enlisted men of the Thirty-eighth company of native scouts.

Two thousand Pulajanes, it is reported, threaten the town of Dolores and the situation is said to be critical.

Lieutenant Abbot, in command of the scouts, has requested that aid be sent him.

REFORMS FOR RUSSIA.

Imperial Ukase Makes Decidedly Liberal Promises.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—An imperial ukase issued Monday night makes decidedly liberal promises under a number of heads. It promises a full and equitable enforcement of existing laws, assures the semstvos of the fullest possible measure of self-government and the enforcement of the laws now existing in their behalf; promulgates a scheme of workmen's insurance, extends the liberty of the press and promises a full legal trial of all persons accused.

Findlay, O., Dec. 27.—The magazine of the Bradford Glycerin company north of Findlay, which contained about 1,000 quarts of nitroglycerin, blew up Monday, the explosion shaking buildings in this city and doing considerable damage at Findlay.

DR. CHADWICK INDICTED.

True Bill Against Husband of Cleveland Woman.

Cleveland, Dec. 23.—Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick and his wife, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, were jointly indicted by the county grand jury Thursday afternoon on the charge of having forged and uttered a $5,000,000 note signed Andrew Carnegie.

Dr. Chadwick is now on his way to New York from Paris and is expected to land next Wednesday. As soon as the indictment was returned, Sheriff Barry of this county made arrangements to secure Dr. Chadwick's extradition. He will meet the steamer on its arrival.

This is the third time that Mrs. Chadwick has been indicted by the county grand jury, but it is the first instance of her husband's name appearing in legal proceedings in the case. The indictments already returned against Mrs. Chadwick are similar to the one voted Thursday except that they cover notes of $250,000 and $500,000 signed Andrew Carnegie.

COLLISION FATAL TO ONE MAN.

Nine Other Persons Injured in Accident at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Dec. 26.—One man was killed outright and nine others were injured in a crash between an Eighth and Central street car and a Northern Pacific switch engine at Eighteenth avenue northeast and Central avenue. The car was torn and wrecked so that extensive repairs will be necessary and the engine was more or less battered.

W. M. Gager was killed and the following named were injured:

Warren Bruesbaher, Emerson W. Whellock, James Cyrler, G. T. Gustafson, E. R. Ordway, C. L. Russell, Mett Backes, John Olson and John J. Elliott.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

STOOD SIX FOR ACQUITTAL AND SIX FOR CONVICTION IN PATTERSON CASE.

New York, Dec. 23.—After being out twenty-four hours the jury in the case of Nan Patterson, on trial for the murder of Caesar Young, reported a disagreement and was discharged and the defendant was remanded to the Tombs. Miss Patterson collapsed on hearing the news and fell fainting into her father's arms. The jury stood six for acquittal and six for conviction. The future course of the prosecution is unknown.

The jury took but one ballot, according to the foreman, and devoted the remainder of the time to discussion. From first to last the division was even. For twenty-four hours they discussed the evidence and one juror is quoted as saying that one of those who stood for acquittal tried on the coat which Young wore at the time of his death and with a revolver attempted to demonstrate that suicide was possible.

Interest now centers in District Attorney Jerome's future action. He has not said what he will do, but it was intimated that the way the jury stood may influence him as to a new trial.

FATAL ROW AT DEATHBED.

Dying Mother Sees Sons Engaged in Desperate Fight.

Omaha, Dec. 26.—At the bedside of their mother, who was believed to be dying, Robert and Cornelius Buckley became involved in a quarrel which resulted in the probably mortal stabbing of one of them.

The brothers had fallen to the floor beside the bed and were engaged in a desperate struggle when Robert drew a knife from his pocket and plunged the blade into the abdomen of Cornelius.

The mother, whose condition was so critical that her physician had advised that her children be called, had a severe nervous shock and is likely to die. The wounded man is in a critical condition at St. Joseph's hospital. His brother is in jail.

ARRIVE AT PORTLAND.

Mitchell and Hermann Prepared to Deny Charges.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 24.—Senator John Mitchell and Congressman Hermann arrived in this city during the evening from Washington to deny by their presence and by their testimony, if permitted to do so, the charges made in certain quarters connecting them with the land frauds in this state which are being investigated by agents of the government at the behest of President Roosevelt. Neither Mitchell nor Hermann would make a statement except to deny any wrongdoing. Neither of the men seems to know the exact nature of the charges against them.

TWO BROTHERS SHOT DOWN.

Both of Them Killed and a Companion Mortally Wounded.

Midkiff, W. Va., Dec. 26.—Lucian and Ira Lucas, brothers, were shot and killed and Octavo Jenkins was mortally wounded while returning from church.

With the men at the time of the tragedy was Miss Martha Williams. The party was passing through a dense woodland when the assassins fired. Ira Lucas had clutched in his hand a revolver with two chambers empty and the supposition is that he returned the fire of the assassins.

RESULT OF A QUARREL.

Four Men Killed and Two Others Badly Hurt.

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 27.—As a result over a quarrel over a man talking with another man's sweetheart without asking his permission four men are dead, following a general shooting affray, and two are seriously injured at Grangers, Logan county. The victims are: John and Marvin Hart, Martin Johnson and Luther Bascom.

William Riley and Henry Tuberville are injured, the latter probably fatally.

BLAZE AT SIOUX CITY

PROPERTY VALUED AT NEARLY TWO MILLION DOLLARS IS DESTROYED.

Practically Two Entire Blocks in the Center of the Best Business District Wiped Out, Including Several of the Finest Buildings in the City—One Man Jumps From a Fifth Story Window and Is Instantly Killed.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 24.—A fire which resulted in the death of one person, a monetary loss roughly estimated at $2,000,000 and the destruction of nearly two entire blocks, started in the basement of the Pelletier department store, located at Fourth and Jackson streets, at 8 o'clock Friday night. The district burned over lies in the center of the business portion of the city and among the buildings were several of the most substantial structures in the city. In these buildings were located many stores, several wholesale establishments and three national banks. Its origin is in doubt.

A large number of Christmas shoppers crowded the Pelletier and other stores and it was with difficulty that all managed to escape from the burning building. The flames enveloped much of the building before the fire department arrived and was quite beyond control. For three hours and a half, until they had gotten beyond range of the large buildings, the flames carried everything in their path. Both telegraph companies were put out of business by reason of their wires all being burned out and the office of the Western Union was destroyed. Although a great number of telephone circuits were within the district, long distance circuits were later established with outside points.

The fire was gotten under control at 11:30 with the assistance of several outside departments.

Three Banks Destroyed.

The burned buildings include three banks, the Western Union telegraph office, the Leader hotel, at Third and Pierce streets, the West hotel, a large new structure, at Third and Nebraska streets; Higman & Skinner, wholesale boots and shoes, and a large number of small establishments.

In the course of their flight the flames were communicated to a score of other business places.

When the flames had reached a point near the Tribune building, facing Pierce street, the firemen concentrated their efforts and managed to prevent the destruction of that structure, although it was considerably damaged.

The man killed was a tenant in the Massachusetts building who jumped from a fifth story.

A partial list of the losses is as follows:

Helletier Dry Goods company, $240,000; Orkin Bros., furnishings, $15,000; J. K. Brugh & Co., queensware, $60,000; R. R. Purslow, West hotel and other buildings, $45,000; Commercial block, $40,000; Sbulain estate, $60,000; Northwestern National bank, $5,000; Begley & Co., clothing, $15,000; Paul Leader, hotel, $20,000; George Conway, wholesale tobacconist, $55,000; State bank building company, Toy building, $175,000; Martin Bros., department store, $25,000; Davidson Bros., department store, $10,000; Magner & Wells, saloon, $13,000.

TRAINS IN COLLISION

SEVEN MEN KILLED IN WRECK ON SOUTHERN RAILWAY IN ILLINOIS.

Mauds Station, Ill., Dec. 26.—In a head-on collision between two passenger trains on the Southern railway near here Sunday one passenger and six employes were killed and seventeen passengers and eight employes were injured. Most of the injuries are not serious.

The passenger, which left St. Louis at 9 o'clock Saturday night, collided head-on with the passenger train leaving Louisville at the same hour. According to Southern railway officials the disaster was caused by the failure of the operator at Browns, Ill., to deliver to the eastbound train an order naming a meeting point for the two trains. The St. Louis-Louisville and the St. Louis-Knoxville sleepers were drawn by both trains, but none of the passengers in these four cars were injured. Both engines were badly damaged and four coaches destroyed.

Following is the list of the dead:

Charles Schmidt, Engineer Bowen, Fireman Charles Hutt, Mail Clerk H. D. Hogan, Section Foreman Underwood, Employe Henry Hoskin and Employe Cyrus Hutchinson.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

Party of Slavs Burned to Death in Their Shanty.

Old Town, Md., Dec. 27.—Mack Nimarick, his wife and child, Anna, and Messun Cole, Nimarick's sister-in-law, all Slavs, were burned to death Monday in a shanty. An explosion of coal oil is supposed to have caused the accident. Foul play is suspected by the police, as Nimarick is said have had a considerable sum of money on his person Sunday.

GUESTS ROUTED OUT.

St. James Hotel at Duluth Destroyed by Fire.

Duluth, Dec. 27.—Sixty guests at the St. James hotel were routed from the building in their night clothing early in the morning. Two theatrical companies were among the guests and lost most of their belongings. It was the eighth time the building has burned since 1871.

MEMBERSHIP TOO LARGE.

Size of Panama Canal Commission May Be Reduced.

Washington, Dec. 24.—President Roosevelt has given consideration recently to suggestions looking to a reduction in the membership of the Panama canal commission, but thus far, it can be said, no definite decision has been reached.

It has been urged by some members of congress that the commission is so large as to be unwieldy. It is known that Representative Hepburn of Iowa, chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, is inclined to the opinion that the commission is too large and that the chief engineer of the canal ought to have greater initial authority than he now has. Mr. Hepburn talked to the president during the day about canal matters, but he declined to say whether it was the intention of his committee to introduce a measure looking to the crystallization of his ideas into law. Before action of a definite nature is taken the subject will be considered carefully in all its phases.

PROMINENT LAWYER INDICTED.

Further Developments in Oregon Land Fraud Cases.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 22.—The first of the sensational indictments for land frauds which it has been expected would result from the present investigations of the federal grand jury was against Franklin Pierce Mays, a prominent lawyer of this city and a member of one of the best known families of Oregon.

The indictment also includes Horace G. McKinley, S. A. D. Puter, Emma L. Watson, already convicted of conspiracy against the government; Marie Ware, the defendant in the first land fraud case, who was acquitted; Robert W. Simpson, John Doe and Richard Roe.

SEVEN AUSTRIANS DIE

SUFFOCATED WHILE AT WORK IN A SOFT CLAY MINE NEAR BOLIVAR, PA.

Bolivar, Pa., Dec. 23.—Seven Austrians were suffocated Thursday in the No. 2 soft clay mine of the Reese Hammond Firebrick company near here. There were about twenty-five men in the mine. Of the eighteen who were rescued all are in bad shape and two are liable to die.

The cause of the disaster was most peculiar. A small building burned down at the mouth of the mine and the air shaft, acting as a sort of flue, drew into the draft the heat and smoke from the fire, thus suffocating the men, whose escape was shut off by the fire at the opening. Immediately the burning shanty was torn away and rescuers rushed into the mine, but already seven had succumbed to the heat and smoke.

COURT DISPLEASES CASTRO.

So the President of Venezuela Deposed All the Members.

Washington, Dec. 24.—It has been reported to the state department that President Castro of Venezuela has deposed the entire personnel of the superior court of Venezuela on the alleged ground that the court had acquitted a prisoner of the charge of murder whom the president believed should have been convicted.

J. A McDermott a popular traveling man of Canby has been selected by Governor-elect John A. Johnson as Minnesota state oil inspector.

A newspaper is a mirror reflecting a town. If it contains no advertisements people naturally conclude there is no one there who wants to do business says the Sauk Center Herald.

Speaking of the Santa Claus myth, the Saturday Evening Post says:

> There comes a moment, to be sure, when truth brings a pang; but it passes quickly in the pride of new knowledge. The memory of the first delight in Santa Claus lingers a lifetime, recalling the deep splendors of the illusioned world of childhood. Those who have loved Santa Claus, however cruelly undeceived, love to make their children love him. The world is a garden of lies; but; praise be to the saints and poets, some of the lies are beautiful!

The Fosston Thirteen Towns says that the announcement of the newspaper "merger" at McIntosh has been made at last. The Times and Tribune are one, as the Times. John Petterson and C. T. Lanman are credited with the dual proposition and all who know these gentlemen will appreciate the fact that from this time on, there will be nothing "too good" for the McIntosh people, in the newspaper line. They will have the best the country affords.

Grand Forks is to, have a third daily newspaper after the first of next year. A. C. Reinecke, formerly with the Press and Plaindealer of that city, who recently purchased the printing plant and business o The Gateway Press, has secured the Hearst telegraph news service, and beginning with Jan. 2, 1905, will publish a daily afternoon newspaper which will be sold on the streets for one cent per copy. It is the first daily newspaper in that state to be sold regularly at 1 cent a copy. A large amount of advertising has already been secured for the new venture, and the circulation promises to be over 1,000 on the first issue. The paper is to start small in size, and will have all the news of the world, state and city in condensed form.

The cry is for a state immigration bureau to get settlers into Minnesota Good enough so far as it goes. but you can't expect immigrants to settle on the unimproved lands of this state in any large numbers until you get a few roads into these unsettled regions. Norther Mille Lacs county has lost many settlers simply because the settlers desired to do something else besides fish, hunt and trap, says the Princeton Union. They wanted roads, but couldn't get them. The same is true in every unsettled part of the State. Minnesota wants roads—good roads—and northern Minnesota needs them badly. Get your roads and your settlers will come fast enough. Minnesota does not need to pay a bonus to get settlers. We have attractions Canada would give millions to have.

BUYING A SENATORSHIP.

Probably no more timely or to the point editorial could be imagined than the following from the Duluth News-Tribune, bearing on the present senatorial situation, and as usual the News-Tribune's argument is logical and to the point:

"The story of attempted bribery told by Representative Haskell, of Ramsey county, is in no way surprising. To those who have watched the tactics pursued by the coterie of conspirators attempting to defeat Senator Clapp for re-election, it comes in the nature of the expected.

"Eliminate boodle from the campaign, and there would be no word of opposition to Senator Clapp.

"Outside of Hennepin county, no candidate for the Legislature prior to the recent election, dared to intimate opposition to the junior senator.

"An overwhelming majority of the members were elected on the understanding that their votes would be recorded for Clapp.

"Immediately after election the fight was begun, and the candidacy of a Minneapolis man of great financial backing was urged.

"Every effort possible was made to induce other candidates to enter the field.

"The conspirators cared not who these candidates might be if they could attract the support of legislators pledged to Senator Clapp.

"Many prominent men in the state were mentioned, but none of them, no matter how alluring the promise of a senatorship might be, would lend himself to a scheme so fraught with danger to his reputation.

"It is a matter of common gossip in the St. Paul hotel lobbies that anti-Clapp money is to be had in plenty by legislators who are willing to declare themselves for any other many for the Senate.

"Samuel R. Van Sant, swollen almost to bursting with personal vanity, after listening to the flattering assurances of the very men who have been busy during his entire administration in villifying and belittling him, has consented to stand as a candidate.

"So absorbed is he in the contemplation of his own importance, he cannot see that he is being used as the tool of a few designing men, only to be cast aside when they have no further use for him.

"The same men utilized his monumental self esteem to assist in placing a Democratic Governor in the new capital, and now for his self-glorification, he is lending himself to the plotting of a crew of political buccaneers, who interest in the Republican party does not extend beyond their own personal profit.

"This crew, notooiously corrupt, assumes to be the champions of honesty and virtue, in traducing and destroying the reputations of honest public men.

"During the campaign the News Tribune warned the voters of the state that the conspisacy to defeat Robert C. Dunn had for its further object the retirement of Senator Clapp.

"The renegade Republican newspapers sneered at this statement and asserted that there was no opposition to Clapp, yet today every one of these papers, headed by the Minneapolis Journal and the St. Paul Dispatch, are fighting the junior senator.

"It is notorious that more than one United States Senator has been elected from Minnesota by the corrupt use of money.

"It is time that the people insist upon their representatives voting for the popular choice for this high office, and that the power placed in their hands be not used as a commodity to be bartered and sold to the highest bidder."

The Warroad Plaindealer has been enlarged to a seven column folio, new material added and now presents a very neat appearance. The Plaindealer evidently intends to keep pace with the city's advancement.

The Thief River Falls News, always anxious to "stir up the animals" comes out with a long story as to how the people of Red Lake Falls are worked up to frenzy over the election contest case of Messrs. Hanson and Moreau and goes on to state that dire results have been threatened the business people here in case Hanson is declared elected. He states further that a collection has been taken up to assist Moreau in carrying out the fight. There isn't much use in denying John's tirades, as the people of the county are too familiar with his tactics to take any stock in this sort of slush. It is true that a majority of the business people here do believe that Moreau was honestly elected, but in so far as taking any further interest than expressing their opinions John's hatched up story falls short of the truth. The "county seat" bugaboo has been worked to death, John. Give it a breathing spell and tell the general public how it feels to be transformed into a Democrat—which story will doubtless prove more interesting to the people who read the News.

Imperishable Value of Lands.

Amid the crash of stocks and the wreck of inflated trusts, it will be observed that land and urban real estate are showing no tokens of panic or shrinkage. Into all of the states of the west the procession of farm buyers continues to move in uninterrupted streams. None of the reverses of speculation has precipitated any lack of confidence in the soil. It remains, as it will for all time, the firm and unshaken basis of the country's wealth.

The man who is the possessor of a piece of land has the game in his own hands. There is no promoter or stock gambler who can jeopardize his investment. Where it is purchased with judgment land is always worth money paid for it, and it is bound to increase in value. It cannot be destroyed or carried away. It requires only industry to make it profitable and productive. It constitutes a source of independence in any condition of the money market and amid all of the mutations of speculative enterprises.

Real estate represents a tremendous proportion of the wealth of the country. The richest families in America, in England and in all the countries on the globe are landholders. The Astors in New York afford a convincing example. It is the hereditary ownership of land that holds the English government together. Out of the soil proceed all intrinsic values. There will never be any more land on the globe than there is now. But there will be millions and millions more people to consume what land produces. This makes the upward tendency of land inevitable. There is no escape from that result. No investment judiciously made in realty can fail to grow, and the security behind the investment is imperishable.

The country has witnessed, again and again, and quite recently, the disastrous effect of yielding to the temptation of taking the chance on another man's game to obtain large profits. Thousands of people have lost their all by the collapse of such schemes as the captains of finance evolve to rob their victims. Had the men and women who have been impoverished by the "genius" of Mr. Morgan placed their money in land or city real estate they would have something to show for it to-day and would not be stricken with the fear of dependence and poverty.

Land is the one thing in this world whose value is absolutely intrinsic, and its worth and desirability ought to be made apparent as it has never been made apparent before by the ruin that has overtaken those unfortunate persons who have been fleeced of their all by licensed stock robbers.—Kansas City Star.

STOP THAT COUGH!

Colds Lead to Catarrh—Catarrh Leads to Consumption.

A Beautiful Girl's Experience

Miss Alma Lillia, 506 18th St., Rock Island, Ill., says:

"I am a firm friend to Peruna, for it cured me in two days of a cough which had been annoying me for three weeks, and which had developed a serious catarrhal affection of the throat and lungs.

"I had a number of colds during the year, and each left me with a little more catarrh; then this bad cough was the worst. I took cough medicines until I sickened at the sight of them. But Peruna cured me up in such quick time that I am its firm friend. Four weeks' constant use of it got the catarrh entirely out of my system.

"It deserves all the praise bestowed upon it."—Alma Lillia.

Nine cases of consumption out of ten occur in this way:

A person catches a cold. The cold is not properly cured, and they quickly catch another one. This cold is dilly-dallied with by no treatment, or some treatment that is ineffectual, and the cold continues.

Then they catch another cold and begin to cough. Then they take cough syrups, but they do no good.

By and by they get tired of taking medicine and give up in despair.

Their cold continues and their cough grows worse. Then they apply to a doctor, only to discover that they are in the first stages of consumption.

Miss Lillia, of Illinois, started out exactly in this way. Fortunately, she took a course of Peruna before it was too late. She had caught several colds, then a cough developed. She took all sorts of cough medicines, until, as she puts it, "I sickened at the sight of them." In four weeks Peruna had cured her of her catarrh and her system was entirely rid of it.

This is what Peruna is doing all the while. Not a day, and probably not an hour, passes but some one has a similar experience with Peruna.

The first step toward consumption is catching cold. The next step is a failure to cure it promptly. The third step is the development of catarrh, which gradually becomes chronic. The fourth step, the catarrh begins to spread from the head to the throat. The fifth step, the catarrh spreads to the bronchial tubes and lungs. It then becomes consumption in its first stage.

At any time during the progress of the catarrh, from the first onset of the cold to its final settlement in the lungs, Peruna can be relied upon to stop the disease. It cures entirely. Even after consumption has become thoroughly developed, many cases have found in Peruna a permanent cure. After they have been given up by physicians to die of consumption Peruna has cured them.

We have hundreds of testimonials that declare these facts in the most enthusiastic language.

U. S. Senator John M. Thurston, from Nebraska, writes the following letter from Washington, D. C., under date of April 6, 1901:

"I have used Peruna at various times during the past year or two with most satisfactory results.

"It entirely relieved me from an irritating cough, the result of excessive effort in the Presidential campaign, and I am a firm believer in its efficacy in any such trouble."—Jno. M. Thurston.

To take quieting medicines to stop a cough is absurd and harmful. The only way to stop a cough permanently and without doing more injury than good is to cure the catarrh, which is exactly what Peruna does. It cures the catarrh of the bronchial tubes and the cough ceases.

At the slightest appearance of a cough a bottle of Peruna should be taken according to directions. One bottle in the beginning will do more than a half dozen bottles after the catarrh has fastened itself on the lungs.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

After Election Politics

Items Political Gleaned From The Gazette's Exchanges.

Excuse us but we were forced to smile a great smole when we saw the notice of re-appointment of state superintendent J. W. Olson, coupled with Gov. Johnson's explantion that he desired this particular office to be kept out of politics. If this office haen't been in politics during the past four years there has simply been no politics in the state. The Times cares not who is state superintendent only so he is a good man, and Mr. Olson is good enough; but we dislike such ranting hypocricy. Admit rather that he pulled the proper strings and brought down the juicy plum. He had the longest pole and knocked the persimmons.—Preston Times.

Frank Eddy joshingly appeals to his subscribers to come in and pay up their subscriptions to the Herald, so that he can buy a dress suit and run for U. S. senator. There is no question but that Frank would make a rattling good senator, but the fact is, the republicans realize that he is one of the very few men in the state who can defeat Johnson for Governor in 1906, consequently he will have to stay in Minnesota and take his medicine.—Warroad Plaindealer.

The Dunn papers are threatening to support Johnson for a second term. Nice threat.—Anoka Union.

If it was right for the Van Sant-Collins crowd to support Johnson in 1904 why would it be wrong for the Dunn crowd to support him in 1906.—Breckenridge Telegram.

But see here, in order for the "Dunn crowd" to support Johnson in 1906, they must admit that the "Van Sant-Collins crowd" was right in supporting Johnson in 1904. Are they willing to do that?—Browns Valley Tribune.

But yet, Mr. Tribune, the old saying, "what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander" bobs up serenely in this instance. Perhaps if the Telegram's suggestions were carried out, so that both of these "crowds" got a touch of the bumping, they would get together after that and let their love for party good overshadow their desire for the fat appointments.

* * *

Robert C. Dunn, late candidate for governor, is criticised in many quarters for having omitted to file a statement of his campaign expenses. We have but little sympathy for this law, and do not believe that it would stand a constiutional test. Perhaps Mr. Dunn entertains similar views, and prefers to run chances of a heavy fine for a violation of its provisions, than to perjure himself by making a false statement as to his expenses, for the law also fixes a limit of the amount that may be legally expended, and Mr. Dunn, like hundreds of other candidates, no doubt exceeded the limit. Bob probably considers his case one of "be damned if you do, and be damned if you don't."—Browns Valley Tribune.

* * *

There is no further need for any more reports from the public examiner on the official acts of Bob Dunn as auditor. There are none forthcoming either. The affiliation of the two Johnsons is now in order.—Inter-Lake Tribune.

Cleve Van Dyke, executive clerk to-be of Mr. Johnson, governor-to-be, came up from St. Peter Saturday. He told a gruesome tale of the overwhelming mass of applications, recommendations, petitions, letters and telegrams that smothered the to-be governor, all relating to the desires, the expectations, the hungering and thirsting of democrats after some of the loaves and fishes to be passeled out next month. Which reminds us that George William Curtis once pleasantly and facetiously remarked that the Democratic party was "an organized appetite."—St. Paul Dispatch.

Dec. 26th, 1904.

SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR,
Red Lake Falls, Minn.,

DEAR SIR,

I wish to compliment you on your Holiday Edition of the Gazette, and in fact for the paper in general. I find that a man receives plenty of kicks in this world and very few praises, so I give you this one for a starter for the new year.

Yours truly,
L. E. JONES.

FIND GOLD AND SILVER.

Claimed That Company Represented by Hines Has Located Minerals.

Kelliher Journal: The latest report current regarding the mysterious company which is represented by Jabez Hines is to the effect that the company has for its purpose the establishment of a mining camp at Hines Spur which will be used while taking from Mother Earth large quantities of iron ore and gold-bearing quartz which are said to have been discovered near the site of Mr. Hines' city. As to the truth of the mining story, no one can vouch, but a statement made this week by one who is on the inside discredits the reported establishment of either negroes or Dowieites in the vicinity of Blackduck.

The secrecy with which the company has carried on its operations lends color to the belief that mineral has been found, as should the report have gained circulation before the options were secured it would have resulted in the boosting of land values in the upper country to a price that would have made it absolutely impossible to buy the land for any reasonable amount.

Another fact which adds to the probability that a mineral find has been made is that Blackduck is directly in line with a range that extends from Hibbing to Manitoba, which has long been thought to contain veins of iron-ore by mineral experts.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

SAMUEL GIBEAU,
Register of Deeds.

MORTGAGE FORECLOURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of sixteen dollars which became due April 21, 1904, and is due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Manne Hammer, a single man, mortgagor, to Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, mortgagee, bearing date the 9th day of April, 1903, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of April A. D. 1903, at 3 o'clock p. m. in Book 28 of Mortgages on pages 429 and 430, and whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of said default, the whole principal sum of said mortgage, to wit $96.00, did on the 22nd day of April 1904, become at once due and payable and was so declared by Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls; and whereas, there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of ninety-six dollars with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, and the further sum of forty-eight dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, the latter amount being for interest paid by said Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, under the terms of said mortgage upon a prior first mortgage of eight hundred dollars, to H. A. Poritz, default having been made in the payment of same and said amount, by said mortgagor, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof:

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage first described will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Southwest quarter of section one [1] in township one hundred fifty one 151 north of range forty three 43 west in Red Lake County Minnesota which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Red Lake County, Minnesota at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county and state on the 28th day of January A. D. 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $96 and interest as aforesaid and $48, and interest as aforesaid, and taxes, if any, on said premises, and a reasonable attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage, the same being hereby stated to be twenty-five dollars and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give an old fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned side German Syrup will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs allays the irritation, and effectively stops the cough. Any child will take it It is invaluable in a household of children. Trial size bottle 25c; regular size, 75c. YELLOW ROBE OF MANDARIN

Gift of Emperor of China Placed on Exhibition at Kansas City Library.

Those who entered the museum of the public library at Kansas City the other day were attracted to a long yellow silk robe in one of the cases. The robe is not only beautiful and immensely valuable in itself, but has a history.

It is loaned to the board of education by D. R. Macintosh, of that city, and was presented to Dr. L. M. Ross, an uncle of Mr. Macintosh, by the emperor of China about the year 1860. Dr. Ross was a Scotchman, and was employed at the Chinese court as a physician. The sister of the emperor was taken very ill, and after others had given her up, she was placed in the hands of Dr. Ross for treatment.

He succeeded in restoring her health, and as a reward, the emperor presented him with the robe, which is that of a mandarin of the rank of pink and blue buttons. Accompanying the robe was a short document in Chinese giving Dr. Ross the power of taking the life of any ordinary Chinaman without being held responsible.

At the time the present was made the Chinese court was in a state of rejoicing over some victory, which fact accounts for the black crepe on the right sleeve of the robe. In China black stands for rejoicing and white for mourning.

The robe is made of silk and trimmed with gold braid and secured about the body by two rows of buttons of solid gold. The design of the dragon is worked in the robe in gold threads by hand.

KNOWS ALL ABOUT NOAH.

Archaeologist Tells of Wonderful Discoveries Recently Made in Egypt.

M. V. Millerd, archaeologist and distinguished excavator along the Nile, who was recently at Indianapolis, declared that he had discovered the place where Noah built the ark. Millerd for a year past was engaged in excavations at various places on the Nile, especially at Gizeh, in the neighborhood of the great pyramid of Cheops.

"I have discovered during the last three years," he said, "just where Noah lived, where the ark was built and that Noah built the great pyramid of Khufu, known as the pyramid of Gizeh. Noah was the greatest king the world has ever seen. He was the greatest of the Egyptian Pharaohs, not excepting Rameses the Great.

"Noah was a millionaire. The biblical account of the flood gives no clew as to where Noah lived or where his ship carpenters were at work for 120 years constructing the ark. Noah was 600 years old when the flood came. He must have been a millionaire and a man of great authority. He built the ark at his own expense. Such a boat in these times would cost more than half a million dollars.

"Noah built the great pyramid during the earlier part of the fourth Egyptian dynasty and not more than 1,200 years after God had expelled Adam and Eve from the garden of Eden."

FOR UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE.

Advocates to Hold Congress Next Year—Representatives from Many Lands to Attend.

Early in 1905 a congress made up of advocates of the new universal language known as "Esperanto" will be held, presided over by the inventor of the system, M. Zavrenhoff.

Members from France, Italy, Austria, Germany and England will attend, besides Belgium and Switzerland, where the language is said to have made the greatest progress.

According to its inventor, the work of the congress will be devoted to fresh improvements in "Esperanto," all with an idea of making it briefer and cutting off every superfluous letter from every word.

For the moment the question of the spread of Esperanto is not pressing, since Zavrenhoff claims it has made great progress everywhere in Europe.

The philologists of the United States have not shown much interest in it.

Esperanto is being used here and there on the continent; two "learned societies' 'in the Balkan states have, Zavrenhoff says, held their proceedings in it, which have been printed as curiosities.

NOT TO SLEEP FOR MONTH

Man Who Says He Has Not Slept in Ten Years Wagers He Will Remain Awake for 31 Days.

Albert Herpin, of Trenton, N. J., who says he has not slept a wink in ten years, will undertake to prove himself the sleepless wonder and at the same time win a bet of $10,000 made by a Chicago specialist that he cannot keep awake 31 days.

The test is to commence in this city February 28 next. The money has been put up by R. C. Corbin, of Chicago, and four physicians will "sit up" with Herpin for the purpose of making sure that he does not steal a nap.

Herpin's wakefulness dates back ten years, to the time when his wife died. His nerves were affected so that he could not sleep and he kept awake so long that he could not get the habit of sleeping again.

Governor-Elect Is Rich.

Frank W. Higgins, the newly-elected governor of New York, owns half of the town of Olean, in which he lives. He owns oil wells in Pennsylvania, timber lands in Wisconsin, iron mines of the Mesaba range, and owns a number of steamers that ply along the Atlantic coast and on the great lakes.

Knew the Dodge.

The story is told of a plumber who presented a bill of £10 to a retired millionaire for repairing a pipe. The millionaire glanced at it, and handed out a sovereign, saying: "Receipt that bill."

"But, sir—"

"Don't but me," interrupted the rich man. "I know what I'm about. I used to be a plumber myself."

Plumber smiles, receipts bill and returns 10s. change.—Smith's Weekly.

Sold Again.

The horse, a very handsome animal, had just changed hands.

"I do not see any fault in him," boasted the proud buyer.

"No, and I can assure you that he will never see any in you," remarked the foxy salesman, pocketing the fat roll.

It was not until the horse had walked into a post on his way out of the ring that the buyer realized the truth of this remark.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Deep and Lasting Sorrow.

Mr. Sayles—Why, my dear, why are you crying?

Mrs. Sayles (with sobs)—Oh, John, don't you remember my new crepon skirt I got at such a bargain last week for £3?

Mr. Sayles—Yes; what then?

Mrs. Sayles (weeping afresh)—I p-p-passed Lacey's t-to-day, and they were all m-m-marked down to £2 19s. 11¾d. Boo-hoo!—Smith's Weekly.

Supplementary Mythology.

"Tell me, dear," said Aphrodite, turning away from her mirror for a moment, "where I ought to put this little black patch to produce the best effect."

"Write to the papers and find out," roughly replied Hephaestus. "I'm no beauty doctor. I'm a blacksmith."

Then he went out and forged another thunderbolt.—Chicago Tribune.

Cause and Effect.

Mrs. Neighbors—I'm sorry to hear that your husband is ill.

Mrs. Homer—Oh, I guess it isn't anything serious.

Mrs. Neighbors—What seems to be the trouble?

Mrs. Homer—He took a fancy to a new brand of health food and ate too much of it.—Chicago News.

Heartless.

"Bliggins talked to his wife so harshly the other day," said the gossip, "that she actually wept."

"The monster! Did he relent then?"

"No. He merely said it was cheaper than sending her to an emotional drama to have a good cry."—Washington Star.

Then They All Laughed.

"Gentlemen," said the candidate, "you twit me with having turned my coat. Years ago I supported your policy. Then I had a reason. But now, gentlemen, I have lost my reason." And he wondered at the deafening smile that pervaded the meeting.—Chicago Journal.

A Useless Enterprise.

"'Rastus, why don't you sign der pledge?"

"'Tain't no use," said Mr. Pinkley; "I writes so bad dat if I did put my name to de pledge I wouldn't be able to reco'nize de signature."—Washington Star.

Bought and Paid For.

"They are saying that you bought and paid for your election."

"That's right," answered Senator Sorghum. "I can look the world in the face and say: 'I owe no man a penny.'"—Washington Star.

Appreciation.

To read them o'er I love to pause,
  Those poems in the magazine.
They really soothe me more because
  I never know just what they mean.
—Washington Star.

TOO FUNNY.

"Look at me! Look at me!" pleaded the distracted lover. "See how your aloofness affects me! Only give me one glance—"

"Oh, don't tempt me," said the gentle damsel, keeping her eyes averted. "Don't tempt me to look at you. I have a fever blister on my lip and can't laugh."—Chicago Tribune.

Financially All There.

"My sister sings 'Il Trovatore' in five sharps."

"Mine sang it in six flats, but they made her move out of every one of them."—Judge.

NEW STRAW HAT IS COMING

Eastern Drummer Makes Announcement of Novel Headgear for Use Next Season.

"There will be a new thing in straw hats next season," said M. F. Frankel, representative of a large eastern hat importing and exporting firm, to a Milwaukee Sentinel man. "It is what we call a spiderweb straw, and it takes 22 of these hats to weigh a pound. They are made in Switzerland and are sailor shaped. They are made so that they cannot be injured by rain. In fact, when they get wet the straw swells and the hat is even better than before. They will sell for about $2. These new hats, or any other hat for that matter, will not cut any figure in the sale of Panamas. A good Panama is always valuable and they will always be in demand. On acount of the big demand in the last two years the old supply that had accumulated in the countries where they are made is now exhausted and the hats are harder to get. The prices, however, will not be advanced any, as the retailers always have got a good big price for them. The impression that seems to have gotten about that the Panamas are made under water is merely a delusion. They are made during the early hours of the morning and the late hours of the evening, when the atmosphere is moist and there is a heavy dew. This is on account of the fact that the straw must be wet when handled, or at least damp, so that it will not break, and it is on this account that the hats are so valuable. The natives can only work on the hats about four hours a day, and for the life of you you can't hurry them."

MONKS IN SOLITUDE GO MAD

Queer Fortress Monastery of Mar Saba on the Dead Sea—Women Positively Barred.

"The Prison of Ten Thousand" is the name given by the wandering Arabs of the districts across Jordan to the fortress monastery of Mar Saba on the Dead sea. Not many years ago there were actually 10,000 monks living in this grim and mournful retreat, and even to-day there are more than 1,000 left. The monastery is one of the oldest in the world, having been founded some 1,300 years ago by Euthymius, who lived there in a cave dug in the rocky wall of the Kedron ravine. The fair Empress Eudoxia formed a romantic attachment for this stern anchorite and built near by a tower, which still exists, from which she might watch him at a distance, for, true to his vows, Euthymius utterly refused to see or speak to a woman. Now the tower is inhabited by a watchman who keeps constant guard against the incursions of prowling Arabs. Twice during the past century the place has been raided by hordes from the desert. The monks who live there to-day are the most religious of any in the Greek church. They pass their lives in everlasting penance, with no hope of pleasure and no cheerful incident. Many of them go mad from the horror and desolation of their surroundings. No woman is permitted to come within sight of Mar Saba.

KIWI THE OLDEST OF BIRDS

Devoid of Wings or Tail, But Possessed of Four Toes—Inhabitant of New Zealand.

In New Zealand is found the kiwi, a strange bird of the ostrich family. Ostriches have two toes, but the extinct moas had three toes, so also have the existing emus, cassowaries and rheas or South American ostriches. The kiwi, however, differs from the other struthious birds in having four toes. Further, the kiwi cannot be said to be quite ostrichlike, for in size it is not larger than an ordinary barn fowl. It has a small head, with a large and muscular neck and long, slender bill, with the distinguishing feature that the nostrils are placed close to its tip. The legs are short, but the muscles on the thighs are well developed and the feet are strong and powerful and provided with sharp claws. The kiwi is a bird devoid of any external trace of wings, and there is no trace of tail visible, while it is covered with long, narrow, hairlike feathers, and on the fore part of the head and sides of the face are straggling hairlike feelers.

Corset Relic of Ancients.

The corset has been the theme of much denunciation from doctors, dress reformers and artists. The last-named have adopted the view that it is unnatural and inartistic, destroying the fine lines of the figure. As a proof of this argument, reference has frequently been made to the Greek statues, and the corset has been branded as a modern atrocity. But is it so modern? As a lady writer points out, researches recently made in the ruined cities of South America have brought to light a carving of an Aztec lady as tightly corseted as any woman of to-day. So it would seem that, however unhealthy the corset may be, it has at least the sanction of antiquity.

Ducks Led by a Pigeon.

One of the strangest sights ever seen by sportsmen was witnessed the other day on the duck pass owned by Uri Lamprey, of St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Lamprey and a friend had been shooting for some time when they observed a flock of ducks coming along from the north. The ducks were blue winged teals and at their head was a white bird. "That's queer," said Mr. Lamprey; "I'll take the white bird and see what it is." Both sportsmen fired, both bringing down their bird. Upon examination it was found that the leader of the ducks was a tame white pigeon.

COLLEGIAN AS NURSE GIRL

Many Fair Students "Tend Baby" During University Course—No Task Too Humble.

From Virgil to dishwashing, from higher mathematics to tending baby, is the daily routine of scores of ambitious girl students at Barnard and the Teachers' college just now. No task is too humble for the young women who are working their way through college, as the announcement boards in the college buildings amply testify, says the New York Sun.

There are applications for socks to darn, floors to scrub, babies to tend, clothes to mend, dress skirts to bind, shirt waists to make, invalids to read to, divan pillows to make, besides typewriting and tutoring to do. Housekeepers on the heights have now come to depend upon student help, not only because the labor is considerably cheaper than the usual supply, but also because students are more trustworthy. So any fine day you may see scores of pretty, shirt-waisted, pompadour headed students taking their small charges out to air, wheeling invalids or toting small children to and from the kindergarten, while within doors you would see energetic girls scouring pans, cleaning silver, wiping dishes, dusting rooms, sewing, cooking and what not.

FALLS MAY MAKE EMPIRE.

Zambesi, "Smoke Which Is Noisy," Will Probably Be Foundation of a Great Nation.

"Smoke which makes a noise" is the meaning of Zambesi, the South African falls which have five times the power of Niagara or 25,000,000 horsepower, and whose flow of water is double that of Niagara, according to the Chicago Tribune. It is thought eventually these falls will supply power to all of industrial South Africa, thus transforming its immense solitude into a prosperous empire. The most promising field for exploitation is believed to lie in the operation of gold mines, driving the stamps, pumps, and other machinery. As is the case in all South Africa, Rhodesia is not irrigated naturally, and it will be necessary to introduce artificial irrigation, using the Zambesi for the force and water. Difficulty in constructing high tension lines in the neighborhood of the falls is anticipated on account of the enormous volumes of spray sent up there. This spray attains a height of 500 feet, falling in a fine rain over the surrounding territory. In periods of high water these columns of spray and the noise of the falls can be heard over nine miles. British engineers have already made pioneer developments.

SUSPICIOUS OF NEW WOMAN

Uncle Bijah, in Periodical Talk, Declares Himself Distrustful of Late Movement.

"It's the unexpected that happens—with men. 'Tain't so with women; they're sorter got to expectin' the time fer washin' an' wipin' dishes to come 'round regularly, an' it does. I look on this New Woman movement with 'spicion. The Old Woman was so blame much better'n I be that if they're goin' to improve her I'm 'fraid she'll git out o' my speer; an' if they ain't, what's the use o' monkeyin'? Podger says that he don't take no stock in releegion; but when I says to him, seys I, "Podger, did your old mother's prayers ever seem to lead you astray any?" you oughter heard how still he kept. Women are better than men, but when they forgit it they forgit so dum hard that it's discouragin'. Needin' one hand to hold her satchel, an' another to feel an' see if she's hangin' together behind, it's always seemed a burnin' shame to me that Nacher didn't give lovely woman another hand fer ger'ral an' misclianyus purposes. A man an' a woman started to travel together. He went by reason, an' she by instinct. What about it? Nothin'; only she was the one that got there."

MIGHT HAVE BEEN HIS HAT

Senator Tillman Relates Story Which Shows How Mildness May Turn Away Wrath.

Senator Tillman was talking to some reporters about the efficacy of mildness in debate. "One can't be too mild," he said, "and one gets on especially well if along with one's mildness there goes some rare and unexpected quality. To be mild and at the same time unexpected is, usually, to succeed. Here is an instance of what I mean. At the end of a theatrical performance one man turned to another and cried in a harsh, grating voice:

" 'Look here, you have sat on my silk hat. It is ruined.'

"The other looked at the silk hat. It was indeed a wreck. He said:

" 'I am sorry. This is too bad. But,' he added, 'it might have been worse.'

" 'How might it have been worse?' exclaimed the first man with an oath.

"The answer then given was an excellent example of mildness coupled with unexpectedness. It was:

" 'I might have sat on my own hat.' "

Glass Bath Tubs Latest.

Women who go in deeply for sanitation and hygiene in the home are adding annealed glass bath tubs to the equipment of their bathrooms. Of German make, the tubs are rather more expensive than the porcelain tubs, until recently looked upon as the height of luxury. It is said for them that the glass tubs are microbe proof, a fact which will find favor in the eyes of ultra-particular housekeepers.

EXTENSION IS CERTAIN

Either the Soo or the South Shore Will Build East and West Lire From Head of Lakes.

The extension of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic rond to the Red River Valley or of the South line to Duluth, has heeu a lively topic in transportation circles for several months. Both lines are owned by the Canadian Pacific. Whether the South Shore builds to Crookston or Thief River Falls, or the Soo line hnilds from their to meet the South Shore from Duluth, is a matter of detail for the parent company, the Canadian Pacific, to solve. That the connection will he made is well understood, and it is expected that the work will he accomplished in 1905.

It is possible that the South Shore will run trains over the Great Northern to a point near Fosston and there connect with the Soo line. This report was published a few weeks ago. It seems that when the Great Northern purchased the old Duluth & Winnipeg line, now a part of the Great Northern's northern division, there was some provision whereby the South Shore could enjoy a trackage between Duluth and Fosston upon giving certain notice and paying a certain price.

It has been reported that the South Shore has given the Great Northern notice of its intention to take advantage of this clause. The Great Northern of course is not eager to have the South Shore use its tracks and may find some method of preventing the clause becoming operative.

The Great Northern has abandoned the original Duluth & Winnipeg line between Duluth and Cloquet, and it is said that this may have some bearing on the agreement referred to and defeat the plans of the South Shore to run over the Great Northern from here to Fosston.

In connection with the development in the case the following special from New York has an important bearing:

"This would give the Canadian Pacific two outlets for its grain and would facilitate the movement of the western crop each year, incidentally it would provide a large amount of new business for the Duluth & South Shore. It would be a very important move from the standpoint of the latter road and would greatly enlarge its earning capacity."

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequaled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland Bentonville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then i began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by W. A. Gentilly Cheese Factory to Add Improvements.

Crookston Journal: Rev. Father Eli Theilen of Gentilly who is the manager and principal stockholder in the Gentilly cream cheese factory, the concern which has won at least two prize medals at World's fairs and has been accorded the highesh awards for full cream cheese at the state fairs upon several occasions, yesterday reported that he would install a complete plant for the manufacture of full cream brick cheese at the Gentilly factory during the present winter and coming spring. According to Father Thielen, round cheese, which has held its own and been so popular among consumers for so many years is losing its hold on the market and the full cream brick is at the present time in a great deal more demand than the old-fashioned round cheese. The product of the Gentilly factory during the past year has been very close to 100,000 pounds of first grade cheese and the greater portion of the output has been sold during the past fortnight at prices ranging from 10 to 11 cents per pound. A large warehouse equipped with cold storage was built during the summer to keep the chesse over the dull market period and the venture has been a very successful one.

Rev. Father Theilen arrived in the city yesterday morning on his way home to Gentilly from a tour of the large cities during which he has disposed of several carloads of the Gentilly product. He found no trouble whatever in finding sales for almost any amount imaginable and was able to secure top-notch prices.

When seen yesterday Father Theilen said: "Gentilly cheese at the present time is considered throughout the northwest as a standard of full cream cheese. Grocers and wholesalers are eager to secure stocks of our product and during our recent trip I experienced no trouble whatever in disposing of all of the cheese which we have on hand. By building our cold storage plant at the factory we have been able to command the maximum price for our product and have not been obliged to sell during the congested summer time when the market is floooded with cheese. Upon my recent trip what cheese I disposed of commanded a price of from 10 to 11 cents per pound while during the summer months the commodity was down as low as 7 cents per pound. Brick cheese is becoming very popular and we intend to add to our eqipment so as to be able to turn our product out in that form another season."

Worst of all Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years" she writes. "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered. For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by W. A. Schreiter, Druggist.

If you haven't time to prepare Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, it is now made in tablet form also. Get a package already to use. Makes you well; keeps you well. 35 cents, W. A. Schreiter.

New Cars on the St. Paul Road.

The Milwaukee and St. Paul road has just received from the car shops of Barney & Smith at Dayton, Ohio, two fine observation cars of an entirely new design. They have been built with a view to increasing the comfort of women Their novelty feature consists of the isolation of smokers in a compartment occupying one-half the car. The cars have all the latest improvements in the way of toilet rooms, electric lamps, electric fans, writing desks, etc. The observation platforms are much more extensive than in the old time observation cars, and the cars themselves are of a much stronger type, being furnished with a series of steel arches from side to side so that it will be next to impossible to crush in the sides. The new cars are for use on the road's Overland Limited trains between Chicago and Omaha They will be put into commission immediately.—Chicago Evening Post, November 19, 1904.

A BIG SUM IN BANKS.

ALMOST $10,000,000,000 ON DEPOSIT IN UNITED STATES.

Statistics Compiled by the Government Show a Gain of 100 Per Cent. Since 1892—Amount in Various Institutions.

Individual deposits in national and other incorporated banks and trust companies and in the private banks of the country amounted on June 30 to the enormous sum of $9,981,259,330, according to statistics compiled in the office of the comptroller of the currency at Washington and just made public. This is an increase over the figures reported by the comptroller's office at the close of the fiscal year 1902 of nearly 114 per cent., the aggregate individual deposits on the former date having been $4,664,934,250.

From 1892 to 1896 there was an increase of $280,190,173, bringing the total on June 30, 1895, up to $4,945,124,423. From 1896 to 1900 the deposits increased $2,293,862,027, and the total for June 30, 1900, was $7,238,986,450. From 1900 to June 30 this year the individual deposits increased $2,745,369,054, or about 38 per cent.

Adding to the total for the United States the amounts held in incorporated and private banks in Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines, brings the aggregate of individual deposits in banks located in territory under the sovereignty of the United States up to $10,000,546,999.

The individual deposits in each class of banks on June 30, 1904, are reported as follows: National banks, $3,311,433,507; state banks, $2,054,936,715; savings banks, $2,918,775,329; loan and trust companies, $1,600,322,325; private banks, $95,791,454. The banks in the island possessions held individual deposits amounting to $19,287,669. Of this total the national banks in Hawaii and Porto Rico held $1,006,335, the remaining $18,281,334 being held by private banks and incorporated banks other than national.

The statistics show that approximately 33 per cent. of the deposits are in national banks, 29 per cent. in savings institutions, 20 per cent. in state banks, 16 per cent. in loan and trust companies, and nearly 1 per cent. in private banks. The banks other than national located in the island possessions held about one-fifth of 1 per cent. of the aggregate individual deposits.

By far the larger proportion of deposits are held by the banks of the eastern section of the country, which, on June 30, held about 45 per cent. of the total deposits. The middle western states ranked second with 22 per cent., the New England states third with 17 per cent., the southern states fourth with 6½ per cent., the Pacific states fifth with 5½ per cent., and the western states last with about 4 per cent.

These statistics are not absolutely accurate except as to the deposits in national banks. The statistics for state banks, savings banks, and loan and trust companies are very nearly accurate, but the figures for private banks are not so reliable, though it is not believed that they vary to any considerable extent from the truth. The reason why strictly accurate returns cannot be obtained for any other institutions except national banks is that in some of the states the laws do not require the filing of reports from all of the various classes of banking institutions operating under state charters and from private banks.

The comptroller's office makes every effort to obtain accurate statistics from official sources, if possible, and where that cannot be done direct from the banks and bankers. There is reason to believe that there has been a nearer approach to accuracy in the statistics of recent years than formerly. The result of this would naturally be to reduce the actual increase in deposits somewhat below the apparent increase shown by the comptroller's figures. Making a liberal allowance for this, however, it is probably safe to say that the individual deposits in banks of all kinds have increased over 100 per cent. since June 30, 1892.

MAKES NEW SPEED RECORD

New French Train Averages Nearly 60 Miles an Hour Over 700-Mile Journey.

"The Azure Coast Limited" train in France has made a new speed record. It is a service put on by the Lyons and Mediterranean railway, and the first train the other day made the trip between Paris and the Riviera—700 miles—in 13⅓ hours. During part of the journey a speed exceeding 90 miles an hour was attained.

M. Nobiemaire, director of the road, asserts that the work of the new railway flyer is a complete answer to a remark recently made by W. K. Vanderbilt that no train in France could equal the Twentieth Century Limited between New York and Chicago. M. Nobiemaire says the Riviera train has beaten the American flyer and with time to spare.

Including stops, the French train made an average speed of nearly 60 miles an hour. The service, it is said, means increased prosperity for southern France.

Grows Champion Potato.

J. T. Hooks, of Worth county, Ga., whose reputation as a potato raiser has been won through many years of fruitful crops, brought to Tipton recently the champion potato of the season. It is of the Spanish variety, and the piece brought in is 3 feet 4 inches long. Besides this, in pulling it up, a piece 18 inches long was broken off one end. The Spanish potato is noted as a "runner," but this one breaks the record.
